The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Through by Daylight" is running splendidly; the attendance, so far from falling off, increasing as the many attractive features in the play become known. To-night James M. Ward will take his first benefit. "Through by Daylight" will be played at the matinee to-morrow.

California Theatre.

"Across the Continent" is a play full of sensation and unalloyed with a particle of literary merit; therefore it is no wonder it draws crowded houses nightly. Oliver Doud Byron plays Joe Ferris with such vim that he gains the sympathy of the audience for that impossible hero, and proves that he is an actor by so doing. "Across the Continent" will be played at the matinee to-morrow.

Alhambra Theatre.

Leon's sketches of character are so wonderfully original that they delight everyone. Edwin Kelly as interlocutor in the first part and also as a comedian is a finished artiste The play of "The Two Doves" is full of fun; Charley Howard presents his great act of "Happy Uncle John," and "The Belles of the Kitchen" with Leon in half a dozen different characters, winds up one of the most attractive minstrel entertainments ever given. The full bill will be played at the matinee to-morrow.

Bella Union.

The farce of "The Persecuted Dutchman," with Aline Le Favre as the Hon. Augustus Clearstarch and J. H. Larkin as John Schmidt is, a great success. The first part and interlude are amusing; Eugenie Gerrette, Mlle Gaugain, Edwin Montague, Miss Lotta, Miss Josephine, Marie Zoel, Fanny Garretson, Chris Mathews, Minnie Corbyn and others appear. An original Ethiopian farce by James Dowling, entitled "Degone It," is in rehearsal.

Theatre Comique.

Mike Quin the banjoist, the Lancashire Bell Ringers, Johnny Tuers, Maggie Knight, the attractive sisters Claude and Maggie, Stewart and Kelly, the dancers, and a number of others will appear to-night in an attractive programme. A burlesque sketch entitled "Through by Moonlight" will be presented to-morrow night.

Vincent's Globe Theatre.

The great feature of the varied interlude which followed the first part last night was the wonderful performance of Leon Samwells and Horatio Nelson on the trapeze, ending with a terrifically sensational fall. The new play of "Mose in San Francisco" proved a prodigious hit, every scene calling forth great applause. R. G. Marsh was a capital representative of the fire jakey and played his part with much spirit. Charley Vincent as Simon Simpson, the New York countryman caused many a hearty laugh; R. H. Cox in his various disguises as Jake was very good; Hughy Morton played the part of Charley Bates capitally: Clara Starr made a galine Lize, and Sally Thayer was immense as Mother Hoggins. The scenes on the Barbery coast were much applauded and the fire scene was vividly represented. "Mose in San Francisco" is up for a longer run than the New York piece, and will draw crowded houses.

The Italian Opera.

The sale of season tickets for the Italian Opera, to be given at the California Theatre, will commence to-morrow at Gray's music store. The box sheet will be opened at 9 o'clock.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Obailiu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

"Where, Where is Omaha?"

The Sioux City (Iowa) Times gets off the following good one on Omaha:

President Grant arrived here yesterday at three o'clock, and started for the Ogden House to get a square meal.

He was waited upon by Mayor Cadwell, ex-Mayor Millard, General Augur, Senator Hitchcock and Hon. John Taffe, M. C., who in a very humble and suppliant address, written by the ministers and school of the West Side, in council assembled, begged His Excellency to favor Omaha by a visit, if only for five minutes.

Grant, (taking a cigar stump from his lips) 'Omaha, Omaha, where the devil is Omaha?"

Delegation—"It's only across the river, your Imperial Majesty."

Grant, (puff, puff)—Damn it! I thought Omaha was somewhere up in the Indian Reserve, among the Blackbird Hills. I have no time to switch off and see side issues."

It is understood that there are no town lots to give away in Omaha, and the whisky there is miserable stuff.

HIS TREATMENT.—An Indianapolis doctor treated a boy for catarrh, and consequent "bad breath," a week before he discovered that the "disease" was nothing but some crawfish the patient had unthoughtfully left in his pocket after a fishing frolic, about two weeks before.

The First Divorce.

[From the Chicago Post.]

Had Noah been a resident of Chicago, and had there been a fire instead of a flood, he would not have budged from his fire-proof ark till the dove of good omen, in the form of a newsboy, had borne him tidings of the first divorce suit as a proof that the flaming flood had abated from off the face of the earth. It is like the blowing of old breezes and the ringing of old bells to hear again that we are being given in marriage and divorced, as we used to be in the Consulship of Plancus, when yet the fire had not abolished matinees, restaurants and deliciously dangerous flirtations with 'kerchief and fine eyes through the plate glass on the avenues or the parlor door at the hotels. The first divorce suit has been entered and we are once more a city. The names of Amanda B. Chaffee, plaintiff, and John B. Chaffee, defendant, will hereafter shine in our records conspicuous as those of the first Mayor and the Original Settler. They are written here with reverence, and the Table-Talker, with rare generosity, forbears to observe that the defendant's husbandry appears to have been imperfect, and that the chaff he most affected was the product of a crop of wild oats.

Escaped Death to be Married.

NEW HAVEN, November 3.—At the Theatre Comique for some weeks has nightly appeared a young lady of seventeen years, under the euphonious name of Mlle. Leana Dare, in most daring acts upon the trapeze. As beautiful in form and feature as any lady who has ever trod the boards of an American stage, she has naturally drawn crowded houses and elicited storms of applause. The law here does not compel the managers of such entertainments to stretch a safety net under the performer, and one night last week this beautiful young lady lost her balance, while at the height of thirty-two feet from the floor, and was soon revolving in the air, and, as it seemed to all present, in danger of instant death from a fall upon the chairs in the parquette, the ladies screamed and fainted. The men were for the moment paralyzed, but a young man jumped from his seat and caught her in his arms, and saved her life. Perfect strangers to each other until that moment, an attachment sprung up which, on Tuesday last, culminated in a marriage between the two parties; and now night after night the young lady goes through her blood-chilling performances under the eye of her faithful husband, who stands beneath the trapeze watching closely every movement, that he may be prepared to catch her should she fall again.

CHEERFUL.—It is cheerful to be sitting in a railroad car going at the rate of forty miles an hour, and have a man pass through the train and leave a track in your lap, entitled "Prepare to Meet Your God."

MUTUAL ADMIRATION.—As the season of parties approaches boys begin to feel gallant and "gals" buoyant.

Barbers make many friends, but scrape more acquaintance.

A "CAPITAL" THEME.

The burning rays of the mid-day sun
Pour down on the city's pave,
And neath its glare full many a one
Is hastening to the grave,
While Mammon sits in her cool retreat,
Far from the town's turmoil,
And cries with glee, "The dust and heat
Were made for the sons of toil!
Their muscle and bone
Are mine alone—
I use them at my will;
And what care I
How fast they die
If they my coffers fill?"

A laborer from the giddy height
Of a ladder's topmost round,
Struck by the sun-ray's scorching blight
Comes toppling to the ground;
And Capital takes of his wine a sup,
While looking on with a frown,
And says, "Our tenements must go up,
If laborers do come down!"
Their muscle and bone, etc.

A widow, wild with grief, bends oer
The corpse of a stalwart man,
Who but a little time before
His earthly course had ran;
And Capital, viewing her distress,
Cries out in a tone of ire,
"Canals and railroads must progress
If laborers do expire!"
Their muscle and bone, etc.

Again, what dreadful sight has made
That mother's cheek to blanch?
Her son has dug, with pick and spade,
A grave as well as a trench!
And Capital cries, with mournful eyes,
"Oh! oh! my workers brave,
Delve if you die the death, for I
Must surely trenches have!"
Your muscle and bone, etc.

Ye are all the slaves of my potent will,
As well as your babes and wives,
And I would not nourish your worth and skill
Not even to save your lives!
Ye shall fetch, and carry, and dig, and how,
Beneath the broiling sun.
Or ye shall starve—now which will ye do—
For mercy I have none!"
Your muscle and bone, etc.

Notice to Strangers

The Occidental carriages continue to be the great favorites among the ladies who make their fashionable calls and who go shopping. It is a pleasure for them to recline upon the soft cushions, pull the bell when they want to stop, give directions to the driver through the speaking-tube, and take a last look in the mirror to see that everything is comme il faut. The landaus are in constant demand for drivers, while the two, four and six-in-hand rockaways are all the rage among our fashionable and Eastern tourists who come here to see the sights. Orders may be left either at the Occidental Hotel or at the stables, No. 1016 Stockton street, near Washington. G

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and commends itself to all classes.

Who that has struggled with the ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with loss of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress-art can smooth that "wrinkled front," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the slop-worn, worried garment will not last long.

My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.

"FIGARO."

Published every day, except Sunday, by

J. P. BOGARDUS

—AT—

532 Merchant St. and 535 Washington St

Below Montgomery Block.

FRIDAY..... .....NOVEMBER 17, 1871

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

Acquainted with the Ancients.

The Vallejo Recorder speaking of Professor Fowler says:

For two hours he entertained them in a most satisfactory manner; none going away dissatisfied with the teachings and remarks of the Professor, who, as he stood upon the stage with flowing locks, reminded one of the sages, Plato and Socrates.

Yes, just so; a good deal like Plato, but more like Socrates. If the editor of the Recorder looks at the photographs of these gentlemen in his album, he will see we are right.

Rough on the Wolves.

Davy Crockett used to tell how he was once treed by a troop of prairie wolves, and how he rid himself of their unwelcome company:—"I shot away all my ammunition, and threw away my knife and gun among them, but it was no use. Finally, I thought I would try the effect of the music, and began to sing "Old Hundred." Before I had finished the first verse, every wolf put his fore paws to his ears and galloped off."

Phillip Phillips the singing pilgrim would be a good man to scare wolves.

Low Wages.

Wages are coming down; there is no doubt about it. The following advertisement in a morning contemporary proves it: "Nurse girl wanted for twin babies; wages, $3 50 a week." Four bits a day for taking care of twins! That's very low. Twenty-five cents a piece! "We are ruined by Chinese cheap labor."

Smarty!

Muffington thought he was very smart the other day when he said to Jones, "I've just come in from the Cliff House, there's a bark on the rocks just by the Golden Gate" and when Jones asked bark it was, replied "the bark of the seals."

Eureka'd.

The stock-holders in the Eureka Consolidated Mining Company have this month been Eureka'd out of their dividend through going it blind.

"Supper."

People who hurry through breakfast and bolt their dinner, can, after the work of the day is over, enjoy that comfortable meal called "supper." The Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 337 Bush street, is a famous supper house, and Winant & Co. are celebrated for their roast oysters, terrapin stews and other delicacies. Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloons, attends to the comforts of his numerous friends who come here to see him. E

A Real Nice Story.

If any one was doubtful about going to hear Louise Kellogg, we are sure they made up their minds to subscribe when they read the following sweet—sickly sweet—stories about her, taken from Harper's Bazaar and republished in yesterday's Chronicle:

Miss Kellogg's musical development has been remarkable, and has dated from her infancy. When but nine months old, and yet in arms, she essayed to sing a tune that had pleased her baby-fancy, and accomplishing the first part, but failing to turn it correctly, she stopped, and was not heard to attempt it again till just before the completion of the year, when she broke out in a triumph and sang the whole air through.

The public should be informed that the tune this nine-months' old infant attempted to sing was the intricate and trying one entitled "Little Bo Beep." Here is more of it:

She was not three years old when some one touching the keys of the piano and asking their names unseen, the little Louise cried out from an adjoining room, where of course, the key-board was invisible to her also, "I know what that is mamma, it's the little white one between the two black ones;" which it was; and something always to be noticed in her singing is an absolute precision of tone; no feeling after the note, as so often is the case, but the pure and perfect thing struck on the instant.

"Which it was!" "Wonderful." Miss Louise Kellogg is, we have every reason to believe, an artiste. She had better have this sort of thing put a stop to unless she wishes the general public of San Francisco to form an opinion that she is a sort of Blind Tom musical prodigy. Star notices in the Chronicle are not exactly the means that should be used to give the public confidence in a season of Italian.

Who is Correct?

Under the above interrogatory heading Our Society and Season of New York publishes the following:

Mr. D. D. Home the spiritualist, was married on Tuesday to the youngest daughter of his Excellency the late Hon. Basil de Gloumeline, Counsellor of State to the Emperor of Russia.—Court Journal, October 15.

Horne—De Gloumeline.—On the 16th inst. in the Russian Church, by the Rev. Father Banleff, and on the 17th, at H. M's Embassy, by the Rev. G. Gardiner, M. A., Mr. Daniel Douglas Horne to Julie, youngest daughter of his Excellency, the late Hon. Michael de Gloumeline, Counsellor of State to the Emperor of Russia.—The Queen, October 21.

Both are correct. Daniel Douglas Horne adopted the professional name of "Home" when he first began business as a spiritualist.

The Reason.

The following comes by telegraph:

PARIS, November 15.—Hundreds of persons attended the Feast of Madelaine to-day. The special mass heretofore celebrated for the health of ex-Empress Eugenie was not performed. No reason has been assigned for its omission.

The reason perhaps was that it was not paid for in advance and the church did not care about doing it on spec.

Terribly Critical.

The Bulletin devoted more space to proving that "Across the Continent," as a literary production, is rubbish, (which everyone but the vealy young man who "does up" the Bullatin's criticisms knew before they saw it) than it did to noticing any performance of Charles Mathews or Mrs. Bowers. We wish a circus would come for the Bulletin's "critic" to practise on.

Premature Grief.

All of the papers are howling over the destruction of the Pacific whaling fleet. None of them seem to remember that there is a possibility, at least, of their all being frozen in and kept from injury to come home safe and sound next year like Little Bo-peep's sheep.

A Very Nice Story Spoiled.

The following is going the rounds of the religious and family press:

One day a young man entered a merchant's office in Boston, and with a pale and careworn face, said:

"Sir, I am in need of help. I have been unable to meet certain payments, because certain parties have not done as they agreed by me, and would like to have $10,000. I came to you because you were a friend to my father and might be a friend to me."

"Come in," said the old gentleman, "come in and have a glass of wine."

"No," said the young man, "I don't drink."

"Have a cigar, then?"

"No, I never smoke."

"Well," said the old gentleman, "I would like to accommodate you, but I don't think I can."

"Very well," said the young man as he was about to leave the room, "I thought perhaps you might. Good-day, sir."

"Hold on," said the merchant, "you don't drink?"

"No."

"Nor smoke?"

"No."

"Nor gamble, nor anything of that kind?"

"No sir, I am superintendent in the —— Sunday school."

"Well, said the merchant, "you shall have it, and three times the amount if you wish. Your father let me have $5,000 once, and asked me these same questions. He trusted me, and I will trust you. No thanks; I owe it to you for your father's trust."

We regret to spoil this story but the truth must be told. That young man who didn't smoke, nor drink, nor gamble, does them all now. He got into that soft-hearted old Boston merchant to the extent of $20,000, and then he ran away with a married lady who used to teach in his Sunday school. He isn't Suprintendent of a Sunday school any more. He is Superintendent of a faro game up in Montana just at present. Those fellows who have no "small vices," turn out terribly vicious when they once make a break.

Sharp.

"The Key" is the name of the journal printed at the London Exhibition, and giving the programmes of the concerts, etc. The other day a chap called out to a boy who was selling them, "I say, what will that Key of yours open?"

"Keep your Eyes Open."

Couldn't See It.

A young man was endeavoring to enjoy an evening in the company of a young lady, fair and interesting, upon whom he called, but found a serious obstacle in the person of her stern and not very cordial father, who at length ventured to very plainly intimate that the hour of retiring had arrived. "I think you are correct, my dear sir," returned the unabashed young man. "We have been waiting to have you go to bed for over an hour."

MANUFACTURER OF

NEWELL'S PATENT PARAGON

SHIRTS,

410 Kearny street, Room No. 8

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and commends itself to all classes.

Who that has struggled with the ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with loss of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress-art can smooth that "wrinkled front," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the slop-worn, worried garment will not last long.

My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.

The Public will please take notice that

Newell's Patent Paragon Shirt

Factory's only place of business is at

410 Kearny street, between Pine and California, Room No. 8.

Theatrical Supper Rooms.

In all the large cities in the world there are adjoining the chief theatres supper rooms where the audience, after witnessing the play, and the actors, after taking part in it, adjourn to enjoy a meal. Such a place is Jones's Oyster and Ice Cream Saloon, in the California Theatre building, immediately adjoining the entrance, where game suppers, Eastern oysters, terrapin stews, and everything that can suit the taste of an epicure, will be served up at all hours of the night, under the experienced supervision of Frank Dumont. Attached to the saloon are private rooms for families and supper parties. Try Jones's. K

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

MARYSVILLE.—The Emerson Minstrels performed to a thronged house both on Monday and Tuesday evenings, and could have crowded the house another night had their arrangements allowed of their staying. Mr. J. Proctor and his well organized troupe will appear at the Marysville Theatre on Monday evening next, when they will play, "The Ticket-of-Leave Man," and a popular farce. On Tuesday evening (the last night) the great drama of "The Streets of New York" will be presented.

VALLEJO.—Proctor's dramatic company gave a season of five nights at the Eureka Theatre, closing on the 15th with a benefit to Mr. Jas. Proctor. "Nick of the Woods" was played. Farragut Hall, now building, will be opened by this troupe. The Emerson Minstrels will appear at the Eureka Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

EUGENE CITY, OR.—Barker's Panorama of Pacific Coast Views opened at the District Schoolhouse last week, but failed to draw.

VIRGINIA CITY, NEV.—F. S. Chanfrau opened in "Sam" at Piper's Opera House on Tuesday and played it on the following evening. The business has been good.

GRASS VALLEY.—The Emerson Minstrels appeared at Hamilton Hall on Wednesday and Thursday evenings and gave general satisfaction.

STOCKTON.—Proctor's Dramatic company will appear at the theatre on the 22d, for one night only in "After Dark."

OAKLAND.—Oakland had an Old Folk's Concert at Brayton Hall last night. The State University Dramatic Society will give their first parlor entertainment, and perform "The Rivals" at Brayton Hall on Friday next.

SALT LAKE CITY.—The stock company and B. M. Carroll with his three clever little boys, Dick, Eddie and Bennie performed until the 8th, when Johnny Allen and Miss Alice Harrison commenced an engagement in "Schneider."

PORTLAND, O.—Bachelder's panorama of a Tour Across the Continent exhibited at Oro Fino Theatre on the 10th and 11th, Mart Taylor doing the explanation. The Gaieties remained open; the Academy of Music was running with the same company as when we last mentioned it.

OMAHA, NEB.—Charles S. Reid was at Simpson Hall giving an entertainment of magic, rope tying, etc.

DENVER, COL.—The Japanese troupe with the wonderful Gangero performed here this week. John Deery is giving billiard exhibitions at Mozart Hall.

At the Theatre Comique,

Billy Dwyer and Ned Mallahan will appear to-night in fighting costume, in the cellar scene on Barbary Coast. R

CORRESPONDENCE.

BAKER CITY, Oregon, Nov. 6, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO:—Here we are well, thank God. This far, some 540 miles from Salt Lake, 630 miles from Portland, and 920 from San Francisco; one of the roughest countries I ever travelled over—plenty of snow. The last three towns we have played in have been some 90 miles apart, which have made the stages rather long. I am happy to say that in all the towns we have visited we have been doing a good business. Our first night was not so good, but generally the second evening we have to refuse money; we play for one price, one dollar; travelling by stage is very expensive; my contract with them for taking me some two hundred miles further, after coming some two hundred, will be $750. We play here two nights and then go on to Boise City where I expect to remain about two weeks, then on to Idaho, and some of the diggings, and then on to Salt Lake. I can't tell you at present how long we shall be before we get there. We played in a city called Walla Walla during the time the small-pox was there. The people were all too much scared to congregate the first night; after, we got them to turn out. I had the whole of the troupe vaccinated including myself; but none of them took. The children are thus far delighted with their trip; the only thing they do not care for, the weather is cold travelling by night. B. M. NATHAN.

At the Theatre Comique,

Johnny Roberts, the Arab Boy, will appear to-night in the cellar scene on Barbary Coast. R

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—A fashionable and most appreciative audience thronged this theatre again last night and Leon was applauded to the echo for his admirable acting in the character of the sensitive young lady who misses her Sammy and in the farce of the Doves and in the Belles of the Kitchen, being ably supported in the two last named by Edwin Kelly, one of the neatest performers ever seen on the minstrel stage. As the present bill, which has delighted thousands, will only be played at the matinee to-day, to-night and to-morrow night, those who have not yet enjoyed it should do so at once. Charley Howard, Miss Fanny Gibson, Geo. Foster and others contribute their quota to the evening's amusement and Gustave Bideaux and Mr. Ashton sing sweet ballads in the first part.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—Some plays draw for a new nights and then the attendance suddenly drops. This has not been the case with "Through by Daylight." The attendance has been large through the week, and the more the play is talked about the more people go to see it. There can be no doubt about its suiting the popular taste, and the applause that greets Mr. Ward in the character of Geo. Glenroy, Dick and the intruder in the secret council of the villains of the piece, prove how well appreciated by the public his efforts are. The play opens with a thrilling sensation and throughout the interest of the audience is never allowed to flag. Mr. Ward never fails to make a hit in his song of the "Tipperary Man," and his capital Irish jig, and is ably supported throughout the piece by Mrs. G. B. Waldron, J. M. Hardie, G. B. Waldron, Harry Courtaine and others. "Through by Daylight" will be played at the matinee to-day and until further notice.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—The public so far from tiring of the richly sensational play of "Across the Continent," with Oliver Doud Byron in his quietly intense impersonation of Joe Ferris, rush to see it in greater numbers than ever. The house was crowded last night and all enjoyed the repeated triumphs of the Ferret, and the admirable character acting of J. C. Williamson, both as Dennis O'Dwyer in the prologue, and Knucklebone Johnny in the play. Miss Minnie Walton gains a round of applause for her clever acting as Susie, in the scene with Johnny; the pretty and graceful Miss Georgie Loomis always receives an encore for her artistic clog dance; Fred Franks is immense as Cæsar Augustas, and a more charming heroine than Miss May Howard cannot be imagined. "Across the Continent" will crowd the California Theatre at the matinee to-day, this evening and for many nights to come.

BELLA UNION THEATRE.—A great bill has been prepared for the delectation of the Saturday night patrons of this popular theatre. The charming M'lle Marie Gaugain will appear in new dances; M'lle Eugenie Gerretta will perform her graceful and varied feats on the revolving globes; Edwin Montague will appear in his gymnastic feats and Miss Carrie Armstrong will make her re appearance, and sing comic songs. After a capital first part and an interlude comprising a song and dance by Miss Josephine; a new ballad by Miss Lotta; a comic act by Kelly and Bree; song and dance by Chris Mathews; ballad by Fanny Carelson; song and dance by Marie Zoel and the farce of "Forty Winks," and the new and original Ethiopian farce by James Dowling, entitled "Dog-on-It," will be produced, cast to the full strength of the company.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—There is no end to the novelties presented at the Theatre Comique. In addition to an attractive first part and interlude in which the Negro Bell Ringers will appear, the management announce to-night the production of a new and original burlesque entitled "Through by Moonlight," in which Billy Dwyer and Ned Mullahan will appear in fighting costume and Johnny Roberts, the Arab, and many other popular performers will appear in the concert cellar scene, Johnny Tuers will appear as the engineer and will put her through by daylight or burst h boiler; Lizzie Harmon will appear as the heroine and the other parts are appropriately distributed.

THE GLOBE THEATRE.—"Mose in San Francisco" is a great hit, and is received nightly with roars of applause and laughter. All engaged in its representation play their parts capitally, from R. G. Marsh and Charley Vincent in the leading parts, down to Johnny Reilly who plays Henry, the colored waiter girl. To-night, other novelties are announced in addition to this popular sensation. Among them may be mentioned the first appearance in some years of the favorite balladist, Miss Clara Draper; the new and original act of "The Gladiator," by Charley Vincent, R. G. Marsh and company, and the rollicking double act of "McGowan's Reel" by Johnny Campbell and the always-pleasing Miss Lizzie Worrall. The Globe revolves midst a firmament of stars, as Charles Vincent the energetic manager informs us. "Through by Midnight across the Continent" is in active preperation.

ROBERT MCWADE.—This sterling actor and genial good fellow, will leave to-morrow morning for Kansas City, where he is engaged to open on the 27th. As a token of the good esteem, in which he is held by his brother professionals, he takes with him a very handsome pair of sleeve buttons, made of gold bearing quartz, on the setting of which is inscribed: "From the Metropolitan Theatre Company to Robert McWade."

HAYES PARK.—This very pleasant resort will present great attractions for the amusement seeking public to-morrow. The Oscar Brothers whose performances last Sunday gave general satisfaction will appear in conjunction with Professor Griffith, the American Wizard, in an entirely new programme of puzzling illusions. The admittance will be as usual, 25 cents.

THE MUSICAL INSTITUTE CONCERTS.—The second grand concert of the third series of subscription concerts will be given under the auspices of the San Francisco Musical Institute, at Pacific Hall on Tuesday evening next. These concerts have proved the most successful musical reunions we ever had in this city.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—It is as well to make the most of the fine weather we are enjoying at present, by taking a pleasant drive to that most delightful of sea-side resorts, the Cliff House, where the ne plus ultra of hosts, Captain Foster does everything that can be done to make his guests comfortable.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

BURNT CORK OPERA BOUFFE.—For the past two weeks, scene painters have been busy at the Alhambra Theatre preparing gorgeous scenery. Professor George Evans has been hard at work rehearsing the chorus and Kelly and Leon have been supervising everything in order that burnt cork opera bouffe may be presented in as gorgeous and perfect style as it was by them in New York. The chorus, which is one of the best, if not the best engaged for any opera season, comprises the the cream of the vocal talent of San Francisco. Bar ber-biu, which is to be playpd on Monday, will be one of the greatest treats ever offered to the public of San Francisco, if lavish expenditure of money, frequent rehearsal and engagement of the best talent can ensure success.

SIGNOR MORLEY'S CONCERT.—Signor Morley gave a private concert at the Hall of the Young Men's Christian Association, on Thursday evening, to a select and fashionable audience, invited to judge of the proficiency of his pupils. Among the features in the programme, were the Flower Song from "Faust" by Miss Jones, air from "Robert le Diable" by Miss Brown, and air from "Ernani" by Miss Buckle, all of which were rendered with artistic skill. An operatic concerte piece, by Signor Morley and quartette of pupils was much admired.

THE NEW YORK CIRCUS.—Kingsley and Thompson's New York Circus, after a successful tour through the Southern counties, left San Diego this week for Mazatlan, intending to travel through Mexico.

SUNDAY EXCURSION.—There is not within miles of this city a more delightful spot than the groves of San Rafael. The steamer Contra Costa will leave the wharf on Davis street, near Vallejo, to-morrow at 10½ A. M., on an excursion.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS

In New York, at the Grand Opera House "Eileen O'gee" with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Florence was played for the last time on the 11th. On the 13th a drama by Mr. De Leon entitled "Paris, or The Days of the Commune" was produced.....At Niblo's Garden, standing room only after eight o'clock, Sothern in Lord Dundreary is the sensation of the day. The Clipper says: "J. T. Raymond's performance of Asa Trenchard is one of the finest pieces of natural acting we have witnessed for a long time, and adds materially to the present success of the comedy".....At Wallack's, Mrs. Cenellivre's comedy of the "Busybody" failed to take the fancy of the public, there being no locomotive engines in it, and it was speedily withdrawn. "A Nice Firm" was played on the 7th, The New York people are tired of Chas. Mathews already....."Divorce" still runs at the Fifth Avenue..... John E. Owens commenced at Booth's on the 6th. ....Aimee is doing well at Lina Edwin's in "Fleur de The." She found it in good order for the production of French opera, Kelly & Leon having fitted it up with magnificent scenery for the production of their travesties of Offenbach's popular works....."Humpty Dumpty" at the Olympic.....The St. James's is doing well, E. A. Davies, the ventriloquist, with talking automaton figures, being the great attraction..... Nilsson in "Faust" at the Academy of Music draws the fashionables.....The Globe Theatre is closed again .....The Union Square Theatre has a new star, Miss Marian Wentworth, songstress and burlesque actress—first appearance in this country .....At Tony Pastor's they are playing a new drama, "Uncle Snow, or the Old Plantation." We should think Howard was wanted there.....At the Theatre Comique the attractions are J. S. Murphy, Fanny Archer and Pedro Dorrey, the great Buenes Ayerean guitar player. In addition to the Oledoche Quadrille, the Doctor, Bad Whisky, A Good Night's Security, the Carpet Bag, and numerous other funniments, a new sensational drama, entitled "Upon the Border," was presented with Josh Hart as Buck Frazier, the trapper, and Johnny Wild as Davis. Bryants' Minstrels are doing well. W. Henry sings a burlesque ballad in Nilsson style to great applause....At the San Francisco Minstrels Penro Stirling appears in "Jocko, the Ape," a highland fling and spade dance....Lent's Circus is doing a rattling business. Charles W. Fish, the bare back rider made his first appearance on the 6th....Percy Roselle in "The Boy Detective," continues at Wood's Museum...."Crime" is the attraction at the Bowery ....Barnum commenced his show at the great Rink, Sixty Third Street and Third Avenue on the 13th .....Eph Horn had a matinee benefit at the Olympic Theatre on the 16th..... Annie Lonsdale will will appear in a new burlesque at the St. James' Theatre, Nov. 20th.

Of amusements in Boston we learn the following: At the Boston Theatre, Lotta succeeded Edwin Booth on the 13th. She will be followed by Morlacchi: those Boston people are death on legs .....At the Globe "Divorce" was withdrawn on the 11th, and on the 13th Charlotte Cushman commenced an engagement, opening in Henry VIII .....At the Museum, "Daisy Farm" was played for the last time on the 9th, and on the 13th "Elfs" was presented, Mrs. Field having purchased the sole right of production for Boston .....At the Howard Athenæum we notice among the company Gus Williams, Bob Hart, Joe Buckley, Dick Sands the clog dancer, Ned Harrigan and W. Ashcroft. The Hernandez troupe commenced an engagement on the 9th.

The Lydia Thompson company opened on the 30th of October at the Grand Opera House, Baltimore, to one of the most fashionable and largest audiences ever assembled in that city, there being over 2,500 people present. The press of Baltimore is unanimous in its praise of Miss Thompson and her company.

Joe Jefferson Rip Van Winkled at the New Pittsburg Opera House on the 2d.

Mr. Charles Mathews failed in a business point of view at Washington. The following week Morlacchi and a ballet troupe from Baltimore drew the largest houses ever seen there. Such is Washington's taste.

Mr Mitchell, proprietor of the late Olympic Theatre, Chicago is arranging to build another theatre in that city.

The New York Mercury says:

Proctor's company, Portland, Oregon, Oct. 23d, 24th and 25, with Mrs. F. M. Bates and Vivian F. M. Bates, was to open Portland Theatre 30th, for Wister.

"Vivian F. M. Bates" is good.

Joe Murphy, Newark, 6th and 7th; Bridgeport 8th and 9th; Hartford, 13th and 12th.

Many actors in Chicago complained that they had not at last accounts received any of the money which had been sent there for their especial relief. The shabby little Globe in that city, under Col. Wood, lately of the burnt Museum, has been doing a moderate business since its opening October 21st.

E. S. Stetson, who is engaged to appear shortly at the Metropolitan Theatre in this city, appeared in "Neck and Neck," with Furbish and Wilton's dramatic company at Coring, N. Y., Oct. 30th; Hornelsville, 31st; Meadville, Pa., November 1st; Franklin, 2d; Oil City, 3d and 4th, and is billed to perform at Petroleum Centre, 6th, and Titusville.

At the Walnut-street Theatre, Kansas City, Mo., Carroll is now offering an entertainment which is drawing immensely, engaged H. C. Lee, the pioneer showman of California, and children. The performance opens with a fine drama by Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McDonald, Ella La Rue, Frank Stanley and others: then the olio consisting of original sketches by Hall, Pierce and Wilson; posturing acts by Signor Bliss and Mons. Duverney; song and dance by Geo. Burgess, a series of acrobatic evolutions by the Lee family, then Hall and his banjo, the entertainment concluding with a pantomime by the Lee Family.

In Brooklyn the Hooley testimonial realized the beneficiary $5,000....."Divorce" holds the stage at Mrs. Conway's Theatre.....Miss Ettie Henderson has appeared at the Park Theatre in "The Far West," a new drama by McCloskey. The author plays Pomp, a negro.....Hooley's Opera House has again changed hands, the late proprietor, Fred Aims, after one week's stay, having shown a clean pair of heels and left the company minus their salaries. Last week it passed over to the control of W. C. Mitchell, the proprietor of the Chicago Olympic, which was destroyed by the late fire in the ill-fated city.

Ella Wesner commenced an engagement at Smith's Opera House, East Saginaw, Mich., on the 6th. She appears at Shelby's Comique, Buffalo, N. Y., on the 20th for two weeks.

Jennie Benson and little Jennie appeared at the Theatre Comique, Detroit, on the 9th.

The pretensions of some of the lesser stars of the theatrical firmament at times occasion a good deal of amusement among the experienced members of stock companies. In Cincinnati recently, while Miss Jane Coombs was playing an engagement at Pike's Opera House, a terrible hullabaloo was kicked up in consequence of the appearance in the advertising sheet used as a programme of this innocent paragraph:

Oxenford's beautiful drama of "The World of Fashion" will be presented with a cast which ensures a complete and admirable interpretation. It includes Mr. Frederick Robinson as Mons. Pontalcee and Miss Jane Coombs as Marie.

Dire was the wrath evoked by this brief notice, and it is said that Miss Coombs and her husband declared that if they had seen the paper before its distribution they would have destroyed the edition. And all this fuss because Mr. Robinson's name was mentioned before that of Miss Coombs! "Oh, knock me down!"

The Dearborn Minstrels, of Chicago, are at the Fifth-street Opera House. St. Louis, with W. Van Fleet as business manager and J. B. Kemble as stage manager. The company consists of B. Cotton, J. Mulligan, Andy McKee, F. Kent, C. S. Fredericks, J. Lang, F. Nitschke, G. Anson, F. Bowles, C. Gullenberg, J. R. Kemble, L. Schoolcraft, F. Rogers, J. Martin, E. Markham, J. La Mont, M. Freberg, M. Kupie, O. Phifer and F. Height. They will remain at St. Louis if business warrants.

P. T. Barnum's Museum, Circus and Menagerie closed its travelling season at Harlam, October 28th. Mr. Barnum entered the ring and made a speech, at the conclusion of which he presented his general manager, W. C. Coup, and equestrian director, Dan Castello, each with a gold medal, adorned with jewels and inscribed with their names and professional merits. He then caused to be read a receipt from George Wood, that for $15,000 he had released Mr. Barnum from a bond that had been executed between them, according to which Mr. Barnum was not to allow his name to be used in connection with any show in the city of New York for a specified term of years. The great showman then announced a series of exhibitions at the Rink, commencing 13th,

Laura Keene is soon to perform again in New York in a new play. Theatre not decidided upon Fechter expects to open the Fourteenth-stree Theatre, duly renovated, at Christmas.

A new $70,000 opera house is to be built by Manager Stevens, at Leavenworth, Kansas.

The Hernandez and Silvester Combination were announced to commence an engagement of four nights at Harrisburg, Penn., on the 9th inst Pretty Miss Angelique Schott now does lightning change business.

J H. Budworth has purchased of J. C. McCloskey a drama in one act, entitled "Andy the Omadhaun," which he proposes playing in Variety theatres.

"Frou-Frou" was played at Girardey's Opera House, Augusta, Ga., with great success, by Miss Effie Johns, supported by the regular company, on the 27th ult.

The New York correspondent of the Sporting Times says:

I am a prophet. In a former letter I warned the profession against contributing to the Chicago Relief Fund without having a voice in the receipts Thousands of dollars have poured into the treasury from places all over the country, and from the barest city we learn that but a few dollars have reached the profession, and the fact is certified to that that the Mayor of Chicago and the Relief Committee have refused to assist actors and actresses, or furnish them transportation from the city. Let the professionals who contributed their services to benefits, demand a report from the Close-Communion-Mutual-Admiring-Star-Chamber-Committees who have monopolized the funds and the honors of the charitable benefactions of the public and the profession. The question is what has become of the money?

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Mr. Henry J. Byron's last comedy, "Partners for Life," is said to be one of his happiest efforts.

A dramatization of "Pickwick" by Mr. James Alberry, author of "Two Roses," is soon to be produced at the Lycum, London.

Mr. W. S Gilbert has just produced at the Court Theatre, London, a new comedy entitled "On Guard." He seems to be one of the most prolific playwrights of the times.

During the last ten years Mr. Sothern has represented Lord Dundreary in different parts of Great Britain more than two thousand times, and it is roughly estimated that by this single character he has made upwards of $200,000.

A London and Provincial theatre company, with a capital of £60,000 in shares of £5 each, has been started in London, for the purpose of erecting and working theatres in the metropolis and provinces.

Herr Holtum was at the Alhambra Palace, Hull, Eng., at our latest advices. He was formerly employed at the Bella Union Theatre in this city, to assist at the bar. He devoted all his leisure time to practising feats of strength, determined, as he said, to reach the head of the profession in that line. He has pretty well succeeded in doing so.

M'lle Tietjens has carried Dublin by storm. She took a benefit on a recent occasion, when the theatre was filled with more than four thousand people, and so demonstrative were her admirers that she had to make her escape from the theatre in a cab, disguised as Mrs. Brown. The mob would not be convinced of her departure until they broke into and searched the theatre, on which, notwithstanding the heavy rain, three thousand people marched to her hotel, gave three cheers for the songstress, and quietly dispersed.

Chiarini's Royal Italian Circus is in Rio Janeiro and doing well. Lucia Orrin, Ned and George Orrin, Jose Romano, Catalina Holloway, the Pereira Family, and Carlos, were in the company at last accounts—October 3d.

The following account is given of dramatic amusements in London up to the 21st ult.:

At the Drury Lane, the "Rebecca" pageant.

Bucketone reopened the Haymarket Oct. 16th, as Bob Acres in "The Rivals."

The Adelphi gave "Notre Dame" for the 168th time, and a new sketch by Charles Kenny, called "Autum Maneuvres," was to be produced, 21st.

At the Lyceum, Isabel Bateman closed on the 20th in "Fanchette," and the theatre was closed to reopen 22d with "Pickwick."

At the Princess's, "Eileen Oge," "A Criminal Couple," and "A Missive from the Clouds."

At the Strand, John S. Clarke had given Doctor Pangloss for the 108th time.

At the Queen's, "Hinks" was to cease on th 27th, and "The Tempest" was to be given on th 30th, with Henrietta Hodson as Ariel.

At the Gaiety, Offenbach's "Belle Helene," newly rendered by Charles Kenny, was to be produced on the 23d.

At the Olympic, "The Woman in White."

At the Royalty, "Chilperic" was to be withdrawn on the 21st, to be replaced by "Paquita," an original comic opera by Mallandaine, the libretto by R. Reece.

The Alhambra had reopened under the Lord Chamberlain's licene with Chinese ballets as the principal features.

The Surrey was to revive "The Ticket-of-Leave Man" on the 21st.

The Standard had run "Fanchette" and "Lost;" the Royal Alfred "King John."

The Pavilion, Philharmonic, Brittania and Grecian were doing well with blood and thunder.

Notice to Strangers

The Occidental carriages continue to be the great favorites among the ladies who make their fashionable calls and who go shopping. It is a pleasure for them to recline upon the soft cushions, pull the bell when they want to stop, give directions to the driver through the speaking-tube, and take a last look in the mirror to see that everything is comme il faut. The landaus are in constant demand for drivers, while the two, four and six-in-hand rockaways are all the rage among our fashionable and Eastern tourists who come here to see the sights. Orders may be left either at the Occidental Hotel or at the stables, No. 1016 Stockton street, near Washington. G

THE GREAT SPECIALIST

WOULD MOST RESPECTFULLY INFORM those who may need his services that he has returned to San Francisco after an absence of three years, one of which he spent in one of the most celebrated Hospitals in England, The Lock Hospital.

He has now re-opened his old Medical Institute at the corner of Kearny and Jackson streets, San Francisco, where for nine years he was so successful in curing all cases that came under his treatment, which is unnecessary to mention or have on paper.

I am aware that some of the empirics in San Francisco make a practice of stating without cure; but to most persons my name will be SUFFICIENT to explain what DR. CHAS. H. TOZER attends to.

BARBER-BLU

SYNOPSIS OF ARGUMENT:

Barber Blu, wishing a new wife recommences the search. Fapeau is to select one from among the villagers. Popolani meets and loves Olivier Mesmer. Duke of King Bobeche's Palace discusses the matter and treats the selection as a lottery. Roxolte, the nurse of the ladies, demands to be consulted among the candidates, at which the rest of the villagers are to find great fun. The choice is, however, left to the will of fate by the ladies' costume and await the coming of Barber Blu. He being introduced to the Palace of King Bobeche who believes on retrospective and himself of her so as to imagine he has of the fire to meet Rose by the agency in the night to one of his country castles and getting Popolani to poison her. Popolani agrees but, to be the other five wives and introduces her to them, whereupon they vow vengeance on the head of Barber Blu, who has gone back to the Palace and after interesting a story of Bouquinette as to her death, demands the hand of the Princess, Duke Prince Sapho in a fight, and forces consent from the King by surrounding the Palace with his soldiers. With the marriage of Barber Blu and the Princess Hermia is being consummated Roxolte gives admission to the Palace disguised as a spy and after telling the fortunes of the King and Barber Blu confounds the latter by 4 souvenirs, herself and the other five wives armed for revenge, which they proceed to take in a very summary manner. Despair of the wound he poisoner, and general joy of the victims of the oppressor. Grand tableaux, etc., etc.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

The very exciting drama of "Across the Continent" with Oliver Doud Byron in the character of Joe Ferris, and J. C. Williamson in his inimitable impersonation of Knucklebone Johnny will be played to-night, and will doubtless draw another large audience. This is the last week of "Across the Continent."

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Through by Daylight," with exciting scenes of the scaffold, the attempted murder and the tremendously sensational leap, will be presented again this evening. J. M. Ward gains great applause for his song, "Tipperary Men" and his dance in the concert scene, in which also the talented Charles Vivian, the favorite balladist, Miss Fanny Young, and the general favorite, Miss Maggie Moore, will appear.

Alhambra Theatre.

To-night the season of burnt cork opera bouffe at the Alhambra Theatre will be inaugurated by the production of "Barber-bia" with full chorus and orchestra, magnificent scenery and an immense cast. The only Leon will appear in the character of Bullyette: Edwin Kelly as Barberbia, Charley Howard as Queen Clem, Miss Gibson as Princess Hermeah, Signor Bidaux as B. O'Beech G. H. Foster as Prince Sayfire and J. Robinson as Pop O. Lin. The elaborate preparation made for this opera season justifies the expectation that it will prove more successful than any lyric entertainment heretore given in San Francisco. The opera will be preceeded by a fine first part and varied interlude in which Leon will appear in one of his characteristic performances.

Bella Union.

A capital performance was given at this ne plus ultra of variety theatres on Saturday night and last night, and will be repeated this evening. M'lle Gangain's new pas seul, "Vivian's Melodies," made a great hit; it is the prettiest thing imaginable. Miss Carrie Armstrong, who made her reappearance, was warmly received and gained an encore for her comic songs; Miss Lotta sang "Neapolitan" in a very pleasing manner, and Eugenia Garretta's performance on the revolving globes was much applauded. The new and original Ethiopian farce by James Dowling entitled "Dogon-it" is a very lively piece. J. H. Larkin made a capital old darkey; Mat Kelly was very amusing as the house dog; Maggie Brewer did a capital bit of Topsy acting as Betty, and Harry Thompson as the dashing Captain was all that could be desired. The management announce the engagement of Miss Carrie Chapman, one of the Chapman family who will make her appearance after an absence of ten years, and Lon McCarty, character vocalist and comedian. They will appear on Wednesday next.

Theatre Comique.

The latest sensation at this go-a-head theatre. "Through by Moonlight," a burlesque on the popular play at the Metropolitan Theatre, was produced on Saturday night to a large audience. Harry Brown plays the hero with much vim. In the concert room scene Mike Quinn got an enthusiastic encore for his song, "The Boys of County Down," and little Maggie Knight performed a song and dance in excellent style; and Johnny Tuers brought the house down in his eccentric song and dance. Billy Dwyer and Ned Mallahan had a set-to which was loudly applauded. This was followed by a spirited fight between Tuers and Dwyer which caused much laughter and sent the audience home in the best of humor. This piece will form the conclusion of a varied programme this evening.

Vincent's Globe Theatre.

This popular resort was thronged on Saturday night and again last night. "Mose in San Francisco, or Scenes on the Barbary Coast" has caused a veritable sensation among all classes of society and everyone goes to see it. Miss Clara Draper, who made her first appearance at this theatre on Saturday night met with a hearty reception and sang "I'm thinking, Sadly Thinking" in a style which called forth an enthusiastic encore. Miss Draper is a popular addition to the company at the Globe Theatre. Edgar and Ethel Stanley have made a hit in their buffo duet entitled "Very Suspicious" and the new and original act of "The fighting Gladiator" with Charley Vincent as the Gladiator goes screamingly. "Mose" and an immense first part and interlude to-night.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Onaiilu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention. are on exhibition day and evening.

Home Again.

John McCullough, the popular manager of the California Theatre, who has been giving the Sacramentans a taste of his quality during the past week, supported by Messrs. Henry Edwards and Jas. Carden of the California Theatre, and Messrs. Proctor and Leman and Mrs. F. M. Bates of the Metropolitan Theatre, Sacramento, returned last night. "Julius Cæsar" was played on Saturday evening, and drew a larger attendance than had been in the theatre to witness any dramatic performance for a number of years back. The theatre was thronged.

Dundreary Interviewed.

A very humorous letter by Major Muldoon, appeared in the New York World, detailing an interview with Lord Dundreary (Sothern,) the subject being politics. The whole article occupies a column. The conclusion of it is as follows; after describing his Lordship packing away greenbacks, while they were discussing national affairs:

"And I further inquired:" 'I suppose you have heard of our ring; Do you intend to vote at the next election? Have you registered?

And his Lordship turning to Harry said:

"Goodness gwatheyus, Mither P-alma, What's a wing? What's a wote? What's a w-egista?"

Harry was very explicit, and replied:

"A ring Dunny, is a combination of voters for the conversion of public property to private uses. A vote is ten or fifteen dollars, according to market rates, and a register is a fellow who fixes the votes according to the necessities of the ring."

"I thee," said Dunny. "I think I would w-ather be a wing than a w-egista. A wing you know, geth a b-wick h-houth, but a w-egista he gets a bwick on the thide of hith head. Thometimeth I put bwickth in my hat; and thometimeth on my feet, and when a fella heth a b-wick in hith hat he ith liable to put a bwick on another fella's head. but a wegista, I thuppose, a wegista don't Mither P-alma—what doth a wegista don't d-doo?"

"He don't go about asking bloody stupid questions,"' said the genius of the "Black Crook," and he cast a scathing managerial look at me which would have resulted in some kind of hostilities had he not remarked just then:

"Say Mully, aren't you thirsty?"

A question that goes far with me towards soothing a wounded spirit, and to which, at the risk of being considered monotonous, I invariably answer yes.

Then we sampled the city spirits at the Metropolitan. His Lordship said:

"Thorry, old fella, but I haven't anything thmalla than a thousand."

And I withdrew, and they resumed their packing.

Notice to Strangers

The Occidental carriages continue to be the great favorites among the ladies who make their fashionable calls and who go shopping. It is a pleasure for them to recline upon the soft cushions, pull the bell when they want to stop, give directions to the driver through the speaking-tube, and take a last look in the mirror to see that everything is comme il faut. The landaus are in constant demand for drivers, while the two, four and six-in-hand rockaways are all the rage among our fashionable and Eastern tourists who come here to see the sights. Orders may be left either at the Occidental Hotel or at the stables, No. 1016 Stockton street, near Washington. G

THE HINDOO SKEPTIC.

I think till I weary of thinking,
Said the sad-eyed Hindoo King,
And I see but shadows around me—
Illusion in everything.

How knowest thou aught of God,
Of His favor or His wrath?
Can the little fish tell what the lion thinks,
Or map out the eagle's path?

Can the finite the infinite search,
Did the blind discover the stars?
Is the thought that I think a thought,
Or a throb of the brain in its bars?

For aught that the eye can discern,
Your God is what you think good—
Yourself flashed back from the glass,
When the light pours on it in flood.

You preach to me to be just;
And this is His realm you say,
And the good are dying of hunger,
And the bad gorge every day.

You say that He loveth mercy,
And the famine is not yet gone;
That He hateth the shedder of blood,
And He slayeth us every one.

You say that my soul shall live,
That the spirit can never die—
If He were content when I was not,
Why not when I have passed by?

You say I must have a meaning;
So must dung, and its meaning is flowers.
What if our souls are but nurture
For lives that are greater than ours?

When the fish swims out of the water,
When the bird soars out of the blue,
Man's thought may transcend man's knowledge,
And your God be no reflex of you.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.
A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and commends itself to all classes.
Who that has struggled with the ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with loss of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress-art can smooth that "wrinkled front," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the slop-worn, worried garment will not last long.
My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.

The Public will please take notice that
Newell's Patent Paragon Shirt

Edwin Booth as Brutus.

The Boston Courier says:—On Friday when Mr. Booth played the part of Brutus in John Howard Payne's tragedy of that name; the theatre was crowded with appreciative admirers of the tragedian. The character is one of his best. The variety that it presents is unusual and the simulated fool is a novelty peculiar to this play. It cannot be easy for a man of Mr. Booth's strong and nervous temperament to enact the part of an idiot, yet his success in this is not less perfect than in everything else which he undertakes. His shuffling gait and half-witted gesticulations were extremely clever; but his mastery over the expression of his face was singular and astonishing. At one moment he was the vacant, snivelling imbecile, and painfully like to the real creature, in the next the fire and force of Rome's deliverer glowed in every feature. This admirable power of facial expression is equalled by him in none of his other parts—save only in his Iago. His admirers are all waiting in the anxious hope that they may have the opportunity to see him in this last named character during his present visit. Between his Richelieu and his Iago we have a divided allegiance. We have often tried to determine which is entitled to bear the palm of superior merit, but we have never been able to decide.

Let Him Be.

The Washington Critic says:—In a New York saloon there is a colored waiter who possesses a remarkably fine tenor voice. In his delivery of "plate of fish-balls" he nearly touches the high C, and there is little doubt that, with judicious training he might make a hit upon the lyric stage, especially in such an opera as "L'Africaine."

Let him stick to delivering fish-balls. Operatic bawling wouldn't make that darkey's fortune.

A Western Journalist whose wife had just presented him with twins and who for this reason was compelled to neglect his paper for one day, wrote the day after, the following excuse: "We were unable to issue our paper yesterday, in consequence of the arrival of two extra males."

Death Bed Echoes.

A cheerful compilation of the dying words of sovereigns and statesmen under the above title is going the rounds of the press. It doesn't exactly suit us, so we have taken the liberty of enlivening it a little with a few others likely to be the last words of actors, mixing them with the rest:—

Charles I—Remember.

J. C. Williamson—O, Knock me down!

Nero—Is this your fidelity?

J. H. Allen—Af you blece go onet!

Charles II—Let not poor Nellie starve.

Joe Murphy—Help, Help Joe Murphy!

Julian the Apostate—O, Galilean, thou hast conquered!

J. M. Ward—Through by daylight!

Maria Theresa—I do not sleep. I wish to meet my death awake.

Oliver Doud Byron—I never knew a mother's care.

Annie Boleyn—It is small, very small indeed. (Clasping her neck.)

E. T. Stetson—Neck and neck.

Cyrus The Great—Adieu, dear children, may your lives be happy. Carry my last remembrance to your mother; and for you my faithful friends, as well absent, receive this last farewell, and may you live in peace.

Jefferson—Here's your good health and your family's good health, and may you all live long, and prosper.

Walker, of Truro—I have been upon the wings of the Cherubim!

E. J. Buckley—Coppered!

Cardinal Beaufort—What! Is there no bribing death?

Charles Vivian—This bloomin' step!

Henry II—O, shame! shame! I am a conquered King—a conquered King! Cursed be the day on which I was born, and cursed be the children I leave behind me.

Harry Courtaine—One more, only one more!

All is perfection.—Summerfield.

J. H. Vinson—Close in the scene.

Julius Cæsar—And thou, too, Brutus?

Billy Emerson—What, my rotten pals!

Emperor Severus—I have seen all things, and all things are of little value.

J. H. Buchanan—Cool.

Henry IV. of Navarre.—I am wounded.

Charley Howard—Wow-row-w!

Napoleon Bonaparte—Head of the army.

James H. Hardie—Horror! horror!

Louis XVII—I have something to tell you.

F. S. Chanfrau—Sykesy take de butt.

wronged Him.

James Redpath tells the following story

"General Butler in one of his speeches this campaign attacked Sanborn, the editor of the Springfield Republican. The editor rose to reply and the people refused to hear him and made a great uproar. He came up to Butler greatly excited, and said: "General, they say you ordered the band to play if I attempted to speak." The General quietly replied, "I suppose the audience has a right to decide what kind of brass they will listen to." But, he added, quietly, you wrong me. My orders were, if you opened your mouth to throw you out of the window.

Wanted to be an Actor.

It is amusing to those who know how much industry, perseverance, and really hard work as well as natural talent is necessary to ensure success in the dramatic profession, to meet men who determine to go on the stage "because they are fit for nothing else." That there are such people the following amusing letter which was received by Mr. Charles Wheatleigh the last time he was in San Francisco will sufficiently prove. We give it in as perfect form as the abominable chirography will admit of the compositor having to guess at many words.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 15, 1865.

Mr. C. Wheatleigh—Respected Sir: You will excuse this enroachment upon your valuable time, when you consider the motive that occasions it.

For some months past, whenever I have been in the city, I have through your most condescending generosity been an attending dead head at your theatre. My dear sir, you cannot conceive the immensity of the benefit you have confered upon me by that condescension, for which I shall ever hold myself deeply in your debt.

I am now as a citizen dependent for support and respectibility upon my own individual exertions, a task, takeing into consideration my past life, I do not feel myself competent to perform.

Sir, for the past ten years I have been a luckless vagabond rambling hither and thither over the earth without home, friends or affections and thus I have reached morturity or maturity that has brought with it all the the hopes of the dawn of manhood, hopes alas alone, without fonndation or solidity.

You will perceive from my indifferent style that I am to all practical purposes absolutely illiterate, yet I am by nature and experience sufficiently educated and so long as no direct tests are applied I may pass arrest in the body of the enemy.

I feel that if I have any talents whatever and many, many have told me that I have, that they are demonstrative. I know that they are, and by them through the stage do I wish to attain an individual place in the community and be as other men are a man, and not a child.

If you have any mean, insignificant place in your theatre give it to me for God sake when you have and if I should ever attain respectability in the profession, I shall owe all to your kindness in giving me a lift at the start.

In anxious anticapation and eager expecting I remain your humble solisitor and friend, SIMON SNIFFINS.

We kindly suppress the writer's real name, but assure our readers the letter is genuine.

Gave Up Her Seat.

A gentleman and his wife were riding in a crowded street car, the other day, when in order to economize room, the gentleman proposed that his wife should sit on his lap; which situation was readily accepted. The car stopped and other passengers got in among whom was a very prepossessing lady, when the gentleman, who had his wife on his lap, proposed that she should give the new comer a seat, which she refused to do. In a few moments however, another passenger in the shape of a dusky sister of African descent, entered the car, when the lady immediately arose, and offered her a seat on the gentleman's knees.

MANUFACTURER OF NEWELL'S PATENT PARAGON
SHIRTS,

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and commends itself to all classes.
Who that has struggled with the ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with loss of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress—art can smooth that "wrinkled front," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the slop-work, worried garment will not last long.
My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.

The Public will please take notice that
Newell's Patent Paragon Shirt
Factory's only place of business is at
410 Kearny street, between Pine and California, Room No. 8.

FIGARO ON THE C. P. RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

Shocking!

The Gold Hill News has the following:

YOUNG SMOKISTS.—It was quite amusing about 8 o'clock, last evening, to notice a lot of little boys on C street, Virginia, passing into the Post office, one after the other, each smoking a cigar. There was just one even dozen of them, from six to ten years of age, and all but two had Russian paper cigaritas in their mouths. The other two were smoking pipes. All seemed to enjoy the fun hugely.

We are shocked at the News' calling this sight "quite amusing." Our papers just howl in anguish when they see a small boy with a small cigarettte in his mouth. We don't suppose it does any good but it sounds more moral and proper than to make fun of it.

Come, Frank.

A contemporary says:

The column Vendome, Paris, will soon be rebuilt. The greater part of the broken pieces are recast. The scaffolding necessary for the rebuilding of the column will be upwards of 160 feet in height.

Under these circumsances we think it would be only decent of Frank Pixley to send back that piece which he nipped.

Perhaps.

A correspondent who devotes much time to reading up the religions weeklies, thinks the reason these journals afford so much space to quack medicine announcements, is that the object of religion and quackery are similar, because both prepare for another and better world.

Clever.

Sunday's Call had a capital burlesque of Wilkie Collins' latest novel, "Poor Miss Finch." It is as good as some of Bret Harte's "Condensed Novels" which he wrote for the Californian.

The Chicago papers call the daily list of improvements "Phœnixing."

Duke Alexis.

A contemporary says:—"The illustrated newspapers all have a portrait of the Grand Duke Alexis. The illustrated newspaper which at this time does not have a picture of Alexis will lose at least one hundred thousand subscribers. The pictures are anything but flattering to Alexis. He seems to be one of the kind of distinguished persons whose greatness does not beam from the countenance. He looks as though he might sometime have been a dignified salesman in a ready-made clothing store; not many would take him for a prince, with the royal blood leaping in gorgeous magnificence through his superior veins. He has a high forehead, but really is not sufficiently royal in appearance to satisfy the cravings of the great republican heart of this country. If his portraits are all that they pretend to be, it is to be feared that his friends will be greatly disappointed in Alexis."

Campbell on Kemble.

At the anniversary dinner of the Globe Theatre, Boston, Mr. James T. Fields recited the second stanza of Tom Campbell's Valedictory Address to John Philip Kemble, which Mr. Thomas Barry considers one of the finest passages in English poetry. It is as follows:

His was the spell o'er hearts
Which only Acting lends—
The youngest of the sister Arts,
Where all their beauty blends:
For ill can poetry express
Full many a tone of thought sublime,
And Painting, mute and motionless,
Steals but a glance of Time.
But by the mighty actor brought,
Illusion's perfect triumphs come—
Verse ceases to be airy thought,
And Sculpture to be dumb.

A Terrible Trial.

A poor woman, who was very conscientious, was subpœnaed into court as a witness. She refused to swear; "she had never sworn in her life; she was principled agin it; she would be turned out of meeting; she was a 'fessor of 'ligion and wouldn't swear for the whole world." "You will please hold up your hand and take the oath," said the Judge. "Take the oath! O dear me! I ain't profane. You might as well ask me to break the Sabbath." "Good woman you must do it, or we shall send you to jail." "Must I? Then, if I must, I—I—O, dear—I s'pose I must. Damn!"

Intelligent Man.

A man, stopping his paper, wrote to the editor: "I think folks ottent to spend their money for paypers, my dadda diddunt, and everybody said he was the inteligenteat man in the country, and had the smartest family of boiz that ever dugged taters."

Practical.

"My dear boy," said a fond mother, "never defer until to-morrow what you can do to-day." "Then, mother," replied the urchin, "let's eat the plum pudding to-night."

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day, "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence sfor shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

Original of 'Shakspeare's Shylock.

A correspondent o he Jewish Chronicle calls attention to the fact that the original of Shakspere's Shylock was a Christian, and not a Jew. He quotes from the 11th book of Gregerio Letti's Biography of Sixtus V. in proof of this. A Roman merchant named Sechi heard that Admiral Francis Blake had conquered St. Domingo, and communicated the news to a Jewish merchant named Cenedo. The latter was so confident in the falseness of the news that after repeated protestations he said:

"I bet a pound of my flesh that the report is untrue."

"And I lay a thousand scudi against it," rejoined the Christian, who caused a bond to be drawn up to the effect that in case the report should prove untrue, the Christian merchant, Signor Paul M. Sechi is justified and empowered to cut with his own hand, with a well sharpened knife, a pound of the Jew's fair flesh, of that part of the body it might please him. When the news proved true, the Christian insisted on his bond, but the governor, having got wind of the affair, reported to the Pope, who condemed both Jew and Christian to the galleys, from which they could only be ransomed by paying a fine of 2000 scudi to the Hospital of the Sixtine Bridge.

Feet.

Time was when there was little else talked about in San Francisco but "feet." There are still a good many persons who talk "feet." Daily there is a congregation of these speculative individuals at Harris' Sample Rooms, California street, opposite Merchants' Exchange, lately refitted and reopened by that most popular of hosts, Charles A. Anderson. A great deal of the business of the Merchants' Exchange is transacted in this model saloon and lunch house.

Too Bad.

Chicago is very sorry, the Post says, that they could not keep their fire until the arrival of the Russian Grand Duke. They would take pride, however, in showing him Mrs. Leary's cow and the post office cat. The same paper observes that hereafter no museum will be complete without one of this cow and an equal number of this cat.

A Tough Tale.

An old traveler tells a pretty tough story about being lost in the woods with his dog, where he could find nothing to eat, and had to cut off the dog's tail, which he boiled for himself, and afterward gave the dog the bone. We'd rather attempt to borrow $100 from a Tammany politician than believe the story.

Rose Hersee has risen to eminence in London operatic circles.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Cerville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

BARBER-BLU
SYNOPSIS OF ARGUMENT:

Barber Blu wishing a new wife commissions his steward Popolani to select one from among the villagers. Popolani meeting General Count Major Domo of King Robuche's Palace discusses the matter and invents the selection by a lottery. Romantic little romp of the age. Arrangements to be carried among the candidates at which the rest of the youngsters are very well pleased. The two ladies are Rosinette and Phoebe, and are to be raised in bridal costume and await the coming of Barber Blu. The being announced to the Palace of King Robuche she believes so outrageously that Barber Blu rescinds on and disposes of her, as he imagines has of the five to meet others by taking her in the night to one of his country castles and getting Popolani to go see her. Popolani saves her as he has the other five wives and introduces her to them, whereupon they vow vengeance on the head of Barber Blu, who has gone back to the Palace and a ter interesting a story of Bonaparte on den death, demands the hand of the Princess by a Prince Sapfico, and leaves the consent from the King by surrounding the Palace with his soldiers. While the marriage of Barber Blu and the Princess Herme is being consummated Rosinette gains admission to the Palace disguised as a negro, and after telling the fortunes of the King and Barber Blu confounds the latter by discovering herself and his other forgotten armed for revenge, which they proceed to take in a very summary manner. Lesperr of the wound be poisoned, and grocers joy of the victims of the oppressor. Grand tableau etc etc etc

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

A splendid house greeted the inauguration of the season of burnt cork opera bouffe at this house. The opera of "Barber-blu" was preceded by a capital first part in which Edwin Kelly sparkled brilliantly as interlocutor and Charley Howard and G. H. Foster kept up their respective ends with much spirit. Leon was most liberal in the amusement he gave the audience in the in the interlude, singing "The Sweetest of Williams," delivering a speech on Woman's Rights which sent the audience into fits of laughter, singing two Dutch ballads and winding up with an eccentric dance. If we have no Aimée in French Opera Bouffe, we may well be satisfied with Leon, who in the character of Boulotte last night presented all this artistes charming little tricks of voice and manner with admirable fidelity. Edwin Kelly performed the role of Barber-blu with much spirit, and the other characters were well maintained by the company. The music of this opera is delightful and all the gems were sung charmingly, and the choral and instrumental accompaniment were the theme of general commendation. Leon was very grotesque as Bullyett, singing and acting the part with wonderful artistic merit. His costumes, as well as those of Kelly, were rich and elegant. Bidaux and Charley Howard, as King B. O'Beech and Queen Olem, were both excellent. Miss Fanny Gibson made a charming Princess Her-me-ah, and the whole opera went off very smoothly. "Barber-Blu" will be repeated to-night, and will doubtless attract another large and fashionable audience.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Through by Daylight" is having a splendid run at this house, and James M. Ward has succeeded in establishing himself as a favorite with our critical public. The scenes of the execution, the street car, the terrific leap and others are much admired and draw a liberal measure of applause. An entirely new programme is given in the concert scene. Vivian gives new songs, and the volatile Maggie Moore sings a new parody on Vivian's Treadmill song, entitled, "Three Thousand Miles Away," which is nightly encored, "The Streets of New York" is underlined for production.

California Theatre.

This week is announced as the last of the very attractive sensational drama of "Across the Continent," as another equally attractive play is in preparation. All should witness the spirited acting of Oliver Doud Byron in the numerous stirring scenes and enjoy the telegraph sensation and other pleasing features of the play.

Bella Union.

To-night Mlle Gougain will appear in her new dance; Eugenie Gerretta on the globes, and Edwin Montague in gymnastic feats; Miss Lotta will sing a favorite ballad; J. H Larkin will present his "Sounds from Faderland," and Miss Josephine will appear in a song and dance. The farce of "40 Winks; or, a Dutchman's Difficulties," which has proved such a success, will be played; Carrie Armstrong will sing a comic song; Chris Mathews will appear in a song and dance, and the evening's entertainment will conclude with the new Ethiopian farce of "Dog-on it."

Theatre Comique.

"Through by Moonlight" with its attractive concert scene in which Billy Dwyer and Ned Mallahan appear in fighting costume, will be played again to night. Johnny Tuers, Harry Howard, Johnny Kelly, Nellie Leonard, Mike Quinn, Miss Somers, Maggie Murphy, Ida Fisk and Henry Stewart, all play their parts well, and Miss Maggie Knight delights all in her specialties of song and dance. Crowds go to see "Through by Moonlight," which is played immediately after the second part.

Vincent's Globe Theatre.

"Mose in San Francisco," with its local scenery, amusing situations and sensational fire scene, is the success of the day, and draws great houses. The favorite balladist, Miss Clara Draper, is encored nightly. The new act of "The Gladiator" causes great fun; J. Campbell and Lizzie Worrell gain much applause in "McGowan's Reel;" the Stanleys' new duet is a great hit, and the wonderful performances of Samwells and Nelson are generally admired. "Mose" must soon be withdrawn to make way for a startling sensational burlesque drama by the same author, therefore those who have not seen it should do so at once.

S. F. Musical Institute Concert.

The second grand concert of the third series of subscription concerts (chamber music) will be given this evening at Pacific Hall. Miss Fraulein Hoffman and Miss Helen O Dingeon will sing the solo parts. These delightful musical reunions are attended by the most cultured and fashionable people in the city.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

TO WAGER.—Miss Clara Louise Kellogg was announced to sing in Peck's Popular Concerts at the Music Hall, Boston, on the evenings of November 17th, 18th and 20th, assisted by seven other professionals of lesser prominence; tickets 50 cents. So you see you have lost. Your opponent was probably posted, as the concerts were advertised in the last Boston Courier we received and doubtless in other Boston papers.

Dr. Bellows on Theatres.

Rev Dr. Bellows writes to the Independent that he goes to the theatre sometimes, and somewhat sarcastically continues: "But the worst of it is, our conscience is so defiled that we feel quite as innocent and out of harm's way in some theatres, as we do in some churches. That is to say, we find very bad actors in both, and occasional clowns in the pulpit; and grave and serious gentlemen in the theatre. And we see people going to church with all their worldliness—diamonds and lace, and tucks and frills—upon them, and saying with the most beautiful acting in the world, 'Lord be merciful to us miserable sinners;' and we can't, for all our pains, help for a moment asking if it isn't a theatre. And then at the play we sometimes get so wrought up with noble eloquence and heroism, that we feel more than usually like praying and making a church out of the place. But we confess it is not our moral improvement that carries us to the theatre, more than it is that which rolls Mr. and Mrs. Veneer along in gilded harnesses to the church door, and deposits a gold cane and a pair of immaculate yellow kids on the pew, at the other end of which sits a mass of Valenciennes lace, with an exquisite final of 'fur and feathers' atop, and woman inside to keep them in their proper places and full display. This comes under the head of dramatic scenery, we opine, or theatrical properties. Then again, we hear so much of the same music in the church and the theatre, that we can't always tell which is which. We find a set of funny fellows coming forward in the opera house and singing some sweet choral or midnight serenade; and lo! the very same persons, for aught we know, are singing it again, with becoming gravity, to some very solemn words, in the church we go to next Sunday."

Gushing.

A gushing writer says that "nature's choicest product is woman, and modesty being the interior fount that suffuses her with bloom. Ladyhood as the consummate flower, the florescent acme of womanhood, a distillation from its superlatives, draws from this fount a perennial freshness." We are convinced that anyone who doubts the truth of the writer's remarks must be a lily-livered scoundrel, whom it would be the basest flattery to call a "villain of the deepest dye"—yes it would be complimentary to call him "a maroon colored wretch."

CLEOPATRA IN MARBLE.

What! this cold quarry stoff for Anthony's queen!
Marble for fire; the sculptured art of eyes
For that consummate passion that, between
Love and desire, ebook kingdoms with her sighs?

Yet thus she might have looked when the red asp
Had sucked the sultry Egypt from her veins;
But not when love-warm from her warrior's clasp,
The sweet mouth blossomed with the mixed lip-stains.

Those beautiful lips, and bountiful, that crushed
The blood-red out of his own, and clung
With ripe possession till the bosom blushed,
And the all-seething senses swayed and swung,

Eyes that smote eyes with blindness, perilous, deep
As soundless cisterns of delirious light;
Smiles, lustrous as the lotus-loving sweep
Of the Nile waters when the moon is white.

The sumptuous sense of woman; the rare feast
Of queenly body and voluptuous breath
To comfort and make glad the enamored beast
That crawls and basks and bites it to the death.

SLEEP.

Well may sleep present us fictions,
Since our waking moments teem
With such fanciful convictions
As make life itself a dream.

Half our daylight faith's a fable,
Sleep disports with fancies, too,
Seeming in their turn as stable
As the world we wake to view.

A Typo's Error.

The anguish of editors will never cease until type-setters are wiped off the face of earth. There, for instance, is the editor of the Eastern Argus. He alluded to one of the most eminent citizens of his village as "a noble old burgher, proudly loving his native State." But was it not a serious cause for dissatisfaction when he saw in the paper next morning that the remorseless fiend had made him speak of the eminent citizen as "a nobby old burglar prowling around in a naked state?"

Theatrical Supper Rooms.

In all the large cities in the world there are adjoining the chief theatres supper rooms where the audience, after witnessing the play, and the actors, after taking part in it, adjourn to enjoy a meal. Such a place is Jones's Oyster and Ice Cream Saloon, in the California Theatre building, immediately adjoining the entrance, where game suppers, Eastern oysters, terrapin stews, and everything that can suit the taste of an epicure, will be served up at all hours of the night, under the experienced supervision of Frank Dumont. Attached to the saloon are private rooms for families and supper parties. Try Jones's. K

THE GREAT SPECIALIST

WOULD MOST RESPECTFULLY inform those who may need his services that he has returned to San Francisco after an absence of three years, one of which he spent in one of the most celebrated Hospitals in England. The remaining two years he was engaged in practice at the corner of Kearny and Jackson streets, San Francisco, where for nine years he was successful in curing all cases that came under his treatment, which is unnecessary to mention on paper.

I am aware that some of the empirics in San Francisco make a practice of stating what they cure; but to most persons my name will be sufficient to explain what DR. CHAS. H. TOZER attends to.

BARBE-BLU

SYNOPSIS OF ARGUMENT:

Barbe Blu wishing a new wife, causes universal Popeyism to exist among the villagers. Popeyism meaning Cannibalism. Grand Master Dramont of King Robert's Palace discusses the matter and treats the selection of a lottery. By which the young girls are commanded to be conveyed among the cannibal tribes, at which the rest of the villagers are very well pleased. The choice falls on Boquette and she is carried off to Barbe Blu's castle and soon the coming of Barbe Blu is announced to the Prince of King Robert, the latter so enraged at the audacity of Barbe Blu in attempting to carry off Boquette, he challenges him to mortal combat. Barbe Blu is the stronger, he has the Prince in his power, but spares his life on condition that he shall be allowed to carry off Boquette. Prince consents. Barbe Blu and Boquette leave. While the marriage of Barbe Blu and the Princess Hermia is being consummated Boquette gains admission to the Palace disguised as a page, and after seeing the footsteps of the King and Barbe Blu, confounds the latter by disguising herself and his other wives armed for revenge, which they proceed to take in a very summary manner. Conquer of the world be poisoned, and general joy of the victims of the oppressor. Grand jubilee etc etc

BULLYETTE — A lady creature, a la Parisienne, simple in manners and dress, until she undresses a page in the Lottery of Life that affects her with the fever, but produces the opposite effect on her audience, who appreciate the fact that she will not "go" as her predecessors Heloise, Blanche, and Laura have done before her. — THE ONLY LEON

BARBER-BLU — A nabocrate of the Burlesque, full of fun and matrimony, an original Mormon, who aids Bullyette to the faithful, very gallant, but yields his hand, heart and beard—Rices and all, to the little gipsy Ba lyette. — Mr. EDWIN KELLY

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

An entirely new programme is now performed in the concert room scene in the drama of "Through by Daylight." James M. Ward sings an Irish ballad and dances a jig in excellent style; Vivian sings "The Style in Which it's Done" with new verses touching the events of the day, which draw great applause. Maggie Moore sings an original parody on Vivian's great song, entitled "Three Thousand Miles Away" which causes much laughter; Miss Fanny Young sings "To the West" very finely; "The Streets of New York," the drama of "Inshavogue" and "Barney the Baron," are announced as in preparation.

Alhambra Theatre.

This fashionable theatre was thronged again last night when the burnt cork opera bouffe of "Barber-bin" was presented for the second time. The immense audience seemed to enjoy most heartily the graceful acting and wonderful singing of Leon, the capital impersonation of Bluebeard by Kelly, the comical make-up and acting of Charley Howard and Gustave Bideaux, W. Burk's singing and acting as Prince Sar-fice, and the general excellence of the performance. Miss Gibson makes a charming Princess Her-me-ah, G. H. Foster is all that could be desired as Count Oscar, and J. Robinson makes a very good Pop O'Lin Delightful as Barber-bin-ie, it is only a fore-taste of the treat in store for the public in this season of burnt cork opera. The management announce "Le Petit Faust" as in rehearsal.

California Theatre.

There is so much to please in the drama of "Across the Continent," that it is no wonder the public flock to see it. The concert scene is a very popular feature, Miss Georgie Loomis performs her clog dance in excellent style, and Master Charley Lamb, a very clever little boy, does a capital nigger break-down. Another juvenile, Miss Nellie Deaves, who has played many parts very well, performs the part of Bolore with admirable feeling. "Across the Continent" will be removed after this week, in order to produce a new and original drama entitled "Ben McCullough; or, Certain as Death," in which Oliver Doud Byron will play the hero. This is a drama of western life, presenting many sensational scenes and is expected to make as great a hit as "Across the Continent."

Bella Union.

There will be extraordinary attractions at this theatre to-night. Miss Carrie Chapman, well-known to the frequenters of the old Bella Union will make her first appearance in ten years, The management also announce the first appearance of Lon McCarthy, Ethiopian comedian and character artist, who will perform with Miss Carrie Chapman in the musical comedietta of "The Rifle Brigade:" Miss Minnie Fillmore, who has been rusticating for a week or two, has returned brighter than ever and will reappear to-night. All the favorites, M'lle Gaugain, Eugenia Gerretta, J. H. Larkin, Miss Lotta, Carrie Armstrong, Fanny Garretson Miss Josephine, etc., will take part in a rich and varied entertainment. Another new piece is announced for Saturday.

Theatre Comique.

To-night and to morrow night are the last two of the new burlesque entitled "Through by Moonlight," introducing Billy Dwyer and Ned Mallahan in a set-to. Little Maggie Knight, Johnny Tuers and Quinn all appear in the concert scene. The play is preceded by a lively first part and interlude.

Vincent's Globe Theatre.

There are many attractive features in the programme for to-night. Among them may be mentioned the thrilling gymnastic feats of Leon Samwells and Horatio Nelson; the capital buffo duet "Very Suspicious," by Ethel and Edgar Stanley, and the screaming Ethiopian farce of "Tragical Comedy." Miss Clara Draper's ballads are very popular; Scott, Moss and Price are great in a triple clog dance, and other pleasing entertainments are given. The great sensational comic drama of "Mose in San Francisco" concludes the evening's amusement.

S. F. Musical Institute Concert.

A very large and fashionable audience was present last night when the San Francisco Musical Institute gave the second concert of their third series. The instrumental portion which was composed of selections from the great masters, was admirable. Fraulein Fredrike Hoffman sang two songs, "Oh quand je dors," by Liszt, and Schubert's "Fisher Boy" very sweetly, and Miss Helen C. Dingeon aroused the audience to enthusiasm by her brilliant rendering of Schumann's "Wanderer's Song." These concerts are rich musical treats and should be attended by all lovers of the divine art.

The Oxford.

By referring to another column it will be seen that this popular establishment is announced to open shortly for the Winter season, with a strong company headed by the Clinton Sisters. Professionals out of engagement's should report at the Oxford.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Cheeky.

A New York hair-restorer agent went out into the suburbs, stuck his posters all over a church pulpit, and then asked the minister to call attention to them.

Should be Stopped.

The Bulletin should prevent its reporter from so offensively obtruding his personality on the public as he did on Saturday last, when, he not being a smoker himself, characterized those who smoke on street cars as loafers. Many loafers never smoke, many gentlemen enjoy an evening cigar on the street cars and the companies that neglect to provide accommodation for them will find a considerable falling off in their receipts.

Virtue's Reward.

A policeman gave five dollars to the Chicago fund, and in less than an hour he found ten dollars in the pocket of a drunken man whom he arrested. Another man was asked to contribute, but declined, and within two hours a dog bit him in the leg, and he heard that his mother-in-law had come to stay six months with him. Is it not true that virtue is its own reward?

Not at all Romantic.

"My dear Horatio, I had a very mysterious dream."

"What was it, dear?"

"I dreamed I saw you carried up to heaven in a golden chariot, surrounded by angels clothed in white linen and purple. What is that a sign of, dear?"

"It is the sign of a full stomach, my pet."

The Libel Market.

A Texas man sued a newspaper for $12,000 for libel and got 60 cents. An Oakland speculator in the same line of business sued the Transcript for $10,000 and got a ten cent verdict a few weeks ago. We settled our libel suit for a dollar just previous. Libels are declining in market—we were swindled.

Wait for The Wagon!

A lady in a Western State, sixty-five years old, recently took a ride on the cars. She had never been on a railroad car before, and said they went too fast for her, and thought she would catch a chance to ride home in a wagon.

An Enemy.

"Whisky is your greatest enemy." "But," said Mr. Jones, "don't the Bible say, Mr. Preacher, that we are to love our enemies?"

"Oh! yes Jones, but it don't say we are to swallow them."

The Outside.

A good book and a good woman are excellent things for those who know how to appreciate their value. There are men, however, who judge of both from the beauty of the covering.

How to turn people's heads!—Go late to church.

The Stylish Hat Store

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. "Supper."

People who hurry through breakfast and bolt their dinner, can, after the work of the day is over, enjoy that comfortable meal called "supper." The Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 337 Bush street, is a famous supper house, and Winant & Co. are celebrated for their roast oysters, terrapin stews and other delicacies. Charley Hascke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloons, attends to the comforts of his numerous friends who come here to see him. E

THE MAN IN THE MOON.

Only the moon saw us,
Kitty, my darling;
Only the man in the moon.
Grandfather sleeping and grandmother knitting,
You and I in the old porch sitting,
Bats in the dim beyond aimlessly flitting.
I must be going soon:
Give me another, for nobody sees us,
Only the man in the moon.

Maybe there is a man,
Kitty, my darling,
Queer fellow up in the moon.
If so, be sure he has stolen sweet kisses—
There must be matrons and there must be misses
Up in that silver-white country; but this is Better than bliss in the moon.
Once more, my beautiful; nobody sees us,
Only the man in the moon.

Kitty, sweet Kitty,
My darling, my darling,
Don't mind the man in the moon.
Now that you've listened, and now that I've told you,
Dearest, my love, my soul's love I shall hold you,
Close to my beating heart some day shall fold you,
Kitty, my darling,
Only one more, love—I will snatch another,
Spite of the man in the moon.

Grandfather's stirring, sweet;
Hurry, my darling;
He will be coming here soon.
I've only taken two; three's an odd number;
There! Now the old man may wake from his slumber,
Talk about stock, and the flour-mill, and lumber.
I'm just as happy,
Kitty, my darling:
Only I'll have four, the next time, remember.
How are you, man in the moon?

Theatrical Supper Rooms.

In all the large cities in the world there are adjoining the chief theatres supper rooms where the audience, after witnessing the play, and the actors, after taking part in it, adjourn to enjoy a meal. Such a place is Jones's Oyster and Ice Cream Saloon, in the California Theatre building, immediately adjoining the entrance, where game suppers, Eastern oysters, terrapin stews, and everything that can suit the taste of an epicure, will be served up at all hours of the night, under the experienced supervision of Frank Dumont. Attached to the saloon are private rooms for families and supper parties. Try Jones's. K

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and comprends itself to all classes.

Who that has struggled with the ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with loss of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress-art can smooth that "wrinkled front," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the slop-worn, worried garment will not last long.

My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.

The Public will please take notice that
Newell's Patent Paragon Shirt

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

The Jewel Consistency.

A library association in England has excluded from its reading room "Oliver Twist," because of the gross immorality and pernicious doctrines of that book. And yet we have no doubt [the association will admit Esop's Fables, which contains a hideous falsehood to the effect that the wolf held conversations with the lamb; and "Mother Goose's Melodies," which comment with manifest approval upon the fact that Taffy the Welshman stole a piece of beef, in return for which the narrator embezzled a marrow-bone. Consistency is a jewel which is not in the possession of the library evidently.

The Difficulty.

Western whiskey is now raised to proof with oil of vitriol, to accommodate the growing callousness of the Western palate. The difficulty experienced by the distillers is said to be that when the liquor is made sufficiently piquant for their customers's throats it burns all the staves out of the barrels.

Deadly.

The other day a little shaver was expatiating on the injurious effects of tobacco. Said he:—"The oil of tobacco is so poisonous that a single drop of it on the end of a dog's tail will kill a man in a minute."

The topaz emblem of courage, is November's jewel.

Club House Sausages.

A well-made richly seasoned sausage, is an almost unknown dainty in California. Epicures who are posted, get none but Bunker's Club House sausages at 74 and 75 California Market. P

Advertising.

How often has the Call told its readers that advertising will pay as a business investment! But it never cites any instance of it, never brings forward its authorites for the assertion, never quotes a case in point: and just here is where the Call fails in making out a case. How different was the policy pursued by the editor of the Prairie Bugle, published away in the centre of Michigan. He did'nt spin out any long winded editorials about the advantage of advertising, but went to work in a sensible, practical way and inserted the following little notice in his advertising columns: "I will take a good dog in payment for one year's subscription. Apply at this office." The next day 43 dogs were sent to the office. The day afterward, when the news had spread out into the country, four hundred farmers sent two dogs apiece by express, with eight baskets full of puppies, all marked C. O. D. The offer found its way into neighboring States, and before the end of the week there were eight thousand dogs, tied with ropes in the editor's front and back yards. Government tax, at $1 each, $8,000. Could anything more forcibly illustrate the power of advertising in the Prairie Bugle? The Bugle now glories in columns of new ads. from railroad companies, saloons, hotels, bitter manufacturers and patent medicine proprietors. The Bugle is announced to enlarge to "double its former size" next week. Those dogs are still there and the publishers' fortune is made.

An Ingenuous Abbie.

Miss Abbie Gifford, of Iowa, having failed by a few votes of being the candidate of one political party for School Superintendent, was nominated by another party, but declined the honor because she did'nt think it would be honorable to change her politics so suddenly. That beautiful delicacy will wither if Abbie gets into public life.

Victoria Woodhull.

Tilton says Victoria Woodhull is "a green leaf and her legion of relations are caterpillars who devour her."

She will probably get tired of all of them in time; even of her "blood relations," and then each of these caterpillars will have to look out for its own grub.

Pass him Around.

F. S. Bedell, editor of the Crown Point (Ind.) Register, has been twice reported dead; and though the obituary notices published about him, were quite satisfactory, he cruelly disappointed his friends and the public on both occasions, by continuing to live on. The mah is a brute.

Pretty Name.

There is a man in Red Bluff named "Pogue." We hope if he has a daughter he had her christened "Arrah-Na" "Arrah-Na-Pogue" would certainly find wooers.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. The Coming Winter.

There isn't any room for doubt that the coming Winter is to be awful cold. The prophets all say so; and the man is insane who disputes the prophets. They have found the moss growing thick on the trees, frogs standing upon their heads, sunflowers pointing toward the North Pole, grape vines running around poles, instead of up them, and there are a thousand other signs to show that every human being will be frozen as stiff as a chip before February —Washington Critic.

The Eastern States have been suffering under such an infliction of elemental maladies during the present year that they are beginning to be looked upon as decidedly unhealthy and unsafe portions of the world to reside in. Their population has suffered by spring floods; exhausting Summer droughts; fevers and cholera; destructive tornados and devastating fires; and now, to cap the climax, they are all threatened with a general freezing until each one becomes as stiff as the legendary McGuffin, who drank the bowl of starch in mistake for buttermilk, at somebody's wake, and was found an hour afterwards as stiff as an iron poker against the kitchen wall: and had to be ironed out to bring him too. The idea is a terrible one. It is a pity they cannot be visited by a healthy earthquake or two occasionally to regulate the electrical forces of the elements, and set things running as smoothly there in the climatic line as they do here with us.

Jovial Chicago.

Notwithstanding that Chicago is in ashes, there doesn't seem to be much "weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth." In fact the papers are as lively as ever. The other day the Post said:—"The first divorce suit since the fire has been entered, and we are once more a city." And a few days after, the poet who does the pathetic for the Post, burst into the following grand ode:

A tinker and a tailor,
A soldier and a sailor,
A newspaper reporter who couldn't get his pay:
Bank messengers and tellers,
And a host of other fellers,
Are now carpenters and masons at $5 a day.

The Difference.

A Detroit negro prisoner on the way to the penitentiary for larceny, was asked what he thought of his trial. He said:—"When dat lawyer dat 'fended me made his speech, I hought shuah I was gwine to take my ole hat an walk right out ob dat co't-room; but when de odder lawyer got up an commenced talking, I new I was de biggest rascal on top ob de earf."

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Carville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

Alhambra Theatre.

Again last night this theatre was crowded, and Leon kept the audience in the best of humor by his wonderfully artistic characterization of the girl of the period, the strong minded woman and the Deutcher girl. The opera of 'Barber-bia" was performed in excellent style. The popularity of this species of entertainment is established in this city and the public await with impatience the production of other gems from the large repertoire of Kelly and Leon. As soon as the rush to see "Barber-bia" slackens, "Le Petit Faust' will be produced.

California Theatre.

Those who have not yet seen Oliver Doud Byron in the great sensation drama of "Across the Continent" should lose no time in doing so, as it will be withdrawn after Saturday in order to make way for the new sensation of "Ben McCullough; or Certain as Death."

Metropolitan Theatre.

The new programme in the concrt scene in "Through by Daylight," has given new life to the play, and Vivian and Maggie Moore have made quite a sensation in their new songs, "The Style in which it's Done" and "Three Thousand Miles Away." "Through by Daylight" will shortly be withdrawn, in order that the popular drama of "The Streets of New York" may be produced; therefore, those who wish to see it must pay an early visit to the Metropolitan Theatre.

Bella Union.

Miss Carrie Chapman and Lon McCarthy, who made their first appearance last night, will prove a valuable addition to the Bella Union Theatre company. The latter has had long experience in the business of a variety theatre, and can sing a song, execute a dance, and play a part in a piece. Mr. McCarthy is a capital interrogator in the first part, sings a comic song, and plays Irish and eccentric comedy. The performance last night went off very well, and the musical comedietta of "The Rifle Volunteer' caused much amusement. The same bill will be played to night.

Theatre Comique.

Maggie Knight, Johnny Tuers, Quinn and a host of others will appear to night in a capital entertainment. The new burlesque of "Through by Moonlight," with its stirring sparring scene, will be withdrawn after to-night. On Friday Monsieur Valere, the necromancer, will make his first appearance and will present his incomprehensible illusion of the decapitated body.

Vincent's Globe Theatre.

"Moses" is played nightly to a large and delighted audience. The musical Ethiopian farce of "Tragical Comedy," by Charley Vincent, Bobby Scott and R. G Marsh, causes much laughter; Miss Clara Draper is very pleasing in ballads; Sally Thayer's comic songs are very funny, and altogether a varied and attractive entertainment is presented.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Onsilin Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

California Precocity.

Everything in California is different from what it is anywhere else. Our California children are quite unlike any other children. Just think of a child less than two years old attempting to commit suicide last Saturday morning, by throwing itself out of a second story window at the corner of Jones and Eddy streets! Temporary insanity from teething pains is supposed to have caused the rash attempt.

A Yankee peddler had no difficulty in getting rid of a large quantity of shoe bronze in Nubia, the natives buying it eagerly and using it as a cosmetic.

Theatrical Supper Rooms.

In all the large cities in the world there are adjoining the chief theatres supper rooms where the audience, after witnessing the play, and the actors, after taking part in it, adjourn to enjoy a meal. Such a place is Jones's Oyster and Ice Cream Saloon, in the California Theatre building, immediately adjoining the entrance, where game suppers, Eastern oysters, terrapin stews, and everything that can suit the taste of an epicure, will be served up at all hours of the night, under the experienced supervision of Frank Dumont. Attached to the saloon are private rooms for families and supper parties. Try Jones's. K

Vivid Dream.

A country pedagogue had two pupils, to one of whom he was partial and to the other severe. One morning it happened that these two boys were both late, and were called to account for it.

"You must have heard the bell, boys; why did you not come?"

"Please sir," said the favorite, "I was dreamin' I was goin' to California, and I thought the school bell was the steamboat bell as I was goin' in."

"Very well," said the master, glad of any pretext to excuse his favorite. "And now sir,"—turning to the other—"what have you to say?"

"Please sir," said the puzzled boy, "I—I—was waiting to see Tom off!"

A Sharp Hit.

"What do you mean by cat and dog life?" said a husband to his angry wife. "Look at Carlo and Kitty asleep on the rug! I wish men lived half as peacefully with their wives."

"Stop" said the lady, "tie them together, and see how they will agree."

Some fathers are too hard-hearted for anything. A man scolded his twelve-year old son fully five minutes the other day because the child used his father's best Sunday razor to open oysters with. We don't see how the razor could hurt the oysters anyhow.

People who hurry through breakfast and bolt their dinner, can, after the work of the day is over, enjoy that comfortable meal called "supper." "Didn't you? I had to lead—
Awful bore; but where were you?"
"Sat it out with Molly Mead;
Jolly girl she is—
Said she didn't care to dance,
'D rather have a quiet chat—
Then she gave me such a glance!
So, when you had cleared the room,
And captured all the chairs,
Having nowhere else, we two
Took possession of the stairs;
I was on the lower step,
Mollie on the next above;
Gave me her bouquet to hold—
Asked me to draw off her glove.
Then, of course, I squeezed her hand,
Talked about my wasted life,
Said my sole salvation must
Be a true and faithful wife.
Then, you know, I used my eyes.
She believed me, every word;
Almost said she loved me—Jove!
Such a voice I never heard—
Gave me some symbolic flower,
Had a meaning—oh, so sweet!
Don't know where it is, I'm sure—
Must have dropped it in the street.
How I spooned! and she—ha! ha!
Well, I know it wasn't right,
But she did believe me so.
That I—kissed her—pass a light."

II.

"Mollie Meade, well I declare,
Who'd have thought of seeing you,
After what occurred last night
Out here on the avenue?
Oh, you awful, awful girl!
There—don't blush—I saw it all."
"Saw all what?" "Ahem—last night,
At the Mather's, in the hall"
"Oh, you horrid!—where were you?
Wasn't he an awful goose!
Most men must be caught, but he Ran his neck right in the noose.
I was almost dead to dance—
I'd have done so if I could—
But old Gray said I must stop,
And I promised ma I would;
So I look'd up sweet, and said
That I'd rather talk with him.
Hope he didn't see my face—
Luckily the lights were dim:
And then how he squeezed my hand!
And he looked up in my face
With his lovely, great big eyes;
Really it's a dreadful case.
He was all in earnest, too;
But I thought I'd have to laugh
When he kissed a flower I gave,
Looking—oh, so like a calf!
I suppose he has it now
In a wine-glass on his shelves.
It's a mystery to me
Why men will deceive themselves.
Saw him kiss me! oh, you wretch!
Well, he begged so hard for one,
And I thought there'd no one know,
So I—let him—just for fun.
I knew it was not really right
To trifle with his feelings, dear,
But men are such conceited things,
They need a lesson once a year."

THE GREAT SPECIALIST,

WOULD MOST RESPECTFULLY INFOR[illegible] those who may need his services that he has returned to San Francisco after an absence of three years, one of which he spent in one of the most celebrated Hospitals in England, The Lock Hospital.

He has now re-opened his old Medical Institute at the corner of Kearny and Jackson streets, San Francisco, where for nine years he was so successful in curing all cases that came under his treatment, which is unnecessary to mention or explain on paper.

I am aware that some of the empirics of San Francisco make a practice of stating what they cure; but to most persons my name will be sufficient to explain what DR. CHAS. H. TOZER attends to.

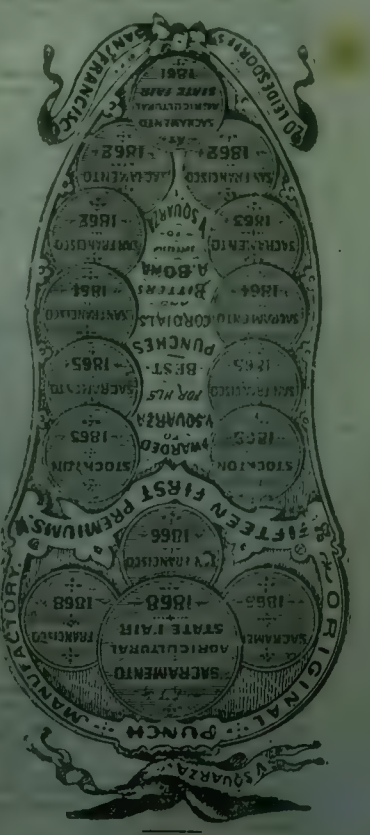
W. H. ATKINSON
MANUFACTURER OF
NEWELL'S PATENT PARAGON
SHIRTS,
410 Kearny street, Room No. 8



A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.
A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and commends itself to all classes.
Who that has struggled with the ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with loss of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress can remove that "wrinkled front," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the slop-worn, worried garment will not last long.
My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.

The Public will please take notice that
Newell's Patent Paragon Shirt
Factory's only place of business is at
410 Kearny street, between Pine and California, Room No. 8.

A Boozy Fiddler.

The following appears in the Call:

Lost.—A fiddle, in a green bag, on Friday evening, November 17th, the owner thinks somewhere in the vicinity of Howard, Folsom or Sixth street. The finder will receive $5 reward and the thanks of the owner, as it is a keepsake from an old friend, by leaving it at 900 Eighth street, near Bryant.

How drunk that fiddler must have been! We can fancy his soliloquizing when he got home: Holloh, loss er fillell. Now where coul I ha loss it? Go back and look for er. No, get into ther stashun house. Lemme see. Wher've I been to-night; have been on Howar' street; perhaps Folsom. Think I came long Sixth. Lemmer member. Serenaded Miss Jones; Miss Jones tole me was drunk; go home soak mhead. The serenaded Miss Johnson, Miss Johnson and ole Johnson tried to throw water on me, too cunning for him, got under porch. Where can that fillel be? All ri, I'll advertise er m-morning papers. Cuss er fillell. [Falls asleep with his boots on.]

That's The Place.

The St. Louis girls were so badly frightened by the experience of one of their number who dislocated her neck while resisting a kiss, that now they hold their lips in the softest and most comfortable position whenever they see a man anywhere near.

Licensing Saloons.

In a late vagrancy case Judge Sawyer made the following sensible remarks, which ought to be well-considered by the next Legislature:

Whether it is for the purpose of creating a revenue for the city that licenses for liquor saloons are granted to all who ask them I do not know; but I do know that there are a great many who now have licenses who ought not to hold them; and I think that the next Legislature should pass a law creating a board of competent persons, who should issue licenses to such persons only who could prove that they were proper parties to keep drinking saloons, and that the Board should have the power, upon a proper showing, to revoke the license. By doing this, the legislature would break up the many dens now existing in the city which are only harboring places for thieves, vagrants, and idle and dissolute persons; and in my opinion, the abolishment of such places would be striking at one of the great roots of crime.

It is a matter of the greatest consequence that a license to keep a liquor saloon should be granted to a man who can prove a good character. There are hundreds of men of the highest respectibility engaged in retailing liquor in San Francisco, men who will never sell a glass of liquor to a drunken man, who will risk losing a good customer by denying him liquor when he has drunk too much; men who are the personification of the grace of Charity, which "suffereth long and is kind," "is not easily provoked," "beareth all all things," "endureth all things." Men will drink, will frequent saloons; it is therefore a matter of the greatest importance that those who keep saloons should be men of good principles, men who will protect as far as lies in their power the lives and property of their customers. The respectable saloon keepers in this city would rejoice were the Legislature to take the action proposed by Judge Sawyer. When they take up the subject of the licensing of saloons and specify the acts which shall cause a license to be revoked; we beg most respectfully to suggest that selling poisonous liquor be made one of them. In hundreds of saloons in this city the stuff sold for whisky is a mixture of poisonous chemicals. It is safe to say that half the insanity in this State is caused by the poisonous drugs used in adulterating the spirits and beer sold in saloons. No more important task can come before the next Legislature than that of passing a stringent law for the regulation of liquor saloons, and we trust that they will undertake it and carry it through in good earnest.

Duck Shooting.

Tom Jones and Bill Sykes were hunting ducks around Quadic reservoir one day last week, when up went a flock and Tom blazed away, but the ducks kept on the even tenor of their way—with the exception of losing a few feathers. "Golly," says Tom, "I must have hit one of them; didn't you see the feathers fly?" "Yes," replied Bill, "they flew so hard they took the meat off with them.

Libeling a Ballet Troupe.

The Liverpool Leader has been cast in law costs for having libeled a family of female dancers called the Colonna Troupe. The libel contained in an article was expressed thus:

"We have been told, on what seems unquestionable authority, that while the doors of the theatre—in which no drinking is allowed—are closed by midnight, the green-room remains open till four in the morning, and the Colonna girls stay there to drink and flirt with such gay young sparks as have unemptied purses." In support of the information, evidence was adduced to show that this statement is entirely untrue; and that so far from going into the green-room, the members of the troupe did not have any communication with either the public or the professionals, but that after their performances they left the theatre. The magistrate (Mr. Raffles) having intimated his intention of sending the case for trial, the defence was not entered upon, though it was stated, on behalf of the defendant, that he had merely passed the article for publication and was not aware of its libellous nature.

Upon this statement, and before the defendant was formally committed, a consultation took place between the parties, and it was agreed to compromise the case on the defendant promising to insert a full apology both in his own paper and in the Era, to give up the name of the actual writer of the article, and to pay the costs of the proceedings. A summons was afterwards granted against the writer.

A Pleasant Lookout.

The belief in a material hell is rapidly dying out, and a good many are inclined to believe the spiritualist's doctrine that the punishment which departed spirits suffer is mental and not anything like blazing in brimstone. The following passage in the evidence in the Horace Hawes' will case serves to explain this belief:

He said he believed in spirits; that after he died, he intended his spirit should return to earth and maintain a sort of ethereal supervision over his real estate.

What is the difference between a Christian and a cannibal?—The one enjoys himself, and the other enjoys other people!

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day, "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence sfor shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

BARBER-BLU

SYNOPSIS OF ARGUMENT.

Barber Blu, wishing a new wife, comes across Bustleyard Pepoint to select one from among the villagers. Pepoint mentioned Sweet Clover, Major Dime of King Bobemia's Palace thereupon the matter and treats the selection as a lottery. But as the major's two daughters to be carried among the candidates at which the rest of their years are very old grant. The choice falls on Bullyette and she is led away to be beheaded by mistake and not the coming of Barber Blu. The young betrothed to the Prince of King Bobemia she becomes an outrage by that Barber. Blu sentences to be executed at sunrise but he is to marry her. He is to marry her. In taking her in the night to one of his deserty castles and getting Pepoint to prepare her. Pepoint saves her, as to her other five wives and introduces her to them, whereupon they two vengeance on the head of Barber Blu, who escapes back to the Palace and after inventing a story of Bobemia on his death demands the hand of the Princess in Prince Sapphire's head and leaves request from the King by surrendering the Palace of Blu and son. While the marriage of Barber Blu and the Princess (formed to be by representative) Bullyette gains admission to the Palace disguised as a negro, and after telling the Princess of the King and Barber Blu confounds the latter by discovering herself and his other five wives armed for revenge which they proceed to take in a very summary manner. Despair of the vessel be poisoned, and general joy of the vicinage at the oppressor. Grand tableaux etc etc

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night is the last time the sensational drama of "Through by Daylight" will be performed at the Metropolitan Theatre, with the exception of the matinee to-morrow. To-morrow night "The Streets of New York" will be produced, with James M. Ward in the character of Badger.

California Theatre.

To night, to-morrow afternoon and to-morrow night, are the last three occasions on which Oliver Doud Byron will appear in the sensation drama of "Across the Continent," with its thrilling scenes of the railroad, telegraphing on the plains, the murder in the cellar, etc. "Ben McCullough or Certain as Death," will be produced on Monday.

Alhambra Theatre.

Aimee in French opera bouffe is the delight of the New York fashionable world. The New Yorkers used to go one night to see Aimee and the next to see Leon's admirable imitation. Now we have our Kelly & Leon opera season, and the crowds that flock nightly to the Alhambra prove that we appreciate it. Previous to the opera of "Barber-Blu" there is a capital first part, in which George Ashton sings "Last night I was Dreaming of You" very pleasingly; Geo. H. Foster gives "Mickey's Gone Away" with much spirit; Edwin Kelly sings the charming ballad, "If Maggie were My Own," in a style which draws much applause; Charley Howard sings "Barnyard Imitations" in a delightfully unctuous style, to a rooster accompaniment by Geo. H. Foster; Gustave Bidaux sings "Put me in my Little Bed," and this part of the entertainment concludes with "Nubbs, the Poet," in which Kelly and Howard cause immense fun. After this comes Leon in a varied interlude, and then an act, followed by the opera. To-morrow afternoon there will be a grand matinee.

Bella Union.

M'lle Gaugain in her new pas seul, "Vivian's Melodies," the favorite Miss Carrie Chapman in dance, song and farce, Lon McCarthy as interrogator in the first part and in "The Rifle Volunteer," will appear to-night. M'lle Eugenie Gerretta will present her graceful feats on the revolving globes, Carrie Armstrong will sing comic songs, the favorite balladist, Miss Lotta, sentimental songs, and J. H. Larkin, Miss Josephine, Marie Zoel, Fanny Garretson and others will appear in a varied programme.

Theatre Comique.

To-night, in addition to a capital first part and interlude in which all the old favorites, Johnny Tuers, Maggie Knight, Mike Quinn, the popular sisters, Claude and Maggie, etc., will appear, an extraordinary attraction is offered in the incomprehensible illusion of the decapitated head, which will be presented by M. Valere, who will commence an engagement to-night.

Vincent's Globe Theatre.

After to-night the highly successful play of "Moss in San Francisco, or Scenes on the Barbary Coast," must be withdrawn; therefore there should be a rush to see it to-night. In addition to this really attractive play, a host of other entertainments are presented. Clara Draper in favorite ballads; Samwells and Nelson in wonderful gymnastic feats; Charley Vincent in screaming Ethiopian farces; Edgar and Ethel Stanley in pleasing duets; Lizzie Worrell in popular ballads; Sally Thayer in comic songs; Johnny Reilly in song and dance, and many others. The new burlesque drama entitled "Through by Midnight across the Continent," which has been for a week past in active preparation, will be presented with new scenery and a strong cast to-morrow night. Carlova, a male prima donna, who made his first appearance last night will prove a popular addition to the company. Few who saw him could believe that he really was a man, so perfect was his make-up for a female operatic artiste. Carlova will make a sensation.

The Oxford.

The Oxford, at the corner of Sutter and Kearny streets, long such a popular resort under the management of Charley Vincent, will be opened for the Winter season to-morrow night, with Miss Amelia Dean as proprietress. A bevy of pretty girls—Lizzie Harmon, Fanny Webster, the Willis Sisters, and a company of variety performers have been engaged and a great entertainment will be given.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaililn Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

To Invalids, Wives and Mothers.

The agency of the "Old Style" hand-made, sour-mash stimulant—so highly recommended by the Medical Faculty—is at No. 605 Washington street. Branch Depot, No. 306 Montgomery street. Ask for the "Old Style" Bourbon—it is pure, mild, mellow, delicious. S

Theatrical Supper Rooms.

In all the large cities in the world there are adjoining the chief theatres supper rooms where the audience, after witnessing the play, and the actors, after taking part in it, adjourn to enjoy a meal. Such a place is Jones's Oyster and Ice Cream Saloon, in the California Theatre building, immediately adjoining the entrance, where game suppers, Eastern oysters, terrapin stews, and everything that can suit the taste of an epicure, will be served up at all hours of the night, under the experienced supervision of Frank Dumont. Attached to the saloon are private rooms for families and supper parties. Try Jones's. K

Sweet Pioche.

A correspondent, residing at Pioche, draws the following engaging picture of the state of society in that calm retreat: "Pioche is the county seat of Lincoln county, a mining camp a year old. It's on the great American Desert, and situated between bare mountains, looking over a bare, dry plain. Water has to be brought eight miles by wagon, and is sold at six cents per gallon. There are about 1,200 people here, the half of whom have been in the State Prison, and the rest ought to be. Our grave-yard has 41 graves, of which but two are filled by death from natural causes. The rest all died with their boots on. Shot mostly; some cut. There is no law. Anyone feeling aggrieved seeks redress generally with his pistol. It's been a close game for me several times; I got cut in the leg once, but I am here yet. I sleep with a big bull dog, a Henry rifle and a six-shooter. The mines (silver) employ about 600 men; about 100 are in business, and the rest are blackguards of the worst kind—cattle thieves, renegade Mormons and men who were banished from society by their crimes, and ready for anything. It is $50 miles to railroad or telegraph; we have three stages a week and one mail. I have done very well here and would have some money, but two of my partners in a claim were killed, and I can't go on alone. My life has been attempted twice by the party who killed my partners. I don't allow any man to scare if I can have a show; but when it gets down to cases where you dare not show yourself at a window or open door after dark, it's time to jump the game. If ever I get back to California I think I'll stay there—anyway, I have got enough of this kind of living. I am tired of packing a six-shooter around night and day. But it isn't as hopeles as it seems—the future of this placid little village, for in a few months all the natives will be disposed of and then virtuous new settlers can begin the settlement again.

The Dead Billiard Player.

The remains of John McDevitt, the celebrated billiard player, were found on Sunday in an area under the sidewalk in front of the Tribune building, Chicago. Poor McDevitt! His game is "run out."

Deer are cheap in Wisconsin—venison eight cents a pound.

Ten cigarettes a day is Eugenie's allowance.

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Go to "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street (the second hat store below Kearny), and examine the large stock of the latest styles of hats. K

"Supper."

People who hurry through breakfast and bolt their dinner, can, after the work of the day is over, enjoy that comfortable meal called "supper." The Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 337 Bush street, is a famous supper house, and Winant & Co. are celebrated for their roast oysters, terrapin stews and other delicacies. Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloons, attends to the comforts of his numerous friends who come here to see him. E

COULDN'T LIE.

An aged hen had laid an egg,
And left it lying in the nest;
Her grandchild passing by, exclaimed,
"Oh, what a cosy place to rest!

"Dear grandma's gone to take a walk,
And I'll an egg all warm and nice;
Won't it be jolly! Here I'll set,
And hatch a chicken in a trice."

In due time grandma came along,
And when she saw the broken shell
She cried, "Who did this cruel deed?"
While fast the bitter tear drops fell.

Then up spake honest chick and said,
"Grandma, I know that I shall catch it;
But still I cannot tell a lie—
I did it with my little HATCH IT."

NOT PARTED.

They are not parted, though their feet
Have wandered far in different ways;
And though they never more may meet
On Winter eves or Summer days,
It matters not though realms divide,
Though boundless seas between them roll,
For still, defying wind and tide,
Heart yearns to heart, and soul to soul.

They are not parted—only those
Are parted whom no love unites:
Their absence breaks not our repose,
Who have no share in our delights;
They may be by our side, and still
As far from us as pole from pole,
Who lack the sympathetic thrill
Of heart to heart and soul to soul.

Facts vs. Fiction.

Enoch Arden recently returned to Fort Wayne, Ind., and demanded that Philip Ray should be kicked out. Annie declared she would break a shovel over Enoch's head if he loafed another day in that neighborhood; whereupon he returned [with much profanity to his island and palm-tree.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and commends itself to all classes.

Who that has struggled with the ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with loss of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress—art can smooth that "wrinkled front," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the slop-word, worried garment will not last long.

My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.

The Public will please take notice that

Newell's Patent Paragon Shirt

Earn What You Spend.

Three-fourths of the difficulties and miseries of men come from the fact that they want wealth without earning it, fame without deserving it, popularity without temperance, and respect without virtue. The man who wants the best things, and is willing to pay just what they are worth, by honest effort and hard denial, will have no difficulty in procuring what he wants at last. It is the men who want goods on credit, that are snubbed and disappointed, and overwhelmed in the end.

Botts and Potts.

We take the following paragraphs from the Newark Evening Courier:

Joseph C. Potts, Esq., has resumed the practice of his profession at Jersey City.

Botts will be hanged—unless the executive clemency be invoked to commute the sentence, which is hardly possible.

Bully for Potts! Alas for Botts! New Jersey will lose its Botts, but Potts will pursue the even tenor of his way. Selah.

Sad Results.

"What is the matter with you Uncle Toby, what makes you walk so lame?" "Well, I jined a temperance siety 'bout a month ago, and have drank nuthin' but water since and, I 'spect it's gut inter my joints, and kinder rusted 'em."

London Amusements.

Mr. Morris Phillips, who is entertaining the readers of the Home Journal with some exceedingly fresh and sparkling reminiscences of his recent London experiences, gives the following highly interesting gossip concerning a certain class of amusements peculiar to the English metropolis:

The news comes from London that Cremorne has been closed by order of a Middlesex magistrate. Those who know the opprobrium that has attached to this place for the past half century will presume, of course, that it has been proscribed and abolished on account of its indecency and the doubtful character of its patrons. There is some foundation for the presumption, but it is not a correct one, nevertheless. Cremorne has been closed at the request of a Mr. Cromwell, president of St. Marks College, who objects to the shouts and screams of persons leaving, the rattling of cabs, and frequent disputes. We are sorry for Mr. Cromwell. His tympanum should not be disturbed with the rattling of cab wheels, and his "one hundred pupils" must be allowed to snore peacefully, between the hours of ten and five.

Cremorne is a public, open-air, gaudy dancing garden, located many miles from the city, occupying several acres of ground, in the centre of which a platform is erected, where hundreds of promiscuous people whirl and dance in anything but a poetic way,—to very poor music. Besides this feature it has fountains, gravel walks, grass-plats, gaslights in profusion, a theatre singing hall, a brilliant bar-room, and dozens of cozy "boxes" distributed over the grounds, where you may quietly enjoy a dish of cream or a mutton-chop. The entertainment ends each night with a really grand display of fireworks concluding the performance of such a piece as the "Battle of Waterloo," or the "Storming of Strasburg," viewed by the audience standing or seated at a great distance from the scene.

The same deceiving and cheating system obtains at Cremorne as at other English establishments. The manager advertises all the different attractions of the place, and charges one shilling admission, but this shilling simply admits you within the garden gates. On attempting to enter either of the interior buildings to view the ballet, the burlesque or the concert hall, one shilling more is demanded. The fortune teller charges half a crown for spreading the cards, and if you wish to see the fireworks from a favorable spot, you must imitate Sothern in the farce of "Not if I Know it," and pay still another shilling.

Cremorne is closed; but the Oxford on Oxford street; the Alhambra on Leicester Square; the Casino in Holborn and the Argyll Rooms in Great Windmill street, are all flourishing in their criminal occupation. Compared with these places, Cremorne is respectable and highly to be commended. The first two named above are only notable for the base and immoral performances on the stage, and the mixed audiences they attract; but the latter two for vulgarity and vileness, and for the base effect produced on the young people, probably have not their equals in the civilized world. The Casino and the Argyll are simply dance houses, patronized by nearly all classes of men and the lowest and most degraded women. They are more harmful in their influences than the lowest dens of St. Giles' in London or their prototypes of the Five Points in New York, from the fact they are respectable in exterior, and are allowed to publicly advertise their unique "features," whereas the former are obliged to transact their nefarious trade in private. Neither is the Argyll a whit more decent because it is attended by all the London swells, including the Prince of Wales.

Classical.

Muffington says that "you bet" is too vulgar an affirmation for him to make use of. He says "scilicit" has all the force of "you bet" and is classical and "genteel." Muffington is high-toned, scilicit.

Stage Stomachs.

The London Court Journal concludes a review of the dramatization of "Pickwick," produced at the Lyceum Theatre with the following remarks on stage stomachs:

Mr. Addison was tame as Pickwick. His make-up was easy, and yet the stomach was a failure. Stomachs do not seem to be well understood on the stage. We are not sufficiently well acquainted with the behind-the-scenes arrangements to know who it is builds the stomachs—whether it is the bricklayer, the carpenter or engineer; but they have not an eye to nature. Mr. Pickwick's stomach, as here represented had not the aspect of being made of punch, pork, beef and capons, but of bolster; swallowed whole, which had settled at one indigestible all around the centre of gravity. In like manner we object to the stomach of the senior Mr. Weller. With the most ardent labor to construct such a machine, no man, even with the advantages of eating and drinking like a four-in-hand coachman, would have achieved anything of the kind. It was like the figure 6 as written in a good flowing hand, but beginning too suddenly under the chin; and the fat boy had evidently been raised with a superfluity of yeast, that had acted upon his whole frame simultaneously; but that part of the superfluity that was Mr. Royston commendedly conceived the role, with which he will pardon us for saying he was "overweighted."

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day, "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence sfor shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

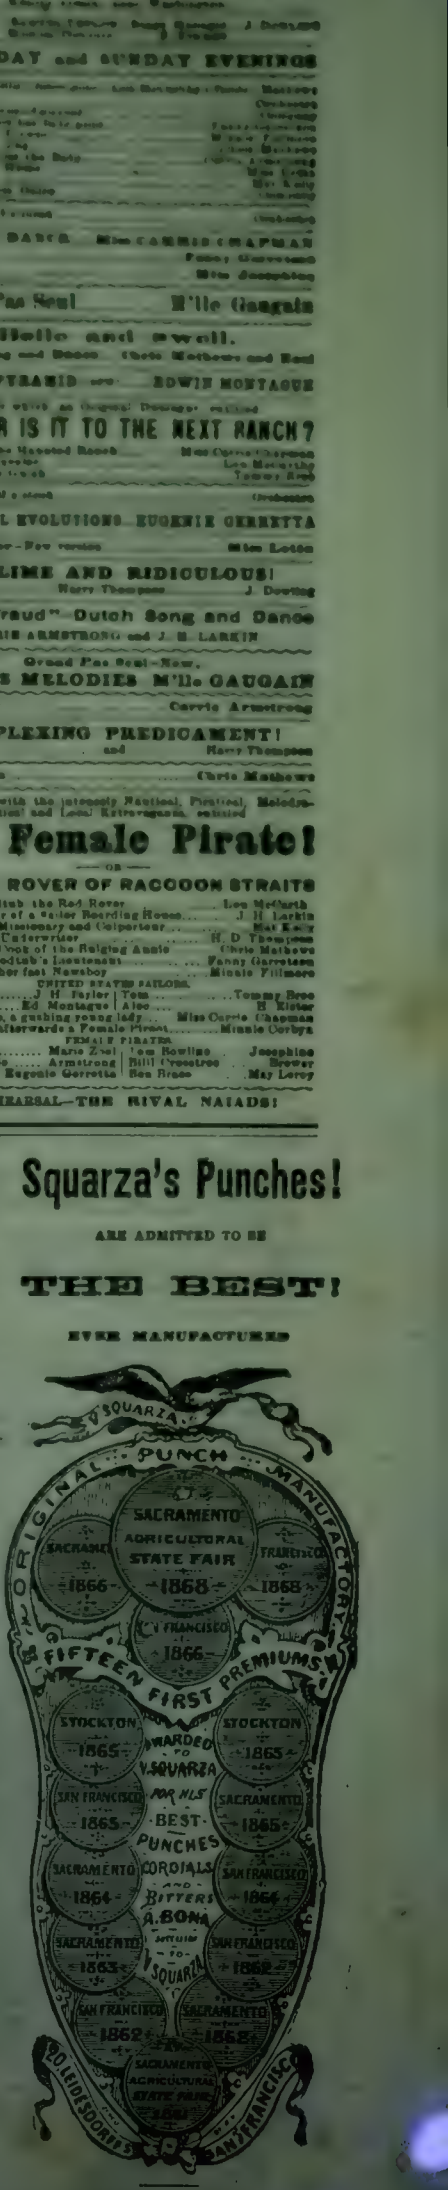
A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and commends itself to all classes.

Who that has struggled with the ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with loss of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress-art can smooth that "wrinkled front," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the slop-worn, worried garment will not last long.



My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.

The Public will please take notice that

LETTER FROM TOLEDO.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

TOLEDO, (OHIO), Nov. 16, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO:—Once more I bark from my corner and still dramatic business is lively.

WHITE'S HALL.

Being the only hall open at the present for dramatic companies, it keeps doing a lively business. On Nov. 4th the Hall was opened by the Mendelssohn Quintette Club Concert of Boston. They played to a crowded audience and the concert was a splendid one. They were followed for one week by Slate's Gift Carnival and trip around the world. These gift shows always have the name of humbug, but still, always draw the poorer class of people that go to see what the chances are in in drawing. Mr. Slate did very poor business; so much so that he is out of pocket. Mr. Slate was followed by Sherry's New York Theatre and Brass Band, playing an engagement of one week, commencing Nov. 13th. Mr. Sherry gives a very good show both outside and inside. For outside show, he has a band wagon, and every afternoon plays through the streets, and evening before show. On Monday they presented "The Lottery of Life" to a good audience. On Tuesday, "The Red Light. On Wednesday, "RipVan Winkle," and to-night "Leah, the Forsaken.

FIELDING'S OPERA HOUSE

Is still doing a good business. On Wednesday night they opened with three new faces. Mr. J. Judge as banjo is good; Miss Nellie Austin's Indian Club swinging is very fair, and Miss Dollie Sherman is a good dancer. The company is good Hart, Ryman and Barney's Minstrels are to be here on the 27th.

Skiffs-d Gaylord's Minstrels are to be here about the middle of next month.

Madame Moulton's Concert Troupe is billed for the 28th of this month. Yours, M. P. WALCH.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

VALLEJO.—The Emerson Minstrels performed at Eureka Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, to immense business. The Recorder says that "all the members of the troupe are adepts in their profession," and adds that their audiences "were more than satisfactory."

STOCKTON.—The Emerson Troupe enlivened Stockton with their presence at the Theatre last evening.

MARYSVILLE.—Proctor's Troupe played at the Marysville Theatre on Monday and Tuesday evenings, in "The Ticket-of-Leave Man" and "Streets of New York."....A concert for the benefit of the Baptist Sunday School was given at the Theatre last evening.

OAKLAND.—The first parlor entertainment of the State University Society was given at Brayton Hall last evening.

SAN JOSE.—Proctor's Dramatic Troupe opened at the Opera House on Thursday in "After Dark," to fair business. They played the "Octoroon" last night. To-night "The Streets of New York."

VIRGINIA CITY.—F. S. Chanfrau played "Mose" and "Toodles" for his benefit, at Piper's Opera House on Monday night. His engagement has been a good one, the receipts figuring up to near $2,500. On Tuesday, Annette Ince, supported by James Carden, commenced an engagement of one week in "Marie Stewart."

DENVER, COL.—The Royal Yeddo Japanese Troupe, gave their last performance at the Denver Theatre on Saturday night last, and proceeded eastward.

PORTLAND, OR.—The Portland Gaities, C. Morrell, manager, who caters for the amusements of the Portlanders, is opened every night, and is the only place of amusement we see mentioned in the papers.

SUISUN.—Some of the best singers and leading musicians of San Francisco have tendered a complimentary benefit to Miss Emma G. Kioloch, of Suisun, and a grand vocal and instrumental concert will accordingly be given at Union Hall, Suisun, on Thursday evening, December 14th.

SUCKER FLAT.—The new theatre was opened on the 23d with a concert for the benefit of Miss Missouri Hereford, a blind girl. On the following night the Hibernians gave a ball there.

YREKA.—"The Wellington Troupe" gave an entertainment last week, and, as the Union says, badly humbugged the audience, proving to be a company utterly devoid of talent.

BOISE CITY, I. T.—The Nathan Troupe opened at Good Templar Hall on the 10th to an immense House, and played till the 14th. They were to leave shortly for Salt Lake City.

OMAHA, NEB.—Leona Cavender commenced an engagement at the Academy of Music on the 20th, opening in "Minnie's Luck."

CORINNE, U. T.—The latest issue of the Reporter had an advertisement to the effect that "Prof. Von Hartman's Great France-German War Panorama, now on its way to fulfil an engagement of twenty days in San Francisco," was exhibited at the Opera House on the 23d.

Theatrical Supper Rooms.

In all the large cities in the world there are adjoining the chief theatres supper rooms where the audience, after witnessing the play, and the actors, after taking part in it, adjourn to enjoy a meal. Such a place is Jones's Oyster and Ice Cream Saloon, in the California Theatre building, immediately adjoining the entrance, where game suppers, Eastern oysters, terrapin stews, and everything that can suit the taste of an epicure, will be served up at all hours of the night, under the experienced supervision of Frank Dumont. Attached to the saloon are private rooms for families and supper parties. Try Jones's. K

The Stylish Hat Store

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day, "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

SYNOPSIS OF ARGUMENT:

Barber Blu wishing a new wife, assembles the tributary Kingdom to select one from among the villagers. Populon, meeting Count O'Soar Master Dresser of King Robuchon's Palace, impresses the matter and invests the contention in a lottery. Bon-ami the mayor of the village, demands to be one of those among the candidates, of which the rest of the spectators very soon grant. The chance falls on Populon, who dons female habits, costume and sex, the evening of Barber Blu. On being introduced to the Prince of King Robuchu she behaves so outrageous as that Barber Blu resolves to get himself of her as he can, so he by taking her to the vigil to consult a monitory oracles and getting Populon to remain here. Populon serves her so to her the other five wives and intendances her to them, whereupon they vow vengeance on the head of Barber Blu, who has gone back to the Palace and after narrating a story of Bonaparte's on don Beste, demands the hand of the Princess Isle. Perdue rushes in, and incites consent from the King by representing the Palace with his soldiers. With the marriage of Barber Blu and the Princess Hermosa is by consummated. Boquita gains admittance to the Palace disguised as a gipsy and after telling the fortunes of the King and Barber Blu confounds the latter by discovering herself and his other five wives armed for revenge, whom they proceed to take in a very summary manner. Despair of the would be possessor, and general joy of the vast mass of the oppressed. Grand tableau etc. etc.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—"The Streets of New York" with the following strong cast, will be produced at this theatre this evening: Badger, J. M. Ward; Gideon Bloodgood, G. B. Waldron, Paul Fairweather, W. H. James (his first appearance in this city;) Dan, Harry Courtaine; Captain Fairweather, J. H. Vinson; Mark Livingstone, Harry Colton; Alida, Miss Sallie Hinckley; Lucy Mrs. G. B. Waldron; Mrs. Fairweather, Mrs. Frank Rea. The funny parts of the play will be in the hands of Miss Maggie Moore as Bob, the boot black; Miss Lulu Wilson as the newsboy; John Woodard as Puffy, and Miss Fanny Young as Mrs. Puffy. Vivian will add his new songs and specialties, which altogether makes a strong bill. Same bill for Sunday night. The sensation Irish drama of "Inshavogue" will be produced next week.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—At the matinee today, this evening and to-morrow evening the great bill which has delighted thousands during the week will be performed. From beginning to end it is bright, sparkling and lively. The music in the first part is delightful and Edwin Kelly's ballads are very pleasing. Leon in "The Sweetest of Williams" and other buffo songs is immense; the act of "Nitro Glycerine" is so funny as played by Charley Howard, G. H. Foster and John Robinson, that the public do not weary of it, and the opera of "Barber-blu" with its rippling music, sweet airs and comic scenes is a success of the most decided kind. To-morrow evening a grand combination of the Emerson Minstrels with the Kelly and Leon Minstrels will be made and one of the greatest entertainments ever presented on any stage will be given. An immense audience will assemble to welcome the popular Billy Emerson and his talented troupe back to the Alhambra Theatre.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—To-night will be the last opportunity the public of San Francisco will have to see the stirring play "Across the Continent." The play opens with a sensation scene —that of the interior of tenement houses, and throughout, the interest of the audience is never allowed to flag. The last scene, the battle with the Indians is a wonderfully effective and worked up one. No theatre-goer should miss seeing "Across the Continent." On Monday, Mr Oliver Doud Byron will appear in a new and original play, from his own pen, entitled "Ben McCullough; or, Certain as Death," which has never been played before.

BELLA UNION THEATRE.—As usual a great entertainment has been prepared for the patrons of the Bella Union Theatre on Saturday night. M'lle Gaugain will appear in dances; Eugenie Gerretta on the revolving globes; Edwin Montague in acrobatic feats; Fanny Garretson in ballads; Carrie Armstrong in comic songs; Miss Josephine in song and dance; Miss Lotta in a popular ballad of the day, and J. H. Larkin in Dutch sketches. Among the new features of the bill may be mentioned the original sketch of "How far is it to the next Ranch," by Miss Carrie Chapman and Lon McCarthy, assisted by Tommy Bree. The performance will conclude with the local sensation entitled "The Female Pirate; or, the Red Rover of the Straits," in which Miss Carrie Chapman, Chris Mathews, Minnie Fillmore, J. H. Larkin, May Leroy and the whole company will appear.

THEATRE COMIQUE.—Another novelty is announced at this popular place of amusement this evening. Monsieur Valere has been engaged and will present his startling illusion of the decapitation, taking a man's head from his body and raising it in the air. In addition to this, a great programme of amusing acts, songs and dances will be performed by Maggie Knight, Johnny Tuers, Mike Quinn, Clauce and Maggie, Stewart-Kelly, Howard and others. With these attractions the Theatre Comique will be even more crowded than usual to night and in order to obtain a seat it will be necessary to go early.

THE GLOBE THEATRE.—An immense bill will be offered at the Globe Theatre to-night. The Lancashire Bell Ringers will perform an attractive programme of popular melodies. Carlova the Dutch Leon, whose assumption of female character, is really admirable, will appear. Ethel and Edgar Stanley will sing popular duets; Clara Draper will sing pleasing ballads; new acts will be performed, and a variety of entertainments given. The evening's amusement will conclude with the production of a new and original burlesque drama, by the author of "Moss; or, Scenes on the Barbary Coast," entitled "Through by Midnight Across the Continent," in which Geo. Marsh will appear as the Ferret, Charley Vincent as Knock me down Johnny, Edgar Stanley as Arthur Cabbagestalk, Ethel Stanley as Madame Crapand, and the other members of the company in appropriate characters. The piece opens with a thrilling hanging scene, after the style of that in Stetson's "Neck and Neck," which has caused such a sensation.

THE OXFORD.—To-night the Oxford will open for the holiday season with Miss Ameila Dean as proprietress, Dick O'Neil as business manager, Leon Samwells as stage manager, and H. Wickleman as musical director. Among the company engaged are Leon Samwells, the wonderful acrobat; Lizzie Harmon, the popular balladist and serio-comic vocalist; the popular Miss Fanny Webster; the attractive Willis Sisters, Carrie and Hattie; Amelia Dean and Estelle in fancy dances; Miss Herron and M'lle Adelaide; Jenny Engels, the jig dancer, and many others. J. Campbell, Johnny Price, Billy Forrest and George Lowden will appear in acts, dances and sensation pieces Admission to all parts of the house is 25 cents. In addition to these attractions the famous Lancashire Bell Ringers and Fred Garvis, the comic vocalist, will appear.

A CALIFORNIAN IN CHINA.—W. E. Rogers, who left here for China with the Eureka Variety Troupe, has returned, after a trip to India, to Shanghaie. Here, finding the board of the troupe expensive, he thought the most economical plan would be to buy out the hotel, and W. E. Rogers is now, in addition to being manager of the Eureka Variety Troupe, comprising Alfred Singer, Willie South, Miss Nellie Hosmer, Miss Fanny Wiseman and Joseph Small, now performing at the Lusitano Theatre also proprietor of the Lusitano Hotel. The latest bill received announced Blue Beard" as in preparation.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—It is as well to make the most of the fine weather we are enjoying at present, by taking a pleasant drive to that most delightful of sea-side resorts, the Cliff House, where the ne plus ultra of hosts, Captain Foster does everything that can be done to make his guests comfortable.

PROGRAMMES.—We are under obligations to G. Arthur Sawin, advertising agent of the Globe Theatre, for late programmes of all the places of amusement in Boston.

THE CALIFORNIA COMEDY.—W. H. L. Barnes' comedy, "Solid Silver," will be the next attraction after Oliver Doud Byron at the California Theatre, and will fill up the interval between the expiration of the Byron season and the commencement of the Italian Opera. The parts are already in the hands of the actors, and Porter is at work on the scenery. Everyone speaks very favorably of the comedy. It has plenty of sparkle and snap, and will probably be a big success. All the boxes are already engaged for the first night.

THE KELLOGG OPERA SEASON.—The opera stock is rising. Nearly all the seats in the dress circle and parquet have been taken for the first five and ten nights, and all the boxes but one. Miss Kellogg will leave for San Francisco on Monday or Tuesday next. The first opera, "La Traviata," will be given on the 15th or 18th of next month. As all but the last back seats in the dress circle are taken, would it not be wise in some reasonable persons, to secure some of those comfortable and showy front seats in the family circle. The light and sound are both better there, and no place in the theatre is more prominent or possesses equal advantages of seeing, hearing, and of "reviewing" the audience.

ACCIDENT TO LEON SAMWELLS.—Last night as Leon Samwell was beating a suspended crowbar to sound the alarm of fire in the play of "Mose" at the Globe Theatre, the wire suspending it gave way and the crowbar fell, pointed downward, peircing his foot and inflicting a painful wound that will probably prevent his appearing in his gymnastic feats for some days to come.

HAYES PARK.—There will be great doings at these pleasant gardens to-morrow. The world-renowned Lancashire Bell Ringers will appear and perform with one hundred bells; the Oscar Brothers will present their wonderful rope-tying feat and a grand orchestra will play dance music for those who wish to trip the light, fantastic toe.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

THE EMERSON MINSTRELS,—Who have been very successful in the interior cities, will make their reappearance at the Alhambra in conjunction with the Kelly and Leon troupe, to-morrow evening. What a team that will be!

SUNDAY EXCURSION.—There is not within miles of this city a more delightful spot than the groves of San Rafael. The steamer Contra Costa will leave the wharf on Davis street, near Vallejo, to-morrow at 10½ A. M., on an excursion.

RECOVERED.—Sam Purdy was laid up last week with a severe attack of bilious fever but is up and out again.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS

In New York amusements are as follows: At Booth's, John E. Owens as Caleb Plummer. At Wallack's Lester Wallack in "Rosedale." At the Grand Opera House "Eileen Oge" was played for the last time on the 18th; on the 20th a new drama by T. O. De Leon called "Paris; or, the Days of the Commune" was produced. At the Bowery, "Searching the Depths" has been produced. At the Union Square Theatre, Miss Marion Wentworth, from London, is the attraction. M'lle Aimee is said to be engaged to appear at the St. James' Theatre. At the Theatre Comique, Hart is at work on a new play with scenes representing the ruins of Chicago. "Humpty Dumpty" at the Olympic. Lent's Circus with Charles Fish, bare back rider, is doing well. Mr. and Mrs. John L. Hall in "Acis and Galatea," are at Wood's Museum. The Globe was reopened on the 13th by Harry Cunningham with a dramatic company to play "Bertha, the Sewing Machine Girl."

In Boston, Charlotte Cushman was at the Globe, the Hernandez troupe at the Howard Athenæum, Edmund D. Davies, the ventriloquist, is engaged; Lotta at the Boston Theatre, the new play of "Rainbow" is announced for the 20th; "Rifle" at the Museum.

The stars who were engaged to play for McVicker the coming season, have unitedly advanced him capital with which to rebuild in Chicago, Joe Jefferson heads the list with $10,000,

Mr. J. C. Campbell commenced an engagement at the Arch street Theatre, Philadelphia, on Nov. 20th, when McCloskey's drama of "Pomp" was produced with a panorama of the Mississippi 900 feet long, in addition to its abounding sensations.

The Sporting Times says:

W. H. Whalley expects to visit California shortly, accompanied by Harry Cunningham, who will superintend the production of several of McCloskey's dramas.

Rents's Vaudeville Combination appeared at Collingwood Opera House, Poughkeepsie, on the 15th. Young America is with them.

Miss Flora Wallack, the daughter of John Lester Wallack, was married, Nov. 8th, at the church of the Transfiguration (the "Little church around the corner,") by the Rev. George H. Houghton, to Mr. Arthur L. Sewell, of New York.

F. Fitzgerald & Co., produced "The Black Crook" at Hopkinsville, Ky., Nov. 6th and 7th, and failing to procure a county license, after the doors were open on the 6th inst, the managers were arrested at the instance of the county attorney, who it is alleged receives 33 per cent. of the fine, and the judge, who was a dead-head at the show, had to leave to take the bail bond of the managers. On the 7th the case was tried, and the managers were fined $200. They produced the play at Evansville, Ind., Nov. 9th, and remained the balance of the week.

Frank Mayo opened in "Hamlet" at the Griswold Opera House, Troy, N. Y., on the 13th, succeeding Lotta, who played a very successful engagement.

At the Walnut street Theatre, Kansas, Mo., the programme comprises trapeze performance by the Lee Family, late of the California Circus; banjo solos by Ella La Rue, who is well known in San Francisco, and acts by Add Weaver and Miss Nellie Whitney.

Miss Ella Wesner was at East Saginaw, Mich.

The Wonders of California is the title of an exhibition which exhibited at Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 7th and 8th and 9th, and Newburyport, Mass. 11th and 13th.

The Academy of Music, Petersburg, Va., which has recently been completed, is advertised for rent. It will seat about 800 persons, and is furnished with stage, scenery, etc.

About the middle of December Mrs. Abby Sage-McFarland-Richardson will lecture in Newburgh on scenes and incidents of the great fire in Chicago, of which city she was a resident at the time of the disaster.

Miss Pauline Markham was to commence a short starring tour through New England on the 23d inst, Miss Markham will be supported by a strong combination of dramatic talent, under the management of Mr. B. F. Lowell, and will produce her new piece, entitled "Aylos; a Play in Four Acts and a Prologue," written by Mr. Frank H. Norton, a journalist of ability, and a literary man of reputation.

The Chicago papers are just now wonderfully short of dramatic notes, but little offering for criticism. Jane Coombs and Frederick Robinson are about the only persons now playing there. Wood has occupied the Globe Theatre with his Museum company.

Sophie, Irene and Jennie Worrell have again united, traveling through the South.

Carl Wolfsohn is treating the Philadelphians to a series of ten "orchestral concerts."

The Parepa-Rosa English Opera Troupe opened at the New National Theatre, Washington, D. C., on the 13th, for a season of six nights and one matinee.

Col. T. Allston Brown is expected home about the 15th of December, bringing with him the first instalment of variety talent for the Howard Athenæum, Boston.

Miss Susan Denin and J. B. Santley will appear shortly at Wood's Museum.

Fred. G. Maeder's Dramatic Company, with Ada Harland as star, returned to New York from their Southern tour on the morning of the 6th inst. thoroughly disgusted, after being away ten day instead of till the first of January, 1872 as contemplated.

In Pittsburg, Neil Warner commenced a week's engagement at the Fifth Avenue Opera House on the 6th. He was succeeded by J. K. Emmett in "Fritz." Mrs. F. W. Lander opened at the Pittsburgh Opera House on the 6th, in "Elizabeth." "Glide" was produced on the close of her engagement. The Parepa-Rosa Troupe followed on the 20th. The Lydia Thompson Troupe were doing well at the Academy of Music up to the 10th.

In St. Louis, Miss Jane Coombs and company played at De Bar's Opera House up to the 13th, when they were succeeded by Matilda Heron and stock company. At the Olympic, "Amy Robsart" with Mrs. Bowers, J. B. McCollom, J. W. Hill and others. McKee Rankin succeeded her on the 13th.

In Baltimore, the Clipper's correspondent says:

Edwin Adams opened Monday, Nov. 6th, in Farquhar's glorious comedy, "The Inconstant; or, Wine Works Wonders." Mr. Adams as Young Mirabel, presented a capital piece of comedy acting. Miss Rosa Rand, as Orianna, acted her part with precision; Miss Olivia Rand, as Bizarre, deserves commendation. Both of these ladies were handsomely costumed.

The "Red Light" was produced on the 13th.

C. W. Couldock, supported by the company from the Academy of Music, Cleveland, O., appeared at Akron, Nov. 10th and 11th.

The management of the Parepa-Rosa Opera Troupe countermanded its tickets to the Philadelphia Orchestra on account of an adverse criticism in that paper.

Dexter Smith has withdrawn from the editorial chair of the Boston Folio. He will be succeeded by Geo. L. Austin.

Charles Foster has written a new play, entitled "The Rebel's Last Shot."

J. W. Wallack is with John Ford's Dramatic Company. A critic who saw him at Columbus, O., thus describes him:

J. W. Wallack is a handsome, well-preserved man of fifty or fifty-five years of age, tall, broad shouldered, with an easy presence, deep, rich, sonorous voice, which he uses with rare discretion and telling effect. His actions are free from stage conventionalities, and his voice when raised to the highest pitch, is clear, distinct and melodious, and singularly free from laboured, heavy breathing, so discernable in Edwin Adams and Forrest.

The Louisville Critic has the following complimentary notice of the Lasmelle Sisters:

Their execution is characterized by remarkable dash, brilliancy and power; they overcome the greatest difficulties with a wonderful ease, and their performance is of such a nature as will readily raise an audience to the highest pitch of enthusiasm. Their playing is truly wonderful.

Joe Murphy played at New Haven on the 11th. The bill consisted of "Hooligan, or an Irish Servant's Blunders," "Dutch Sketches" and "Colored Help," in which Fred G. Maeder played Flutter.

The last number of the New York Clipper contains the following.

Vestvali the Magnificent.—It is but seldom that we are able to record an incident in conjunction with our old friends across the water of a nature so pleasing as to awaken at once our admiration and gratitude. On the arrival of the news in Europe of the Chicago disaster, M'lle Felecita Vestvali, who was in Germany at the time, proceeded without delay to Hamburg, and there, calling on the people to respond, organized a performance for the benefit of the sufferers, playing herself Uriel in "Uriel Acosta," by Gutzkow. Such an appeal is never made in vain to the kind hearted people of Magence, and a large sum was realized and handed over to the American Consul, whose efforts in the matter are also worthy of commendation. M'lle Vestvali has earned her right to the name of magnificent as truly by works of this kind as by her personal beauty and accomplishments. She is a citizen of the United States and intends to return to America next Spring, never more to leave it. We think that she will find in the land of her home and heart that welcome and regard she so well deserves.

Miss Ettie Henderson, who concluded a successful engagement at the Park Theatre, Brooklyn, L. I., Nov. 11th, is thus spoken of by the Dispatch of that city:

Miss Henderson chose for her debut a piece by McCloskey entitled "Far West." The piece like most of those from this author's pen is of the sensation order, but very much much better than the generality of such plays To say that Miss Henderson enacts the part of the heroine excellently well is doing her but simple justice, and we may go further and say that in it she evinces talent of no common order. She is petite in form, exceedingly graceful in all her movements, has an expressive face, an eye of great brilliancy, and a voice of great sweetness and much power. She is beside an excellent reader.

C. H. Clarke, comedian, advertises that he is disengaged.

There are numerous complaints that actors in Chicago are allowed no share of the fund to which their brother professionals contributed so liberally. Here is the latest:

ROOMS RELIEF COMMITTEE, I. O. O. F.,
CHICAGO, November 5th, 1871.

EDITOR N. Y. CLIPPER—Dear Sir: I wish to give you a few ideas with regard to the need of the meritorious of our profession here. Nearly every company or combination throughout the country is giving benefits for the relief of the Chicago sufferers, and the money received is sent to the Chicago Aid Society, or Major Mason, and whatever funds are sent to Major Mason are turned over to the Aid Society, and that is purely a sectarian society, and they have advertised that no relief whatever will be given to anyone unless they bring a certificate from some minister of the Gospel, or one of the members of the society; and I can prove that almost the first question asked of these applicants by said ministers and officers is, "What church do you belong to?" and if the reply is, "To none," their chances of receiving any relief are very slim. What few there are that belong to our order (I. O. O. F.) are well provided for, and I have assisted as many as I could out of our limited means that do not belong to our order; but still there is suffering among the worthy professionals of this place that have lost everything, and as you are better prepared to investigate the matter and devise some way by which the vast amount of money sent here by the profession for the relief of the suffering can be at least equally divided among the needy here, I submit the matter to you in the hope tha you will use your influence in behalf of our profession. Most respectfully yours,

C. W. MITCHELL.

As the theatres did more than the churches, we don't think it fair that "Ministers of the Gospel" should have the sole management of the Relief Fund.

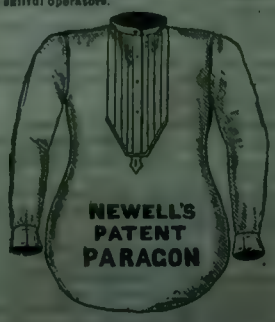
W. H. ATKINSON MANUFACTURER OF NEWELL'S PATENT PARAGON SHIRTS, 410 Kearny street, Room No. 8



A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and commands itself to all classes.

Who that has struggled with the ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with ideas of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress-art can smooth that "wrinkled front," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the slop-word, worried garment will not last long.

My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.

The Public will please take notice that Newell's Patent Paragon Shirt

Factory's only place of business is at 410 Kearny street, between Pine and California, Room No. 8.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

A Certain Cure.

A tender and touching Teuton, practicing as a peddler, went out on Coates street, Philadelphia, to deal out a liquid exterminator of busy bed-bugs. He hit upon a customer at the harness factory, who put up his cash, and pocketed the prize.

"Now I've got the article, tell me how to use it," said Joe Harness.

"Ketch te pug unt drop von leetle drop into his mout," answered the peddler.

"Dar tuyfel you say," exclaimed the purchaser; "I kills him in half the time by schtamping on him."

"Vell," said the peddler calmly, "dat ish a good vay too, to kill him."

How Then?

Dr. Shurtleff in his cross-examination in the Horace Hawes Will case said:

If I was called upon to attend a moderately educated young man who believed he had an angel in his stomach, I would consider him of unsound mind.

Put it another way, doctor. If you were called upon to attend a moderately educated dyspeptic young man who believed he had the devil in his stomach, you wouldn't think him insane would you?

Dumas as a Reformer.

Dumas openly declares that the only way to moralize on the stage, and obtain good and beneficial results to society, is to treat immoral subjects and show the dangers and perversity of certain habits and vices. He may do more harm than good, reasoning in is manner, and, instead of being a service society, he may be the means of sinking it aper and firmer in the paths of vice.

Cleveland Gum-Chewers.

A correspondent of the Louisville Critic thus describes Cleveland, Ohio:

Cleveland is one of the prettiest cities in Ohio, and is brim full of life and activity. The appearance of the city is favorable, not mentioning its many large business houses, well-kept hotels and lovely girls. We always had a partiality for lovely girls, and must plead captive to such a plenitude of rosy-cheeked, fresh-looking and charming young ladies. Cleveland is not unlike our own beloved city. Its private residences are models of beauty, with roomy yards and a profusion of flowers and shrubbery. One street in particular, with a classical name too deep for utterance, "Euclid Avenue," is the fashionable drive. Large shade trees planted close together line each side of the avenue, and in the summer months the pleasure derived from their delightful shade is incalculable. But there is one sad fault the ladies have: they chew gum! Shades of Venus, but it is true.

We are sorry to say that there are girls in San Francisco who may be seen chewing gum from morning till night, their jaws going like a lot of cows chewing the cud. It is a vile habit. We'd rather see a girl smoking (a cigarette only, of course) than chewing gum.

Charles H. Webb.

We learn what Charles H. Webb (who started the Californian in this city) is about by the following paragraph in the New York Tribune:

The card of Webb & Huestis, commission brokers in stocks, etc., seems sufficiently ordinary and commonplace; but when it is known that the senior partner is none other than "John Paul," there will be many an obliged reader of his letters who will hope that business may go well with the genial joker, and take some pains to further his hopes.

Mean.

Old Jim G— was an almighty mean man, but when he joined the church, people thought it might make him liberal; so one of the elders called on him for a small contribution. Jim heard him patiently through, and then responded: "I'll tell you what it is, Brother A——, if I find my religion genuine, I will pay Brother D——, a dollar the next time he comes; but I'll be blowed if I like to pay money for an article before I know its all right."

Very Bare.

A correspondent who visited Vinnie Ream in her studio, describes her as working "with arms bare to the shoulders, and her ankles likewise!" Good gracious! a necklace would make her a whole suit.

Can't See It!

And you never will see how cheap Cummings & Sons can sell watches and jewelry till you call at 217 Montgomery, under Russ House. BG

Theatrical Supper Rooms.

In all the large cities in the world there are adjoining the chief theatres supper rooms where the audience, after witnessing the play, and the actors, after taking part in it, adjourn to enjoy a meal. Such a place is Jones's Oyster and Ice Cream Saloon, in the California Theatre building, immediately adjoining the entrance, where game suppers, Eastern oysters, terrapin stews, and everything that can suit the taste of an epicure, will be served up at all hours of the night, under the experienced supervision of Frank Dumont. Attached to the saloon are private rooms for families and supper parties. Try Jones's. K

Disgusted.

The Washington Critic says:—"The Chicago Germans express themselves disgusted at the niggardly gifts of Emperor William and the Crown Prince to the sufferers by the great fire, and indignantly fling them back in their faces with a small donation of their own thereunto appended for distribution to the maimed German soldiers of the Franco-Prussian war. Looking a gift horse in the mouth is another Chicago peculiarity; but in this case, considering that Chicago furnished a pretty generous sum to the German sick and wounded during the war, and that one thousand thalers from the Kaiser and five hundred from the Crown Prince are all their returns for the same, we don't doubt that they are righteous in their indignation.

SYNOPSIS OF ARGUMENT:

Barber Blu, wishing a new wife commences a tournament Popular to select one from among the villagers. Populace meeting. Count O Rose-Master Deane of King Rebecca's Palace discusses the matter and treats the assertion as a jottery. Brunette, the rosy of the village, demands to be crowned among the candidates all which the rest of the villagers are very fond Arabs. The choice falls on Bullyette and wear to be crowned a bride, contented and sure the marriage of Barber Blu (to being introduced to the Princess of King Rebecca she becomes so enamored on that Barber Blu reconciled to himself of her as he composes one of the first to her wives, to please her to the existence of his country castles and getting Populace to protect her. Populace agrees her, as he has the other five wives and threatenes her to them. MONDAY.....NOVEMBER 27, 1871

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

To-night, Oliver Doud Byron will appear in a new and original drama of life and love in California, entitled "Bill McCullough; or, Certain as Death." In the character of the hero in this play, Mr. Byron will find more scope for the display of his powers than in the rather "thin" part of the Ferret, if we may judge from a glance at the MSS. Among the scenes on which this drama depends for success in pleasing the popular taste is one representing the escape of the prisoners from Carson Jail, and another which the elevator at the Occidental Hotel is made to aid in a thrilling sensation. This week is the last of the engagement of Mr. Byron.

Alhambra Theatre.

Billy Emerson on making his appearance at the Alhambra Theatre last night, was welcomed back as if he had been gone a year instead of only a week or two. The audience gave him three hearty rounds of applause. It was raining cats and dogs, but this did not prevent a rush to the Alhambra Theatre, so great that before eight o'clock, the lower part of the house was jammed full, and the sale of tickets there was stopped at the box office. S. Holdsworth, the sweet voiced tenor, gained an enthusiastic encore for his song in the first part; and George Reynolds who was bones, kept up his end well After the first part and a ballad by Miss Fanny Gibson, Billy Emerson sang his ever-popular "Drum Major," and in response to a unanimous encore, a most amusing, original, serio-comic song to the air of "Little Fraud," entitled "Seven Out," of course he was encored again and sang his parody on Ten Thousand Miles Away, still the greedy public cried for more; he played a burlesque instrumental solo on some horrible instrument, and then they were not satisfied until he actually begged for mercy. The Reynolds Brothers met with a hearty reception and had to perform no less than three of their wonderfully original (and very fatiguing) songs and dances before the audience would let them off. "Barber-bla," with the inimitable Leon, Edwin Kelly, Charley Howard, and company in the different characters, concludes the entertainment.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The popular drama of "The Streets of New York" was presented on Saturday evening, and played again last night. James M. Ward made a very palpable hit in the part of Badger, evincing a talent for character acting which surprised every one who had only seen him as George Glenroy. He made his points with admirable neatness, and elicited frequent applause and much laughter. W. H. James, who made his first appearance on the San Francisco stage on this occasion, played the part of Paul Fairweather in a quiet, natural manner, and proved himself a valuable acquisition to the already strong company. G. B. Waldron was all that could be desired as Gideon Bloodgood; Harry Courtaine was very good as Dan, John Woodard delightfully comical as Puffy, Harry Colton did well as Mark Livingstone, and E. Graves gave a neat little bit of acting in the part of Edward the footman. There are few actresses on the stage who could so thoroughly fill the character of the cold-hearted, determined Alida Bloodgood as did Miss Sallie Hinckley last night; she was perfect. Mrs. G. B. Waldron was interesting as Lucy, Miss Fanny Young very amusing as Mrs. Puffy, Miss Maggie Moore was excellent as Bob the bootblack, in which character she introduced some of her most popular specialties in song and dance; little Miss Lulu Wilson made a natty newsboy and played the part very prettily, and Jimmy Moore seemed quite at home in the part of Banjo Bill. Altogether, the "Streets of New York" as presented at the Metropolitan Theatre is most enjoyable, and should be witnessed by all before it is withdrawn. Previous to the play Charles Vivian appears in some of his most popular songs. To-night and to-morrow night are announced as the last of the appearance of this admirable artist, who leaves for Australia—that land where he has so often asserted his true love is "doing the grand ten thousand miles away." Many will avail themselves of these two last opportunities to say adieu to this public favorite. Next Thursday being Thanksgiving Day there will be a grand matinee.

Bella Union.

A splendid bill was given on Saturday night at this popular theatre, and gave thorough satisfaction to the large audience assembled, who laughed at the comic acts and applauded most liberally. Edwin Montague's new act "The Crystal Pyramid," is wonderfully neat; Miss Carrie Chapman and Lon McCarthy's original duologue entitled "How far is it to the next Ranch," caused great laughter. Miss Lotta appeared in a vivandiere costume, and sang a new version of "The Drum Major," in a style which gained a unanimous encore; Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin made a hit of the most decided character in the Dutch song and dance, "Little Fraud," and Eugenia Gerretta's graceful performance on the globes was generally admired. Chris Mathews in his artistic fancy clog dance, and in double song and dance with Zoel; Fanny Garretson in a charming ballad; Miss Josephine in a fancy jig; and the fascinating M'lle Gautain in pas seuls, make up one of the best variety bills of the season. The whole performance concludes with the extravaganza entitled "The Female Pirate; or, the Red Rover of Raccoon Straits," in which Miss Carrie Chapman, Chris Mathews, Minnie Fillmore, J. H. Larkin, Minnie Corbyn, Maggie Brewer, May Leroy and the whole company will appear. An addition to this bill will be made to-night, in the appearance of the great Signor Kellyrino from Limerick, who promises to cut off his head in full view of the audience.

Theatre Comique.

Maggie Knight is the pet of the public and her character songs are received with much applause; Johnny Tuers is a whole team and a yellow dog under the wagon; Mike Quinn as a musical coon is a decided success; Kelly and Stewart in their new dances and funny Ethiopian business just brought from New York by the latter, gain much applause; Claude and Maggie are very pleasing in their double songs and dances, and Nellie Leonard, Ida Fisk, Blanche and others appear nightly in a varied programme. The last novelty at this go-ahead place of amusement was the appearance last night of M. Valere in his great decapitation. This illusion is a most thrilling one. The headless body of a man is seen lying on the ground while suspended on a swinging tray about two feet above is the head, which speaks, eats, smokes and drinks. This exhibition which was a decided success last night will be repeated this evening.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Vincent's Globe Theatre.

The latest engagements at this house—the Lancashire bell-ringers, Carlova, the Dutch Leon; and Johnny Roberts, the Arab boy, have proved most popular ones. On Saturday night a burlesque entitled "Through by Daylight across the Continent" was produced. The first scene was a most realistic representation of a hanging; Edgar Stanley, who read the part of Arthur Cabbagestalk with admirable feeling and showed that he has the stuff to make a good actor, being executed. The train came on the stage just too late as a train naturally would and the fun commenced. R. Cox as the villian of the piece assumed the disguise of Emperor Norton in order to carry out his plans, and the fidelity of his makeup was acknowledged by the audience by a round of applause. R. G. Marsh always neat and quick, made every point in the part of Joe Furlong; Charley Vincent in the character of Knock-me-Down-Johnny, caused immense fun and made quite a hit in his Chinese song and dance; Ethel Stanley proved herself a good character actress by the clever manner in which she played Clarisee Crapad, her dialect being particularly good; she also gained a rousing encore for "Robert toi que j'aime" in the concert scene; Clara Starr was wonderfully funny as Lize Rounder, a sort of female hoodlum; Sally Thayer played Mother Scroggins with much spirit; Clara Draper did well as the fair Lomelia Lobscouse; R. H. Scott as the stage-struck nigger gained many a laugh; H. Nelson made a splendid Indian; Clara Hall did the pathetic in the first scene; Hugby Morton as Harry Hoodlum, whose special mission it is to "floor" Knock-me-down Johnny was well up in his part, and altogether the play was a great hit. It will be played until further notice.

The Oxford.

This cosy little theatre was reopened on Saturday night and the crowds which passed in and out of its doors from 8 o'clock until midnight well attested its popularity as an evening resort. The proprietress, Miss Amelia Dean, has succeeded in getting together a most attractive company and the entertainment presented is a very pleasing one. The Lancashire Bell Ringers bring forth most delightful music from their silvery bells and their popularity is undiminished; Leon Samwells though he has not quite recovered from the accident which befel him, lends his experienced services as stage manager; the always pleasing Lizzie Harmon appears nightly in serio-comic songs; Miss Fanny Webster, another old favorite is at this establishment, and the Willis Sisters, Estelle, Miss Heron, Jennie Engels and many more appear nightly.

The Italian Opera.

The present prospects are that there will not be any Kellogg opera season given in San Francisco this winter. Kellogg telegraphed on Saturday to the purport that she would not come, and Signor Bianchi has been unable to obtain any further message from her up to the time we go to press. We may as well make up our minds that the only opera we will have here this winter, will be the opera bouffe at the Alhambra.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence s for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

KNOCKED ABOUT.

Why don't I work? Well, sir, will you,
Right here on the spot, give me suthin' to do?
Work! Why, sir, I don't want no more
'N a chance in any man's shop or store;
That's what I'm lookin' for every day,
But thar ain't no jobs; well, what d'ye say?
Hain't got nothin' at present! Just so;
That's how it always is, I know.

Fellows like me ain't wanted much;
Folks are gen'rally jobous of such;
Think they ain't the right sort o' stuff—
Blest if it isn't a kind o' rough
On a man to have folks hintin' belief
That he ain't to be trusted more'n a thief,
When perhaps his fingers are cleaner far
N them o' the chaps that talk so are!

Got a look o' the sea? Well, I 'xpect that's so;
Had a hankerin' that way some years ago,
And run off; I shipped in a whaler fust,
And got cast away; but that warn't the wust;
Took fire, sir, next time, we did, and—well,
We blazed up till everything standing fell,
And then me and Tom—my mate—and some more,
Got off, with a notion of goin' ashore.

But thar warn't no shore to see round thar,
So we drifted and drifted everywhar
For a week, and then all but Tom and me
Was food for the sharks or down in the sea.
But we prayed—me and Tom—the best we could,
For a sail. It come, and at last we stood
On old arth once more, and the captain told
Us we were ashore in the land of Gold.

Gold; We didn't get much, but we struck
For the mines, of course, and tried our luck.
'Twarn't bad at the start, but things went wrong
Pooty soon, for one night thar came along,
While we was asleep, some red-skin chaps,
And they made things lively round thar—perhaps!
Anyhow, we left mighty quick—Tom and me,
And we didn't go back—kind o' risky, ye see!

By'm-by, sir, the war came on, and then
We 'listed. Poor Tom! I was nigh him when
It all happened. He looked up, and see, see he,
"Bill, it's come to partin' 'twixt you and me,
Old chap. I hain't much to leave—here, this knife.
Stand to your colors, Bill, while you have life!"
That was all. Yes, got wounded myself, sir, here;
And—I'm pensioned on water and air a year!

If ain't much to thank for that I'm alive,
Knockin' about like this—what, a five!
That's suthin' han'some, now, that is. I'm blest
If things don't quite frequent turn out for the best
After all! A V! Hi! Luck! It's far more!
Mister, I kinder o' liked the looks o' your store.
You're a trump, sir, a reg—eh? O, all right!
I'm off. But you are, sir, a trump, honor bright!

SYNOPSIS OF ARGUMENT:

Barbe Blu, wishing a new wife, summons before him Populani to select one from among the villagers. Populani meets Mlle. Bonne Major Diamond King Robert's Page, discusses the matter and leaves the selection to a lottery. Barbe Blu, the ugly, the rich, the terrible, is the cynosure of all eyes. The destitution at which the rest of the villagers are surprised at not competing. The Duke of Rigmelo and the Duke of Toulouse, lovers of Boulotte, meet, and agree that Barbe Blu is being introduced to the Palace of King Robert, who believes an attempt will be made upon his life. Barbe Blu, to save himself, has recourse to the Fairy, who gives him the right to one of his enemy castles and getting Populani to procure her. Populani consults as to the other five wives, and introduces her to them, whereupon they vow vengeance on the head of Barbe Blu, who consigns them to the Palace and after investing a story of Blu often on their death demands the hand of the Princess Boulotte in marriage. Barbe Blu is refused, and leaves, vowing to carry off the Princess by force. While the marriage of Barbe Blu and the Princess Hermia is being consummated, Blu's wife gains admission to the Palace disguised as a page, and after telling the fortunes of the King and Barbe Blu, confounds the latter by declaring herself one of his five wives armed for revenge, which they proceed to take in a very summary manner. Despair of the would be poisoner, and general joy of the victims. The oppressor, friend taken etc. etc.

BULLYETTE — A lively creature as Pantchon, simple in manners and dress, until she draws a prize in the Lottery of Life that affects her with the blues, but produces the opposite effect on her audience, who appreciate the fact that she will not "go" as her prececessors Heloise, Blanche, and Isaure have done before her ... AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

This week is the last of the engagement of Jas. M. Ward. To-night the stirring Irish drama of "Inshavogue" will be produced with new scenery, complicated machinery, and calcium effects. James M. Ward will play Brian Maguire, Miss Sallie Hinckley, Kate O'Dwyer, and Miss Maggie Moore will take the character of Biddy. To-morrow there will be a grand matinee. The sensation drama of "Bertha" which has produced such a hit in New York, Brooklyn and other Eastern cities, is underlined.

Alhambra Theatre.

Billy Emerson in his new song of "Seven Out;" the only Leon in his great character of Bullyette; Edwin Kelly in a charming ballad and opera bouffe; Charley Howard as the strong-minded Queen Clem; the inimitable Reynolds Brothers in song and dance; S. Holdsworth, the sweet-voiced tenor in the first part; Miss Fanny Gibson in the interludes and the combined forces of the Emerson Minstrels and the Kelly and Leon company will appear to-night.

California Theatre.

The new drama of "Ben McCullough" takes well with the public, as the liberal applause bestowed on it by the audience proves. The scene in the graveyard where Ben lies and moralizes on the grave where he is supposed to be buried is a very effective one. Oliver Doud Byron plays the part of the hero splendidly, and the drop scene has to be raised again on the tableaux at the end of each act.

Bella Union.

Signor O'Kellerino in his very amusing decapitation feat; Miss Carrie Chapman in a medley dance; M'lle Gangain's in her very pretty illustration of Vivian's melodies; Miss Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin in "Little Fraud;" Maggie Brewer in a comic song; Eugenie Gerretta on the globe; Edwin Montague in his new feat of the Crystal Pyramid; Miss Josephine in a fancy jig; Fanny Garretson in sweet ballads; Chris Mathews in a fancy clog dance, and many more will appear to-night. In the extravaganza entitled "The Female Pirate," M'lle Gangain dances a sailor's hornpipe, and in response to the encore which always follows, sings the drunken song from Perichole in a charming manner.

Theatre Comique.

Johnny Tuers, Mike Quin, Charley Howard, Johnny Kelly and Henri Stewart, represent an immense amount of talent in the minstrel and terpsichorean line and form a strong team. The charming young sisters, Claude and Maggie, are very popular in their double song and dance; Miss Blanche is a favorite both in song and dance; Miss Somers sings popular ballads and the great illusion of the floating head and decapitated trunk puzzles and delights all beholders.

Vincent's Globe Theatre.

E. J. Stetson has drawn crowded houses in all parts of the United States with his drama of "Neck and Neck," the sensation of which is a realistic hanging scene. The people of San Francisco can see this before Stetson comes, by going to the Globe Theatre, where this effective scene is presented in the sensation burlesque drama of "Through by Daylight across the Continent." There is no "fun" about that hanging; it's horribly real. Carlova, the Dutch Leon, Johnny Roberts the Arab Boy, Ethel and Edgar Stanley, Charley Vincent, The Lancashire Bell Ringers and many others appear nightly. To-morrow evening, the popular Ethiopian comedian, Sam Purdy, will make his first appearance.

The Oxford.

To-morrow, in addition to the fine bill which has drawn crowded houses ever since the opening, the management announce the first appearance of Howard and Russell, double clog dancers and lightning change performers from Buffalo, New York. To-morrow evening Dick O'Neil's Irish sketch entitled "The Country Fair" will be produced.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Pixley Sisters.

These popular young actresses, whose successful professional career in Oregon we have daily chronicled from time to time, are at present paying a visit to San Francisco.

Latest New York Styles.

Everything depends upon the style in which a garment is made and fitted. Ladies can be sure of procuring "the style," in dresses or cloaks, by applying to Miss S. D. Myers, lately from New York, at 120 Post st. near Kearny. BH

First Premium Millinery.

The last Mechanics' Fair awarded the first premium for superior taste and elegance of workmanship in the millinery line, to Mrs. Cowles of the "New House," 114 Third street. Mrs. Cowles' stock is unsurpassed by any in the city, and her prices are very reasonable. BH

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Cerville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

A Very Original Idea.

We find the following paragraph among the musical and dramatic items of the Alta:

"Some fertile minded Parisian has suggested that the drop, or curtain, of the opera-house in Paris consists of one vast mirror and he expatiates upon the magnificent effect it would create, with its multiplication of lights and gilt, and beautiful women, and elegant toilets."

That "fertile minded Parisian" is about thirty-five years behind the times! It is about that length of time since Webster, the London manager, produced a mirror curtain, like that described by the "fertile minded Parisian," at the Royal Coburg Theatre, which afterward became the Victoria Theatre, —lately closed. Twenty years ago a manager in Sydney, New Zealand, produced a mirror, curtain at the Victoria Theatre in that city. There may be some things new under the sun, but mirror curtains are certainly not among them.

The Sacramento Daily Record.

The Sacramento Daily Record, one of the best edited papers in the State, will be issued on Monday, December 4th in a new form, appearing as a double sheet once a week or more frequently as occasion may require. During the session of the Legislature full reports of the proceedings will be be published two first-class reporters having been engaged for the purpose. We wish the Record the success to which its enterprise justly entitles it.

Invalid.

Muffington says that if the will of Horace Hawes is pronounced on the ground that he was insane when he made it, the Great Register act ought to be pronounced a freak of insanity likewise. He is tired of being bothered by a nuisance created by a maniac.

Woman's Sphere.

A woman lecturer says woman's sphere is bounded on the north by her husband, on the east by her baby, on the south by her mother-in-law, and, on the west by a maiden aunt.

Why was Sodom destroyed?—Because it was so-dam wicked.

A SENTIMENTAL DILEMMA.

Now by the blessed Paphian queen
Who heaves the breast of sweet sixteen,
By every name I cut on bark;
Before my morning sky grew dark;
By Hymen's torch, by Cupid's dart;
By all that thrills the beating heart;
The bright black eye, the melting blue—
I cannot choose between the two.

I had a vision in my dreams;
I saw a row of twenty beams;
From every beam a rope was hung,
In every rope a lover swung;
I asked the hue of every eye
What made each luckless lover die?
Ten shadowy lips said heavenly blue,
And ten accused the darker hue.

I asked a matron which she deemed
With fairest light of beauty beamed;
She answered, some thought both were fair—
Give her blue eyes and golden hair;
I might have liked her judgment well,
But as she spoke she rang the bell,
And all her girls, nor small or few,
Came marching in—their eyes were blue.

I asked a maiden; back she flung
The locks that round her forehead hung,
And turned her eye, a glorious one,
Bright as the diamond in the sun,
On me until beneath its rays
I felt as if my hair would blaze;
She liked all eyes but eyes of green;
She looked at me; what could she mean?

Ah! many lids Love lurks between—
Nor heeds the coloring of its screen;
And when his random arrows fly,
The victim falls, he knows not why;
Gaze not upon his shield of jet,
The shaft upon the string is set;
Look not beneath his azure veil,
Though every limb be cased in mail.

Well, both might make a mar yr break
The chains that bound him to a stake,
And both, with but a single ray,
Can melt our very hearts away;
And both, when balanced, hardly seem
To stir the scales, or rock the beam;
But that is dearest all the while.
That wears for us the sweetest smile.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and commends itself to all classes.

Who that has struggled with the ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with loss of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress-art can smooth that "wrinkled frons," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the slop-worn, worried garment will not last long.

My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.

The Public will please take notice that

Newell's Patent Paragon Shirt

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

Lunatic.

Muffington called our attention to the following parsgraph in Tuesday's Call, and wished to know what it meant:

Lunar rainbows have somewhat neutralized the discomforts following the rain, which is to do so much good. On Sunday night they were noticeable at different times and last evening two of unusual brilliancy and great size were to be observed.

"What," asked Muffington, did the lunatic who wrote that mean? The rain spoiled my best hat; did two lunar rainbows 'neutralize' that discomfort? It soaked in through the roof of my bedroom in the up story, and wet my bed. Did a lunar rainbow 'neutralize' that and prevent my catching cold? Not much. It would take a pair of Muller's best Brazilian pebble spectacles to make that parsgraph clear to anyone. We agree with Muffington.

Bright Boy.

The rising generation in Iowa is hopefully bright. At one of the Sunday schools in an Iowa town, the superintendent reviewing the lesson asked the question: "Why are we commanded to 'gird our loins?'" One sharp little shaver sung out: "To keep our breeches up!"

Poor Young Man.

An exchange says:

No married woman can flirt innocently, even with a young man. It is the first step towards unbalancing his character. Through her he sees other women and forms an estimate.

"Oh! knock me down!"

Very Appropriate.

Yesterday's Alta has a column headed, "Eccentricity, Monomania, and Insanity." The adjoining one should be headed Idiocy.

Too Thin.

The Bee, speaking of the project to supply Sacramento with pure water from the mountains, says:

The bare idea of giving up the Sacramento river water seems to excite and irritate our public much. From the feeling we find existing upon this point, it as doubtful whether the people would vote for any system of works that would deprive them of their favorite water! It is so sweet, so soft, so pure, that they will not permit it to be taken from them without a struggle; and to listen to them heralding its praise one might imagine that he hears them all in chorus sing,—not as did Byron, "England, with all thy faults I love thee still;" but, "Sacramento, with all thy mud there is none I prize like thee."

It must be hard for anyone who has drank the waters of the Sacramento river for any length of time to become accustomed to any other. After that rich, glutinous fluid, pure water must seem so very thin that it can hardly be felt passing down the throat. We expect if pure water is introduced in Sacramento it will be a long time before the people will consent to drink it—by itself. They may perhaps use it to dilute the Sacramento river water, and drink it half and half; but we are sure they won't like it "straight."

Absurdly Incorrect.

The following parsgraph is going the rounds of the press; some people think it very smart but it is decidedly untrue:

An inquisitive urchin the other day, while reciting a lesson says an exchange, from the "Sermon on the Mount," broke out. "Ma, did Jesus get $2,000 a year for preaching?" "No! my child, he did not get anything." "Why didn't they pay him?" "Because he didn't preach politics. The devil offered him a big salary to do it but he would not accept the call."

Jesus did preach political sermons radical, communistic sermons He preached the rights of labor against the tyranny of the wealthy, and it was simply for his political sermons that He was crucified by the Romans.

Ideas in Advertising.

The business men of San Francisco are not as fertile in novel advertising ideas as the Londoners, but occasionally something new in that line crops out. Edward Stapleton, who has opened a new hat store at No. 124 Kearny street, has started a buggy in the shape of a hat on wheels, which attracts much attention and will doubtless help his business. Mr. Stapleton is one of those go-ahead men who command success.

Julien Perrault, M. D.,

Physician and Surgeon, member of the Medical Faculty of Paris, etc. Dr. Perrault's studies and practice have, for ten years past, been almost exclusively devoted to the cure of General Debility and other Sexual Affections, acute or chronic, all which he continues to treat successfully by the newest scientific methods. Office 502 Montgomery street, northeast corner of Sacramento st., San Francisco, Rooms 9, 10 and 11. Consultations in English, French, German and Spanish.

Theatrical Supper Rooms.

In all the large cities in the world there are adjoining the chief theatres supper rooms where the audience, after witnessing the play, and the actors, after taking part in it, adjourn to enjoy a meal. Such a place is Jones's Oyster and Ice Cream Saloon, in the California Theatre building, immediately adjoining the entrance, where game suppers, Eastern oysters, terrapin stews, and everything that can suit the taste of an epicure, will be served up at all hours of the night, under the experienced supervision of Frank Dumont. Attached to the saloon are private rooms for families and supper parties. Try Jones's. K

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and commends itself to all classes.

Who that has struggled with the ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with loss of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress-art can so smooth that "wrinkled front," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the slop-worn, worsted garment will not last long.

My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.

The Public will please take notice that

Newell's Patent Paragon Shirt

Factory's only place of business is at

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

300 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

300 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

Amecdote of Moore.

The poet Moore once called at the house of some super-fashionable friends who had just installed an untrained rustic as second coachman. The latter answered the post's knock, and, nonplussed at the interrogation whether the ladies were at home, when the question was repeated, finally stepped forward and confidentially replied, in a suppressed tone; "They told me to say they were out; but they're in. They've gone upstairs to strip for dinner!

Wants Some More!

The Chicago Sun says:—"The only Theatre now in operation in the city seems to be having a rather discouraging time. The people of Chicago have apparently determined not to be amused at anything, this season. No public entertainment of a sensational nature would interest them, unless it were a big conflagration."

Reckless.

A gentleman one day was making away with a large pudding close by, when he was told by a servant that it was a desert. "It matters not to me," said he, "I would eat it if it was a wilderness."

Quite a Success.

When a lady fainted at a Wisconsin party, a gentleman thought he could resuscitate her by biting her ear. She recovered promptly. He is going around with a poultice on his eye.

A man once went to a lawyer's office and desired to know what he should do. A A man having told him to go to hell. He suavely said: "I would'nt advise you to go; the law don't compel you."

Advantages of Having a Father.

How "going to law" pays, is pretty well illustrated in the following story of a lawyer, now a resident of Oshkosh, Wis.:

One Smith had failed in business, and sold out; and having two or three tough little bills, had given to his lawyer for collection. Smith went to the office to receive the proceeds. The amount collected was about $20.

"I'm sorry you've been so unfortunate, Smith, for I take a great interest in you. I shan't charge you so much as I should if I did not feel such an interest in you."

He handed Smith $15, and kept the remaining $35.

"You see, Smith, I knew you when a boy, and I knew your father before you; and I take a great deal of interest in you. Good morning; come and see me again."

Smith moved slowly out of the door, and, ruefully contemplating the the avails, was heard to mutter:

"I am glad that he did not know my grandfather."

Genius and Labor.

Alexander Hamilton once said to an intimate friend: "Men give me credit for genius. All the genius I have lies in this: when I have a subject in hand I study it profoundly. Day and night it is before me. I explore it in all its bearings. My mind becomes pervaded with it. Then the effort which I make the people are pleased to call the fruit of genius. It is the fruit of labor and thought."

Quack.

I say Jim, whats gone wid dat feller dat sole medcin on de orction room corner. Didn't yer heah de news, he got loony an tuk an swollered a dost ob his own medcin, an dar wus lots er white folkses at thir funeril nex day.

Accomodating Child.

"Which had you rather have me do May, get you a new doll, or send the money to the poor little hungry children at Chicago?" "Buy me a new doll Mamma, and I'll send my old doll to Chicago."

A young lady having read about a man having invented a stove, which will consume its own smoke, hopes he will devise a method whereby tobacco smokers can be run on the same economical principle.

Foppish young men at the east carry a small varnished willow cane with a tiny ferule at one end, and a fool at the other.

To authors—It is not wrong to write if you right wrong.

Theatrical Supper Rooms.

In all the large cities in the world there are adjoining the chief theatres supper rooms where the audience, after witnessing the play, and the actors, after taking part in it, adjourn to enjoy a meal. Such a place is Jones's Oyster and Ice Cream Saloon, in the California Theatre building, immediately adjoining the entrance, where game suppers, Eastern oysters, terrapin stews, and everything that can suit the taste of an epicure, will be served up at all hours of the night, under the experienced supervision of Frank Dumont. Attached to the saloon are private rooms for families and supper parties. Try Jones's. K

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

To-night the popular actor, Oliver Doud Byron, will take his farewell benefit. The new drama of "Ben McCullough" with its pleasing pathetic scenes, stirring sensations, and good acting of Mr. Oliver Doud Byr n and all en gaged in its representation has proved very popular. It will be repeated this evening, at the matinee to-morrow and to-morrow night for the last time. On Monday night Col. W. H. L. Barnes' original comedy of "Solid Silver," which has been for weeks in rehearsal, will be produced with new scenery and everything that can ensure its success.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The very lively drama of "Inshavogue" with James M. Ward as Brian Maguire, Miss Sallie Hinckley as Kate O'Dwyer, and Miss Maggie Moore as Biddy delighted a large audience last night. Mr. Ward has proved himself an Irish comedian of the first quality, and his Brian Maguire will be long remembered. To-night he will take his farewell benefit and present a bill of extraordinary attractions. The performance will commence with an olio comprising Charles Vivian in his original songs and sketches and Charley Howard in his inimitable sketch of "Uncle Jeff at Home," in which he will be assisted by G. H Foster and Lulu Wilson. After this the drama entitled "Come back to Erin" with James M. Ward as Pike O'Callaghan will be presented for the first time in this city. At the conclusion of this Jas. M. Ward will recite "Scanlan's Address to to the Irishman of America;" James M, Hardie who will make his last appearance on this occasion, will sing a ballad, and afterwards he and Miss Maggie Moore will sing a duet. This liberal evening's entertainment will conclude with "Barney the Baron." The usual matinee will be given to-morrow.

Alhambra Theatre.

It seems hard to find a fault in this cosy little theatre, but there is at present a most serious one—it is not half large enough to hold the crowds who flock there nightly. Manager Maguire is somewhat the cause of this, by giving a double entertainment for one price of admission. Those who go in good time to-night will obtain seats, those who go after the performance has commenced, will have to stand, and those who go still later won't get in at all. The inimitable Billy Emerson; the only Leon; the artistic Kelly; the prince of old darkeys, Charley Howard, (who is too soon to leave us); the talented Reynolds Brothers; the sweet voiced S. Holdsworth, and many others will appear to-night in first part, interlude and the opera of 'Barber-bia." The same bill will be presented at the matinee to-morrow, when the admission will be half the usual rate.

Bella Union.

There is infinite variety in the entertainment presented at this popular theatre. M'lle Gangain in her new dance, "Vivian's Melodies," is a great feature, and she makes a great hit in the drinking song from "Perichols" in the afterpiece; Miss Carrie Chapman and Lon McCarthy are very amusing in the farce of "How far is it to the next Ranch;" Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin are very good in "Little Fraud;" Eugenia Garretta's evolutions on the globe are much admired, and the performance concludes with the nautical, piratical, melodramatic local extravaganza entitled "The Female Pirate; or, the Red Rover of Racoon Straits."

Theatre Comique.

Johnny Tuers and his band of merry minstrels keep the fun alive at this place of amusement. Songs, dances, and screaming negro acts form the evening's entertainment. Johnny Tuers is one of the liviest minstrels on the stage and never fails to keep the house in a roar. He will have a complimentary benefit to-morrow night when a great bill will be performed.

Vincent's Globe Theatre.

The bill played last night was a splendid one Sam Purdy in the first portkept the audience in roars of laughing, and was ably supported by Charley Vincent. The finale entitled "The Sleeping Beauties" is very amusing. Purdy afterwards appeared in his new sketch entitled "The Arrival of Low e-sa Kill-hog," which was received with roars of laughter. Sam is stage manager, and under his able supervision the Globe will roll on finely. The new local sketch, "Scenes in a Divorce Court," caused much fun.

The Oxford.

Minnie Wells, Daisey Engels, Estelle, Aurelia Dean and many others will appear to-night in songs and dances. Fred Jarvis will sing comic character songs; Campbell, Price, Lowden and Forrest will appear in screaming negro acts; Howard and Russell the double clog and lightning change performers, who have made an immence hit in their specialties, and the rest of the company in a varied programme.

Johnny Tuers.

We are requested to contradict a rumor to the effect that Johnny Tuers is going to fill an engagement at the Sacramento Varieties. He was offered most liberal terms, but had to decline, the Theatre Comique requiring all his attention. The members of the company under O. Brooks, are daily expected back from the Sandwich Islands.

Charles Vivian's Farewell Benefit.

Charles Vivian, who has for nearly a year delighted the public of San Francisco by his admirably neat and artistic character songs, will leave for Australia—that land where he has so often asserted his love is "doing the grand" ten thousand miles away—by the steamer of the 6th. Wishing to spend his last evening on shore with his friends the public, he will on Tuesday, the 5th, take a farewell benefit and present a bill of great attractiveness. The favorite and well-known artists S. S Purdy, C. Vincent, Callie Curtis, M'lle Gangain and Miss Maggie Moore have volunteered and will appear in a varied olio and the sterling comedy of "Time Tries All," will be presented in which Charles Vivian will make his first appearance in genteel comedy in the character of Sir Colander Yawn.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chailiu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

All Stars at the Globe.

Great hit of Sam Purdy, the famous Ethiopian comedian, on the end. Roars of laughter at Charley Vincent's new curiosity gag. Immense success of the sensation play of "Diverce." The Dutch Leon, the sensation of the day. The Lancashire Bell Ringers. Frightful trapeze act by Hamwells and Nelson. The beautiful Female Minstrels. House thronged after eight o'clock. A

A Rich Concert Dress.

The Hartford Times says:

Mrs. Moulton, at the concert last evening, wore one of the most elegant concert dresses ever seen in this city. It was a heavy silk, of that peculiar pale green color known as Eau de Nile, made with a full court train. The skirt was covered with deep point de Venise, looped up at the sides.

The bottom was finished with a flounce of silk, over which fell another of the same width of the lace, and the top was finished with a cordon of bonnilleine over which was another row of lace; the train was bordered, wide flounce of silk and lace similar to that on the skirt, the corsage was cut decolette, with trimming of lace, and very short sleeves.

Around her neck she wore a band of large diamonds, and a chain of pearls, which fell in festoons, and was caught up at the right side by a large diamond pin. She wore long white kid gloves, and one arm near the shoulder was encircled by a magnificent jeweled serpent. Her hair was dressed with white flowers mingled with diamonds, and the entire costume presented an elegant appearance.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—The great combination of the Emerson Minstrels and the Kelly & Leon Troupe has succeeded in presenting attractions sufficient to crowd the Alhambra Theatre with the beauty and fashion of the city every evening of this week. The public are delighted with burnt cork opera bouffe; all the beautiful music of Offenbach being preserved and the original airs being sung by the only Leon in splendid style. Billy Emerson is fresh as ever: "Custom cannot stale his infinite variety." Kelly is the neatest of interlocutors; the Reynolds Brothers are unapproachable in eccentric dances and S. Holdsworth the tenor, is a great favorite. "Barber-blu" which has proved such a success must make way next week for a still more charming production—"Le Petit Faust." There will be a matinee to-day when the full bill will be played.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE. — James M. Ward, who by his impersonations of Badger in "The Streets of New York," and Brian Maguire in "Inshavogue" has proved himself a capital actor in character parts, took his farewell benefit last night and presented a bill worthy of the occasion. This afternoon "Inshavogue" will be presented; this evening "The Streets of New York" with Mr. Ward as Badger will constitute the entertainment and to-morrow evening "Inshavogue" will be performed for the last time.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—Mr. Oliver Doud Byron will appear at the matinee to-day in the new sensational and emotional drama of "Ben McCullough, and this evening, will make his last appearance in San Francisco in the same play. Those who have only seen Mr. Byron in the rather stupid part of Joe Ferris, can have no idea of his ability as an actor; he has an opportunity to display it in that of Ben McCullough, and the hearty applause which his efforts draw from the audience proves that he is thoroughly appreciated. Mr Byron will bear with him the good wishes of the public of San Francisco, and they will give him a hearty welcome should he return.

BELLA UNION THEATRE.—Among the novelties presented for the delectation of the patrons of the Bella Union Theatre this evening may be mentioned the first appearance of Miss Leslie, who will sing a popular ballad; appearance of the attractive Eugenie Gerretta in classic statuary; the acts of "The Mysterious Restaurant," and "The Actor's Studio," and a new song and dance by Miss Carrie Chapman. These are only a few of the features in the bill. The engagement of M'lle Gaugain continues but a few nights longer, She will appear to-night in her new arrangement of Vivian's melodies, and will also sing the drinking song from "Perichole."

THEATRE COMIQUE.—To-night Johnny Tuers, who has been indefatigable in his exertions to amuse the public and present an entertainment of the most lively description at the Theatre Comique, will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit; his friends will muster in full force and a great programme has been prepared for the occasion.

THE GLOBE THEATRE.—Sam Purdy is the reigning favorite at the Globe, and causes immense fun both in first part and interlude. The comic ballet of "The Cobbler and the Tailor," arranged by Leon Samwells is a great success, Carlova, the Dutch Leon is received nightly with shouts of applause and laughter; Clara Draper in new ballads; Sally Thayer in comic songs; Billy Moss in a champion clog dance; the wonderful Arab Boy, Johnny Roberts in his tumbling act, and Charley Vincent, E. H. Cox, Clara Starr, Lizzie Worrell and others in the interlude, and in the local sketch of "Scenes in a Divorce Court," present a very amusing evening's entertainment.

THE OXFORD.—There will be great doings at this cosy little theatre to-night. Howard and Russell, double cloggists have made a hit; the Lancashire Bell Ringers are popular favorites, and Lizzie Harmon, Jenny Eagles, Amelia Dean and others appear in a melange of song and dance. The performance concludes with the "screaming musical Irish sketch" entitled "The Country Fair."

AGRICULTURE PARK.—A foot race by four professional pedestrians, two of whom have lately arrived from the East, will take place at Agricultural Park on Saturday next. There will also be a race against time, 21 miles in three hours, the winning man to receive a purse of $500. The gate money will be given to Mrs. G. W. Salmon, whose husband was a short time ago murdered by the Indians in Arizona. The proprietors of the park give the use of it free, so that the entire proceeds will be given to the widow who is left destitute. A. Winters, H. Dyre, Willard and Maxwell will contend for the prize.

"BERTHA THE SEWING MACHINE GIRL"'—The management of the Metropolitan Theatre having purchased from the author Charles Foster, the right of playing his original sensation drama entitled "Bertha the Sewing Machine Girl," will produce it early next week, with new scenery and a strong cast embracing every member of the company. The scene representing a work room full of girls operating on sewing machines, is a great feature in the piece, while the death at the wheel is one of the most thrilling scenes ever presented.

CHARLEY HOWARD.—This admirable impersonator of old darkey characters, and prince of good fellows will leave for New York to-morrow whence he will go to Boston to fill an engag ement at the Howard Athenæum. Charley has made so many friends in Calffornia that he won't be able to stay away long; indeed he won't,

"SOLID SILVER."—Col. W. H. L. Barnes' play entitled "Solid Silver" has received careful rehearsal, had new scenery painted for it by Porter and will be produced with an excellent cast. It is spoken of as a very clever work by competent judges. To prevent disappointment we warn the public that there is no locomotive engine in it and it also lacks a bowie knife fight.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.— One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

SUNDAY EXCURSION.—There is not within miles of this city a more delightful spot than the groves of San Rafael. The steamer Contra Costa will leave the wharf on Davis street, near Vallejo, to-morrow at 10½ A.M., on an excursion.

"THE OLYMPIC LORGNETTE."—This is the title of the programme sheet of the Olympic, St Louis, the first number of which we have just received. It is beautifully printed, with an illuminated frontispiece.

UNDER FALSE COLORS.—Too many beginners in variety halls think that they will attract more attention by adopting a name resembling that of some singer, dancer or actor who has already gained eminence in the profession. Thus there are dozens of performers who appear under the name of "Miss Lotta," and the names of other public favorites are in a similar manner appropriated by amateurs on adopting the stage as a profession. This is bad policy, as the public when they are deceived do not feel kindly towards those who thus sail under false colors. Managers should frown down this practice, as its continuance inflicts a severe annoyance, to say the least of it, on worthy artists who have worked hard to gain the fame they enjoy.

"Who steals my purse," etc.

An instance of this kind occurring at a San Francisco theatre has drawn forth the following letter and a card which appears in another column from Miss Jennie Engel:

ST. JAMES THEATRE, BOSTON,
November 21st, 1871.

EDITOR FIGARO:—The enclosed advertisement appeared in your issue of November 8th, and as my professional name and reputation is of some value to me, you will please publish the enclosed card and forward me the bill for its insertion. The party named in your paper has never appeared in the East, at least in any respectable institution; and as I propose visiting California shortly, it is necessary for the public to know the genuine article. Respectfully yours, JENNIE ENGEL.

FAREWELL BENEFIT TO CHARLES VIVIAN.—Mr. Charles Vivian, who has for nearly a year delighted the public of San Francisco by his admirably neat and artistic character songs, will leave for Australia—that land where he has so often asserted his love is "doing the grand" ten thousand miles away—by the steamer of the 6th. Wishing to spend his last evening on shore with his friends the public, he will on Tuesday, the 6th, take a farewell benefit and present a bill of great attractiveness. The favorite and well-known artists S. S Purdy, C. Vincent, Callie Curtis, M'lle Gaugain and Miss Maggie Moore have volunteered and will appear in a varied olio and the sterling comedy of "Time Tries All," will be presented in which Charles Vivian will make his first appearance in genteel comedy in the character of Sir Cbllander Yawn.

FREE LECTURE.—As will be seen by reference to advertisement in another column, Dr. Barlow J. Smith, on each Friday evening, at half-past 7 o'clock, gives a free lecture to gentlemen only, on Phrenology, Physiognomy and Hygiene. Dr. Smith has by application to his profession made important discoveries in the connection between the intellectual, the moral and the physical forces and the relation of them to the general laws of hygiene.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Rain or shine a visit to the Cliff House is in order. A nice dinner in a snug little room with a blazing fire is thoroughly enjoyed after a spin over the Cliff House Road.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SACRAMENTO.—Proctor returned and re-opened the Metropoliton Theatre on Monday, playing the "Angel of Midnight," which was repeated on the following evening. "The Ticket-of-Leave Man" was played on Wednesday. A matinee was given on Thanksgiving Day, when the "Angel of Midnight" was played again. In the evening "School" was presented, and again last night.....To-night the Academy of Music will be opened by Mr. Chamberlain. R. G. Marsh is stage manager, and has taken up from here a good company comprising Ethel and Edgar Stanley, Maggie Knight, W Scott and others.

MARYSVILLE.—The ladies of St. John's Church gave an entertainment for the benefit of the church at Turner's Hall on Tuesday. It consisted of a charade, music, readings, and the farce of "The Haunted Hut," by G. H. Badger, T. Farley and J. R. Sellon, of the Marysville Amateur Dramatic Association. This association opened the Marysville Theatre on Thanksgiving night, and performed "The Honeymoon" and the farce of "Foodles."

SUCKER FLAT.—The concert at the new hall last week for the benefit of Miss Missouri Hereford the blind girl, netted her $280.

ALAMEDA.—Hon. Nathan Porter delivered a lecture entitled "The Drama, Ancient and Modern," at the Methodist Church on Wednesday evening.

STOCKTON.—A concert and ball took place at Hickman's Hall on Tuesday. Mrs. Patrick, Mrs. Pinkham and other amateurs taking part in it.

MERCED.—Ned Ward's Minstrel Troupe gave an entertainment at the Merced Theatre on Monday.

VIRGINIA CITY.—Piper's Opera House closed on Monday night with a benefit to James Carden, who appeared in "The Three Guardsmen."

SALT LAKE, U. T.—W. T. Harris character actor appeared with the stock company on the 24th and 25th in the comedy of "Born to Good Luck." "A Hand of Cards" was underlined and the Nathan Troupe were to arrive shortly.

PORTLAND, O.—Batchelder's tableaux of the Apocalypse were exhibited at Oro Fino Theatre on the 25th and 27th. On the 26th Mrs. M. M. Miller, (ex-wife of Joaquin) delivered a lecture at the same place entitled "Behold the Woman." The Portland Gaieties was open as was also the Theatre Comique.

SILVER CITY, I. T.—The Nathan Troupe opened Hill's Theatre for a season of three nights on the 26th ult.

CENTRAL CITY, COL.—The Royal Yeddo Troupe of Japs with the wonderful Gangero at their head gave an entertainment at the theatre on the 20th.

OMAHA, NEB.—Miss Leona Cavender commenced an engagement at the Academy of Music on the 20th, and appeared in "Minnie's Luck," "Jacquette," and on the 24th in "Little Nell" for her benefit.

DENVER, COL.—Dick Carroll and his three clever little boys at the Denver Theatre on the 20th, and gave three performances to good houses. They appeared again on the 24th and 25th and gave a matinee. McKean Buchanan was to appear on the 11th inst.

SAN JOSE.—The only amusement the San Jose people have had this week is lecturing by Professor Fowler and a lunar rainbow on Wednesday.

Proctor is to visit San Jose on the 11th with Oliver Doud Byron in "Across the Continent." If the public do not patronize the drama, the profession have at least no cause to complain of the Press. The Guide says of Mrs. Bates: "She is, in every respect, the best and most accomplished actress that ever came to this coast." Where are you Mrs. Charles Kean? Where are you Mrs. Bowers? Where are you Mrs. Lander? Not in San Jose, you brightest stars may thank your stars.

WALLA WALLA, W. T.—We learn from the Statesman that Miss Carrie F. Young lectured at the City Hall on the 19th and 20th ult. on "Physiological Temperance." The same paper has the following concerning an actor who has long been lost in the wilds of Oregon, but who was once a favorite in San Francisco:

George Pauncefort, the actor, has sailed for the Sandwich Islands, where he will give the Kanakas some touches of high tragedy.

Mills as stage manager.

In Boston, Miss Charlotte Cushman is playing at the Globe. She appeared on the 20th as Lady Macbeth to Vandenhoff's Macbeth, and George Boniface, "the young American tragedian," as Macduff..... At the Boston Theatre, Lotta's new play, "Rainbow," was produced on the 20th, and went well (though it has no plot and no literary merit) as there is lots of banjo playing and dancing in it. Lotta closed on the 25th and Morlacchi appeared on the 27th.....Edmund D. Davies, the English ventriloquist, is the star at the Howard Athenæum. W. Ashcroft and Kitty O'Neil are also there.....At the Museum, "Elfie" is running. Miss Jennie Engel in sensation songs, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Hall in burlesque, and a good variety entertainment is given here.

In St. Louis, Miss Jane Coombs, Frederick Robinson and company were at De Bar's Opera House. .....At the Olympic, Mrs. D. P. Bowers closed her engagement of three weeks on the 11th. It was not very successful, her share of twenty-one performances amounting to but $4,000. On the 13th the McKee Rankin Comedy Company opened in "School." On the 20th they performed the spectacular dramatization of David Copperfield entitled "Little Em'ly."

In Baltimore, Miss Maggie Mitchell made her appearance at the Grand Opera House in "Fanchon" on the 20th.

In Pittsburg, Mrs. Lander closed her engagement at the Opera House on the 11th, appearing as Lady Macbeth. On the 13th Charles Wheatleigh and Mrs. Effie Ellsler appeared in "Elfie, or the Cherry Tree Inn."

Joe Murphy in "Help," under the management of Ward and Maeder, performed at Hartford, Con Nov. 13th.

Matilda Heron has fully decided to return to the stage, and has made engagements with the Opera House at St. Louis and the St. Charles Theatre, New Orleans.

Jas. H. Budworth advertises for engagements at variety theatres with his new one-act drama by McCloskey.

Jennie Benson is at Wild's Opera House, Syracuse, New York.

Maggie Mitchell, Ford's, Baltimore, 20th,

The pretty Rose Evans opened at the Capitol Theatre, Albany, on the 20th for 6 nights; Rochester, 27th, through to Canada.

Frank Mayo, Titusville, Pa., 20th, thence through New England.

Charlotte Cushman is engaged to play in Philadelphia this Winter. She is now performing in Boston with great success.

"The Black Crook" produced more elegantly than ever, will follow "Our American Cousin," with Sothern, at Niblo's, New York.

Lotta in Boston is very severely criticised by some of the papers who call her vulgar, brazen and without real merit.

While the Royal Japanese troupe were in Louisville, Ky., they visited one of the public schools and the peculiar appearance of Little All Right frightened one of the children so badly as to throw her into a fit, and in falling she upset the stove, throwing the burning coals upon the floor, which set fire to the building and for a few minutes causing great excitement.

Lawrence Barrett in his starring tour has cut the acquaintance of "The Man O'Airle" leaving, that gentleman to take a nap for a time. Mr. B is now in the South and drawing large audiences with "Rosedale," "Hamlet," and other favorite roles.

The Nilsson Opera Troupe will commence a season of two weeks at the Academy of Music, Phila., on the 11th of Dec.

The New Varieties Theatre, New Orleans, La., is rapidly approaching completion, and it is anticipated that it will be ready for opening early in December. It is situated on Canal street, in the block bounded by Custom House, Dauphine and Burgundy streets, and has a frontage of eighty feet, a depth of one hundred and sixty feet, and a height of sixty-nine feet. The parquet and dress-circle contain eight hundred seats, and the first gallery will seat four hundred and fifty. There are twelve boxes and a second gallery. The following is a list of the officers and company: Lawrence Barrett, director; Loraine Rogers, business manager; J. H. Selwyn, stage manager. The Misses M. E. Gordon, Lizzie Price, Edith Challis, Ione Burk, Mary Carr Emma Cline, Georgina Reignolds, Emma Marble, Rose Telbin, Maddern, Rose Wood, Murdock Messrs. Brown and H. Marston.

"Divorce" has the boards at the Walnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia.

At the Arch Street Theatre, Philadelphia, Stuart Robson concluded a moderately successful one week's engagement on the evening of the 18th instant.

Doctor O. H. Hess, formerly business manager of Crosby's Opera House, attempted to commit suicide at Chicago, Ill., Nov. 18th, by shooting himself while in a restaurant. He did not succeed.

Little Nell, the "California Diamond," who did not go to St. Louis to fulfil an engagement on account of indisposition, is now in New York.

Louis Braham, the tenor, formerly of Emerson's Minstrels, is with Bryant's Minstrels, New York, and is a favorite.

Don Pedro Dorrego, guitar player, was married, Nov. 16th, at the church of the Holy Saviour, New York, to Miss Lole Regnal.

P. T. Barnum's Museum, Menagerie, Hippodrome, Circus and International Zoological Garden, to designate the exhibition as officially announced, commenced a winter season at the Rink on Third avenue, Sixty-third street, on Nov. 13th.

The following are among the curiosities to be seen during a stroll through the building;

Two sections of one of the large trees of California, one some three inches thick, showing the diameter and difference thereof, and the other the bark set up in tent-like form and some fifteen feet high. Turning the corner and proceeding east we meet an automaton rope walker. Next in order are five cages of automata. In the first the sleeping beauty and a large peacock, in the second, seven figures of little girls who perform upon musical bells; in the third, a figure of a dying Zouave with a Sister of Mercy at his side; in the fourth, a drummer, and two separate groups of singing birds; in the fifth, a goat and kid, some apes, who immitate human figures in a scene called "Jealousy," and a scene representing buildings and water, with various moving figures. The next cage contains a Cardiff giant, a Chinese joss, walrus tusks and various spears fashioned from the bones of animals. Against the side of the building, on our left, is a mitrailleuse, some man-tadon bones and a case containing ancient arms. In the next cage we find six life size wax figures of the late Charles Dickens, Bismarck, the Emperor William, Napoleon III. and Von Moltke then Japanese and Chinese curiosities, a collection of stuffed birds of rare and beautiful plumage, curiosities from the Arctic regions, which brings us to the collection of animals

This comprises hundreds of beasts from all part of the world. From the menagerie we go to the amphitheatre where a grand circus performance is given. In the front part of the building on either side of the entrance are two large rooms, one of which is occupied by a troupe of glass blowers who display a large number of samples of their skill, and the other is devoted to the exhibition of the living curiosities, among which are a giant, a fat woman, an Albino, the Aztec children, Admiral Dot, a dwarf, a little girl whose body is covered with a heavy growth of hair, and a lady born without arms, but who performe with her feet a number of difficult things.

Miss Lucile Western and J. A. Herne commenced an engagement of six weeks at the New National Theatre, Washington, D. C., on the 20th, opening in "East Lynne."

"Supper."

People who hurry through breakfast and dinner, can, after the work of the day is over, enjoy that comfortable meal called "supper." The Pacific Oyster Saloon, No. 337 Bush street, is a famous supper house, and Winant & Co. are celebrated for their roast oysters, terrapin stews and other delicacies. Charley Haacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloons, attends to the comforts of his numerous friends who come here to see him. E

"Keep your Eyes Open."

The original Kinkead's Sage Brush Hair Tonic "Dresser" and cure for Baldness, may be had of the agent, Jas. H. Gates, Druggist, cor. New Montgomery and Howard streets. See that L. M. Kinkead, Elko, Nevada, is on each wrapper. E

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

Go and See Them.

The fine sets of parlor and bed-room furniture at J. A. Shatter & Co.'s, 707 Market street, near Third, which are offered for sale for cash lower than ever before in San Francisco, Y

Selleck & Fisher's

Photographic Temple of Art, 415 Montgomery street. All the different styles of pictures known to the art, executed in superior excellence, artistic in position, and brilliant in finish. Please call and examine specimen, We defy competition.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Cerville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

Do You Know

That with BUTTERICK'S PATTERNS you can cut and make any garment to fit perfectly? Send postage stamp for an illustrated catalogue. H. A. Deming, agent. office of the Howe Sewing Machine, No. 113 Kearny street, between Sutter and Post, San Francisco. e

Dr. Barlow J. Smith

Gives free lectures (to Gentlemen only) every Friday evening, commencing at 7½, at his Hygeian Hall, 537 California st., and examines patients phrenologically as to health. Q Deposit your Money.

With the Land Mortgage Union, interest allowed from day of deposit. No entrance fee or charge for passbooks. Office 123 Post street, open on Saturday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock. T

"Walk into the Parlor."

After the theatres, call at 720 Market street, nearly opposite Third, and sample their splendid clam chowder lunch and other good things. The "Parlor" is kept by Harry Corbyn, well-known by the theatrical professfon, and D. B. Manning. All beverages are A No. I. F

Can't See It!

And you never will see how cheap Cummings & Sons can sell watches and jewelry till you call at 217 Montgomery, under Russ House. BG

The Chicago Fire

Has not effected the immense rush for Cigars at the International Hotel. T

To Invalids, Wives and Mothers.

The agency of the "Old Style" hand-made, sour-mash stimulant—so highly recommended by the Medical Faculty—is at No. 605 Washington street. Branch Depot, No. 306 Montgomery street. Ask for the "Old Style" Bourbon—it is pure, mild, mellow, delicious. E

Club House Sausages.

A well-made richly seasoned sausage, is an almost unknown dainty in California. Epicures who are posted, get none but Bunker's Club House sausages at 74 and 75 California Market. P

Dr. Bourne's Electric Baths,

Established in 1852, now conducted by Dr. McSparren, are recommended by all physicians as the best medicinal baths on the Coast. 10 Post street, Masonic Temple.

If You Want

Your Blankets and Flannels well washed, and not spoilt, send them to the What Cheer Laundry.

Pine Street Baths.

Go the above establishment for a good bath and a clean shave. No. 406 Pine street, above Montgomery, opposite Russ House. D

It is Perfectly Astonishing

How beautifully and quickly they do washing at the What Cheer Laundry. Clothes received before 8 A.M. returned the same evening if desired. I

What Cheer Laundry

Employs no Chinamen, and should be patronized by everybody.

Make Your Home Beautiful

By adorning its walls with pleasant pictures in beautiful frames. W. A. KOLLMYER, dealer in pictures, and mirror and picture frame maker, 640 Washington street, just below Kearny, will, at a wonderfully small cost, transform the dullest looking room into a bright, cheerful budoir. A

Under the Occidental Hotel,

112 Montgomery street, at the store of Anderson & Randolph, you can buy watches, jewelry, silverware, etc., of the latest styles, finest quality, and at the lowest prices. I

Washing Returned in One Day

And we never disappoint, at the What Cheer Laundry.

To the Unfortuate.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 653 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure.

Fechter Off The Stage.

The New York correspondent of the St. Louis Republican (she is a woman,) saw Mr. Fechter at Niblo's, the other evening, standing reserved and dignified, wrapped in a military sort of cloak; and she writes to her paper:—"Who that was a stranger to that heavy dull face, and solid form, would think he or she was looking on the greatest artist of modern times—wonderful Charles Fechter—who can throw off these every-day trappings and move about the stage more gracefully than the sweetest man among all the theatrical lady-killers,—whose dull eyes can fairly blaze with passion, and whose slightest gesture can express more than any other actor's whole repertoire of action!"

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carrige or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence sfor shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

Theatrical Supper Rooms.

In all the large cities in the world there are adjoining the chief theatres supper rooms where the audience, after witnessing the play, and the actors, after taking part in it, adjourn to enjoy a meal. Such a place is Jones's Oyster and Ice Cream Saloon, in the California Theatre building, immediately adjoining the entrance, where game suppers, Eastern oysters, terrapin stews, and everything that can suit the taste of an epicure, will be served up at all hours of the night, under the experienced supervision of Frank Dumont. Attached to the saloon are private rooms for families and supper parties. Try Jones's. K

After the Bella Union,

Comique and Globe Theatres, patrons who smoke a cigar on their way home should go to the Verandah Cigar Store, corner Washington and Kearny, kept for the last eleven years by Henry Schmidt. Not a Chinese-made cigar in the store, but every other brand, from a few cents' cost up to the finest imported Havanas. A fine stock of handsome meerschaum pipes, cigar-holders and other articles suitable for presents during the coming holidays. Everything at prices to suit the times. W

All Stars at the Globe.

Great hit of Sam Purdy, the famous Ethiopian comedian, on the end. Roars of laughter at Charley Vincent's new curiosity gag. Immense success of the sensation play of "Divorce." The Dutch Leon, the sensation of the day. The Lancashire Bell Ringers. Frightful trapeze act by Samwells and Nelson. The beautiful Female Minstrels. House thronged after eight o'clock. A

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Go to "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street (the second hat store below Kearny), and examine the large stock of the latest styles of hats. K

SAN FRANCISCO STALL.—Nos. 60 and 61 California Market, sell fine meats at cash less than any other place in the city. U

Positively that stock of fine Watches and Jewelry, 806 Market st., must and will be sold at importers' prices, or less within the next sixty days. No humbug, no nonsense, call and be convinced. P

Pastilles de Paris

Still triumphant. Mme. Ezekiel's "Pastilles de Paris," for beautifying the complexion, is not an injurious cosmetique. It has stood the test of twenty years before the public. Sold only by Mme. Ezekiels, at the Depot, No. 38 Geary street. J

Preserve the Hair.

It is well known that curling the hair by means of heated irons destroys it. It is now unnecessary, as Madame Tibbal's Magic Curl Pins curl the hair effectually without injuring it in the least. They are for sale at 320 Kearny street, room 5.

The Silver Crystal

Door Plate and house numbers, are the most elegant ever devised, will never tarnish, and will endure forever. Price $2 to $6 50, Geo. F. Fuller, 631 Sacramento street. U

SYNOPSIS OF ARGUMENT:

The Doctor is a country schoolmaster. The scene opens with a recitation school, the master shows his authority and is need somewhat roughly. Doctor Faust appears and accuses the master of dancing with the girls. Valentine appears with his company prevail on Faust to receive his sister in his academy while he goes to fight for his country. The Dr. takes her, and soon endeavors to analyze his feelings toward Marguerite, and discovering that he loves her, longs for youth again. Mephisto enters and promises the fulfillment of his desires, if he will sign the customary paper, but Faust refuses. Mephisto insists. Then follows a break up of school, festive scenes in Jones' Wood, &c., in the midst of which Valentine returns and discovering his sister struggling with Faust, insists on a fight. Mephisto has the necessary implements, and as it they go in an original style which elicits much admiration. Poor Valentine is killed by Faust, and killed again by his sister. Marguerite and Faust are married, and Valentine marches off his ghost appears to the guilty couple and insists on their going with him to the abode of his friend Mephisto, to which he takes them to expiate their crimes in company with Members of Congress, &c., &c.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night the popular drama of "The Lottery of Life" will be presented with James M. Hardie, as Terry the Swell, and a very excellent cast as on former occasions. Charles Vivian will appear in the Concert Scene and sing "Coal Oil Tommy."

Alhambra Theatre.

To-night an immense bill will be presented by the combined companies of Billy Emerson and Kelly and Leon. After a capital first part, an interlude will be given in which Kelly and Leon will appear in the sketch entitled "Domestic Bliss," the talented Kohler Brothers will perform a cornet duet; Billy Emerson will perform his original song and dance, "Josephus Orange Blossom" and the Reynolds Brothers will appear in "The Two Dromios." After this Kelly and Leon's burlesque of Herve's opera entitled "Le Petit Faust," which has been for weeks in rehearsal, will be produced with Leon as Marguerite, Kelly as Dr. Faust, Miss Fanny Gibson as Mephisto, and the other characters well filled. All the gems of the opera will be sung and the spirit and fun of the original librutto preserved in the burnt cork version

California Theatre.

The production of Col. W. H. L. Barnes' play entitled "Solid Silver" will insure the attendance of a large and fashionable audience at the California Theatre to-night. The play is highly spoken of by those who have read it, has received careful rehearsal, is cast to the full strength of the company and will be produced with new scenery. John McCullough will make his first appearance in six weeks and perform the role of the hero of the play.

Bella Union.

The management announce the last two nights of the engagement of the charming danseuse M'lle Gaugain. A capital bill will be presented to-night. Miss Leslie who made her appearance on Saturday night, made a good impression by her performance of popular ballads; Eugenie Gerretta's classical statues are an attractive feature in the performance; Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin gained a double encore last night for their spirited double song and dance entitled "Dutch Courtship, and Edwin Montague's new act of the "Crystal Pyramid," drew much applause. There will be a change in the performance to-night. Lon McCarty will present his sketch entitled "Honesty vs. Dishonesty," in which Miss Chapman will appear, and the performance will conclude with the sensational extravaganza entitled "The Rival Naiads; or, the Demon Frog."

Theatre Comique.

This theatre will be closed for a short time, during which alterations and improvements will be made in the auditorium and will be reopened on the arrival of Charles Brooks with the company from the Sandwich Islands.

Vincent's Globe Theatre.

There is immense variety in the entertainment presented nightly at the Globe Theatre, which is a very popular resort as the crowds which flock there nightly prove. The ballet by the Samwells and Nelson Ballet Troupe draws much applause; Carlova, the Dutch Leon, is a great success; Eva Silva's ballads are much admired; Johnny Roberts the Arab boy, delights and astonishes the audience, and Sam Purdy and Charley Vincent are a whole team in themselves. To night these funny darkies will present the Ethiopian farce entitled "Bruised and Cured" and the wonderful African dwarf, Tommy, will make his first appearance.

The Oxford.

A very lively evening's amusement is given at this cosy little hall under the able direction of Miss Amelia Dean, who has brought together a most attractive company of male and female artists. Dick O'Neal's Irish sketch of "The Country Fair," is full of boisterous fun, and Lizzie Harmon gains immense applause for her songs of "Nora O'Neal" and "Cruiskeen Lawn."

Charles Vivian's Farewell Benefit.

To-morrow evening this popular artist will bid farewell to his hosts of friends, at the Metropolitan Theatre, and the next day start for Australia. The comedy of "Time Tries All," will be presented in which Mr. Vivian will make his first appearance in genteel comedy and play Sir Collander Yawn. James Carden, S. S. Purdy, M'lle Gaugain, C. Vincent, Maggie Moore, Callie Curtis, and others have volunteered and will appear in an attractive olio.

San Francisco Musical Institute.

The third subscription concert of the San Francisco Musical Institute will take place to-morrow evening at Pacific Hall. A grand orchestra and the following soloists will take part in it: Miss J. C. Chapman, Signora Tojetti Tarenghi, Gustav Heinrichs, and Louis Koehlmeyer.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Gnailin Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Home Again.

A. Birrell, long connected with the Metropolitan Theatre as Treasurer, manager, etc., returned on Saturday evening from an extended tour on the continent of Europe. Mr. Birrell comes back hearty in health and rich in experience gained by foreign travel.

"Ready" Sold.

Mr. Jas. M. Ward has purchashed the right to play Fred Lester's California play "Ready," which had such a fine run at the California Theatre on its original production there, anywhere in the United States with the exception of this city and Baltimore, for $1,000 and 15 per cent of the profits. We predict that "Ready" will prove a profitable star piece whenever it is well produced. Mr. Ward will try his new purchase first at Pittsburg.

Latest New York Styles.

Everything depends upon the style in which a garment is made and fitted. Ladies can be sure of procuring "the style," in dresses or cloaks, by applying to Miss S. D. Myers, lately from New York, at 129 Post st. near Kearny. DE

"Canine Chronicles."

The New York Era has a regular department with the above heading in which it chronicles the good deeds of sagacious dogs. It is the most interesting part of the paper. The last chapter of these chronicles contains the following;—taken from the New York Ledger:

We recently noticed, while on a visit to a country place, the following remarkable exhibition of canine sagacity: A pair of ponies hitched to a light wagon, had been driven up before the front door of the house, and left standing there. The ground where the wagon stood was slightly descending; one of the horses slightly uneasy. The dog observing this condition of things, walked into the road and went to pushing the dirt together with his nose. This work he continued until he had heaped up a pile behind one of the wheels, large enough to hold the wagon still. The dog is a large black one, with the appearance of a St. Bernard: but as he shuns the water to the extent of never wetting his feet, if he can avoid it, he is believed to have none of that blood in him.

A Wandering Minstrel,

The following is from an article on Italian street singers; which appeared in the New York Times of the 22nd ult. We don't believe a word of it:

Not long ago one in Fourteenth street a boy, with his violin held diagonally across his body, he was too fa igned to hold it as he should—commenced an air from 'Masaniello' and passers-by stopped to listen. As he warmed in his song they crowded about him and he, the little waif in the enchanted multitude, held them spell-bound. As he finished, and the last low notes of his melody died away, we approached him; and, taking him by the hand, led him away. Fed clothed, and happy, he was taken before Parepa-Rosa and her husband. Accompanied then by the skilful touch of the artist, he again sung the aria from the opera. There was no acting, no stage depiction of passion, but the rare, rich voice the sweet, natural expression he gave to his music, won the praises of his audience, and an education for the stage.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

Theatrical Supper Rooms.

In all the large cities in the world there are adjoining the chief theatres supper rooms where the audience, after witnessing the play, and the actors, after taking part in it, adjourn to enjoy a meal. Such a place is Jones's Oyster and Ice Cream Saloon, in the California Theatre building, immediately adjoining the entrance, where game suppers, Eastern oysters, terrapin stews, and everything that can suit the taste of an epicure, will be served up at all hours of the night, under the experienced supervision of Frank Dumont.] Attached to the saloon are private rooms for families and supper parties. Try Jones's. K

The Lyceum.

From a cursory view of the plans for Mr Fechter's new theatre, which we have had, we think that very few of our amusement-going public will recognize any vestige of the late Theatre Francais. The whole interior and part of the exterior of the building has been entirely remodeled, and all the latest improvements in theatre building have been combined with several new ideas. When the house is completed we think that it will be the most comfortable, and handsome theatre in the country. The auditorium is intended to accommodate about 1800 persons, and will be divided into a dress-circle and two balconies. Instead of the usual opera chairs, tete-a tete sofas, accommodating two, and four persons each, will be used, thus presenting a decided novelty in the appearance of the audience, and every visitor will have an unobstructed view of the stage. The front of the house is in the Grecian style of architecture, and when completed will present a very imposing appearance. The stage will have many improvements, chief among which is a sounding board the full size of the stage, and the scenery will be mounted on rollers, similar to the plan now adopted in the principal European theatres. The company has been selected with great care from amongst our own and the English houses. The management expect to give their initial performance about the Christmas holidays.—New York Prompter.

"Walk into the Parlor."

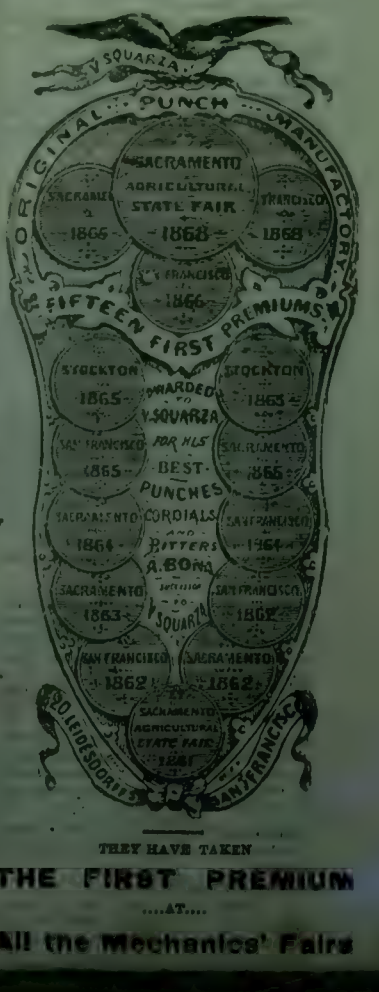
A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and commands itself to all classes.

Who that has struggled with that ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with loss of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress-art can smooth that "wrinkled front," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the slop-work, worried garment will not last long.

My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.



The Public will please take notice that
Newell's Patent Paragon Shirt
Factory's only place of business is at

Alexandre Dumas' New Play.

Alexandre Dumas fils has created some little stir by his new play—une Visite de Noces—The Nuptial Visit. It represents a Count—an immoral blockhead—who brings his virtuous young wife to call on his renounced mistress. Piqued on learning, what was only a judiciously laid snare, that the mistress has found other lovers, he promises on his honor to renew relations with her, and abandon his wife, child and home. Delilah annihilates him with contempt and scorn, asserts that she has been only sinful with him, and with this exception is honest. The Count decides that as one honest woman is as good as another, he will give the preference to his wife. This is very immoral, but Dumas since his Dame aux Camelias, has the right to publicly anatomize adultery. The majority of the spectators, says our Paris correspondent, are ladies—mystic nymphs—recalling the chaste ideas of Madame de Rambouliet, as described by Sterne. Something to the point may be found in Pope, about the monster Vice, which to be hated needs but to be seen,—and so they all go to see it.

Poetical.

A farmer near Red Bluff has a hog of the Mexican breed—a gaunt, long-bodied, long-legged, long-nosed brute, whom he calls "Maud." His reason for christening her thus was, that she was continually "coming into the garden."

A clerical error—The want of a (c) curacy.

A thing that should take well with everybody—Vaccination.

The diet of worms—almost anything that grows.

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

Notes on Legs.

Some enthusiastic Frenchman once declared the human leg to be the most philosophical of all studies. "Show me the leg," says Gautier, 'and I will judge the mind;' and it does seem quite natural that the leg should indicate the disposition, as the shade of the hair should indicate the temperament. What sloth, for instance, does the limb betray. What a shrew is the possessor of a limb like a walking stick! But what a gentle woman is she with the arched instep, the round ankle, and the graceful pedestal, swelling to perfection, and modulated to lightness! What dogged obstinacy the stumpy leg with the knotty calf exhibits! What an irresolute soul does the lanky limb betray! How well the strong ankle intimates the firm purpose! How well the flat ankle reveals the vacant mind! Young men about to marry—observe. The dark girl with the large leg will become fat at thirty, and lie abed until midday. The brunette, with slender—very slender limbs, will worry your soul—but with jealousy. The olive-skinned maid, with the pretty round limb, will make you happy. The blonde, with large limbs, will degenerate at thirty-five into the possession of a pair of ankles double the natural size, and afflicted with rheumatism. The fair-haired damsel, with thin limbs, will get up at half-past five in the morning to scold the servants, and will spend her nights talking scandal over tea. The little rosy girl, with a sturdy, muscular, well turned leg, will be just the girl you want. If you find a red-haired girl with a large limb pop the question at once. The short lady should always possess a slender limb; the tall lady should possess a large and ample one. No doubt these hints are reliable, and the prevailing fashions make them quite practical and available.

The Same Here.

The San Jose Mercury thus complains:

The Grass Valley Republican has come to us daily for the last three weeks marked "X" or "please X," on the wrapper of each number; and we have been Xing all the while. What is the matter Republican? Don't you receive the Mercury? If you do take your mail clerk out and kill him! His persistent Xpostulation Xasperates us. It makes us nervous.

That mail clerk has been Xing all round, and continues to do so. We do not suppose however, that the Grass Valley Republican people will have the nerve to destroy him. We have had to make away with several mail clerks; our last, as the Mercury well remember came to an untimely end on its account, This seems to have given it a taste for blood.

SYNOPSIS OF ARGUMENT:

The Doctor is a country schoolmaster. The scene opens with a recess in school, the monitor shows his authority and is used somewhat roughly. Dancing Fauns appears, and scatters the monitor, dancing with the girls. Valentine appears with his company, prevents Faust to receive his sister at the academy while he goes to fight for his country. The Dr. takes her and soon endeavors to analyze the feelings toward Marguerite and discovering that he never, never, sings for youth again. Mephisto observed promises the fulfilment of his desires, if he will sign the customary paper, but Faust refuses. Mephisto insists. Then follows a break up of school festive scenes in Jones' Wood &c. in the midst of which Valentine returns and discovering his sister struggling with Faust insists on a fight. Mephisto has the necessary implements, and at it they go in an original style which elicits much admiration. Poor Valentine is killed by Faust, and killed again by Mephisto. Marguerite and Faust are married and Valentine marches off, his ghost appears to the guilty couple, and insists on their going with him to the abode of his friend Mephisto, to which he takes them, to expiate their crimes in company with Members of Congress, &c., &c.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

A very large and highly delighted audience witnessed the production of the very attractive burnt cork version of Herve's opera of "Le Petit Faust" last night. It was a great success in every respect. The opening act in the school room abounds in comic episodes. The singing, the acting, the dressing of the characters, and the mise en scene were all capital. Leon as Marguerite will enable many to get over their disappointment in not hearing Kellogg. His vocalization was very fine, his acting superb and the primitive simplicity of his dresses was the general theme of conversation. Edwin Kelly played Dr. Faust admirably; Miss Fanny Gibson was very good as Mephisto, and S. Holdsworth, Bark, Swift, Foster, King and Mrs. Stockmeyer and Miss Roach gave most efficient support. "Le Petit Faust" will be repeated to-night. The last two scenes, new, are very good. The one representing the interior regions, with the Reynolds Brothers as dancing demons in the foreground, is particularly well worked up. Before the opera Kelly and Leon will repeat their funny extravaganza of "Domestic Bliss," and Emerson repeat his "Josephus Orangeblossom," and the new first part and interlude will be given, in both of which the inimitable Billy Emerson will appear in his original comicalities, and the Reynolds Brothers, Kelly and Leon and others will perform a diversified programme of dances, songs, duets and an amusing act. The Alhambra will be thronged to-night, as every one must see "Le Petit Faust."

Metropolitan Theatre.

The popular Charles Vivian will take his farewell benefit and bid adieu to his legion of friends who will doubtless crowd the Metropolitan Theatre on this occasion, to see the last of one who has given them so much amusement. Mr. Vivian positively leaves by the steamer to-morrow for Australia. The bill which he offers is worthy of the occasion; it appears in full on our first page. Many while listening to and looking at Vivian in his character songs, have said "what a good actor, he would make;" he is a good actor as he will prove to-night by his impersonation of Colander Yawn in the comedy of "Time Tries All." The performance will commence with "The Old Guard," with J. H. Vinson in his excellent characterization of Harrasack. James Carden, S. S. Purdy, M'lle Gangain, C. Vincent, Maggie Moore, Callie Curtis and others have all volunteered, and will appear in the songs, dances and recitations particularized in the programme. Give Vivian a bumper benefit, and send him off rejoicing to that distant land ten thousand miles away.

California Theatre.

Never was a new piece produced under circumstances more favorable to its success than was Col. W. H. L. Barnes' comedy of "Solid Silver" last night. The house was crowded with the friends of the author, every actor on the stage was a personal acquaintance and the management had spared neither time nor pains in producing it in perfect style. "Solid Silver" is a well-written play as far as the language goes, but there is somewhat too much of it, a fault common to all first productions. The first and second acts are rather tame, but the three other acts are full of life. The first act is a good deal like "The Romance of a Poor Young Man;" the second is mainly composed of something very much resembling the scene between Claude Melnotte and Widow Melnotte in "The Lady of Lyons;" but when we get into the mistletoe bough business in the third act and the hiding away in the old ruin takes place, the interest begins and is sustained to the end. Pierce Egan or G. W. R. Reynolds would have no scruple in making an aristocratically connected young lady marry a Cockney money lender who drops his h's and is a sort of Knuckle-down Johnny, therefore Colonel Barnes may of course marry John Sponge, Jr., to Kate Delaire. J. C. Williamson was the life of the piece and made his points in such telling style that he again and again brought down the house. Miss May Howard played the part of Bertha Huntington with much discretion and feeling; John McCullough was excellent as the crushed down Paul Weir and made the most of the situations afforded by the text. W. A. Mestayer as Captain Gerard Morris made a capital villain; Henry Edwards made quite a character out of Mr. Sponge; Mr. Sedley Smith was very natural as Oldcastle, and E. Leathes did a very neat bit of dialect acting in the part of Leon, the French valet. Miss Minnie Walton had a good part in Kate Delaire and availed herself of the occasions for raising a laugh which it presented, to the utmost, appearing to better advantage than in any character she has played for some time past. Mrs. C. N. Saunders was very good as the fussy Mrs. Busby, and Mrs. Judah as Widow Melnotte—Mrs. Weir we mean—delivered her virtuous speeches with good expression. Prune the first two acts considerably or make the play into three acts instead of five and it will be more of a success. "Solid Silver" will be played until further notice.

Vincent's Globe Theatre.

Purdy and Vincent cause the most boisterous fun in the first parts, and the finale, "Sleeping Beauties," is very mirth provoking. The Samwells-Nelson Ballet troupe give a capital performance. Carlova draws much applause. "Brussd and cured" as played by Purdy and Vincent is wonderfully funny, the African Dwarf Tommy is very comical, and "Divorce" is amusing. Novelties to suit the times are in preparation.

The Oxford.

Miss Amelia Dean and the troupe of pretty girls composing the female portion of the stronx company here are all favorites, and give a pleasing entertainment of songs and dances; Miss Lizzie Harmon's songs are always encored; the sweet music of the bells manipulated by the Lancashire bell ringers is generally admired, and the lively piece entitled the "Country Fair," winds up the fun.

San Francisco Musical Institute.

This evening the third subscription concert of the San Francisco Musical Institute will be given. While all the concerts have been excellent and have delighted those who can appreciate good music, this one will be more pleasing to the general public than either of its predecessors, on account of the number of solos by Miss J. C. Chapman Soprano, Signor Tojetti Tarenghi, harpiste, Mr. Gustav Heinrich, clarionet player, and Mr. Louis Hohmeyer, violinist. Seats can be secured at the hall to-day without extra charge.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day

Bella Union.

The new features of last night's entertainment, were highly successful. Carrie Chapman's song and dance, "Ragged Nan," was much applauded. The new act of "Honesty vs. Dishonesty," by Len McCarthy, Carrie Chapman and Chris. Mathews, caused roars of laughter. Miss Josephine made a decided hit in her song and dance, and the sensational extravaganza, "The Rival Naiads, or the Demon Frog" went off capitally, Minnie Fillmore and Marie Zoel looking very pretty as the Naiads and Minnie Corbyn, Fanny Garretson, Eugenia Gerretts, Carrie Armstrong, May Leroy, Maggie Brower and others filling their respective parts well.

Birthday of W. H. Sedley Smith.

Yesterday being the 74th birthday of W. H. Sedley Smith, the stage-manager of the California Theatre, he was the recipient of a handsome amethyst ring from the supernumeraries of the theatre, all from the highest to the lowest wishing the genial old gentleman many happy returns of the day.

The Evening Post.

A new evening penny journal bearing this title appeared yesterday. It is published by Hinton, Rapp & Co., and edited by Harry George and his horse. It is very small, the whole sheet being but little larger than a single page of FIGARO. It is a neat little—O, pshaw! It's too small to give it an extended notice. When it gets as big as the Alta we will give it a column.

When is a woman not a woman?—When she is a little deer.

The surest way to lose your health is to keep drinking other people's

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence sfor shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

Theatrical Supper Rooms.

In all the large cities in the world there are adjoining the chief theatres supper rooms where the audience, after witnessing the play, and the actors, after taking part in it, adjourn to enjoy a meal. Such a place is Jones's Oyster and Ice Cream Saloon, in the California Theatre building, immediately adjoining the entrance, where game suppers, Eastern oysters, terrapin stews, and everything that can suit the taste of an epicure, will be served up at all hours of the night, under the experienced supervision of Frank Dumont. Attached to the saloon are private rooms for families and supper parties. Try Jones's. E

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and commends itself to all classes.

Who that has struggled with the ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with loss of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress-art can smooth that "wrinkled front," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the slop-worm, worried garment will not last long.

My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.

Woman's Suffrage Meeting.

A meeting of the Woman's Suffrage Council will be held at the Congregational Church Sacramento, on Thursday and Friday next, for the purpose of considering the Woman's Suffrage question from the new stand point, that is: that women are under the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution, citizens and entitled to all the rights and priviliges of citizens. Miss Susan B. Anthony, Mrs. Laura De Force Gordon and other well known speakers will address the meeting on both occasions. A committee of ladies will be formed to receive and pay attention to strangers visiting the city.

Cautious Man.

The editor of the Grass Valley Republican says:—

Last evening we received a poetical effusion ridiculing "devils" in general. We decline to publish the "effusion." It is bad enough for us to incur the enmity of men by publishing something obnoxious to them, but to publish a triade against the arch enemy of mankind, and incur his hostility, is asking too much of us.

That's right, don't let the devil have anything against you and he'll make it as comfortable as circumstances will admit of when you go to him. Some of those abusive persons will get it hot.

The Late Assault.

The Chronicle has for some time past persistently attacked Judge Lake of the Municipal Court of this city, and striven in every way to prove that he was unfit for the position which he occupies. At the last election it exerted its influence to the utmost to prevent his reelection and he was not elected. This is, we believe, the sum of the injuries received by Judge Lake at the hands of the proprietors of the Chronicle. The law, of which he was one of the administrators, would afford him no redress. He was a judge, his decisions were open to criticism by the public and the press; he was a candidate for reelection; the public and the press had a right to speak for or against him. Judge Lake had suffered injuries; he was determined to be revenged. Revenge is a thing which must be obtained outside of the law, or in spite of the law. Delos Lake, Judge of the Municipal Court of this city, on Friday last, armed with a pistol, assaulted with deadly intent Charles De Young, proprietor of the Chronicle, with the purpose of avenging himself on his person for the animadversions he had allowed to appear in his paper. In whatever aspect this occurrence is viewed it is disgraceful. Judge Lake had made himself notorious by the severity of the sentences he imposed on those who took the law into their own hands and committed violence on the persons of others. It was as a judge, not as a citizen, that his acts had been criticised. Judge Lake is, compared to Charles De Young, a giant; he needed no arms to make him equal to the task of chastising him. That pistol was used not for the purpose of protecting himself, but of killing Charles De Young. Judge Lake cannot expect the slightest countenance or sympathy from the respectable portion of the community in the course he has pursued. It is true that the Chronicle had before by its reckless attacks on the character of private citizens brought the life of its proprietor into imminent jeopardy, and the public might either in the Friedlander or McKinstry case partially excused a personal assault on Mr. De Young. But this case is very different. The attack was cowardly, ruffianly and unnecessary, and must be reprobated by all decent men. Let us be thankful that Judge Lake was not re-elected, and furthermore, that having shown his character so truly, he has no chance of ever again being elected to the Bench. The comments of the Press of San Francisco with the one exception of the Bulletin, have been truckling and cowardly. The Alta owes its existence and present prosperity to its bold endorsement of the public uprising! which followed an outrage in many respects similar to the one of which we now speak—the killing of James King of William of the Bulletin by Casey. The course of the Alta in this matter is particularly inexcusable.

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. PUBLIC OF SAN FRANCISCO.

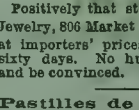
ALHAMBRA THEATRE, SAN FRANCISCO,
December 3d, 1871.



I cannot leave without expressing my thanks for the many kind attentions I have received during my stay in your city—everybody has been my friend and I should have liked to shake every body by the hand before leaving. San Francisco is one of the pleasantest cities I ever sojourned in, and I could live and die here—I could indeed. However, I must go away for a time to return again, I hope and trust, before very long and with the heartfelt thanks for the universal kindness extended to me by both the public and the profession, I bid all good bye. SYNOPSIS OF ARGUMENT:

The Doctor is a country schoolmaster. The scene opens with a recess in school. The monitor shows his authority and is used somewhat roughly. Doctor Faust appears, and assumes the monitor of dancing with the girls. Valentine appears with his company prevails on Faust to receive his sister in his academy while he goes to fight for his country. The Dr. takes her, and soon endeavors to analyze his feelings toward Marguerite, and discovering that he loves her, longs for youth again. Mephisto enters and promises the fulfilment of his desires, if he will sign the customary paper, but Faust refuses. Mephisto insists. Then follows a break up of school, festive scenes in Jesus' Wood, &c. In the midst of which Valentine returns and discovering his sister struggling with Faust, insists on a fight. Mephisto has the necessary implements, and at it they go in an original style which elicits much admiration. Poor Valentine is killed by Faust, and killed again by his sister. Marguerite and Faust are married, and Valentine marches off, his ghost appears to the guilty couple and insists on their going with him to the abode of his friend Mephisto, to which he takes them, to expiate their crimes in company with Members of Congress, &c., &c.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

The play of "Solid Silver" judiciously cut, was performed before another large audience last night, and went off in a much more spirited style than on the first night. No play can possibly be tedious in which J. C. Williamson plays a prominent part, and his Sponge Jr in "Solid Silver," is the life of the piece. "Solid Silver" will be played every night this week and at the matinee on Saturday.

Alhambra Theatre.

This theatre is nightly thronged and all are delighted with the performance. Last night Billy Emerson gave his song and dance of "Josephus Orangeblossom," and in response to repeated encores, "Patchouli," "Captain Junks," and his very amusing serio-comic ballad of "Seven Out." The Lehler Brothers' cornet duet was much applauded. Kelly and Leon caused much fun in the sketch of "Domestic Bliss: the Reynolds Brothers drew great applause in "The Two Dromios," and Le Petit Faust with its new scenery, charming music, comical dialogue, and the only Leon as the fair Marguerite kept the audience in high good humor.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The public of San Francisco proved their appreciation of Charles Vivian in a substantial manner last night by flocking to the Metropolitan Theatre to say good bye. He was encored again and again and at the end of his part of the entertainment thanked the public heartily for the many kindnesses they had shown him individually and collectively and assured them that however short the time might be between his departure and return, it would seem long to him, as he liked no place in the world better than San Francisco. To-night "The Colleen Bawn" will be produced and Miss Ellie Wilton will make her first appearance at this theatre in the character of Elly O'Connor. "Bertha, the Sewing Machine Girl" is nearly ready for production.

Bella Union.

First part, interlude and afterpiece at this popular theatre are all bright, lively and amusing. Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin have made a great hit in the double song and dance entitled "Deutsche Courtship;" Eugenie Gerretta's classic statues are much admired; Carrie Chapman and Lon McCarthy cause much fun in the new act entitled "Honesty vs. Dishonesty," and the sensational extravaganza of "The Rival Naiads; or, the Demon Frog," is full of fun, good music and pretty girls. To-night the charming character vocalist, Miss Maggie Knight will make her first appearance at this house. Miss Della Smythe will shortly appear.

Vincent's Globe Theatre.

Sam Purdy is an immense favorite at this house. The African Dwarf, Tommy, is a great sensation; Carlova, the Dutch Leon, is a popular feature in the entertainment, and the performances of the Samwell's and Nelson Ballet Troupe are heartily enjoyed by the audience. To-night a new finale to the first part entitled "Circus Scenes" will be given. An original play entitled "The Trial of Brigham Young," by the author of "Through by Midnight," "Mose," etc., is in rehearsal.

The Oxford.

In addition to the attractions offered by Miss Amelia Dean, Lizzie Harmon, Fanny Webster, Nellie Leonard and the great band of male and female minstrels, the management announce the engagement of the popular vocalist and danseuse M'lle Blanche, and the reappearance of Johnny Price.

San Francisco Musical Institute.

The concert of this Association at Pacific Hall last night was enjoyed by a very large and fashionable audience. The programme was a good one and was well performed. Miss Chapman sang a Christmas Hymn with exquisite feeling; Mr. Hohmeyer caused quite a sensation among the musical critics by his remarkable execution on the violin, and Mr. Heinrichs gained much applause for his clarionet playing. These concerts are a great treat to those who love music, and we hope that they will never be allowed to cease from want of patronage.

Y. M. C. Hall.

This Hall at present forms a most agreeable lounging place in which to pass away an hour or two in the evening. It is filled with beautiful things suitable for holiday presents, and vocal and instrumental music and tableaux are presented for the entertainment of visitors.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Sacramento Varieties.

The old Academy of Music, Sacramento, was opened under the above title last night by B. Chamberlain, with a company comprising Alice Le Favre, Johnny Manning, Ethel and Edgar Stanley and others. R. G. Marsh is stage manager

A Virtuous Lover.

A girl in Cincinnati advertises for somebody to love her, and she says she will give him $200 if he will do it in a "virtuous and gentle manner." Send on the $200 and we'll furnish the man. He is young, good-looking and of genteel manners. He wouldn't kiss a girl, even if she asked him; and as to placing his arm around that portion of a woman where the receptacle of food begins, tortures the most terrible couldn't induce him to do it. He can bill and coo like a turtledove, and go away in the evening in the most seraphic temper even when he has seen the girl of his heart smiling upon his rival. He is so virtuous that he was never known to take advantage of even a blind man to make faces at him. He's just the chap to make love in a "virtuous and gentle manner." Perhaps that's the reason he hasn't been more successful with the fair sex of this neighborhood.

Just So.

A pretty young lady delivered a lecture in Ohio the other day, in the course of which she said: "If all women are free lovers it will do no harm unless men are free lovers too. If we are free lovers we are in good company such as Washington, Jefferson, Jackson, and Richard M. Johnson."

Labor Reform.

A misanthropic Newfoundland dog turns a cider-mill in a confectioner's window on Third avenue New York, twelve hours a day. The dolorous humiliated expression the poor creature wears, is a mute argument for labor reform.

Dirty Work.

A certain attorney, who was remarkable for coming into court with dirty hands, observed "that he had been turning over coke!" exclaimed a waggish brother; "I should think it was coal by the looks of your hands!"

YOUNG MAN, the holidays are near at hand; don't make presents of jewgaws and jewelry; make your mother a present, or your sister; if you are not blessed with a sister, make somebody else's sister a present—a fine set of lace curtains, an elegant body of Brussels carpet, a fine rug, a splendid parlor or chamber set. The people will all talk. The neighbors will all talk of that clear-headed and sensible young man. That is the way a certain young man married a fortune not long since. The old folks watched him, tested him, and then gave their consent; and as it is a great marrying time about the holidays, we would advise any, and all of our friends in the city and country both, if you want an elegant outfit for about one-half that you can get it elsewhere, go to JOHN C. BELL'S Carpet and Furniture Emporium, nearly opposite the Grand Hotel, on Market, and opposite the Occidental on Sutter street. Everybody knows that he makes all newly married parties an elegant present regardless of expense. Say to him that you are going to be married, and he will take the hint. Try it and then you will "KNOW HOW IT IS YOURSELF." F

Bath!

All the papers in the country are copying the following paragraph:—

Paris has imposed a tax on cats of sixty cents a head per annum. This is as outrageous as the infamous English bread tax.

What is there outrageous about it we should like to know? If dogs are taxed, cats ought to be. The fact is, there are a great many too many cats in the world—more than catch mice. Half of the cats are nothing better than disreputable vagrants who go miawing round after dark making night hideous. If a cat is worth keeping, it is worth paying sixty cents a year tax for.—Tax the cats!

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and commends itself to all classes.

Who that has struggled with the ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with loss of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress-art can smooth that "wrinkled front," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the slop-worn, worried garment will not last long.

My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.

The Public will please take notice that Too Poetical.

Mr. D. B. of Stockton, has been badly treated by some 'gurl" and he gushes in rhyme about it in the Independent. She jilted him, and he tells her to go and blow about it. Thus:

Boast—as did Roman of a ruder day
With gloating eyes upon the dolphin'd dish;
His soul glow'd rapturous to thus behold
How tortues tinted the poor quiv'ring fi-h—
You stood exultant, while this stricken soul,
Its writhing records of a grief too human Pour'd forth to listless ears—or how you were
Unmov'd and calm—a smiling saint—a woman.

Now, although we are willing to give a poet the widest possible licence we must object to Mr. D, B's. talking of a "dolphin'd dish," when it is evident he means dished dolphin. Mr. D. B. in his present fix, is something like a dished dolphin!

New York Idiots.

The Washington Sunday Chronicle says: "There is at least one man in Washington whom all New York is anxious to 'put a head on.' It is the chap who compiles the census reports. He is too truthful for Gotham—disgustingly truthful. In his return, he says: 'The number of idiots in New York, is more than one-tenth the idiots in the whole country.' Here we have the secret of Tammany's long continued career of success."

Ineffectual.

A man out West read that dry copperas put into a bed of ants would cause them to leave, and put some in his mother-in-law's bed to see if she wouldn't go. It didn't affect the mother-in-law in the least. At latest accounts she continued to occupy the best bed in the house and "boss" the whole family. He thinks next time he'll try whether three or four pounds of nitro-glycerine won't move the old woman a peg.

LETTER FROM AUSTRALIA.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

MELBOURNE, October 23d, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO:—Our mail service with your part of the world has latterly been very unsatisfactory, and the deliberations at the late conference (at which delegates from all the colonies were present) in Melbourne are not likely to smooth matters, but on the contrary to increase complications in the postal service between Australia and America via San Francisco. However, as the steamer Nevada leaves Sydney in a few days, I take the last opportunity to send my budget of news. By the way, as a matter of fact, the Nevada and the City of Melbourne arrived at Sydney on the morning of the 19th inst. from San Francisco, the latter leaving the former about twenty miles behind when she entered the Sydney Heads. It is stated that they left your city on the same day and at the same hour. If that is the case, score one to us quiet-going Australians.

TWO THEATRES SUCCESSFUL.

The problem as to whether Melbourne can support two theatres open at the same time has now been most satisfactorily solved. The healthy competition which has now been established between two energetic managements has thrown an interest and vitality into Melbourne theatrical life which is fast becoming apparent, and the public are influenced by the enthusiasm of the rival caterers for their patronage. It is plainly manifest to the least observant that more people are now attending the theatres than for a long period previous, and this is entirely attributable to the increased vigor displayed by the rival managers. Since the days of Barry Sullivan until this present time there has not been a really legitimate opposition in this city. During the regime of Harwood & Co., who for some time held a complete monopoly of our places of amusement, when a cry was raised to have two theatres open those very spirited gentlemen, with a great outward show of giving vitality to the popular wish, would open one or other of the theatres as a second or minor house, but with the opening of its portals there was a premeditated determination to fail. An inferior company (as a company, mind), inferior scenery, an incompetent and miserable orchestra and a scratch entertainment were presented with a great flourish of advertisements and showy posters. Of a necessity failure ensued, much to the satisfaction of the managers, who then turned round upon the public, exclaiming: "See! we have opened a second theatre, and from want of patronage have been compelled to close the place. We have proved that Melbourne can only support one theatre." Thanks, however, to the spirited management of L. M. Bayless, a distinct proof is given that two theatres properly conducted will meet with most liberal support.

MRS. MARY GLADSTANE.

This really talented artiste is the main attraction at the Opera House, and to night she commences her twenty-fourth week in this city. Her success in these colonies is unprecedented, but certainly not more than her undoubted qualifications deserve, and her popularity increases with every fresh impersonation she essays. I confidently assert that we have never had so clever an actress in these parts before. Tragedy or comedy alike within her range—in the former combining the intensity of Miss Glyn with the stately grandeur of Mrs. Charles Kean, and in the latter displaying comic powers on a par with Miss Sedgwick. Since her last appearance in this city Mrs. Gladstane has completed a gratifying country tour, visiting in succession Sandhurst, Castlemaine, Ballarat and Geelong, which was followed by an eight weeks' season in Adelaide, S. A.

PRINCESS OPERA HOUSE

Was opened for a season on the 9th of last month by L. M. Bayless, who with characteristic determination to succeed, gathered under his banner the largest and best company seen in Melbourne for many years, provided entirely new stock scenery and the most appropriate appointments that have for many years been placed on the Melbourne stage. The newest plays of modern times have been presented with every attention to detail, and and every exertion has been made, both before and behind the curtain, to provide for the amusement and comfort of the play goers. The result has been crowded houses every night, and very often money turned away from the door. The opening play was "New Men and Old Acres," and was followed in quick succession by "Lost in London," "Oliver Twist," and other popular dramas. The one now running is a local piece called "Foiled," and written by Mr. Walter Cooper, who has been connected with the press in these colonies for many years. His drama has been most successful, as the lessee, Mr. Bayless, spared neither time nor expense in its production. The company here consists of Mrs. Mary Gladstane (as the star attraction), Mrs. Charles Jones, Miss Hattie Shepparde, Mrs. Lachlan-McGowan, Miss Jenny Brice and Miss Fanny Hart, Messrs. Stuart, O'Brien, R. W. Lawrence, F. C. Appleton, L. McGowan, H. Daniels, G. W. Collier, H. U. Douglas, George, Cesar, Leicester, Russell and Wilson.

THE ZAVISTOWSKI SISTERS

Have been one of the greatest disappointments we have had in this town for many years. Long before they arrived they were heralded as attractions of the first order, and the excitement, thanks to Mr. George Coppin, was daily kept up to fever heat. They gave their initial performance on the 9th of September last at the Theatre Royal before a house crammed from floor to ceiling and met with a most enthusiastic reception in the burlesque of "Ixion." I regret to have to say that I consider them infinitely inferior to other burlesque actresses we have had here and this opinion is shared in by the bulk of our playgoers I candidly confess I detest burlesque, and if in such productions as "Ixion," and "Paris," the aim and object of the management of the Theatre Royal is to disgust the public with burlesque and the very name of it the purpose appears to be in a fair way of speedy accomplishment, and one or two more "Grand Combinations of the Z. Trio" will more than likely complete the object alluded to. The ladies are immense on dressing, but have as yet shown very little talent in any branch of their art. I still more regret their non-success on Mr. Coppin's account, as I am aware that to obtain the best talent from all parts of the world is the aim and ambition of his life. I am much under the impression that he is himself greatly disappointed at the very meagre role of characters the "charming trio" can fulfil. All their burlesques are as old as the hills, and have been far better played on the same boards in "days of yore." It is rumored that with the close of their engagement, two weeks hence, they will return direct to California. In another way these ladies have been very unfortunate. A few evenings ago their residence was broken into while they were at the theatre and over £300 worth of their jewelry was taken; up to the present no clue has been obtained either to the thieves or the plunder.

THEATRE ROYAL.

Opened on the 9th of last month with the "Z." trio. "Ixion" was the opening burlesque, and in its production the management spared neither pains or expense to give "go" to the piece. The scenery was in John Henning's best style and that is saying all that need be said to convey the idea that it was of the most splendid description. The dresses and appointments were excellent, but, with the recollection of how much better it was done some few years back in this city, the burlesque after the novelty of first appearances wore off, "dragged its slow length along," and was succeeded by "The Field of the Cloth of Gold," followed by "Paris" and now "Cinderella" is the current attraction. Miss Ohristine has also appeared as the French Spy, and in "The Wept of the Wish Ton Wish," in both of which she displayed pantomimic powers of a very high order. In such parts she is very efficient—in burlesque she is simply vulgar. The company at this house consists of Miss Eloise Juno, Mrs. Wooldridge, Miss Julia Milne and Miss Benneson. Messrs. G. R. Ireland, G. H Rogers, Gladstone, H. Sefton, G. Leopold, R. Roberts, I. Milne, Con Warde and J. R. Greville. In the course of a few weeks Mr. Coppin anticipates the arrival from London of Miss Liverstone, from the Haymarket Theatre. He is also expecting some other novelties from your city.

DUKE OF EDINBURG THEATRE BURNED DOWN.

This sad event took place on Friday, the 2nd of September at a little past eight in the evening and was without doubt the greatest conflagration we have had in Melbourne in many years. In less than an hour the wreck was complete and nothing but the bare walls were standing. The theatre was rented by Mr. Coppin but has been closed for some weeks. The cause of the fire is enveloped in mystery, but few people, however, regret the destruction of the "Sleepy Hollow."

AUSTRALIAN DRAMATIC ASSOCIATION.

Since my last communication and through the instrumentality of Mr. George Coppin, a society called "The Australian Dramatic, Operatic, Musical and Equestrian Association," has been formed and partly started. At a meeting of the Council held last week the following gentlemen were elected to the various offices: George Coppin, Master; Julius Leide, Deputy Master; William Pitt, Treasurer; Jos. Simmons, Cor. Secretary; J. R. Greville and Richard Stewart, trustees, and L. L. Smith, Hon. Surgeon. The Council for the remainder of the year to be Messrs. G. Coppin J. Leide, J. Simmons, W. F. Lyster, Chapman, G. W. Collier, Loyal, Capper, Pitt, McGowan, Hennings, Wilson, and F. Coppin. There is every reason to believe that this association will be a most successful one for all branches of the profession.

CALL BOY.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence sfor shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers, G

Theatrical Supper Rooms.

In all the large cities in the world there are adjoining the chief theatres supper rooms where the audience, after witnessing the play, and the actors, after taking part in it, adjourn to enjoy a meal. Such a place is Jones's Oyster and Ice Cream Saloon, in the California, Theatre building, immediately adjoining the entrance, where game suppers, Eastern oysters, terrapin stews, and everything that can suit the taste of an epicure, will be served up at all hours of the night, under the experienced supervision of Frank Dumont. Attached to the saloon are private rooms for families and supper parties. Try Jones's. K

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and commends itself to all classes.

Who that has struggled with the ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with loss of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress—art can smooth that "wrinkled front," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the slop-worn, worried garment will not last long.

My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.

The Public will please take notice that

Tragedy And Comedy Together.

Mrs. Fanny Kemble gives an amusing account of a performance of the last scene of "Romeo and Juliet," not as it seemed to the spectators, but as it really was, with the whispered communications of the actors. Romeo, at the words, "Quick! let me snatch thee by thy Romeo's arms," pounced upon his playfellow, plucked her up in his arms, like an uncomfortable bundle, and staggered down the stage with her. Juliet whispers: "Oh! you've got me up horribly. That'll never do; let me down; pray let me down!" But Romeo proceeds, from the acting version of the play, be it understood:

There, breathe a vital spirit on thy lips,
And call these back, my soul, to life and love!

Juliet continues to whisper: "Pray put me down; you'll certainly throw me down if you don't set me down on the ground directly." In the midst of "cruel cursed fate," his dagger fell out of his dress. I, embracing him tenderly, crammed it back again, because I knew I should want it at the end. The performance thus went on:

Romeo—Tear not my heart-strings thus!
They break! they crack! Juliet! Juliet!
(Dies.)

Juliet (to corpse)—Am I smothering you?

Corpse—Not at all. But could you, do you think, be so kind as to put my wig on again for me? It has fallen off.

Juliet (to corpse)—I'm afraid I can't, but I'll throw my muslin veil over it. You've broken the vial haven't you? (corpse nodded).

Juliet (to corpse)—Where's your dagger?

Corpse (to Juliet)—'Pon my soul, I don't know.

A Tough Fly.

A Montgomery bar-room has an educated fly which obeys the commands of its master, when told to rub its head, walk lame, shoulder arms, etc. For some time the master found it difficult to tell the pet from other flies, and so tied a blue ribbbon around its neck. The gun which it uses is an old Confederate army musket, and in walking lame the other day, it stumped its toe and fell down and has since been confined to its room. Its physicians are of the opinion that it will recover.

A Gent'emanly Burglar.

A burglar was caught at Somerville from the circumstance of meeting a young lady in one of the rooms in her night-clothes. On seeing him she fainted and fell into his arms and when the people of the house came in he was trying to bring her to with a bottle of camphor. He said no gentleman would go off and leave a lady in such a condition as that.

"Art Criticisms."

The Opera House at Corinne, Utah Territory has lately had a new drop scene painted and, under the above heading the Reporter, of the 29th ult., tells its readers what people said of it:

There are some persons in every community who will, whether they are capable or not, insist on thrusting their views as connoisseurs on every work of art, whether at be a mouse-trap by some village tradesman, or Yo Semite on the canvas of Bierstadt. Such an audacious crew did our Local fall in with last night during the intermission of the concert. The magnificent drop curtain is the proscenium of the Opera House was the subject of criticism. Says McC. from over the track: "It looks like the groans of the damned!" to which McC. of this side the rail, who is immense at reviewing, retorts with a sneer: "No such thing, sir! that's the Devil's gate with the hinges broke off." Subsequently, this blunder cost its author six bits. "I never saw anything like it before," said C.; "But I did declared W. W. H.; who insisted that it was "a picture of the fatted calf." Here, a lady turning round took part in the animated discussion, and soon showed the vacuum in her phrenology, by partly holding that the curtain was a representation of "Just before the Battle Mother." This brought a remark from F. R.; who thought he had discovered "The origin and cause of cholera morbus" on the scene. T. H., put in his oar, politely saying that "he was confident that the artist intended the work for a draft of Brigham Young's death warrant." Still worse, was the remark of L. M. P., which he gave with great weight namely, "that it was the interior of a female-suffrage ballot-box." C. N. R., who is a fence painter by trade, hurled these syllables from his tobacco pouch: "Why, these are the Ogden tin mines!" W. T. F., better assured, would have it that "it was the Endowment House, capsized." N. S. B., said, "It is a conundrum," and S. G. knew it "to be the way to be happy," while close by, chuckled F. G. B., waiting to say that "it was a sorghum factory." A. A. D., shouts, "I behold the elysium of eggnoggers." "Reminds me of Plantation Bitters," quoth R. W. S. "Surely I see Carmichael on the dump," cries W. H., whereat Miss X., ridiculously asserted that she "recognized where the House that Jack built stood," and yet another of the fair sex could not be mistaken in pointing out "The Merry Wives of Winsor way up in a balloon boys." These are a few of the many sapient expressions made in about five minutes, by persons whose claims to the knowledge of art matters are not founded upon very extensive acquaintance with the subject, but we shall not undertake to go into a lengthy argument upon such a theme without knowing better how to handle it.

An Upsetting Sin.

Dr. M'Cosh, president of Princeton College tells the story of a negro who prayed earnestly that he and his colored brethren might be preserved from what he called their "upsettin' sins."

"Brudder," said one of his friends, at the close of the meeting, "you ain't got de hang ob dat ar word; it's 'besettin' not upsettin'."

"Brudder," replied the other, "if dat's so, it's so. But I was a prayin' de Lord to babe us from de sin ob intoxication, an if dat ain't a upsettin' sin I don't know what am!"

Republicans Are Ungrateful.

Mr. Crane nominated for Sergeant-at-Arms of the Assembly, Major Jack Staiman, whom he described as "a man who has grown gray in the service of the party; a man who undoubtedly did as much to secure the election of President Grant as any in the State, in proportion to his abilities." Jack got one vote!

Inconsistent.

Fashionable young lady—Oh! papa, you must let me go to the concert! I am so fond of music." Juvenile brother (triumphantly) "Then why don't you let me play my drum?"

An Indiana editor says:—"We leave tomorrow for the county hog show and hope to take the prize."

Fashion.

Fashion kills more women than toil or sorrow. Obedience to fashion is a greater transgression of the laws of women's nature, and a greater injury to her physical and mental constitution, than the hardships of poverty or neglect. The slave woman at her task will live and grow old, and see two or three generations of her mistresses pass away. The washerwoman who has scarce a ray of hope to cheer her in her toils, will live to see her fashionable sisters all extinct. The kitchen maid is hearty and strong, when her lady has to be nursed like a sick baby. It is a sad truth, that fashion-pampered women are almost worthless for all good ends of life; they have little force of character, and still less power of moral will and quite as little moral energy. They live for no purpose in life—accomplish no great end. They are dolls in the hands of milliners and servants, to be dressed and fed in order. If they bear children, nurses do all the rearing and training; and when reared, what are they? what do they ever amount to but weak scions of the old stock? Who ever heard of a fashionable women's child exhibiting any virtues, any power of mind for which it became eminent? Read the biographies of our great and good men and women. No one of them had a fashionable mother. They nearly all sprang from women who had as little to do with fashion as with the changing clouds.

A Bad Company.

An Illinois paper edited by Mr. Stoel, says: A printer last week proposed to go into partnership with us. His name was Doolittle. The firm name would sound very bad, either way you put it—Steel & Doolittle, or Doolittle & Steel. We can't join. One of us would be in the poor house and the other in the penitentiary.

Unexpressed.

A judge in Indiana threatened to fine a lawyer for contempt of court. "I have expressed no contempt for the court," said the lawyer; "on the contrary, I have carefully concealed my feelings."

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

Theatrical Supper Rooms.

In all the large cities in the world there are adjoining the chief theatres supper rooms where the audience, after witnessing the play, and the actors, after taking part in it, adjourn to enjoy a meal. Such a place is Jones's Oyster and Ice Cream Saloon, in the California Theatre building, immediately adjoining the entrance, where game suppers, Eastern oysters, terrapin stews, and everything that can suit the taste of an epicure, will be served up at all hours of the night, under the experienced supervision of Frank Dumont. Attached to the saloon are private rooms for families and supper parties. Try Jones's. K

Cool.

The editor of a magazine in New York City has actually received MSS. from persons who say that they "have had no experience in writing, no intellectual training of any kind in fact; but want to make money with their pens so as to be able to give themselves the education which they feel they stand so much in need of."

A good many editors in California are educating themselves at the expense of their readers. The more ignorant a man is, the more delight he takes in thrusting himself into print. 'Tis true, 'tis pity; pity 'tis, 'tis true.

Valentine	W Rich Monitor
Dosire	S Holdsworth Agnes
Siebe	O Foster Lizette
Marguerite	LEON

SYNOPSIS OF ARGUMENT:

The Doctor is a country schoolmaster. The scene opens with a recess in school: the monitor shows his authority and is used somewhat roughly. Doctor Faust appears, and accuses the monitor of dancing with the girls. Valentine appears with his company, prevails on Faust to receive his sister in his academy while he goes to fight for his country. The Dr. takes her, and soon endeavors to analyze his feelings toward Marguerite, and discovering that he loves her, longs for youth again. Mephisto enters and promises the fulfilment of his desires, if he will sign the customary paper, but Faust refuses. Mephisto insists. Then follows a break up of school, festive scenes in Jones' Wood &c., in the midst of which Valentine returns and discovering his sister struggling with Faust, insists on a fight. Mephisto has the necessary implements, and as they go in an original style which elicits much admiration. Poor Valentine is killed by Faust, and killed again by his sister. Marguerite and Faust are married, and Valentine marches off, his ghost appears to the guilty couple, and insists on their going with him to the abode of his friend Mephisto, to which he takes them, to expiate their crimes in company with Members of Congress, &c., &c.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Alhambra Theatre.

Billy Emerson, the versatile and original, will present some of his amusing comicalities. Leon will appear in a farce, and the very entertaining burnt cork opera bouffe entitled "Le Petit Faust," will terminate the evening's amusement. "Petit Faust" matinee on Saturday.

California Theatre.

Col. Barnes' play of "Solid Silver," with its sparkling dialogue, amusing situations and beautiful scenery, by Porter, will be played again to-night. "Solid Silver" matinee on Saturday.

Metropolitan Theatre.

If the audience present last night when "The Colleen Bawn" was produced was not a very large one, it made up in enthusiasm what it lacked in numbers. Miss Ella Wilton, who made her first appearance at this house last night, played the part of Eily O'Connor with admirable feeling and expression and made a decided success, being called before the curtain to receive the congratulations of the audience. She is young, pretty, and has had considerable experience on the stage; she will be favorite. J. H. Vinson was effective as Danny Mann. G. B. Waldron presented a powerful and original impersonation of Miles Na Coppaleen; Maggie Moore was immense as Sheelah, and the play gave general satisfaction. It will be repeated to-night. Saturday at 2, "Colleen Bawn."

Bella Union.

Maggie Knight in character songs; Eugenie Gerretts in classical statues: Fanny Garretson in sweet ballads; Carrie Chapman and Lon McCarty in an amusing act, and many others will appear this evening. The attractive extravaganza of "The Rival Naiads" will terminate the entertainment.

Vincent's Globe Theatre.

To-night the new comic ballet entitled "Don Juan" will be presented for the first time, and another novelty will be the production of the screaming farce of "The Four Galoots," in which Purdy, Vincent, Samwells, Hughy Morton and Lizzie Worrell will appear.

The Oxford.

Amelia Dean and her company of pretty girls in songs, dances and acts, present a very lively entertainment, and the rattling sketch of "The Country Fair" winds up an evening of mirth and melody.

Y. M. C. A. Hall.

A variety of beautiful tableaux vivants will be exhibited this evening at the Christmas Bazaar now being held at this hall.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

Useful in Time.

A newly married lady in Chicago complained to her ma that on her reception day her card basket was overrun with circulars from lawyers announcing terms for divorces "So absurd you know, ma, before our honeymoon is over." "True dear," replied ma, (who had been twice divorced), "but I'd put them in a safe place; you may find them very useful in a year or two."

Apt Comparison.

A female "pussen of culláh," was asked a few days since why she never wore white as black women were fond of decking themselves out in snowy apparel. "Kaise," said she, "I allus thinks a white dress makes a nigger look like a fly in a pan of milk."

An Irish Judge said, when addressing a prisoner, "You are to be hanged, and I hope it will be a warning to you."

Christmas Candies.

The best selected and greatest variety of Sugar Toys and Fancy Boxes at the most reasonable prices, at J. Vogeley & Bros., Candy Manufactory, 126 Kearny st., near Sutter, and 46 Second st. E

YOUNG MAN, the holidays are near at hand; don't make presents of jewgage and jewelry; make your mother a present, or your sister; if you are not blessed with a sister, make somebody else's sister a present—a due set of lace curtains, an elegant body of Brussels carpet, a fine rug, a splendid parlor or chamber set. The people will all talk. The neighbors will all talk of that clear-headed and sensible young man. That is the way a certain young man married a fortune not long since. The old folks watched him, tested him, and then gave their consent; and as it is a great marrying time about the holidays, we would advise any, and all of our friends in the city and country both, if you want an elegant outfit for about one-half that you can get it elsewhere, go to JOHN C. BELL'S Carpet and Furniture Emporium, nearly opposite the Grand Hotel, on Market, and opposite the Occidental on Sutter street. Everybody knows that he makes all newly married parties an elegant present regardless of expense. Say to him that you are going to be married, and he will take the hint. Try it and then you will "KNOW HOW IT IS YOURSELF." F

How To Get Along:

Do not stop to tell stories in business hours.

If you have a place of business, be found there when wanted.

No man can get rich by sitting around stores and saloons.

Never "fool" in business matters.

Have order, system, regularity, liberality, and promptness.

Do not meddle with business you know nothing of.

Never buy an article you do not need simply because it is cheap, and the man who sells will take it out in trade.

Trade is money.

Strive to avoid hard words and personalities.

Do not kick every stone in the path. More miles can be made in a day by going steadily on than by stopping.

Pay as you go.

A man of honor respects his word as he does his bond,

Aid, but never beg.

Help others, when you can; but never give what you cannot afford to, simply because it is fashionable.

Learn to say "no." No necessity for snapping it out dog-fashion, but say it firmly and respectfully

Have but few confidants, and the fewer the better.

Use your own brains rather than those of others.

Learn to think and act for yourself.

Be vigilant.

Keep ahead rather than behind the times.

Mistaken.

A party of young sports driving through Danbury, Massachusetts, on Sunday, attracted the attention and excited the pity of an elderly gentleman on the walk. Raising his hand reprovingly, he kindly remarked: 'Young men, you are breaking the Sabbath!' 'No sir,' politely observed a serious chap on the back seat, 'we are going to make a whole day of it.' And before our aged friend could recover himself, the graceless scamps were out of sight.

Modest John.

"John," said a master to his apprentice, as he was about starting on a short journey, "you must occupy my place while I'm gone. "Thank you, sir," demurely replied John, "I'd rather sleep with the boys!"

A WHITE PINE BALLAD.

BY BRET HARTE.

Recently, with Samuel Johnson, this occasion I improved,
Whereby certain gents of affluence, I hear, were greatly moved;
But not all of Johnson's folly, although multiplied by nine,
Could compare with Milton Perkins', late an owner in White Pine.

Johnson's folly—to be candid—was a wild desire to treat
Every male white citizen he met upon the street;
And there being several thousand—but this subject why pursue?
'Tis with Perkins, and not Johnson, that to-day we have to do.

No, not wild, promiscuous treating, not the wine-cup's ruby flow,
But the female of his species brought the noble Perkins low;
'Twas a wild poetic fervor and excess of sentiment
That left the noble Perkins, in a week, without a cent.

"Milton Perkins," said the siren, "not thy wealth do I admire.
But the intellect that flashes from those eyes of opal fire;
And methinks the name thou bearest surely cannot be misplaced,
And—embrace me, Mr. Perkins!" Mr. Perkins her embraced.

But, I grieve to state, that even then, as she was wiping dry
The tears of sensibility in Milton Perkins' eye,
She prigged his diamond bosom-pin, and that her wipe of lace
Did seem to have of chloroform a most suspicious trace.

Enough that Milton Perkins later in the night was found
With his head in an ash-barrel, and his feet upon the ground;
And he murmured "Seraphine," and he kissed his hand, and smiled
On a person who went through him, like an unresisting child.

MORAL.

Now, one word to Pogonippers, are this subject I resign;
In this tale of Milton Perkins—late an owner in White Pine—
You shall see that men and women are deceitful, just the same;
And the tear of sensibility has salted many a claim.

SYNOPSIS OF ARGUMENT:

The Doctor is a country schoolmaster. The scene opens with a recess in school, the monster shows his authority and is used somewhat roughly. Doctor Faust appears, and accuses the monster of dancing with the girls. Valentine [illegible], sees with his company, operates on Faust to receive his sister in his academy when he goes to fight for his country. The Dr. takes her and soon endeavors to analyze his feelings toward Marguerite, and discovering that he loves her, longs for youth again. Mephisto enters and promises the fulfilment of his desires, if he will sign the customary paper, but Faust refuses. Mephisto insists. Then follows a break up of school, feature scenes in Jones' Wood, &c. in the midst of which Valentine returns and discovering his sister struggling with Faust, insists on a fight. Mephisto has the necessary implements, and as it they go, in an original style which elicits much admiration. Poor Valentine is killed by Faust, and killed again by his sister. Marguerite and Faust are married, and Valentine marches off, his ghost appears to the guilty couple, and insists on their going with him to the abode of his friend Mephisto, to which he takes them, to expiate their crimes in company with Members of Congress, &c., &c.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

Col. W. H. L. Barnes' play of "Solid Silver," which now goes off very smoothly, will be performed to-night, at the matinee to-morrow, and to-morrow night for the last time.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"The Colleen Bawn," with Miss Ellie Wilton, James M. Hardie, G. B. Waldron, Miss Maggie Moore and the whole of the company in the cast, will be played again to-night and at the matinee to-morrow, when half the usual price of admission will be charged.

Alhambra Theatre.

With such an immense entertainment as is given nightly at this house by the two champion troupes of the world combined, it is no wonder that the Alhambra Theatre is crowded nightly. The music is delightful; "Le Petit Faust" the most lively of operas; Billy Emerson is inimitable, and Leon unlike anyone ever seen here before. There will be a matinee to-morrow.

Bella Union.

Little Maggie Knight is a great favorite at this house; the double acts by Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin are much applauded; Carrie Chapman, Lou. McCarthy and Chris Mathews cause much fun in the farce of "Honesty and Dishonesty," and "The Rival Naiads or the Demon Frog" concludes a capital entertainment.

Vincent's Globe Theatre.

Sam Purdy and Charley Vincent on the end and in funny negro acts keep the audience in a continual roar of laughter; Carlova, the Dutch Leon, is the talk of the town; Johnny Roberts, the Arab boy, is a most versatile genius, and the Samwells-Nelson Ballet Troupe give an admirable performance. "The Trial of Bigham Young" will be produced to-morrow night.

The Oxford.

Amellia Dean, Lizzie Harmon, Johnny Price, Blanche, Estelle, Minnie Wells, Nellie Leonard, and a host of other popular favorites appear nightly in a varied programme terminating with the lively Irish musical sketch entitled "The Country Fair."

Y. M. C. A. Hall.

A variety of beautiful tableaux vivants will be exhibited this evening at the Christmas Bazaar now being held at this hall.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaililu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention, are on exhibition day and evening.

A Dut'ful Child.

A contemporary records that a nice young girl at Green Bay, Wis., was being courted by a nice young man. He was generously inclined, and made her presents of hair oil, which he purchased from the store of the father of his adored. After giving her some twenty bottles of the eleagenous fluid he discovered he was working in a circle—as fast as he presented them she returned them to the store, thus dutifully making trade for her father.

A Case in Point.

A strong mind is sometimes more easily impressed than a weak one. For example, you cannot so easily convince a fool that you are a philosopher, as you can a philosopher that you are a fool.

Good Counsel.

Have the courage to cut the most agreeable acquaintance you have when you are convinced he lacks principle. "A friend should bear with a friend's infirmities," but not his vices.

Christmas Candies.

The best selected and greatest variety of Sugar Toys and Fancy Boxes at the most reasonable prices, at J. Vogeley & Bros., Candy Manufactory, 126 Kearny st., near Sutter, and 46 Second st. E

YOUNG MAN, the holidays are near at hand; don't make presents of jewgags and jewelry; make your mother a present, or your sister; if you are not blessed with a sister, make somebody else's sister a present—a nice set of lace curtains, an elegant body of Brussels carpet, a fine rug, a splendid parlor or chamber set. The people will all talk. The neighbors will all talk of that clear-headed and sensible young man. That is the way a certain young man married a fortune not long since. The old folks watched him, tested him, and then gave their consent; and as it is a great marrying time about the holidays, we would advise any, and all of our friends, in the city and country both, if you want an elegant outfit for about one-half that you can get it elsewhere, go to JOHN C. BELL'S Carpet and Furniture Emporium, nearly opposite the Grand Hotel, on Market, and opposite the Occidental on Sutter street. Everybody knows that he makes all newly married parties an elegant present regardless of expense. Say to him that you are going to be married, and he will take the hint. Try it and then you will "KNOW HOW IT IS YOURSELF." F

A Good Word for Blunt Peop'e.

Outspoken, flat-foooted people very often offend refined taste in their lack of policy—their persistent way of stating unpalatable truths upon inopportune occasions—but, after all, there is real comfort in knowing that you have heard the worst of it, and that there is nothing covered up.

THREE KISSES OF FAREWELL.

Three, only three, my darling,
Separate, solemn, slow:
Not like the swift and joyous ones
We used to know
When we kissed because we loved each other
Simply to taste love's sweet,
And lavished our kisses as the summer
Lavishes heat,—
But as the kiss whose hearts are wrung
When hope and fear are spent,
And nothing is left to give, except
A sacrament!

First of the three, my darling,
Is sacred unto pain;
We have hurt each other often;
We shall again,
When we pine because we miss each other,
And do not understand.
How the written words are so much colder
Than eye and hand.
I kiss thee, dear, for all such pain
Which we may give or take:
Buried, forgiven, before it comes
For our love's sake.

The second kiss, my darling,
Is full of joy's sweet thrill:
We have blessed each other always:
We always will.
We shall reach until we feel each other,
Past of all time and space:
We shall listen till we hear each other
In every place;
The earth is full of messengers
Which love sends to and fro;
I kiss thee, darling, for all joy
Which we shall know.

The last kiss, oh, my darling,
My love—I cannot see
Through my tears, as I remember
What it may be.
We may die and never see each other—
Die with no time to give
Any sign that our hearts are faithful
To die, as live.
Token of what they will not see
Who see our parting breath.
This one last kiss, my darling, seals
The seal of death!

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.
A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and commends itself to all classes.
Who that has struggled with the ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with loss of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress-art can smooth that "wrinkled front," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the slop-worn, worried garment will not last long.
My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.

The Public will please take notice that

Touching Tenderness.

About a week ago, a man in Troy applied at the Mount Ida Cemetery, and requested a grave to be dug, to be ready on the following day. The instructions were heeded and at the appointed time the funeral cortege arrived at "the home of the dead." The corpse was contained in an elaborate coffin lined with white satin, on the outside of which was the usual inscription of birth and death. The ceremony was performed, and the mourners wended their way homeward. A headboard was placed at the grave, on which appeared the following inscription: "Our little adopted child." A day or two subsequently the superintendent of the cemetery, having his suspicions excited, had the grave opened, and on raising the coffin lid the body of a dog was found calmly reposing in death. The unsentimental superintendent had the coffin and "our little adopted child" pitched into the creek.

Another Mail Clerk Destroyed.

The Grass Valley Republican in answer to the San Jose Mercury's protest against its sending papers to it marked "Please X" when it was Xing says: "We have been in regular receipt of our Mercurial contemporary of beautiful San Jose, but heretofore we have been unable to convince the aforesaid clerk of the fact. The truth is, Bro. Owen, he has but recently learned to write, and finds it very difficult to break himself of old habits—X, "his mark." We'll destroy him tomorrow."

Oh! Yes.

An exchange says: "It is considered a neat thing for young gentlemen to have their overcoats made with a pocket in one side lined with flannel or fur, into which a lady may slip her hand when walking on a cold Winter's evening." Very neat! Of course the young gentleman doesn't slip his hand in at the same time!

A Savage Sentence.

The following, which we clip from the San Jose Guide, proves that the Judges in that deadly lively city want civilizing badly:

A teamster from the country came into town on Sunday, and in the labyrinth of whisky dead-falls got befogged, and lost his reckoning. He awoke next morning in the calaboose. On being brought before the Judge, Johnson, that functionary asked him the usual question: "Do you plead guilty or not guilty to the charge?" The man said he didn't know, and his case was thereupon continued till 1 P. M. At that time he again appeared before his Honor, when the following conversation took place.

Judge—You plead not guilty, sir?

Defendant—I said I didn't know. How can a man tell when he is drunk whether he is drunk or not? Could you?

J—Well, what is your plea?

D—I was drunk I suppose. I say (to an officer), did you find any jewelry about me when I was arrested? (a shake of the head) Well, somebody went through me for a lot of jewelry!

J—That will do, sir. What is your occupation?

D—I have been plowing, and instead of being at my work now, I am in the d—n calaboose! It's a pity a man can't come into town to get a clean shirt, without being pounced upon crying) and put in the calaboose. I wish you'd let me out of this, it's a d—n shame yer Honor.

The Judge fined the man $16, in default of which sum he will labor eight days in the chain gang.

There seems to be but little mercy in Judge Johnson. Eight days in the chain gang seems a brutally severe sentence to pass on an industrious, hard-working man, because he had been foolish enough to go into one of the San Jose dead-falls, and swallow the drugged liquor sold there. Surely a less severe sentence might have satisfied the offended majesty of the law. Surely this repentant sinner might have been told to go and sin no more. Getting drunk once after working industriously for months, should not subject a man to the degradation of laboring in the chain gang.

Was there not a Christian in San Jose to pay that man's fine, and send him back to his plow?

The Right Woman's Movement.

An association of ladies has been formed in England, under the leadership of Miss Harrison, of Swanage, Dorsetshire, "to promote mokesty of dress, to do away with extravagance, and substitute the neatness and sobriety suitable to Christian women." No man will make fun of Miss Harrison or her associates. There is plenty of room for reform in that line. The woman who successfully inaugurates the movement that will do away with the ostentatious extravagance of the present style of ladies' wear and substitute neatness and comfort, and "modesty in dress" in its place, will become the world's heroine.

A Glorious Entertainment.

A Sacramento Legislator told his little boy that if he was good all day he would take him to the caucus in the evening. The promise had the desired effect. The poor little wretch thought it was a circus.

Is Albany they call red hair "Schenectady color," Schenectady being, as every one in Albany knows, a little beyond "Auburn."

"Garroters prevail in Cincinnati." Send them up for twenty years. That stopped the business here.

Railways are aristocratic. They teach every man to know his own station, and to stop there.

A Converted Rooster.

A man in in Cayuga, N. Y., has a remarkable Cochin China rooster. He has observed his master's practice of family worship, and as soon as the Bible is taken to be read, before prayer, the rooster walks in deliberately and takes his stand by the side of the woman of the house, and there remains in a very quiet and reverent posture during the whole service, seeming to understand the words, for as soon as Amen is repeated, he walks out without noise and joins his family of hens.

Cheap Enough.

An exchange says:

A fellow named Richardson paid a fine of $54 21, at Rochester, N. H., a few days since, for indulging in the luxury of pounding a young lady who refused to let him accompany her home in the evening.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. Q

Theatrical Supper Rooms.

In all the large cities in the world there are adjoining the chief theatres supper rooms where the audience, after witnessing the play, and the actors, after taking part in it, adjourn to enjoy a meal. Such a place is Jones's Oyster and Ice Cream Saloon, in the California Theatre building, immediately adjoining the entrance, where game suppers, Eastern oysters, terrapin stews, and everything that can suit the taste of an epicure, will be served up at all hours of the night, under the experienced supervision of Frank Dumont. Attached to the saloon are private rooms for families and supper parties. Try Jones's. E

Probable.

Our Major, said an old Mexican volunteer had very long feet, and also a horse that threw everyone but the Major. One evening the Major's servant was out on the parade ground with the horse, and, as usual, was thrown off, when one of the boys spoke up and said: 'I know why the horse don't throw the Major," 'Why,' was asked by a dozen or more." "Well, you see, the Major's got such long feet that the horse thinks he is in shafts." —Mobile Register.

Friendly.

An Iowa gentlemen who was involved in domestic troubles, met with a genuine "Job's comforter" the other morning. Meeting an old friend who was a widower, he related his troubles to him, and told him he expected to be broken up, for his wife had commenced suit against him for $3,000 alimony. "Well," says the widower, "I'll wait and see how she comes out and if she succeeds I'll go for her."

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.
A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and commends itself to all classes.
Who that has struggled with that ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with loss of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress-art can smooth that "wrinkled front," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the slop-worn, worried garment will not last long.
My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.

The Public will please take notice that

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

The following is an account of theatricals in London up to the 11th ult. The theatres were all doing an immense business, being thronged nightly:

The Royal Italian Opera, Covent Garden, was largely patronized.....Drury Lane had been well filled by the romantic spectacular drama of "Rebecca".....The Haymarket had furnished the lovers of old English comedy a treat during the week by the revival of "She Stoops to Conquer," which in another year will have completed its century of existence. Tony Lumpkin, Mr. Buckstone; Kendall and Miss Robertson as Young Marlowe and Miss Hardcastle; Mr. and Mrs. Hardcastle, Mr. and Mrs. Chippendale The comic drama of "One Good Turn Deserves Another," in which Amy Sedgwick plays Phœbe Topper with irresistible force and unflagging vivacity, followed....The Adelphi is still flourishing with "Notre Dame," rapidly approaching its two hundredth night, and the Lyceum found "Pickwick" growing in favor through the characteristic embodiments of Henry Irving as Jingle, G Belmore as Sam Weller, and Addison as Pickwick. Fanny Heywood has recovered from her railway accident, and was to reappear in "The Loan of a Lover" on the 15th..... The Princess's season was brought to a close on the 11th, when Mr. Falconer's "Fileen Oge" was to be repeated for the 118th and last time. On the 10th Mr. Falconer took his benefit, preparatory to his provincial tour.....The Queen's was doing well with the spectacular revival of "The Tempest".....The Gaiety, with Congreve's comedy of "Love for Love," and Offenbach's "Helene;" the St. James, with the French company; the Olympic, with "The Woman in White," and the Strand, with "The Heir at Law," had been well attended. J. S. Clarke was to add to Dr. Pangloss his embodiment of Toodles, which he played there, during his last engagement, for more than two hundred nights.....The Globe, with "Partners for Life;" the Prince of Wales's, with "Caste," and the Vaudeville, with "Apple Blossoms," continued to have abundant patronage.....The Opera Comique had opened with German opera bouffe..... The Royalty was to close 11th, with the benefit of Mallandaine, the manager.....The Court Theatre with the new comedy, "On Guard;" the Alhambra with its ballets; Sadler's Wells, with the drama of "Lucrezia Borgia;" the Surrey, with "Edwin Drood" in conjunction with "The Ticket-of-Leave Man," and the Royal Alfred with "The Octoroon," had well maintained their attractiveness.....The Standard had prolonged the engagement of the English opera company, "Faust" being the prominent novelty of the week.....The Philharmonic Theatre was to open on the 11th, to bring out Offenbach's "Genevieve de Brabant;" the Pavilion had two substantial dramas in "Rail, River and Road," and "The Surgeon of Paris," and the Grecian sustained the revived popularity of "It's Never Too Late to Mend."

Camilla Urso, the accomplished violinist, is engaged by M. Pardeloup for his Popular Concerts in Paris in January next. She will make her first appearance in Beethoven's "Concerto."

The new theatre now building in Rome with the title of the King Emmanuel, will have a glass roof for day performances.

The violinist Sivori and Mme. Monbelli are on a tour in Prussia, and meet with success.

Go to American's

Cheap store, 614 Market street, opposite New Montgomery, if you want to buy shirts, drawers, collars, ties and hosiery and at slaughtering prices, imported direct from the East. M

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Carville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Go to "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street (the second hat store below Kearny), and examine the large stock of the latest styles of hats. K

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

Small Pox.

In view of the above disease coming here, we copy the following from an exchange:

A recent letter from Philadelphia says: "No medicine has had a greater effect for the prevention of Small Pox than American & Co's Condurango. It will not cure the disease, but all those who have taken it before the attack have only had the varioloid in a mild form."

We have heard of this remedy before, and can vouch for the above.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence sfor shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

The Resort of the Bon Vivant.

There is a place in this city, which is becoming a famous resort of the lovers of good living. Here they find a thousand little delicacies which only people of cultivated taste can enjoy. Terrapin stews, Eastern oysters in every imaginable form (curried oysters are delicious), game, the choicest wines and everything else to please the palate. It is almost needless to say it is Jones' Oyster Palace and Ice Cream Saloon in the California Theatre, immediately adjoining the entrance. Frank Dumont is the best of caterers.

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terripan stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omlettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Hacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oysters Saloon, No. 337 Bush street above the Alhambra. SYNOPSIS OF ARGUMENT:
The Doctor is a country schoolmaster. The scene opens with a recess in school; the monitor shows his authority and is used somewhat roughly. Doctor Faust appears, and accuses the monitor of dancing with the girls. Valentine appears with his company prevails on Faust to receive his sister in his academy while he goes to fight for his country. The Dr. takes her, and soon endeavors to analyze his feelings toward Marguerite, and discovering that he loves her, longs for youth again. Mephisto enters and promises the full meat of his desires, if he will sign the customary paper, but Faust refuses. Mephisto insists. Then follows a break up of school, festive scenes in Jones' Wood, &c. in the midst of which Valentine returns and discovering his sister struggling with Faust, insists on a fight. Mephisto has the necessary implements, and at it they go in an original style which elicits much admiration. Poor Valentine is killed by Faust, and killed again by his sister. Marguerite and Faust are married, and Valentine marches off, his ghost appears to the guilty couple, and insists on their going with him to the abode of his friend Mephisto, to which he takes them, to expiate their crimes in company with Members of Congress, &c., &c.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—"The Colleen Bawn" which has given the greatest satisfaction to the audiences before which it has been played will be presented at the matinee to-day for the last time. To-night and on Sunday night, the ever-popular sensation play of Under the Gaslight with a strong cast, as will be seen by refering to the programme, will be performed. "Bertha" the sewing machine Girl," which is the reigning sensation at several of the principal theatres in the East, and is one of the most successful pieces of the day, has been in rehearsal for some time, and will be produced with a strong cast and fine scenery next week.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE. —The programme which has delighted thousands during the present week will be presented at the matinee to-day and again this evening. It comprises selections from the ever fresh and original Billy Emerson's budget of fun; Edwin Kelly and the Only Leon in the side-splitting farce of "Domestic Bliss;" the Reynolds Brothers in original dances, and other acts particularized on our first page, and the wonderfully original comic opera of "Le Petit Faust" with Leon as Marguerite, a full orchestra and chorus, and fine scenery. To gain admittance to-night or to-morrow night, it will be necessary to go early CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—Col. W. H. L. Barnes' successful play of "Solid Silver" will be performed at the matinee to-day, and to-night, and on Monday and Tuesday evenings for the last times. It has now been performed so often that it runs smoothly and the superfluous dialogue having been cut out, it is a much more pleasing production than in its original form. As a picture of English society it is on a par with "Rosedale" which is a very popular play.

BELLA UNION THEATRE.—A new and attractive bill for Saturday night is the rule at this popular theatre and the entertainment to-night will present extraordinary attractions. New farces, songs, acts and dances will be presented by the favorite Miss Maggie Knight, Carrie Chapman Miss Josephine, Fanny Garretson, Eugenie Gerretts, J. H. Larkin, Carrie Armstrong and many others, and in addition the management announce the first appearance of Miss Delia Smythe, a vocalist of considerable attractions, and Mr. Dunbar who has achieved quite a reputation in private circles by singing the songs which Charles Vivian has made so popular. Same bill Sunday night.

THE GLOBE THEATRE.—After a capital first part and a sparkling interlude in which Sam Purdy, Charley Vincent, the wonderful Samwells' the great Carlova and many more will appear, an original comic drama entitled "The Trial of Brigham Young" by the author of "Mose in San Francisco," "Through by Midnight Across the Continent," and other successful pieces will be produced with a strong cast, which appears on our first page. Same bill for Sunday night.

THE OXFORD.—Any amount of fun, pleasing vocalism, good music, amusing acts, graceful dances and lively plays constitute the entertainment which will be offered at this popular cave of harmony to-night for the gratification of its numerous patrons. The full programme of performers and acts appears on our first page and promises a rich treat to those who drop in at this place of amusement for an evening.

PLATT'S HALL.—McCarty, Brother and Sisters juvenile dancing classes had a grand carnival and fancy dress ball last night The scene was a very pretty one, and the proficiency of the pupils was the theme of general remark. McCarty Bros. and Sisters can boast of many of their pupils having made a mark in the theatrical profession, and point with pride to Miss Lulu Wilson and others as evidences of their skill in teaching. An hour or so after unmasking Miss Lulu Wilson was called upon by her former companion pupils to give a song and dance, and in response to an encore endeavored to give "Ten Thousand Miles Away," but the music was so entirely out of tune and discordant in their accompaniment that she had to substitute a Highland fling instead The musicians were very proficient in quadrille music, but they have not mastered the mysteries of "Ten Thousand Miles Away" yet.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—To-day and Sunday, Callie Curtis, the great champion skater of America, who has made such a hit at this popular place, appears for the last time in his fancy and character skating—"The Girl of the Period," "Toodles," etc. Six Sea Lions now occupy the great Whale pond, holding over 500,000 gallons of water. Skating every day, good instrumental concerts every Sunday.

Y. M. C. A. HALL.—The Fair at the hall of the Y. M. C. A. for the benefit of the Association will be continued this evening. An attractive entertainment consisting of vocal and instrumental music and beautiful tableaux will be given, and all the goods not before sold will be disposed of at auction. The ladies will set a lunch to-day from 12 till 3 o'clock. The admission to the Hall for lady and gentleman is fifty cents.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

PAVILION SKATING RINK.—The public assemblies at the Pavilion Skating Rink take place on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, in the morning, and Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays in the evening. Professor Lovett, the famous skater, gives an exhibition every evening.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Rain or shine a visit to the Cliff House is in order. A nice dinner in a snug little room with a blazing fire is thoroughly enjoyed after a spin over the Cliff House Road.

"READY."—This very attractive play which we shall shortly hear of as being played in all the principal cities in the United States, will be revived with its beautiful original scenery and the strong cast with which it was produced at the California Theatre. It will probably be played for another run.

ROUGH ON VIVIAN.—The Vallejo Recorder notorious for blunders has the following: "Charles Vivian, the popular nigger, will leave this week for Australia." That's the second time Charles Vivian has been called a "nigger." The Bulletin did it once.

G. B. WALDRON.—G. B. Waldron is engaging a good stock company for the purpose of opening the Oro Fino Theatre, Portland, Oregon, for the holiday season. He will leave on the next steamer.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SACRAMENTO.—Oliver Doud Byron appeared in "Across the Continent" every evening of the week up to Friday evening, to crowded houses. On Friday his new drama of "Ben McCullough" was produced.....The Academy of Music was opened under the name of the "Sacramento Varities," by Chamberlain & Ballenger, on Tuesday. An immense audience was present. The company consists of Aline Le Favre, Johnny Manning, Ethel Stanley, Edgar Stanley, the Lancashire Bell Ringers and others. R. G. Marsh is stage manager. The prices of admission are 75 cents, 50 cents and 25 cents.

MARYSVILLE.—Proctor will be at the theatre next week with Oliver Doud Byron and "Across the Continent." The Appeal says:

The following young men have formed a minstrel troupe, called the Marysville Amateur Minstrels: Thomas Farley, D. S. Strong, William Hoesch, G. H. Badger, Jas. Lawrence, Mat Farley Eagle Bros. They practice twice a week in the Hibernian Hall, and intend making their first appearance during the Ladies' Fair at Turners' Hall during the holidays. We called in last evening to see and hear them practice, and can assure all that their music, singing, dancing, and plays are excellent. Birch and Backus are nowhere, not even Emerson the Great. Go it boys, you will do well if you all keep at it.

STOCKTON.—Oliver Doud Byron will be at the Theatre next week, under Proctor's management. The Independent says:

We understand that a number of young ladies and gentlemen of this city are making preparations to give a grand operatic entertainment at Stockton Theatre about Christmas.

That's right. Don't wait for Kellogg. Give the Stocktonians home-made opera. We can stand it; we don't live in Stockton.

SAN JOSE.—Grace Greanwood lectured at Music Hall, on Thursday, on "What I know of Washington." James Proctor announces that he will open at the Opera House on Monday, with Oliver Doud Byron in "Across the Continent," present "Ben McCullough" on the following evening, and then depart.

OAKLAND.—The Oakland Harmonic Society gave their fifth musicale and last of the course at Brayton Hall on Thursday evening. Mrs W. C. Little, Mrs. Howell, (formerly Mrs. Northrup) Mrs. Bradshaw and L. T. Yarndley assisted.

PETALUMA.—Miss Susan B. Anthony lectured at the theatre last night.

MAYFIELD.—Miss Susan B. Anthony will lecture on Monday evening, Dec. 11th, before the Mayfield Woman's Suffrage Society. Afterwards there will be dancing. The young and beautiful Susan will of course be the belle of the ball.

WEAVERVILLE.—Weaverville is to have an Amateur Dramatic Association and they will give entertainments through the Winter, the proceeds to be devoted to building a school house.

SILVER CITY, I. T.—The Nathan Troupe performed at Hill's Hall every evening last week and gave an extra performance on Sunday, the 3d.

VIRGINIA CITY, NEV.—Miss Amelia Young, a pleasing vocalist, was the recipient of a benefit at Piper's Opera House on Thursday. A vocal and and instrumental concert was given.

DENVER, COL.—The Royal Yeddo Japs, comprising the Wonderful Gangero and the boy spider, performed at the theatre for the last time on the 27th ult. The Carroll Family and Dick Brown, the banjoist, had a benefit on the 25th, and left for Kansas on the 26th. The Kansas people will have plenty of entertainments.

SALT LAKE CITY.—The stock company are playing in standard plays.

PORTLAND, OR.—Bachelder's tableaux representing a tour across the continent, were exhibited at Oro Fino Theatre for the last time, on the 30th. G. B. Waldron has obtained a lease of the theatre, and will open it shortly for the holiday season with a good stock company. The Varieties was closed and the Theatre Comique was not doing a very good business.

OMAHA, NEB.—Chanfrau appeared at the Academy of Music, on the 4th in "Sam." He was engazed for three nights. He was modestly advertised in the Alta thus: "Who is the greatest living actor? F. S. Chanfrau"! Nickel, the illusionist, was at Simpson's Hall on the 27th.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS

We have no later New York dates than Nov. 25th in consequence of the stoppage of the Overland mail by snow storms. At the Academy of Music Miss Nilsson appeared in Ambroise Thomas' opera of "Mignon," produced for the first time in the United States. It was a great success. It was to be given on the 27th, which was a "gala day in honor of the Grand Duke Alexis," which meant that season tickets were not good, everyone having to pay to see the lion of the day..... At Booth's Theatre Mr. Owens played Solon Shingle until the 4th inst, when Edwin Booth commenced his annual engagement opening in "Hamlet"....At the Grand Opera House, A. De Leon's new drama of "Paris; or, the Days of the Commune." was announced for production on the 27thth....At the the Fifth-avenue Theatre still "Divorce"...."Rose dale" at Wallack's....Barnum's show flourishing at Third-avenue Rink....Miss Annie Lonsdale is the star at the St. James' and plays in a new comedy from the French entitled "The Pet of the Public"....The San Francisco Minstrels are running "Rosedale; or, the Fish Ball"....At the Theatre Comique Senora Lopez and her talented children, lately from this city, are performing.... The leading specialty at Dan Bryant's is "Uncle Eph's Dream of Home." They can't do that properly without Charley Howard, but it takes pretty well....Miss Susan Denin and J. B. Studley are at Wood's Museum....Olympic. "Humpty Dumpty"....Niblo's "Our American Cousin"....At Tony Pastor's, Charles E. Gardner, Dutch comedian, and Billy Wilson, song and dance man, are the latest engagements....At the Union Square Theatre Bentanti reappeared on the 20th ult., and also Harrigan and Hart in their specialty of "Little Fraud"....The company at the Thirty-fourth street Theatre announced to open on the 24th, is as follows: William W. Smith, lessee and manager; Lizette Bernard, Eph Horn, M'lle Nells, Blanche Selwyn, Lizzie Stateman, Lou Delmar, Sam Devine, Harry Leslie, Hugh Dougherty, Lew Meyers, Fred Maynard, Harry Thorne and others.

At the Park Theatre, Brooklyn, Little Alberta, another Lilliputian wonder, is to appear in a drama built to order, and entitled "Bertie, the Midget." Later the Park management expect to bring forward their piece de resistance, "Poverty Flat." We don't know what Fred Lyster is going to do about it.

Church's Musical Visitor says "Miss Cushman, Charles Mathews, and Herr Wachtel are all over sixty years of age, and there is not yet the slightest indication that their lagging upon the stage can in any way be deemed superfluous." Why not add the names of McKean Buchanan, J. W. Wallack, Couldock, Hackett and Edwin Forrest?

Frank Mayo, under the management of Morris Simmonds, Hartford, Dec. 18th. J. H. Budworth has been engaged with him for Bob, the bootblack in "The Streets of New York."

Charlotte Cushman closed at Boston, Dec. 2d, and opened in Philadelphia, 4th. Talks of leaving the stage at the conclusion of that engagement.

Pauline Markham, with B. F. Lowell's company began a starring tour in Hartford, 2nd, in a play called "Aglae."

We are informed that Parepa charged $2 a ticket for her Boston concerts, and it took but a very short time to count the money at the box office when the concert was over.

The Louisville Critic says:

McCloskey's last play, "Poverty Flat," has been written expressly for Harry Cunningham, actor, politician and member of the bar of San Francisco.

Miss Nilsson has shocked the Scrantonians by playing a game of billiards with Brignoli and they say Parepa could beat her all out of sight as a vocalist. That finishes Mademoiselle Nilsson's career of success.

Lucille Western and J. H. Herne closed their engagement at the New National Theatre, Washington, D. C. on the 25th ult, They were succeeded on the 27th by Henri Drayton in "Niagara."

Mr. and Mrs. Bandmann and Mr. Wm Creswick have played with much success in Troy, New York.

The Russian Prince, George Nicholas Galitzan gave a second concert of Russian music, at Steinway Hall on the 21st ult. The New York Mercury says:

The Prince is a massive man of fifty, tall and stout, and with a Cossack visage quite interesting to a student of national types. He wore an air of indifference, slightly tinged with depression at the want of interest on the part of the public for the music of his enthusiasm. The audience were chiefly foreigners of the Jewish race, sprinkled with a few literary Americans. Each piece was encored. Levy aided the affair with two cornet solos. On the 23d the Prince concertized at the Academy, in Brooklyn, to moderate receipts.

Lotta appeared at Music Hall, New Haven, on the 28th, in "The Little Detective," supported by the Boston Theatre company.

The New Haven Green-room says:

Minnie Hauck, the dearest, sweetest, prettiest singing bird, Miss Columbia can call her own, is lost to her forever. A horrid impressario in Berlin has captured Minnie, and holds her on a life bargain for opera.

There are tender-hearted people in Nashville, Tenn. A week or two ago Mrs. Bettie Grey was playing there and a gentleman from the rural districts, and his young son, were occupying the front seats during the performance of "Camille." In the last act of the play he was observed to be very restive, in fact so much so, that he attracted the attention of the usher, who politely requested him to be quiet and to keep his seat; with streaming eyes and a voice choked with emotion he exclaimed, "Dorg gorn it, would you have me sit here quiet and see that woman die?

Sheridan & Mack reached their homes in Providence, R. I., on the 17th ult, and left on the 19th to play an engagement at Hooley's, Brooklyn.

Wall's Opera House, Washington, D. C., was burned down on the 6th. It was insured. Loss $30,000.

Effie Johns, the Elfin star, commenced an engagement at Atlanta, Georgia, on the 20th ult., appearing in her specialties of "Fanchon," "Frou-Frou," "Colleen Bawn," "Pocahontas," "Little Barefoot," "Pauvretta," and the new prize play of "Check."

This is the way a Cleveland critic pitches into a company that played at Brainard's Hall: "The Witches of New York" was presented to a very light house on the 20th by Albert E. Aikin and company. The company is one of the vilest that ever appeared here, and would be more at home clearing away the the rubbish of the Chicago fire than in their present position. Mr. Aikin was advertised as a colloquial actor, but he don't colloque worth a cent, and is one of the worst of the gang. The piece itself is as vile as the acting, and is a miserable mess of stupidity.

Mrs. Isabella McCullough Brignoli is soon to leave New York with an Italian opera troupe for a Southern tour.

Worrell Sisters, Savannah, 20th; Nashville, Dec. 4th, one week.

A Louisville correspondent of the New York Mercury says:

The Leamlein Sisters, who hail from California, were tendered a benefit on the 15th by our musical fraternity. The sisters are pianists of remarkable skill and astonishing execution. The affair netted about $5 0. Considerable indignation, however, was swallowed by the donors of the concert in consequence of the selfishness and want of courtesy of the young ladies in not expressing their thanks in some form or other, for so munificent a gift. They are Chicago sufferers, and go from here to St. Louis for "fields and pastures new."

As some of our readers may be interested in knowing the market price of wild beasts, we give the following list of the prices brought by those comprising the menagerie attached to Madame Lake's Circus sold at Cincinnati by auction. The purchasers were, of course, showmen:

Camel, J. E. Cooper, $205; baby camel, Cooper, $225; camel, Louis Sells, $405; camel, John Robinson, $ 00; elephant, Ames, $2,700; grizzly bear and cage, Lewis Sells, $325; nine birds, Cooper, $165; three animals, cash, $2; bird-cage, Cooper, 225; happy family and cage, John Robinson, $135; four young lions and cage, Lewis Sells, $955; three Mexican lions, John Robinson, $1,100; cage, J. M. French, $385; cage, John Robinson, $180; lioness and four cubs, Ames, $200; lion, John Robinson, $586; two lions, J. E. Warner, $560; cage and two tigers, $3,990.

Signor Farina, pianist, gave a concert at Quincy, on the 27th ult.

The St. James, Boston, will, it is said close after the Christmas, in consequence of having competition. Variety salaries may take a drop in the Hub shortly.

Mark Twain lectured at Allentown Pa., 23d. A newspaper of that town says: "Now if ever there was a bright, genial, humorous writer, who arrived at the perfection of funny writing, Mark Twain is the man. But as a lecturer! Phe-e-w!" The paper further asks, if any man ever hankered after crow-pie for a second time. Mark talked about 'Uncommon-place character I have chanced to meet," at Oswego, Dec. 1.

The Boston correspondent of the New York Mercury speaking of the performance of "Macbeth says:

Next to the leading characters, Sheridan's Banquo was the feature of the performance. It was an earnest yet an exaggerated effort, the lines being very gracefully delivered, and the whole personation remarkably good. In marked contrast to it was Mr. Boniface's wretched failure as Macduff. Full of noise, rant, and bluster, and devoid of intelligence, the performance had scarcely one redeeming point. A worse Macduff was never seen on the Boston stage. Mr. Boniface has been quite successful of late in several light comedy and character parts, and it is much to be regretted that he should mar his record by a performance so execrable.

Boniface is about the worst "tragedian" we ever saw on any stage.

YOUNG MAN, the holidays are near at hand; don't make presents of jewgags and jewelry make your mother a present, or your sister; if you are not blessed with a sister, make somebody else's sister a present—a fine set of lace curtains, an elegant body of Brussels carpet, a fine rug, a splendid parlor or chamber set. The people will all talk. The neighbors will all talk of that clear-headed and sensible young man. That is the way a certain young man married a fortune not long since. The old folks watched him, tested him, and then gave their consent; and as it is a great marrying time about the holidays, We would advise any, and all of our friends, in the city and country both, if you want an elegant outfit for about one-half that you can get it elsewhere, go to JOHN C. BELL'S Carpet and Furniture Emporium, nearly opposite the Grand Hotel, on Market, and opposite the Occidental on Sutter street. Everybody knows that he makes all newly married parties an elegant present regardless of expense. Say to him that you are going to be married, and he will take the hint. Try it and then you will "KNOW HOW IT IS YOURSELF." F

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and commends itself to all classes.

Who that has struggled with the ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with loss of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress-art can smooth that "wrinkled front," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the slop-worn, worried garment will not last long.

My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.

A Blundering Critic.

The Bulletin's theatrical notices are a positive disgrace to a paper of its high standing. Scarcely one appears without some egregious blunder in it. In late issues the public were informed that at the Metropolitan Theatre the drama of "Colleen Bawn," would be performed with Miss Ellie Wilton, as Emily O' Connor. Then we are told that for the benefit of the Odd Fellows' Library, John McCullough will play "Alfred Everding" in Bulwers comedy of "Money," and again that "Petite Faust" will be played at the Alhambra. Who the deuce "Alfred Everding," is, we don't know; and we are sure Faust was not a woman, to be called "Petite."

For Night Dancers.

Young men who go out after night and dance until the "wee sma' hours," cannot help but feel the effects of it very soon. Man can work, and man can dance, but a combination of perpetual work and perpetual dancing cannot help but break down a constitution however strong, and produce diseases from which it is impossible to recover.

Good Boy.

A Chicago girl wrote to her lover in Springfield Mass.' just after the fire, saying: "Our wedding day was set for next week' and if you will stand up with a woman dressed in a cotton skirt, and her fathers' overcoat, come on." The brave youth telegraphed in reply: "Get ready, I will be with you."

The Rattlesnake Dodge.

Ingenious, but impecunious Georgians, bite themselves with alleged rattlesnakes in the vicinity of saloons, in order to secure the privilege of drinking a quart of whisky. Trade is now somewhat dull—owing to too much competition.

Backward Spelling.

The word "State" spells the same backward in French: "Etats," Now spell "Yreka bakery," backwards, and see what that makes in French!

Another euphemism for bar-tender is "fusil artist."

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "The" Hat Store is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Go to "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (the second hat store below Kearny), and examine the large stock of the latest styles of hats. K

The Fashions.

As the festive season is now at hand, and as Figaro circulates everywhere in fashionable society, we intend hereafter to note for the benefit of our readers the new fashions at the East. We learn from one of our most valued exchanges that—

Very elegant morning robes, although very expensive ones, are made of India hair shawls, trimmed with a fringe and tassels to match. It is said that they will last a lifetime, even with steady and severe usage.

We would suggest to any gentleman wishing to adopt this fashion if he has no "India hair shawl," he can take his wife's. "First catch your hair," etc., is an old proverb. The next new thing worthy of attention is something new in curtains. The Washington Oritic says:

The newest style of curtains for parlor windows are of fine white muslin, with initials in lace in the centre and edged all round with a fluting of rich and costly lace.

Now they would look very nice undoubtedly, but the practical working of that fashion is a very unequal one. For instance, imagine how much more it would cost our California dramatist, Col. W. H. L. Barnes, for a set ot these new style of parlor curtains with "initials in lace," than it would simple Michael Beese. That fashion is not a just one in its workings. We cannot conciencionsly commend it to our readers with voluminous initials. Here is something on dress from the same source:

A gentleman's attire should always be simple and without extra ornamentation, good broadcloth and fine linen being all that is necessary "to give the world assurance of a man."

Are they? They are not deuce high here in prosperous California, in giving assurance of anything of the kind. A "man" here must sport gold rings, diamonds, pistol and bowie knife. That fashion won't go down here. Here is another:

A blonde powder, prepared in Paris, is used by many belles, which, being put on the head at night, turns it in a short time to the much-desired golden auburn color.

Pshaw! That powder is only brick dust, invisible in color at night when it is put on the hair, but a "golden auburn" by daylight.

As to the Ghosts.

Muffington being asked as to his opinion of the different explanations of the "ghosts" given by the Alta, Call and Bulletin, replied, "I don't pretend to have any opinion at all; I don't think it is a fit subject for discussion. I believe in the old Latin proverb, "De ghostibus non est disputandum."

The Puffed up Titusvillians!

Titusville is proud of its architecture. The Herald says: "Strangers stopping over night in Oil City, are not allowed to take the train next day, unless they make a solemn affidavit that "Love's Block" is the handsomest building they ever saw. One chap from Rochester, who remarked that he thought perhaps, Power's Block was a trifle larger, and also a little more expensive, was chucked into the lock-up, while a foreigner who said "the Coliseum at Rome must have been more roomy when complete" has been missing for three days, and it is eared he has been taken into the tunnel and Morganized.

Arkansas Ball Room.

"Look here, stranger, that's my wife you're dancing with."

"Well, what of it?" said Rackensack.

"Why this, you dance with her again and I'll blow the top of yer head off!"

"Now, look here," said Rackensack, cooly, "do you see that umbrella setting there?"

"Well, s'pose I do?"

"Well, you handle that umbrella—you touch that umbrella; you even look at that umbrella, and I'll ram it down your throat, and I'll spread it!"

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

By very general request W. H. L. Barnes' highly successful comedy of "Solid Silver" will be performed for two nights more—to night and to morrow night. On Wednesday "Ready," with its original scenery and a strong cast, will be revived.

Alhambra Theatre.

The management not wishing to give the public too much opera, will present a change of performance during the present week. Billy Emerson will appear in some of his most entertaining specialties; Kelly and Leon will present one of their exorciatingly funny domestic scenes entitled "A chip of the old Block," in which the great Leon will appear as Mrs. Cady Stanton. The Reynolds Brothers will perform their double song and dance, "The Two Originals," in which they made such a hit last week; Billy Emerson will appear in new acts, and the screaming farce of a "Trip to Paris" will wind up the entertainment.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Under the Gaslight" was performed on Saturday night and last night, and gave the greatest possible satisfaction. It will be played again to-night. Miss Henrietta Osborne, an attractive juvenile actress from the New York Grand Opera House, is on her way here under engagement to the Metropolitan Theatre, and immediately on her arrival the great play of "Bertha" will be produced.

Bella Union.

A capital evening's amusement was enjoyed by those who visited this popular theatre on Saturday night and last night. Mr. Dunbar, who at the request of many friends made his first appearance on these evenings, was very successful in his comic songs, being encored repeatedly. Miss Della Smythe was quite an ornament to the first part, sang the "Wandering Refugee" in good style and will become a favorite; J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong made a hit in their new act of "Dem Little Barefoots;" Maggie Knight was very good in her lightning changes, and the performance was highly satisfactory throughout. The bill for to-night appears on our first page. The Mason street Ghost will appear to-morrow night.

Vincent's Globe Theatre.

The new and original play of "Trial of Brigham Young" which was produced on Saturday night, proved a tremendous hit, the audience being kept in roars of laughter. It will be repeated to night. The management announce, among other features, the first appearance of Harry Howard and Henri and Claude Stuart; the popular ballet of "Don Juan" by the talented Samwell, Nelson and troupe; Harry Richmond in his Dutch specialties; Clara Draper in pleasing ballads and Billy Moss and Johnny Price in their champion clog clog dance.

The Oxford.

The management announce as the novelty for to-night "The Ghost of Mason street," the mystery explained by Dick O'Neil. This will be only one feature in a varied and attractive entertainment.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillieu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention are on exhibition.

Off for Portland.

The Portlanders will have a rich treat during the holidays. Purdy & Vincent's Minstrels will leave to-day for Portland for the purpose of giving a series of first class entertainments for the amusement of the ladies and gentlemen of that city. The company comprises Charles Vincent, one of the most spirited and energetic amusement managers in San Francisco, and a favorite as end-man, in old darkey parts, and eccentric dances; Sam Purdy, long one of the most popular members of Kelly & Leon's and Emerson's Minstrels, who is immense on the end and one of the funniest Ethiopian comedians in the profession; M. Ainsley Scott, for a long time interlocutor with Emerson's Minstrels, a splendid singer and neat comedian; Fostelle, the most graceful "male danseuse" on the stage, whose imitations of Morlacchi have delighted thousands; Arthur Stanwood, the popular balladist; R. L. Yanke, the talented musical director; Isadore, the accomplished violinist, Mat Leland and others, together comprising a combination of talent which cannot fail to draw audiences composed of the fashion and intelligence of Portland. Our advertisers get the benefit of a large extra edition of FIGARO, which the management takes along to be used in the theatre as programme, and for general distribution in the city of Portland.

Beware of burglars and bad stove pipes!

Gents' Furnishing Goods.

All persons in want of Furnishing Good should make a note that at SEGUIN & CHARLEBOIS'S, 706 and 708 Montgomery street, can be found the largest and cheapest assortment of goods in that line in the city. Star shirts of the best quality for $1 50; woolen overshirts, drawers, undershirts, half-hose, handkerchiefs, at prices below the lowest in the city. 706 and 708 Montgomery street, one door from Washington, east side. T

First Premium Millinery.

The last Mechanics' Fair awarded the first premium for superior taste and elegance of workmanship in the millinery line, to Mrs. Cowles of the "New House," 114 Third street. Mrs. Cowles' stock is unsurpassed by any in the city, and her prices are very reasonable. BH

Charley Howard Snowed in.

We have received a letter from Charley Howard, in which he reports himself snowed in at Rawlins, Wyoming Territory. His letter is dated Dec. 6th. He says: "Here I am up in the mountains, snowed in. It is cold as thunder! I was out on the platform just now doing "Happy Uncle John" with an Indian, and then he and I did a war dance to keep from freezing." The passengers on trains wrecked on the plains have anything but a lively time of it. The water is let out of the boilers of the engines in order that it may not freeze, the fuel being economized in order to keep the cars warm and the slender stock of provisions carried by the officials to meet such emergencies is doled out in small rations. It is deadly lively to be cast away on the plains at this season of the year.

An Honest Vagrant.

A fellow arrested for vagrancy was thus addressed by the judge: "What has brought you to this condition? you are young and strong, why do you not work?"

"Your Honor," answered the accused, "It is on account of my honesty that I am a vagrant."

"What do you mean?" asked the judge.

"You see, your Honor," replied the vag, "When I work, I make money, when I have money I drink; I do hot know what I am about and I become a thief!"

Affecting Scene.

Jenkins, an old whisky bloat, had a son the other day. The nurse put his first born in his arms, and Jenkins regarding it lovingly while a tear trickled down his grog-be-blossomed nose, said: "Twenty years hence he will Leep me in whisky."

SHE AND I

Why do I love my love so well?
Why is she all in all to me?
I try to tell, I cannot tell!
It still remains a mystery;
And why to her I am so dear,
I cannot tell, although I try,
Unless I find both answers here:
She is herself, and I am I.

Her face is very sweet to me,
Her eyes beam tenderly on mine;
But can I say I never see,
Face fairer, eyes that brighter shine?
This thing, I surely cannot say,
If I speak truth and do not lie;
Yet here I am in love to-day,
For she's herself and I am I.

It cannot be that I fulfil
Completely all her girlish dreams,
For far beyond my real still
Her old ideal surely gleams;
And yet I know her love is mine,
A flowing spring that cannot dry,
What explanation? This is fine:
She is herself and I am I.

'Mid all the cords by which fond hearts
Are drawn together into one,
This is a cord which never parts,
But strengthens as the years roll on;
And though, as seasons hurry past,
Grace, beauty, wit and genius die,
Till the last hour this charm will last;
She is herself and I am I.

She is herself and I am I,
Now, henceforth, evermore the same,
Till the dark angel draweth nigh,
And calleth her and me by name.
Yea, after Death has done his worst,
Each risen soul will straightway fly
To meet the other. As at first
She'll be herself, I shall be I.

YOUNG MAN, the holidays are near at hand; don't make presents of jewgags and jewelry make your mother a present, or your sister; if you are not blessed with a sister, make somebody else's sister a present—a fine set of lace curtains, an elegant body of Brussels carpet, a fine rug, a splendid parlor or chamber set. The people will all talk. The neighbors will all talk of that clear-headed and sensible young man. That is the way a certain young man married a fortune not long since. The old folks watched him, tested him, and then gave their consent; and as it is a great marrying time about the holidays, we would advise any, and all of our friends, in the city and country both, if you want an elegant outfit for about one-half that you can get it elsewhere, go to JOHN C. BELL'S Carpet and Furniture Emporium, nearly opposite the Grand Hotel, on Market, and opposite the Occidental on Sutter street. Everybody knows that he makes all newly married parties an elegant present regardless of expense. Say to him that you are going to be married, and he will take the hint. Try it and then you will "KNOW HOW IT IS YOURSELF." F

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

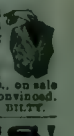
A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and commends itself to all classes.

Who that has struggled with the ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with loss of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress-art can smooth that "wrinkled front," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the slop-worn, worried garment will not last long.



My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.

The Public will please take notice that
Newell's Patent Paragon Shirt
Factory's only place of business is at 410 Kearny street, between Pine and California, Room No. 8.

Below Montgomery Block.

WEDNESDAY.....DECEMBER 13, 1871

FIGARO ON THE CALA. PACIFIC RAILROAD.

FIGARO is thoroughly distributed every day on the cars of the California Pacific Railroad, leaving Marysville for Vallejo and San Francisco at 1 o'clock P. M.

FIGARO ON THE OAKLAND BOATS.

200 "Figaros" are distributed on the Oakland Ferry boats every afternoon, mostly among the passengers arriving by the great Overland Train.

FIGARO ON THE VALLEJO BOAT.

200 "Figaros" are distributed every day among the passengers on the Steamer Capital, on her afternoon trip from Vallejo to this city.

A Missionary Wanted.

A local paper at Vinton, Iowa, has become discouraged at the religious impenetrability of its readers and tells them: "From and after this date our religious department will become non est. If the town is bound to go to the devil, why, let it; that's all we have to say in the matter. We shall endeavor to give the latest and most important news, historical, political and otherwise. Allow us, therefore, to religiously bow ourselves out of the parlor.

Retaliation.

A witness in a late divorce suit kept saying that the wife had a very retaliating disposition—that she "retaliated for every little thing." "Did you ever see her husband kiss her?" asked the wife's counsel. "Yes sir, often." "Well, what did she do on such occasions?" "She always retaliated, sir." The husband could'nt stand that it seems.

Right Again.

A citizen of Chicago recently shot himself on the Kansas Pacific Railroad. He had been playing "three card monte" on the train. He was right. A man who will play three card monte, when it is just as easy to play poker, ought to shoot himself.

A Matrimonial Veteran

Welliam Davidson of Bridgeport has had three wives inside of four months—a widower twice and a married man thrice. It is unnecessary to add he is bald-headed.

The Assault Case.

Spriggins, who is an old Mississippi River Steamboat man, expresses it as his opinion, that "the prosecution in this case ran against a Sawyer."

These cold nights have put a stop to gate-sparking. If she doesn't ask you to come in now, you had better quit.

Go to American's

Cheap store, 614 Market street, opposite New Montgomery, if you want to buy shirts, drawers, collars, ties and hosiery and at slaughtering prices, imported direct from the East. M

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Carville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

Club House Sausages.

Washing Returned in One Day

And we never disappoint, at the What Cheer Laundry.

To the Unfortuate.

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 628 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure.

Unchristian.

The St Louis Christian Intelligencer is simply awful. It does up the women in this style: "They are not decided what to do, but they will not be women. They are determined to be somebody else, not recognized, not classified nor ticketed for a place in the world. They will be feminine men, husbandly wives, paternal mothers, matronly lawyers, delicate doctors, dowager divines statesladies, city mothers, alderwomen bearesses and bullesses in Wall street. They are determined to see the universal petticoat wave triumphantly over a subjugated world, while every woman herself shall flourish in every conceivable product of Bedlam and Beldam." If there were only one or two Woodhulls out that way, how they would just roll up their sleeves and go for that Intelligencer man!

Pleasant Companions:

The Washington Critic, in its "society small talk says: "Young married ladies are all the fashion this Winter. They talk as a rule, much better than "demoiselles," and, for a further advantage, they don't expect you to flirt with them! Most girls insist upon this under any circumstances, and a forced flirtation is very tiresome." Yes, not to mention misunderstandings, actions for breach of promise, and all the rest.

Hard Tack.

A parsimonious sea-captain answering the complaints of his men that the bread was bad, exclaimed: "What! complain of your bread that is made from flour? What do you think of the Apostles? They ate 'shew bread' made from old boots and shoes!"

Sad Accident.

While a committee of the citizens of Houston, Texas were bathing a horse thief in the river, he accidentally slipped from their hands, someway, and sank to the bottom, This sad event did not particularly interrupt the Thanksgiving festivities of Houston.—Such is life.

Advice.

He that gives good advice builds with one hand; he that gives good counsel and example, builds with the other; but he that gives admonition and bad example, builds with one hand and pulls down with the other.

The Difference.

A young man generally gives a lock of his hair to his sweetheart before he marries her. After marriage, she sometimes helps herself, and doesn't use scissors!

A Truism.

It is with narrow-souled people as it is with narrow-necked bottles—the less they have in them the more noise they make pouring it out.

The Force of Habit.

A young convert down in Oregon demonstrated the force of habit by remarking in a conference meeting that some of the proceedings were not "according to Hoyle!"

Some musicians put on more airs than they can play,

The Immortal Squarza.

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the Mechanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium.

Reason Enough.

The Milan (Tex.) Telegram says: "We have been asked why we stopped publishing the list of marriage licences issued by the clerk. Because a great stand-up-in-the-mud out there in the sand-hills, said we published his daughter as married when she weren't, and that he would hit us on the head hard enough to knock our ankles out of joint for it. Is that explanation satisfactory?"

Fiends About.

The Chicago fire brought out the fire-fiend and the Eastern papers trotted out the ice-fiend about Thanksgiving time. The overland passengers encountered the snow-fiend, and, as Christmas approaches, we may look out for the fowl-fiend; but we will say "Turkey," nevertheless.

The Right Stock.

Few things are more necessary in life than judgment, firmness, and courage. With them a man can rarely fail; without them he can rarely succeed.

All fears of the cholera from Russia seem to have subsided; Alexis only brought th Hoopenkoff with him.

A pound of energy with an ounce of talent will achieve greater results than a pound of talent with an ounce of energy.

All great things are acquired by little. The greatest fortunes consist of farthings. Life is made up of moments.

A Connecticut schoolboy states that the "Father of his Country" was Brigham Young.

The Resort of the Bon Vivant.

There is a place in this city, which is becoming a famous resort of the lovers of good living. Here they find a thousand little delicacies which only people of cultivated taste can enjoy. Terrapin stews, Eastern oysters in every imaginable form (curried oysters are delicious), game, the choicest wines and everything else to please the palate. It is almost needless to say it is Jones' Oyster Palace and Ice Cream Saloon in the California Theatre, immediately adjoining the entrance. Frank Dumont is the best of caterers.

Car and Steamer News Agency.

A. Kronberg, the news agent for the steamer Capital and the cars of the C. P. R. Self-weaknesses.

To pardon those absurdities in ourselves which we cannot suffer in others, is neither better nor worse than to be more willing to be fools ourselves than to have others so.

When a man has no design but to speak plain truth, he may say a great deal in a very narrow compass.

The Luxeries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest posts in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terripan stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omlettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Hacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oysters Saloon, No. 337 Bush street above the Alhambra. AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

To night the California drama of "Ready" which had such a successful run on its first production will be revived with all the original beautiful scenery by Porter, and the same cast as before. "Ready" should be good for another run.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Under the Gaslight" with its scenes of low life in New York and great railroad sensation, will be played for the last time this evening. It has seldom been better played anywhere than at the Metropolitan Theatre.

Alhambra Theatre.

The immense crowds that flock nightly to the Alhambra prove that merit will tell. The San Francisco public demand a good deal in the way of amusement for their money, and they are forced to confess they get it at the Alhambra Theatre, in the immense entertainment given by the great Billy Emerson, the only Leon, the artistic Kelly and their combined minstrel companies.

Bella Union.

In the first part performance at this popular theatre, Mat Kelly as bones, Lon McCarthy as interrogator, and Chris Mathews as tamborine, all fill their parts well, and Minnie Fillmore, Della Smythe, Fanny Garretson, Carrie Armstrong, and others sing sweet ballads and swell the harmony. Miss Maggie Knight is a great favorite with the audience, and the afterpiece of "The Rival Naiads" is a lively performance.

The Oxford.

The Ghost of the Oxford causes much amusement. To-night a number of favorite performers will be added to the company. Sally Thayer, the old war horse, Josie Mayfield, Hughy Morton, and others. Miss Amelia Dean is a most energetic manageress and is most successful in her efforts to entertain the public.

"Bertha."

The production of the highly sensational drama "Bertha, the Sewing Machine Girl," at the Metropolitan Theatre, has been postponed from day to day entirely on account of the detention of Miss Henrietta Osborne by being snowed in on the plains. This young actress, of whom report speaks highly, arrived safe and sound last night, and "Bertha" will be produced to-morrow night, she playing the title role. A new piece and a new lady star should prove attractions enough to throng the Metropolitan Theatre.

Pavilion Skating Rink.

Assemblies at the Pavilion skating rink are on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, in the morning, and Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays in the evening. Professor Lovett, the famous skater, gives an exhibition every evening.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillieu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention are on exhibition

Two Sides to the Question.

Of Turner's Woman's Rights bill, now in the Illinois Legislature, the Chicago Evening Post thusly remarks:

Of Turner's bill, now in our Legislature,
H. Greeley says, "It's violence to Nature;
What right has woman, safe from war's alarms,
To cast a ballot, when she don't bear arms?"
"For shame!" shouts Mrs. Huff, in lofty dudgeon,
"For shame! Go to! Get out, you old curmudgeon!
What right have you, with all your talk bewilderin',
To cast a ballot when you don't bear children!"

Cure for Blindness.

We cannot recommend the following cure for blindness which we find in an exchange. It might fail in some cases:

A citizen of Richmond, blind in one eye for three years, was lately kicked in the face by a horse, and the sight of the eye was restored.

Men.

Men are frequently like tea—the real strength and goodness is not properly drawn out of them till they have been for a short time in hot water.

Yes; and it's FIGARO's opinion that the women generally furnish the hot water.

First Premium Millinery.

The last Mechanics' Fair awarded the first premium for superior taste and elegance of workmanship in the millinery line, to Mrs. Cowles of the "New House," 314 Third street. Mrs. Cowles' stock is unsurpassed by any in the city, and her prices are very reasonable. BH

LETTER FROM KANSAS.

[FROM THE ROYAL YEDDO JAPS.]

TOPEKA, KANSAS, December 4, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO:—since we left S. F., we have been pretty fortunate, the weather and people being favorable to our show. We struck but very little opposition, but in all cases overcame it. For the benefit of troupes travelling, we warn them against the Central Pacific Railway, and Kansas Pacific, as they have no competition and do as they please. Salt Lake City was our greatest hit since San Francisco, crowded houses for six nights and a matinee. Well, it was a matinee, the most beautiful sight given to man to see; 1,133 little ones hemmed in that beautiful theatre. In Ogden we also did well. My dear FIGARO, no use talking but the Mormons are the most liberal people I know of to patronize a good show, and the Cornishmen the most backward, to which we attribute our ill-luck in Grass Valley and Nevada, clearing expenses and glad our time was up. For any troupes travelling, I believe a trip to Denver and thence to the mountains, in Summer, would be a golden harvest, as they thirst for anything of the kind, and on the return strike down the Kansas Pacific Road, where small towns have been overlooked and where money is plenty. You cannot imagine what pleasure it gave me to read a FIGARO once more in the office of the Denver Bulletin, "Old Times Rocks," and to think how anxiously we sought the kindly notices it might be your pleasure to write. We shall go soon to warmer climes, as our Japs and managers, Mitchell and Wetton, are used to Chinese and Japanese climate, St. Louis and New Orleans being the extremes. Wetton is always advance agent, and daily improving, while Mitchell and B. DeWitt tend to the wants of ye Japs, and yours truly, a 'Frisco boy, tends to the "notes" and nurses them well. Will write to you from New Orleans.

LOUIS DUNAND,
Treasurer Royal Yeddo Japanese Troupe.

Talkers.

Small wits are great talkers, as empty barrels and shallow streams make the most noise. It has been said that the smaller the calibre of the mind, the greater the bore of a perpetually open mouth. "I talk a great deal, but I talk well," said one of these men to Cardinal Richelieu. "Half of that is true," said the Cardinal. "I cannot imagine," said an acquaintance, "why my whiskers should turn gray so much sooner than the hair on my head." "Because you have worked so much more with your jaws than your brains," observed a friend with more wit than manners.

A Manufactured Item.

On Tuesday night, Elbert Tappin, of Oyster bay, while drunk turned his wife and children out of his house, and then set fire to the premises. The neighbors extinguished the fire, but not before the furniture and clothing of the family had been nearly destroyed.—Huntingdon Bulletin.

The above might be true, provided Elbert Tappin had a wife, family, house or furniture but unfortunately having none, the Bulletin must be mistaken.—Exchange.

A Justifiable Excuse.

A teacher in a Great Barrington Sabbath School imprudently asked his juveniles last Sunday, if they were ready to go to Heaven. One youngster meekly replied that he was ready, and another didn't know, but the third promptly replied that he "wasn' ready to go to Heaven until he could catch another rabbit."

In de little cabin do'.

My Sam was dar wid his fiddle,
Po' Sam! he's gone—gone dead!
Dead for de want ob food and clothes
An' de shelter oberhead.

An' little Mose—well, he's dead, too!
How he used to dance and sing,
While Jim an' Polly an' all de res'
Went "roun' an' roun' de ring."

Ole Missis—bless her dear ole soul—
Would laugh till her sides gib way,
An' Massa 'd stop at my cabin just
To say, "How's ole Mammy to-day?"

De boys—I mean ole massa's boys—
Dey lubbed ole Mammy too,
Who nussed 'em—eb'ry blessed one,

How They Take It.

When a Bergen girl gets kissed she calmly remarks: "Hans dat ish good;" and when a Block Island girl receives a buss, she exclaims with considerable animation: "Well John, you've wiped my chops off beautiful!" And when the shade of a moustache sweeps across the tulips of a Boston girl, she cries out in ecstacy, "O! Walter, d-d-do some more!" In San Francisco they don't say anything, they don't think a kiss is a thing to be talked about; they only draw a long breath and look thankful, a sort of "for what we have received make us thankful" look.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.
A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and commends itself to all classes.
Who that has struggled with the ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with loss of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress-art can smooth that "wrinkled front," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the sleep-worn, worried garment will not last long.
My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.

The Public will please take notice that

Suspicious Woman!

The La Crosse Democrat noted a few days since, the Fond du Lac Commonwealth had an item requesting heads of families to "choke the hired girls from the habit of using the kerosene can to light the fire with in the morning," The Democrat relates a sequel: "A few mornings after, a lady whose husband is a merchant, and takes the paper, heard a scuffling in the kitchen about the time the fire was being built, and, opening the kitchen door, found her husband with one arm round the girl's neck, and he was kissing her and, acting queer for him. She took him by one ear and led him into the bedroom, and asked him how long this had been going on. He got the paper and showed her the item, and said he was only choking the girl so she couldn't use kerosene to light the fire. His wife says he can tell that to the marines. This shows how great a scuffle a little fire kindleth, when people take the papers."

Rough on the Smiths.

A Mrs. Smythe, of Indianapolis, Ind., now has her fifth husband, and she has never changed her name. She was born a Smith, her first husband was named Smith, her second Schmidt, her third Smyth, her fourth Smithe, and her present Smythe. If she doesn't intend to try any other name until she has run through the Smith family, we pitty her—and them.

Very True.

The Cincinnati Weekly Times says: "It is possible that much of our sympathy for Rossel arrises from a difierence of custom in the two countries. A short lapse of time between the sin and the punishment obliterates the former in America; it seems that it does not in France." There is a fearful amount of truth in this short paragraph.

Ambitious Youth.

Johnny was telling his ma how he was going to dress, and show off when he gets to be a man. His ma asked: "Johnny, what do you expect to do for a living when you get to be a man?" "Well, I reckon I'll get married, and board with my wife's pa."

A Compliment.

The New York Corner Stone making a lengthy extract from FIGARO says:

We extract from the theatrical mirror—FIGARO—the following.

That is exactly what we wish FIGARO always to be "the theatrical mirror."

To the Unfortuate.
Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, No. 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco. Private entrance on Commercial street. Established in 1854, for the treatment of chronic and special complaints. Dr. Gibbon will make no charge unless he effects a cure.

Short-Sighted.

The Washington Critic, which generally expresses pretty sensible opinions, does not seem to set much value on high art. Speaking of a Madonna and Child, by Raphael, in the National Gallery, London, being valued at £40,000 or $200,000, it says:

As to the question with which we started, we cannot help thinking that $200,000 is too much for either a private or a public buyer to pay for any picture by anybody. But then we might say the same thing of extravagance in the purchase of diamonds. In a certain sense everything is worth what it will fetch. But if money is to be expended liberally on art, for the soul of us we cannot see the advantage to be derived from giving for a picture by a dead artist money enough to endow an Academy of Art, or to furnish to some extent, an interesting and instructive gallery. Such things as pictures are rich or rare as fancy rates them, but, regarding the matter with utilitarian eyes, we think it better to breed up new painters than thus to honor an old one.

Cannot the Critic see that thus honoring an old painter is the most effectual way to "breed up new painters?

Enterprise.

The Chronicle boasts of its enterprise, in getting ahead of its neighbors in the publication of news. Its last attempt in this direction, is anything but creditable. Having received no telegraphic dcspatches yesterday it deliberately invented one; to the effect, that the Prince of Wales died on the 12th. It thought this was safe, as the latest despatches received by the Associated Press, stated that his death was hourly expected. Had the Prince died on the day named by the Chronicle, that paper would have loudly proclaimed its enterprise, in publishing the news in advance of all its contemporaries. As it is, it had better hide its head in shame The Chronicle is very enterprising and very unreliable.

Virtue and Divorces.

In his lecture, in Boston, Theodore Tilton said a nation without divorce was a nation without virtue. France, he remarked, had no ground for divorce, and she was the most licentious country in the universe. Prussia had twelve grounds for divorce, and she was the most virtuous nation in Europe. South Carolina had no divorce, and she rots. Massachusetts has seven grounds for divorce and, she was the queen of the realm.

Good Test.

The test by which a young man cannot fail to find a good wife is to select one who wears her hair only. This recipe was furnished by a venerable Boston clergyman.

P.S.—To ascertain the fact take her by the head and jerk.

Western judge is reported to have thus addressed a prisoner before him prior to passing sentence: "Prisoner at the bar—Providence has given you a good degree of health and strength, instead of which you go about the country stealing ducks."

It is as great point of wisdom to hide ignorance as to discover knowledge.

A Chinese proverb says: "To gain a law suit, alas! is to acquire a hen and lose a cow.

The Immortal Squarza.

Squarza has departed from the Golden State, but he has left his works behind him, and even when he dies they will live after him. A magnificent monument to his memory may be seen in the Mechanics' Fair. It is composed of bottles filled with the spiritual essences which he so happily combined to make merry the hearts of men, and is surmounted by a well-executed image of Squarza himself, supported by figures representing the infant Bacchus. Something of the same kind will be exhibited at the State Fair at Sacramento, and here and there and everywhere will Squarza's famous punches bear off the first premium.

The Truth Useful!

"If anyone speaks ill of thee," says Epictetus, "consider whether he hath truth on his side, and if so, reform thyself, that his censures may not affect thee," When Alexander was told that the very boys laughed at his singing, "Ah," said he, "then I must learn to sing better." Plato, being told that he had many enemies who spoke ill of him, said: "It is no matter; I shall live so that none will believe them." Hearing at another time that an intimate friend of his had spoke detractingly of him, he said: "I am sure he would not do it if he had not some reason for it." This is the surest as well as the noblest way of drawing the sting out of reproach, and the true method of preparing a man for the great and only relief against the pains of calumny.

The Game Laws.

The Acclimitization Society have appointed a committee consisting of M. M. Estee, A. Badlam and Charles Kaeding, to prepare a new Game Law for the consideration of the Legislature. This is well. The present game law of California is a disgrace to a civilized country, and far more arbitrary in its provisions than the game laws of England, about which people who know nothing about them make such an outcry. While it affords every possible immunity to the trapper who destroys the young birds by wholesale and will in a few years exterminate quail entirely, it throws all sorts of obstacles and annoyances in the way of the honest sportsman who depends on his good gun, keen sight and trusty dog to secure his game.

A correspondent of the Union County Courier says that "Sioux City is the elder sister that rocked the interests of Dakota in their infancy." The Yankton Press Dakota, retorts: "Yes, just as the Jews rocked the martyr Stephen!"

The Resort of the Bon Vivant.
There is a place in this city, which is becoming a famous resort of the lovers of good living. Here they find a thousand little delicacies which only people of cultivated taste can enjoy. Terrapin stews, Eastern oysters in every imaginable form (curried oysters are delicious), game, the choicest wines and everything else to please the palate. It is almost needless to say it is Jones' Oyster Palace and Ice Cream Saloon in the California Theatre, immediately adjoining the entrance. Frank Dumont is the best of caterers.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night Miss Henrietta Osborne, from the Grand Opera House New York, will make her first appearance in California at the Metropolitan Theatre, and the sensation drama of "Bertha," which has met with unbounded success in New York, Brooklyn, and other Eastern Cities, will be produced for the first time. The drama is in four acts; it is said to be full of moving situations and wonderfully real scenes; that of the work room with the sewing machines in full operation being spoken of as particularly effective. James M. Hardie, J. H. Vinson, Maggie Moore Willie Simms, R. H. Cox, J. H. McCabe, Miss Fanny Young, and the whole company are included in the cast. Entire new scenes by Wilkins have been painted for the piece and it will be placed on the stage with every care to its most effective production This piece will be played at the matinee on Saturday

Alhambra Theatre.

Billy Emerson's new song "Seven Out" is the funniest of all his many original productions. Leon is in his glory in the farce of "A chip of the old Block," in which he plays the character of a wife of the period in a manner which is perfectly marvelous: he is ably supported by Edwin Kelly, Foster, Sinclare, the Reynolds Brothers appear in an original song and dance, and the screaming ethiopian farce of "A Trip to Paris," in which Billy Emerson, the Reynols Brothers, Miss Gibson, and Foster appear, winds up the evening's amusement

California Theatre.

Fred Lyster's very attractive and highly sensational drama of "Ready" was presented last night before a large and delighted audience, and judging from the applause it drew is good for another run. The cast is the same with which it was first produced, and J. C. Williamson, James Carden, Owen Marlowe, Miss Minnie Walton, Miss May Howard and all engaged in its representation play their parts to perfection. "Ready" will be layed again to-night, and at the matinee on Saturday.

Bella Union.

After the first part Miss Carrie Chapman performs an artistic fancy dance; Miss Fanny Garretson sings a popular ballad in excellent style; Miss Maggie Knight appears in a Chinese act; Miss Josephine in song and dance; Eugenia Gerretta in classic statues: the attractive Della Smythe, the latest addition to the company, in a ballad; Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin in a double Dutch song and dance, and Minnie Fillmore, Minnie Corbyn, Marie Zoel, Maggie Brewer, May Leroy, and many others in an attractive afterpiece.

The Globe T

This theatre will on Saturday evening be opened with a strong company and novel entertainment John Morrow being sole proprietor and manager Leon Samwells will be stage manager. The programme will appear in to-morrow's FIGARO.

The Oxford.

The very talkative and amusing ghost that appears nightly at the Oxford draws many visitors. The company is a very strong one, comprising Amelia Dean, Lizzie Harmon, Blanche, Fanny Webster, Nellie Leonard, and many more popular favorites. Sally Thayer, the old war horse, met with a hearty reception last night when she made her first appearance.

Pavilion Skating Rink.

Assemblies at the Pavilion skating rink are on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, in the morning, and Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays in the evening. Professor Lovett, the famous skater, gives an exhibition every evening.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chailleu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention are on exhibition

The New Remedy.

For restoring the hair and cleansing the scalp, use Kinkead's sage-brush hair tonic and cure for baldness. It will check the hair from falling out. To be had of the agent, Jas. H. Gates, Druggist cor. New Montgomery and Howard streets and all druggists. See that L. M. Kinkead, Elko Nev., is on each wrapper. K

A Sad Result of Heroism.

It is rather late in the day to publish incidents of the Chicago fire, but the Post relates one which deserves more than local circulation. It is the story of an Indian who had arrived in the city but a few days before the great disaster. As the flames advanced, he was standing on the sidewalk of State street. He gazed upon the rushing columns of fire as calmly as if he was contentedly viewing an Apache brother cutting the throat of an Arizona settler. All about him was crackling ruin, but his bronzed face gave no indication of fear. Through the smoke and fire the panic-stricken multitude called on him to fly, but he stood immovible as a statue and vouchsafed no answer. The curling tongues of flame, wrapped him in a blazing garment, and soon he perished—a victim to a mistaken idea of courage, The proprietor of the cigar store who had him carefully chiselled out of a pine tree at a cost of twenty-five dollars is inconsolable!

Forgot Himself.

Monsieur D. lives very unhappily with his wife, and their quarrels are very much talked of in the circle in which they visit. A gentleman who had been to visit them at their country place was narrating a late escape of Madame D., she having fallen from a boat while fishing with her husband in a lake near their dwelling, and been on the point of drowning. "In one instant," added the narrator, "the husband jumped into the water and saved her life." "Mon Dieu!" exclaimed a lady who knew the parties "What a want of presence of mind!"

An Old Miracle.

A learned gentleman was accosted in the following manner by an illiterate preacher who despised education: "Sir, you have been to college, I suppose?" "Yes sir," was the reply. "I am thankful," rejoined the former, "that the Lord opened my mouth without any learning." "A similar event," retorted the clergyman, "took place in Baalam's time; but such things are of rare occurrence at the present day."

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence sfor shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

"Ready," with its beautiful scenery, stirring situations and piquant dialogue is very popular, and drew another good house last night. It will be played again to night, and at the matinee to morrow.

Alhambra Theatre.

To-night some of the most brilliant gems of this collection: Kelly and Leon will appear in the wonderfully comical domestic sketch entitled "A Chip of the Old Block," and the combined forces of the two troupes will present a varied and attractive programme. There will be a matinee to-morrow.

Metropolitan Theatre.

A capital audience was present last night when the sensation play of "Bertha, the Sewing Machine Girl" was presented for the first time, and Miss Henrietta Osborne made her first appearance. Miss Osborne has a splendid stage presence, a pleasing and expressive countenance, and a fine voice, which she uses with admirable discretion. By the manner in which she played Bertha last night—a part by the by which she had never seen before—she established herself in the good opinion of the critical San Francisco public as an actress of far more than ordinary talent.

The play of Bertha opens well and throughout the first act the interest is well kept up, the attention of the audience being held by a succession of scenes some exciting and humorous, and the natural talk put into the mouths of the different characters. Jack Ryerson, capitally played by James M. Hardie was the hero of the first act. His entrance on the stage gained for him a round of applause as his first business was to floor a villain. Nothing could be better than Mr. Hardie's simulation of drunkenness, it was a perfect study, and was enthusiastically endorsed by the audience as true to nature. In this same act W. Simms, who has made considerable progress in his profession since he first trod the boards of Maguires Opera House did some good comic acting as Joe Ligwater Harry Colton as the virtuous lover of the play was very good and acted in an earnest style which took well. Miss Fanny Young as the villainess of the piece who caused all the trouble was very cool and determined and made the character as unloveable a one as could be desired. Miss Maggie Moore as Hester Smith was the life of every scene in which she appeared, and Mrs. Frank Ren was very amusing as Miss Charity Perch the forewoman. J. H. Vinson as Jasper Carter, a rich merchant looked the soul of benevolence, while R. H. Cox as his brother David was a villain and no mistake; E. J. Crowell played the part of the crushed Conrad Bascome very well, and Fanny Hanks, who on this occasion made her first appearance in some years on the stage, filled that of his wife very naturally. Joan Woodard was excellent as the old vagabond, Dick Rivers, making quite a character of him. George Hinckley played the ungrateful part of Joe Carson very satisfactorily. J. H. McCabe, whom we have missed from the stage for a long time, and who is one of our best old men acters, was quite at home in the part of Caleb Carson, proprietor of the sewing machine shop; John Maguire's make-up for and acting in the character of the Judge, was especially good—one of the best little bits of character acting we have seen for some time; Orville Wilson did his small part of the District Attorney well; John Thomas filled the part of Tom Austin, and J. Walters made a model policeman. Miss Susie Soule as Maggie Ryerson, had not much to say but played the part well. The play is made up of false imprisonment, forged letters, attempted murders, and other sensation elements combined in more workmanlike style than is generally the case in plays of this description. About the middle the action flagged a little; this will be remedied to-night when the piece will be rattled off sharp and lively and will be ended at least twenty minutes sooner than last night. Everyone will of course go to see "Bertha," which will be played this evening and at the matinee to-morrow.

Bella Union.

The very attractive company at this house is very strong both in male and female artists, and the programme is a rich and varied one. The very attractive extravaganza of "The Rival Naiads: or, the Demon Frog," must soon be withdrawn to make room for others novelties.

The Globe Theatre.

This house will be opened to-morrow evening by John Morrow with Leon Samwells as stage manager. A good company has been engaged and an entertainment consisting of songs, dances, farces and tableaux vivants will be given.

The Oxford.

Miss Amelia Dean and her attractive troupe of female minstrels give a very lively performance at this popular little theatre. The ghost causes much amusement, and novelties are continually being produced. The last are the appearance of Gus Sprague, the big shoe dancer, and the revival of the can can.

Pavilion Skating Rink.

Assemblies at the Pavilion skating rink are on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, in the morning, and Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays in the evening. Professor Lovett, the famous skater gives an exhibition every evening.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Charlieu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention are on exhibition

Billiard Match.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and commends itself to all classes.

Who that has struggled with the ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with loss of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress can smooth that "wrinkled front," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the slop-worn, worried garment will not last long.

My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.

FRIDAY .....DECEMBER 15, 1871

Paris and her Shameless Fashions.

Paris has learned nothing, forgotton nothing, and she sends out to-day styles of attire as shameless in their immodesty, vanity, prodigality, and defiance of feminine grace as anything which scandalized the last days of the Empire. She avenges herself on the modest German women with a book of fashions which is calculated to ruin all moderate revenues, to put chastity and sobriety to scorn, and to drive even Queens into courts of law. Those prodigious trains, those senseless appendages, that huge sham mass of dead hair, which no longer so much as affects to be natural; the countless flounces and furbelows, scrolls and ruches, which are the negation and the death of drapery; the hats and bonnets which have ceased to be more than a ludicrous caprice, the piled up passe-menterie and inartistic trimmings—all these, with heels, breeding corns and bunions; black lead under the eyes causing early blindness, and a tout ensemble which would make modest women blush, if poudre de perles allowed it—are what we get from Paris, where so little apparantly has survived, except the curse which every honest heart prayed to see die.—London Telegraph.

How far a Mabille Belle may go.

The dreadfully abused "Jardin Mabille," in Paris, is even much more worthy of patronage than the London licensed Hells The scenes there depicted are not near so shocking to modest eyes. In the Mabille only the hired actors and actresses take part in the performance, and they are kept under the strict surveillance of a uniformed police, who immediately tone down any over enthusiasm on the part of the female dancers. The frail beauties of the Mabille are obliged to conform to the prefect's idea of what is proper in the matter of costume. High necked dresses with long skirts are the order of the night, and to tip off a spectator's hat with her heel, or extinguish his cigar with the toe of her boot is as far as a Matille belle dare go.

Too Fast.

A farmer in Danbury, says the News, saw a boy stealthily leaving his premises with an amply filled pillow case dragging behind. The gentleman knew the boy had something in that bag, and stole up in his rear and popped right down it, seat first. It was not until a half pint of excellent home-made ointment had been rubbed in, that he became sufficiently composed to explain to his wife that the vicious young thief had left the burs on those chestnuts.

Oyster Trade.
The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

Intellectual Pleasures.

The pleasures of intellect surpass all others; just as much as the soul is superior to the body. In this world what sources of intense gratification are to be found by the deeply intellectual' which afford no pleasure to the commonplace mind, and are passed over by them as matters of course without interest or inquiry!

The truely intellectual seldom suffer ennui, for their brain is ever bright with its vivid imaginings and fancies; reading teems with delight, the author's ideas being thoroughly comprehended. Nothing is too subtle, minute or mysterious for the intellectual mind to dive into, bringing on with the investigation, its attended enjoyment.

To be clever is not always to be intellectual, as many suppose, for an individual may be clever in some business or profession attained by common sense and perseverance and yet not at all intellectual.

Intellect can only be cultivated; it cannot be taught, It is a gift of God, confined to no people, nor station. How often do we see an intellectual "star" rising from low and ignorant surroundings, shedding its radiance far and near. Sensual pleasures are like soap bubbles, bright, sparkling evanescent. But the pleasures of intellect are calm, beautiful, sublime, ever-enduring, and climbing upward to the borders of the unseen world.

Those who have resources within themselves, who can dare to live alone, want friends the least, but at the same time, best know how to prize them the most. But no company is far preferable to bad, because, we are more apt to catch the vices of others than their virtues, as the disease is far more contagious than death.

The Divorce Market.

An Indianapolis paper thus sums up the divorce market. "Brisk competition among the lawyers has brought down the price of divorces very low in this market. We quote Common separation, $15; small alimony, $25; large alimony $50 at 100. There are but few of the latter in market. General business good and interesting.

Utterly Brutal.

One would suppose that Chicago had been afflicted sufficiently for one season, but now comes Elder Knapp, with one of his characteristic "revivals." This is the last straw piled on the poor camel's back, The animal's overtaxed vertebral column must certainly break down soon.

Nice Game.

A Newark barber, named Scharfenberg, recently went out for a day's shooting, and at night returned with two cats in his game bag, he having mistaken them for rabbits, and it was with much difficulty that he was convinced to the contrary.

Persist!

A cynical society belle says she had learned to put very little faith in the admiration and attention that any moderately attractive woman is sure to receive, and that she never supposes a man to be in love with her until he has told her once or twice.

Rough.

A Vallejo Nimrod, having gone ten miles after game, and finding it plenty, was highly disgusted on discovering that he had brought a box of pills by mistake for percussion caps. He went home a sadder and more hungry man.

For a useful Holiday Present, go to P. Douglas & Co's, 131 Kearny street. They have the finest assortment of silver-plated Tea Sets, Castors, Cake Baskets, Spoons, Forks, Knives, etc., etc., to be found in the city. All of the best double plate on white metal. M

How He Knew.

When Dr. Thompson, a noted Scotch clergyman, was minister of Markinch, he happened to preach from the text "Look not upon the wine when it is red in the cup;" from which he made a most eloquent and impressive discourse against drunkenness, stating its effects on the head, heart and purse. Several of his observations were leveled at two cronies, with whom he was well acquainted, who frequently poured out libations to the rosy god. At the dismissal of the congregation the two friends met, the doctor being close behind them "Did you hear yon, Johnnie?" quoth the one, "Did I hear it? Wha didna hear't? I ne'er winked an e'e the haill sermon." "Aweel, an what thought you o't?" "Adeel Davie, I think he's been a lad in his day, or he couldna ken'd sae weel about it! ah, he's been a slee lad the meenister!"

A Suggestion.

A youth, after vainly trying to explain some scientific theory to his fair inamorata, said: "The question is difficult, and I don't see what I can do to make it clearer." "Suppose you pop it," whispered the blushing damsel.

"Knock me Down."

A Racine girl wanted her lover to swear on the Bible that she was all the world to him, and when he wouldn't, she knocked him down with the sacred volume.

Latest New York Styles.
Everything depends upon the style in which a garment is made and fitted. Ladies can be sure of procuring "the style," in dresses or cloaks, by applying to Miss S. D. Myers, lately from New York, at 120 Post st. near Kearny. BH

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.
A well made Shirt, artistically cut to fit the wearer, is not only an indispensable adjunct, the very foundation, in fact, of an elegant toilet, but it is also a priceless boon to the business man, and can made itself to all classes.
Who that has struggled with the ill-fitting ready-made article has not come off with loss of good humor, wilted, and thoroughly depressed. No laundress-art can smooth that "wrinkled front," and no consolation is left the wearer but the fact that the slop-worn, worried garment will not last long.
My Shirts are made to measure, of the finest material, and warranted for Style, Fit, and Workmanship. My prices are in competition with ready-made goods, and I invite a call. All kinds of Embroidery and Machine Stitching neatly executed by skilful operators.

Miss Matilda Heron.

The many friends of Miss Matilda Heron will be gratified to learn from the following notice, which appeared in the St. Louis Daily Democrat, of November 21st, the day after her reappearance on the stage, that the reports of her insanity were erroneous: "Only a moderate house greeted Matilda Heron last evening on her first appearance. Her play, "Naomie," was presented with he star in the title role. She still exhibits the same penchant for striking attitudes as of old, and last night won the accustomed applause. She assumes a costume admirably suited to the part, and one which is admirably fitted to her physique The lay is an adaptation of Miss Heron from the French drama of "The Card Drawer," and will be further noticed at another time.

LETTER FROM OMAHA.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

Omaha, Neb. Dec. 5, 1871.

Dear Figaro:—Your welcome face adorns my table, let it continue. Mr Robt. McWade has just finished a most successful engagement of six nights, appearing three nights at Kansas City two at Leavenworth and one at St. Jo. His Rip Van Winkle is a most artistic performance and I am glad to say it is appreciated. Bob came to us direct from you, with a most glowing account of the generosity, geniality and hospitality of Californians, and finding I was from the Golden State he desired me to express through your columns his appreciation of the kindness and courtesy shown him by the management of the Metropolitan Theatre, to whom, by the way, I wish with him every success. Chanfrau opens with us here to-night in "Sam." Every seat in the house is sold, he will doubtless play a good engagement. McKean Buchanan who has been tortoring—as the New York papers say—the people of this part o' this country of late, is on his back at Leavenworth with a bad attack of the gout—I hear it is likely to prove serious; well, "sic transit." A merry Christmas to all the boys, and wishing myself well out of this infernally cold country, I am truly yours, Chas. Thornton.

YOUNG MAN, the holidays are near at hand: don't make presents of jewgaws and jewelry; make your mother a present, or your sister; if you are not blessed with a sister, make somebody else's sister a present—a fine set of lace curtains, an elegant body of Brussels carpet, a fine rug, a splendid parlor or chamber set. That is the way a certain young man married a fortune not long since. The old folks watched him, tested him, and then gave their consent. If you want an elegant outfit for about one-half that you can get it elsewhere, go to JOHN C. BELL'S Carpet and furniture Emporium, near Sansome opposite the Grand Hotel, on Market, and opposite the Occidental on Sutter street. Everybody knows that he makes all newly married parties an elegant present regardless of expense. Try it and then you will "KNOW HOW IT IS YOURSELF." P

Death of Charles Poole.

Mr. Charles Poole, actor and manager, died at his residence, 37 East Canon street, Boston, Mass., Dec. 1st, aged 54; was born in England in 1817, and made his first appearance at the City Theatre, London, as Jerry Sneak, in the farce of "Mayor of Ganat." He became a provincial manager both in England and Ireland; afterward embarked for Australia with his wife—Mrs. Charles Poole—and subsequently became manager of the late lamented G. V. Brooke, where he leased the Theatre Royal, at Melbourne, each sharing over £10,000, and was the first manager to introduce Italian Opera at Sydney, N. S. Wales. From there he went to New Zealand where his wife and self "starred" with success; arrived in our city, and his wife obtained an engagement at Maguire's Opera House, where she met with indifferent success. Subsequently in conjunction with his brother, in January, he became Lessee of the Metropolitan Theatre; here the great feature during their management, was the production of the "Bloviator," George Francis Train, who netted for each $5,000. Mr. Poole was a cultivated gentleman; his wife, now at Booth's, Boston, is a most estimable lady, and none deplore his loss more than his wife's relations here, and [illegible]selves. Goodbye, Charley; if thy shadow is less[illegible] meridian glory is at its zenith.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence stor shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—This afternoon and evening the bill which has been eminently successful in amusing the thousands who have flocked to this favorite resort during the last week will be played. It appears in full on our first page. To-morrow evening a special novelty will be offered in the first appearance of the Only Leon in Black; he will personate Bouncing Meg, a plantation negress, and also appear as Topsy in his laughable act entitled "A Troublesome Legacy." Next week the burnt cork opera bouffe of "La Belle Helene," will be produced.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—"Ready" abounds in attractive features and is mounted in the most superb style. A trip to the Yosemite Falls can be cheaply enjoyed by paying a dollar at the box-office of the California Theatre A matinee will be given to-day when the prices of admission will be half price to all parts of the house.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—A larger audience than has assembled in this theatre for many nights witnessed the second performance of "Bertha, the Sewing Machine Girl," last night. The play has been judiciously compressed and goes off in quick time, J. H. Vinson, the experienced stage manager, deserves credit for the excellent manner in which he has placed this and many other pieces on the stage. The scenes of the Houston-street Ferry and the Battery, New York, were recognized by the audience and received a round of applause. Miss Henrietta Osborne is already a favorite, and will, we are sure, in other parts increase the good opinion the public have formed of her in Bertha. This attractive play will be performed at the matinee to-day and again this evening and to-morrow night.

BELLA UNION THEATRE.—This Theatre has been for the last fifteen years the Saturday night resort par excellence of those who seek relaxation after the cares and business of the week; and a capital entertainment is always presented on that night. To-night after a varied first part Miss Carrie Chapman will appear in a song and dance "The Roaring Girl:" Fanny Garretson is a favorite ballad; the popular favorite, Miss Clara Starr, who will make her first appearance at this house to-night in a comic song; Miss Josephine in song and dance; the pet of the public Miss Maggie Night as Terry O' Grady; Eugenia Gerretta in statues; Delia Smythe in a pleasing ballad; Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin in double song and dance, and a number of other artists in attractive specialties. The performance will conclude with the extravaganza of "Virgins, or Woman Unveiled," in which the whole company will appear.

THE OXFORD.—A varied and attractive entertainment will be given here this evening. After the Female Minstrels in the first part, Gus Sprague, the "Big Shoe dancer" will give his eccentric dance, which was received last night with five encores: Amelia Dean will present her character songs and dances; Lizzie Harmon her vocal gems; Sallie Thayer her comic songs, Nellie Leonard her pretty ballads; Lowden, Morton, Forrest, and others will appear in farces: the whole entertainment winding up with the expose of the Mason-street Ghost. Same bill to-morrow night.

THE GLOBE THEATRE.—This Theatre will be reopened to-night with a company comprising Leon Samwells and Horatio Nelson the favorite pantomimists, Harry Howard the popular banjoist, Mess and Price the champion clog-dancers. Clara Draper the favorite vocalist, Johnny Price, Eva Silva, and a host of others. The programme appears on our first page.

DRAMATIC COMPANY FOR OREGON.—By the steamer of Tuesday, Mr. Geo. B. Waldron—a good actor and experienced manager—and company will leave for Portland, for extended season. Mr. Waldron has secured lease of the Ore Fino Theatre, Portland, Oregon, which of course, will be held as his head quarters though he will occasionally make dramatic raids to other towns in Oregon, and to Victoria. The company will consist of G. B. Waldron, William Barry, J. B. Robinson, Robert Pulford, George Bird, F. Cleaver, J. Barrow, W. H. Fortier, J. Besson, Mrs. Waldron, Mrs. Bella Bird, Miss Dora Wallace, Miss Kitty Pell and others. This is a good company, and deserves liberal patronage, and no doubt but what they will receive it.

THE CLIFF HOUSE. — Nothing is more health-giving than a spin along the Cliff House Road and a sniff of the briny air in the neighborhood of that famous hostelry. Nothing is more enjoyable than one of Captain Foster's dinners with a bottle of his choice wine.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION.—A grand anniversary celebration of St. John, the Evangelist will be held by the Conventional Independent Grand Lodge, F. L. A. M., of the State of California, at Pacific Hall, on Tuesday evening, December 26th. Hon. John B. Felton will deliver the oration.

PLATT'S HALL — The second invitation ball of the Exin Social Club will take place at Platt's Hall on Tuesday evening, Dec. 19th. The last was a very pleasant affair. We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation.

MORE TALENT.—Pete Lee, the Ethiopian comedian, is on his way here to fill an engagement with Emerson's Minstrels at the Alhambra Theatre.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

SACRAMENTO.—Professor Fowler, the phrenologist, has been lecturing at the theatre since Thursday evening. He will wind up the course to-morrow evening. The Varieties under the management of Chamberlain and Ballinger, has been doing a splendid business. Aline Le Favre, Ethel and Edgar Stanley, and the Lancashire Bellringers are great attractions. The Record says of this place of amusement: "This popular place of amusement is drawing good houses nightly. Of course its patrons are masculines; feminines go—on the stage. Minstrels, bell-ringers, trapeze performers and can-can, will take with the million, and the Varieties managers seem to know what is wanted." The same paper has the following, without which our record of Sacramento would be incomplete: "At the Chinese Theatre the great historical play of "Chy-lum-go-whang" is dragging its slow length along. It has now been going for three weeks, and the first act is nearly through. It will probably be finished by next Chinese New Year. Meanwhile the dulcet strains of Chinese music make everything lovely in the vicinity of Third and I streets."

STOCKTON.—Oliver Doud Byron and Procter's company drew large houses on Thursday and Friday evenings in "Across the Continent," and "Ben Mc Cullough" on the respective evenings. They left for Marysville on Friday.

PETALUMA.—A complimentary concert will be tendered to Miss Eva Tibbetts and Miss Augusta Cromwell by the musical talent of Petaluma, under the leadership of Prof. H. L. Schemmel, at the Petaluma Theatre on the 28th inst.

MARYSVILLE.—"Across the Continent" with Oliver Doud Byron in the leading role was presented last night. A matinee will be given to-day and "Ben McCullough" will be played this evening. On Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of next week Barker's mammoth moving panorama of the Four Rivers of the West, with views of California, Oregon, Puget Sound, etc., will be on exhibition at the theatre.

VALLEJO.—A concert with Mrs. W. A. Perrin, a leading vocalist, was given at Eureka Hall on the 12th.

SUCKER FLAT.—The following are the dimensions of Crary's Hall at Sucker Flat recently completed:

Length 123 feet, width 50 feet, height of ceiling 22 feet, size of stage 30 feet, and is capable of seating 1,000 persons.

SAN JOSE.—Proctor's company and Oliver Doud Byron played "Across the Continent" and "Ben McCullough" at the Opera House on Monday and Tuesday evenings. On the first night there was a poor house on account of there being a christening party, and the audience was small on the second night, because there was a free concert by a hand organ. The Guide says: "Mr. Proctor will not visit us again for some time." Strange, isn't it?

RED BLUFF.—Barker's Panorama was exhibited at Armory Hall last week. The Sentinel say:

The scenes in the Panorama comprise nearly all the interesting places of note on the Pacific slope; those of California being especially commendable. To add to the entertainment Mr. Tony Ward one of the best Comic Singers that ever visited our town, sings some of the latest and most mirth provoking songs of the day. He created frequent roars of laughter from the audience.

EUREKA.—S Piercy, A. Graham, Mrs. Helen Williamson, H. Lundy. Miss S. Van Allman and others are performing at the Eureka Theatre Humboldt Co. On the 2d, the bill consisted of "The Idiot Witness" with S. Piercy as Gilbert, impromptu song by A. Graham, "Sheridan's Ride" by S. Piercy. Head Lundy in character songs and the farce of "Paddy Miles' Boy."

VIRGINIA CITY, NEV.—There is no amusement at present in Virginia City. Piper's Opera House is being floored over for a grand ball to take place on the 28th. The floor is built in sections, and can be removed when theatrical performances are given.

OGDEN.—Mr. J. W. Carter has secured the Ogden Theatre for the purpose of given performances twice a week the approaching Winter. He will be assisted by Carrie Carter, Mr. F. A. Shields and the Ogden Amateur Company.

SALT LAKE CITY, U. T.—James M. Ward appeared at the theatre in "Through by Daylight" on the 7th.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS

In New York, T. C. De Leon's drama entitled "Paris, or the Days of the Commune," was produced on the 27th ult. with splendid scenery and everything that could secure its success had there been anything in it—but there wasn't. The press were unanimous in pronouncing it trash. The opinion of the Season is that of all the papers:

This is a downright bad play. It has no point, purpose, pith or moral. An enlightened, liberal-minded author of such bombastic twaddle as this should not only pay any management—even the Fisk Railway's—for having it produced, but should generously pay the public a handsome bonus for going in to see it.

It was withdrawn at the end of the week, and the "Three Guardsman" was played on Monday, with Frank Mayo as D'Artagnan.....At Niblo's, "The Black Crook" was to be revived 18th.....At Wallack's, "Rosedale" still runs. The first piece put on the stage after its withdrawal will be from the pen of John Brougham.....At Booth's Theatre Edwin Booth made his reappearance in "Hamlet" on the 4th. "Julius Cæsar" and "The Lady of Lyons" followed.....At the Fifth Avenue, "Divorce" still runs..... "Humpty Dumpty" at the Olympic.....Lina Edwin's Theatre is doing well under the management of M'lle Aimee. Offenbach's opera "Pont des Soupirs" was the latest production.....At the Bowery a new and original drama adapted from Charles Reade's novel entitled "A Terrible Temptation," by Geo. W. Middleton, was produced on the 4th. Lucy Rushton was to follow it in "Red Hands".....The Winter season of Italian opera closed at the Academy of Music on the 9th, with Miss Nilsson in "Lucia di Lammermoor.....The following is the announcement for the week commencing Dec. 4th at Tony Pastor's Opera House: The famed comedian, Sam Sanford, the clever jig dancer, Ada Stewart, and the Dutch comedian Geo. Knight; Frank Keres Hen. Mason. Donahue, C. Webster, C. F. Seabert' Frank Girard, Harry Brown, Sheridan and Mack' Viola Clifton, Celia Ifred, and the Gorenflo sisters will also appear, and a new local, sensational drama entitled "Drink; or, The Perils of City Life.....Bryant's Minstrels had a visit from the Grand Duke. W. W. Newcomb gave a burlesque magic entertainment; Louis Braham sang ballads, Dan Bryant comic songs and "The Live Injun" was performed.....At the S. F. Minstrels, Birch-Backus, Wambold, Newcomb and others appear in a new programme: Backus has made a hit in imitations of Charlotte Cushman, and Sothern.....Susan Denin, and J. B Studley, are playing in a new sensational local drama entitled "Life in the streets." Gus Williams, Hughey Dougherty, Harry Rayno, Geo H. Coes, C. Raynor, Johnny De Angelis, Lew Rattler, W. Ashcroft and others appear: M'lle Bonfanti appears in a ballet.....At the Theatre Comique, the latest novelty is W. H. Monrow, in an entertainment entitled "Simple Changes," making six changes of dress in full view of the audience. Ella Wesner commences an engagement this week, and, "Chicago" will be produced shortly. The Thirty-fourth street Theatre, under the management of W. W. Smith, has a company, comprising Eph Horn, Harry Leslie, Miss Annie Hindle, and other favorite performers.....Miss Annie Lonsdale is doing well in burlesque, and comedy at the St. James.....The Globe Theatre, its performances November 27th, from the Sappho burlesquers to a minstrel and variety company, under the title of the Globe Minstrels. J. H. Budworth was bones, W. E. Budworth tambo, and G. W. H. Griffin, interlocutor.

In Philadelphia, Lucille Western at the Walnut street.....Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Davenport, Chas. R. Thorne and company, "The Spirit of '76; or, the Coming Woman," a comedy called "Peril," another "Raymond the Patriot," all new and original in preparation.....At the Arch "Eileen Oge" with Florence and wife, on the 11th.

In Chicago, "Divorce" was the attraction at the Globe Theatre at latest dates .....The Wyndhams were drawing finely at the Michigan-avenue Theatre in modern comedies.....The Arlington Minstrels, under Sam Meyers's management, were doing well at the West Side Opera House.....Cordova, the funny lecturer, discoursed on the Tammany Ring in the Union Park Congregational Church.

Johnny Allen and Alice Harrison commenced an engagement of four nights at Weisiger Hall, Louisville, Ky., on the 29th ult.....J. W. Wallack and Caroline Richings Bernard were at the Opera House.

A suit has been commenced by the Co-operative Newspaper company, of New York against the managers of the late Grand Gift Concert held in Washington D. C., November 23, for the recovery of $1,800 alleged to be due for advertising. The prizes which were drawn under the supervision of a committee of well known citizens, have for some reason not yet been announced.

Lottery managers should be satisfied with what they do the public out of, without cheating newspapers.

Marble's Theatrical Troupe, with Ed. Marble Katy Wilson, Miss Lillie the great songstress and comedienne, and other Chicago Artists, has been reorganized, and was announced to appear at Eau Claire on the 6th.

The McKee Rankin comedy company is meeting with good success in the principal cities of Indiana.

Although Sothern's engagement at Niblo's is remarkably successful, he will give way Dec. 18th to the ever popular "Black Crook." Mr. S. will play five nights in Brooklyn and the New England cities under the management of Morris Simmons, returning to Nib'o's in April.

Unsworth and Eugene's minstrels are disbanded

Horace Lingard and pretty Alice Dunning were recently at the Louisville (Ky) Opera House.

In consequence of the excitement caused by Miss Lydia Thompson and her company in Titusville, a local print says that the town is henceforth to be known as Thompsonville,

The Auburn Academy of Music has been sold for $35,500, to Mr. Sidney Mead.

Little Nell appeared at Hartford on the 30th ult., in "Katy Did."

The Troy correspondent of the New York Mercury speaking of "Rip Van Winkle," says:

Robert McWade's version, and Robert McWade's Rip is far better than that of the sainted Jefferson.

Jefferson does not weigh much by "Troy weight."

The Lydia Thompson Troupe succeeded Joe Emmett at Wood's Museum, Cincinnati, on the 11th.

Sol Smith and wife (late Mrs. Sedley Brown), Felix A. Vincent and T. Allston Brown, arrived in New York from England, on Nov. 26th, per steamship Spain.

E. A. Sothern has been secured by Morris Simmonds to play in Providence, R. I.; Hartford, Conn; New Haven, and Brooklyn, Long Island The tour will be commenced Jan. 1st, 1872 Is there no hope of his coming to California?

Frank Mayo has been engaged by Morris Simmonds to play Badger in the "Streets of New York" for two weeks, commencing Dec. 16th, in the New England Circuit. Budworth has been engaged to play Bob, the Bootblack.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

But a few more nights will the troubles of "Bertha the Sewing Machine Girl" appeal to the sympathetic feelings of the public of San Francisco Those who have not yet seen this play,—which is the reigning sensation in the East—should visit the Metropolitan Theatre, before it is removed to make way for "Neck and Neck,"

California Theatre.

In spite of the rain, quite a good audience assembled last night at the California Theatre. The performance was for the benefit of the Fire Department Relief Fund. The entertainment was a most pleasing one and gave general satisfaction. John McCullough played Damon in excellent style, and Henry Edwards' Pythias was a fine impersonation, and Miss Ellie Wilton acquitted herself well as Hermione, playing with much feeling. The interlude was a popular feature in the entertainment: Vivian received a hearty greeting on making his first appearance at this theatre and sang capitally; the Reynolds Brothers were equally well received and gave general satisfaction. Miss Minnie Walton's Nan the Good for Nothing was a charmingly natural performance and was much applauded. To-night the popular play of "The Lady of Lyons" will be performed,

Alhambra Theatre.

A large crowd of people flocked into this cosy little theatre last night to keep out of the rain and enjoy one of the best bills of the season. Leon's new selections from his inexhaustible scrap book of female pictures were received with uproarious mirth, and the Reynolds Brothers gained great applause for their double song and dance "La Belle Helene" was performed in splendid style being perfect in every part. The beauty of the dresses worn by Leon in the character of Hélène were the theme of general admiration; the scenery was good, the chorus perfect, and the opera as a whole most creditably performed. All engaged in its representation acquitted themselves well, the comic scenes being capitally carried out: Leon, Edwin Kelly, George and Charles Reynolds, W. Bark, G. H. Foster, S. H. Holdsworth, Miss Gibson and others. This pleasing combination of mirth and melody will be repeated this evening.

Bella Union.

There is not a pleasanter place in the city than the Bella Union Theatre to drop into out of the wet. Good music, lots of fun, lively dances, amusing Negro acts, classic statues, Maggie Knight in songs and dances, Clara Starr in comic songs, and the whole company in a capital first part, brilliant interlude, and lively after piece, afford a rich evening's entertainment,

The Oxford.

Miss Amelia Dean and her well trained corps of female minstrels give a very lively entertainment, consisting of songs, dances, acts, and tableaux. Dick O'Neil's new musical extravaganza entitled, "From Marysville to San Francisco," introducing a tremendous can can, caused quite a sensation last night. The same bill will be played this evening.

Theatre Comique.

This favorite resort for the amusement loving public will be reopened on Saturday evening with a strong company and a good bill.

Pavilion Skating Rink.

Assemblies at the Pavilion skating rink are on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, in the morning, and Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays in the evening. Professor Lovett, the famous skater gives an exhibition every evening.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillieu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention are on exhibition

A First Effort.

An editor in Illinois having engaged a new reporter, received the following as his first effort: "We are informed that the gentleman who stood on his head under the pile driver, for the purpose of having a tight pair of butes drun on, shortly afterwards found himself in Chiny, perfectly naked and without a cent in his pocket."

Didn't Sculp Him.

Art received an awkward criticism from a free and easy young man, who recently met a sculptor in a social circle, and addressed him thus: "Er—er—so you are the man—er—that—makes er mud heads." And this the artist's reply: "Er—er—not all of 'em— I didn't make yours."

Boarding school Miss—"Oh, Charlie, I expect to graduate at next commencement," "Graduate! What will you graduate in?" "Why, in white-tulle."

A pedant being taken to task for saying that Cæsar founded Rome, retorted, "I tell you he did; he found it in Italy!"

Gents' Furnishing Goods.

All persons in want of Furnishing Good should make a note that at SEGUIN & CHARLEBOIS'S, 706 and 708 Montgomery street, can be found the largest and cheapest assortment of goods in that line in the city. Star shirts of the best quality for $1 50; woolen overshirts, drawers, undershirts, half-hose, handkerchiefs, at prices below the lowest in the city. 706 and 708 Montgomery street, one door from Washington, east side. T

Make Yourself at Home.

You can make yourself perfectly at home, in "The Parlor" kept by Harry Corbyn, whom everyone in the Theatrical Profession likes, and D. R. Manning, at 720 Market street, nearly opposite Third. A cosy place for Winter nights, Pool and billiards. Clam chowder all night. R

FAIR MELISSA.

Fair Melissa, through the grove
Listlessly was straying,
Thinking of her absent love,
Promised tryste denying.
"Fair is false, and false is fair,
Men deceive us everywhere,"
Quoth Melissa, sighing.

Tripping came a little maid—
"Maiden where dost wander?"
"But to find the crock of gold
Where the bow stops yonder;"
"Fair is false, and false is fair,
Hope deceives us everywhere,"
Quoth Melissa, sighing.

Next drew near a pensive youth—
"Whither art thou hieing?"
"Lady fair, to search for truth,
In the deep well lying!"
"Fair is false, and false is fair,
Truth she dwells not anywhere,"
Quoth Melissa, sighing.

Plucked she roses from the hedge—
Lo! a thorn among them
Cruel tore her dainty skin:
Quick away she flung them.
"Fair is false, and false is fair,
Beauty is a cruel snare,"
Quoth Melissa, sighing.

Lo! an arm around her thrown;
Lo! a deep voice pleading!
And soft kisses—not her own—
Stop the wound from bleeding.
"Doubt and fear flee far away,
Hope, truth, love, I've found to-day,"
Quoth she, without sighing.

Nothing Personal.

In one of his recent papers Planche says: Young Sutton was a son of the Archbishop of Canterbury, and was too hot-tempered for a bishop's boy. One day he went into Saunder and Otley's shop, very angry at not having received some books he had ordered. He stormed indeed, until one of the pardners intimated that his language was was past endurance. "I don't know who you are," was the answer, "but I don't want to annoy you personally, as you may not be the one at fault; it's your confounded house that I blame. You may be Otley or you may be Saunders. If you are Saunders, damn Otley: if you are Otley, damn Saunders. I mean nothing personal to you.

Nibble's Opinion.

Some friend of Grant was talking to Nibbles about the trustful character of the President. "He trusts everybody," said he, "and so relies on what his ministers tell him that he takes everything for gra "I don't know anything about "Ed," retorted Nibbles, "but I know he takes everything for Grant he can lay his hands on."

It was said of Edmund Kean, that he read Shakspeare by flashes of lightning. If this were so, it certainly would have been appropriate if his readings were received with thunders of applause.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupes for wedding calls; the Clarence stor shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, with Frank Bouton, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

First Premium Millinery.

The last Mechanics' Fair awarded the first premium for superior taste and elegance of workmanship in the millinery line, to Mrs. Cowles of the "New House," 114 Third street. Mrs. Cowles' stock is unsurpassed by any in the city, and her prices are very reasonable. BH

YOUNG MAN, the holidays are near at hand; don't make presents of jewgags and jewelry; make your mother a present, or your sister; if you are not blessed with a sister, make somebody else's sister a present—a fine set of lace curtains, an elegant body of Brussels carpet, a fine rug, a splendid parlor or chamber set. That is the way a certain young man married a fortune not long since. The old folks watched him, tested him, and then gave their consent. If you want an elegant outfit for about one-half that you can get it elsewhere, go to JOHN C. BELL'S Carpet and furniture Emporium, nearly opposite the Grand Hotel, on Market, and opposite the Occidental on Sutter street. Everybody knows that he makes all newly married parties an elegant present regardless of expense. Try it and then you will "KNOW HOW IT IS YOURSELF." P

How Worth Does Business.

It is said that ladies who visit the man milliner, Worth, at his elegant house in Paris, for the purpose of buying a new dress or costume, are very much surprised at his manner of judging what would be most appropriate annd becoming to them. He sits down at a distance and makes the lady parade up and down before him. closes his eyes half way, puts his head on one side, and appears to be in deep thought, and then he seats himself at a table and throws off hurried sketches from which the garments are moddled.

A Stage Ship.

With the burning of the Darmstadt Theatre has disappeared the great mechanical ship invented by Herr Brandt, and used with such immense success three years ago at Genoa in the "Africaine," This vessel, mounted by over two hundred performers, was so constructed that it was made to roll and toss, manœuvred by a simple screw, worked by a single man below the stage.

Stephen Pearl Andrews say that "the Absolutoid and Abstractoid Elementismus of Being echoes or reappears by Analogy, within the Relatoid and Concretoid Elaborismus. Were it not for this lucid statement the proposition might seem confusing.

An exchange says: "The freight bill for the tea destroyed in Boston harbor in Dec., 1773, was paid a few days ago by the East India Company of London, to whom it belonged. The money went to a Nantucket family."

Materfamilias was rather taken aback the other day at receiving a bill for a pair of infants. The account had been made out with an excess of conciseness; the addition of one word—gloves—would have prevented all misapprehension.

Necklaces, Brooches, Earrings, Crosses, Lockets, Card Cases, etc, of that Fine Silver Filagree make an elegant present. You will find a large stock of it at A. Hirschman's Jewelry store, 133 Kearny Street, between Sutter and Post. G

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Carville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

"Champion Blunderers."

The San Jose Guide under the above heading says:

The notists of the Alta were long ago accorded the champion belt, as successful newspaper blunderers, but the last exhibit of editorial ignorance caps all their former efforts. Commenting on the probable demise of the Prince of Wales, the sapient editor of the Alta gravely informs its readers that, in case it should happen, Prince Alfred, the Duke of Edinburgh, will succeed him as heir to the throne, which assertion shows superlative ignorance, unpardonable in an editor who conducts a journal of such pretension and magnitude as the Alta.

Bless you, that's nothing for the editor of the Alta, our own comic paper. The Guide will perceive that at the request of many subscribers the Alta has discontinued its column of "sauce," everyone saying that Granny was much more funny when she intended to be serious than any professional joker could possibly be, let him strain ever so hard.

Jack's Deductions.

A jolly Jack Tar having strayed into a show at a fair to have a look at the wild beasts, was much struck at the sight of a lion and a tiger in the same den. "Why, Jack" said he to a messmate, who was chewing a quid in silence; "I shouldn't wonder if next year they were to carry about a sailor and a marine living peaceably together!", "Ay," said his married companion, "or a man and his wife!"

Heavy Rain Fall.

Tennent's rain gauge records the fall of 4:17 inches from 8 o'clock Monday morning to 8 o'clock this morning—a 24 hours fall that has been exceeded but few times since Tennent commenced keeping his rain gauge. The whole amount of rain during the present storm will foot up over 6 inches.

Railway Ties.

One railway car from Chicago recently took off seven brides.

On a ten dollar bill received by a New England bank was written: "This is the last of $10,000 left me by a fond and devoted father—all spent in liquor and other dissipation." The old, old story.

The Pacific Law Reporter.

This valuable publication has entered on its third volume. Since its first issue it has presented to the lawyers of the Pacific Coast over 3,200 cases in advance of all reports. It is certainly as necessary to every lawyer who wishes to keep up with the times as a law library, and should be in every office in the State. As there are at least 2,000 members of the legal profession on the Pacific Coast, all of whom should—if they do not already—subscribe to the Pacific Law Reporter, and it has a large number of subscribers in the Eastern States, its sphere is not so limited as might at first be imagined.

Brightened Up.

The Alta's "editorial notes" have brightened considerably. There is evidently a new "notist" at work—probably "Ignotus Magnus" has since his "Sauce" was dispensed with, been engaged as a notist."

Dutiful Son.

"A Cincinnatian recently married the divorced wife of his own son.—Exchange.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

California Theatre.

This evening is set apart for the benefit of the military companies forming Col. Barnes' regiment. The Colonel's comedy of "Solid Silver" will be played on this occasion for the last time "Dress up."

Metropolitan Theatre.

The management announce the last nights of Bertha with the accomplished Miss Henrietta Osborne in the title role, as E. T. Stetson is shortly to appear in Charles Foster's terrifically sensational play of "Neck and Neck."

Alhambra Theatre.

Those whom the rainy weather has kept from witnessing the capital bill presented this week at the Alhambra Theatre, should visit that popular place of amusement to-night to see Leon in his new female impersonations and enjoy the very amusing burnt cork opera bouffe of "La Belle Helene."

Bella Union.

First part, interlude and afterpieces are all bright, lively and sparkling. Mat Kelly's local hits in "If Ever I Cease to Love" are much applauded; Miss Carrie Chapman receives much applause for her song and dance; Miss Maggie Knight is encored again and again; and all who visit the Bella Union Theatre are well pleased.

The Oxford.

Music, song and dance and any amount of fun constitute the evenings' entertainment at this cosy little cave of harmony. Dick O'Neil's new extravaganza and the original can can wind up the performance. Carlova, the "Dutch Leon," is nightly encored in his burlesque songs.

Pavilion Skating Rink.

Assemblies at the Pavilion skating rink are on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, in the morning, and Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays in the evening. Professor Lovett, the famous skater gives an exhibition every evening.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillieu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention are on exhibition

Mozart Hall.

A grand calico ball will take place at Mozart Hall on Christmas night, December 25 h, for the benefit of Prof. Henry Johnson; doors open at 11 o'clock.

Reduced Prices.

Guerin & Son, prize boot and shoe makers, 327 and 329 Bush street. Must sell $35,000 worth of boots and shoes within 60 days. Call and examine our stock. x

Grand Dressmaking Emporium.

All kinds of suits and cloaks made after the latest styles. 654 Washington street.

Home from Europe.

Julien Perrault, M. D., member of the Medical Faculty of Paris, so widely and favorably known in San Francisco, has returned from an extended tour on the continent of Europe, where he visited the most famous hospitals in the world, and may be consulted at his office, 413 Kearny street, bet. California and Pine, West side, over the Drug store. A

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence stor shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, with Frank Bouton, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

Gents' Furnishing Goods.

All persons in want of Furnishing Good should make a note that at SEGUIN & CHARLEBOIS's, 706 and 708 Montgomery street, can be found the largest and cheapest assortment of goods in that line in the city. Star shirts of the best quality for $1 50; woolen overshirts, drawers, undershirts, half-hose, handkerchiefs, at prices below the lowest in the city. 706 and 708 Montgomery street, one door from Washington, east side. T

Make Yourself at Home.

You can make yourself perfectly at home, in "The Parlor" kept by Harry Corbyn, whom everyone in the Theatrical Profession likes, and D. R. Manning, at 720 Market street, nearly opposite Third. A cosy place for Winter nights, Pool and billiards. Clam chowder all night. x

A Mad Lover.

A silly half-witted creature named Charles Theodore Busch, a German musician, of about three score years, has been very absurdly falling in love with Christina Nilsson and persecuting her with his attentions until she was obliged to complain of him to a Police Justice in New York and ask to have his impertinence stopped. As she stepped into the Court room she was the object of the undivided attention of the Court, sleepy officer and idlers that frequent such places. Every body strained to catch her low notes as she said:

"He annoys me much your Honor. He follows me everywhere. If I walk in the street, he is at my side; If I enter a door he is with me. He foolishly believes that he loves me; and, that I am essential to his happiness. Please tell him to give me peace."

While M'lle Nilsson was thus pleading, poor Busch's eyes followed every movement of her lips, and his ears drank in every sound of her voice. Edging nearer and nearer, he seized the corner of her fur cape; and, bearing it hurriedly to his lips, kissed it.

"He says, your Honor," continued the fair complainant, "that I must marry him."

The Justice, looking sternly at the lover, required him to give bonds to preserve the peace towards the lady, and, as he was unable to do that he is now cooling off in that most abominable of all prisons, the Tombs. Here amid its crowded inmates, nipped by the cold, persecuted by the rats, and, having no means of preserving cleanliness, he will repent at his leasure his little adventure; and, hereafter fall in love in humbler quarters.

Charles Mathews.

Charles Mathews, who is now sixty-eight years of age and admirably preserved, was asked a short time since by a gentleman how he managed to keep so much health and spirits. "Well," said the comedian, "I have lived a pretty free life, but I always made it a rule, to have eight hours sleep, out of the twenty-four. And then I always eat four good sound meals a day." "But are you not a great smoker?' "Well, no; not so very much of a smoker. I begin every morning; it is true, but then I leave off at night."

What?

An exchange asks the following conundrum: "What shall be the thought of the husband who, having won the love of a woman and made her his own honorably by marriage, permits himself to become indifferent, then neglectful, then harsh and hard, and, taking care to commit no offense which the law can punish or society can frown upon, persistently poisons her life and destroys her happiness?"

Very Hard.

An American husband in Paris recently gave his wife his last $5,000 to spend in the shops, and then shot himself through the head. The $5,000 just paid for becoming mourning.

Never too Late to Learn.

"A number of married women are attending school in Greenwich, Michigan." The teacher is an awful nice young man.

An experienced boy says that he regards hunger and the chastening rod as the same thing. They both make him holler.

Why are ladies like old boots? Because they are no good without their fellows.

European Music.

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terripan stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omlettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Hacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oysters Saloon, No. 537 Bush street above the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures. I

First Premium Millinery.

The last Mechanics' Fair awarded the first premium for superior taste and elegance of workmanship in the millinery line, to Mrs. Cowles of the "New House," 114 Third street. Mrs Cowles' stock is unsurpassed by any in the city, and her prices are very reasonable. BE

YOUNG MAN, the holidays are near at hand; don't make presents of jewgaws and jewelry; make your mother a present, or your sister; if you are not blessed with a sister, make somebody else's sister a present—a fine set of lace curtains, an elegant body of Brussels carpet, a fine rug, a splendid parlor or chamber set. That is the way a certain young man married a fortune not long since. The old folks watched him, tested him, and then gave their consent. If you want an elegant outfit for about one-half that you can get it elsewhere, go to JOHN O. BELL'S Carpet and furniture Emporium, nearly opposite the Grand Hotel, on Market, and opposite the Occidental on Sutter street. Everybody knows that he makes all newly married parties an elegant present regardless of expense. Try it and then you will "KNOW HOW IT IS YOURSELF." P

The inventor of this really wonderful Tonic after a series of years and experiments, has succeeded in bringing before the public all that can be desired of a pure Tonic and Recuperator.

CERTIFICATES:

I have carefully tested and examined your Bitters, and find that they cannot fail to be beneficial as a tonic and promoter of digestion.

CITY AND COUNTY HOSPITAL, San Francisco, June 20th, 1871.—I should judge that the Bitters must be a very efficient remedy in Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, and all complaints, being composed of a number of valuable drugs which are principally used in diseases of that nature, and are of the greatest efficacy in their cure.—F. H. ANGELS, M. D., Assistant Physician, Apothecary C. & C. Hospital.

STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE, San Francisco, June 21st, 1871.—I have made a careful examination of your I X L Bitters, and have found them entirely free of deleterious mineral substances, etc., etc. STATE ASSAYER.

PRIVATE MEDICAL INSTITUTE
N.E. cor. Jackson and Kearny st.

THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SPECIAL COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and ten years in San Francisco, HAS RETURNED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of life to professional practice, and the successful treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and spend the remainder of his days to quiet life; but the constant applications from suffering everywhere, to come to their relief, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, and spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in the celebrated institution, and then give a few years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for the previous his practice as a SPECIALIST reigned supreme in the cure of all cases brought under his care. The Doctor's motto is "honorable and successful treatment and moderate charges to all."

The Plemouth Church Spirits.

Mr Beecher preached last night upon the agency of invisible spirits, and several witnesses testify that during the singing of the last hymn, Mr. Beecher's gum shoes became violently agitated, and gave every evidence of the frantic attempts of some "invisible agent" to try them on. All at once they were dashed against the partition which separates the platform from the vestibule behind it, and this the witnesses declare clearly demonstrates that the "agent" was liable to sudden fits of anger, and lost his temper on discovering that No. 8 gum shoes won't go on over No. 9 boots even for a spirit.—N. Y. Com. Advertiser.

Publicans and Republicans.

An exchange says.

There are said to be six or eight republican clubs in England and Scotland, numbering 36,000 members, composed of the highest, most intelligent, and well-to-do artisans.

As all these republican clubs meet in pothouses where the "intelligent and well-to-artisans," fuddle themselves with beer and tobacco, their efforts do more good to the "publicans" than the republicans.

Who Was He?

The following paragraph is going the rounds of the Eastern press:

In the dim light of turned-down gas a madly jealous San Francisco husband administered an awful drubbing to the stuffed figure of a man, which had been purposely placed under his wife's bed. His reformation is believed to be thorough.

If this be true, stuffed figures should be in demand. They would sell well for holiday presents.

Programme Papers.

The following from the Baltimore Programme so exactly expresses the mission of FIGARO, and its advantages as an advertising medium, that we transfer it to our columns:

CHRISTMAS.—Now is the time when the people living in the country are coming to the city to make their purchases and preparations for the holidays. The first paper that falls into their hands is the Programme; it meets them on the trains and the steamboats coming to the city, and in the hotels, exactly at the time they are in thought on the object of their business errands to the city; and when they are eagerly looking around for information and a guide. If it should miss any strangers during the day it is almost sure to find them in the places of amusement. Judicious advertisers should make a note of this. It is the only medium that can accomplish for them so advantageous a result.

Add to the above that the programme paper is small, and thus every advertisement in its columns stands a better chance of being read than it would in one of the large dailies, and the reasons why FIGARO in San Francisco and the Programme in Baltimore are the very best advertising mediums in their respective cities, are pretty well set forth.

Hah.

An exchange says:

Ireland is the only country in Europe where Jews are never persecuted. Lately in Dublin, when a young Jewess, Miss Samuel, was lying on what proved to be her death bed, prayers were offered for her recovery not only in synagogues but in the chapels. Thirty carriages, containing Christians as well as Jews, were at her funeral.

Pretty Jewesses don't get persecuted any where—except by too much attention, sometimes. There is a difference between a Jew and a Jewess.

Certainly Not.

When a certain Sheriff in Georgia was asked why an illicit whisky distiller was set free, he coolly replied that he did not propose that any man should be in jail there simply for making whisky! The government might as well put a tax on air and light as deprive these simple Georgians of their natural beverage.

Wide Circulation of the Alta.

An Eastern exchange says:

A few evenings since, in a country store of a neighboring town, a little knot of men were discussing the merits of the hydraulic ram; an honest farmer who was making some purchases, overheard part of the conversation, and he, stepping forward just as one of the speakers expressed his strong belief in the good qualities of the machine, remarked, "Yes, gentlemen, I know they are good—that three year old ram I sold to Deacon Cooper last week was partly hydraulic.

That man evidently subscribes for the Alta—the great authority on the subject of hydraulic rams.

Protection.

Spool thread, costing in England 30 cents gold, a dozen could, without the duty— 75 per cent—be sold here for 42 or 45 cents, currency. The price is 80 cents a dozen Pauper countries like England are at their wits end to better the conditon of distressed needle-women. Hail Columbia taxes their spool thread 75 per cent. It is certain that the civilized world affords no parallel to such presumption or protection.

The Difference.

A exchange says:

Rustics in Detroit are allured by a sign which reads: "Fifty cents for dinner and a lunch for your dog."

In Honolulu, where they devour dogs, it would read, "Fifty cents for your dinner and a dog for your lunch."

Give me a Welsh Rarebit and Toby of half-and-half. P

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Bertha" will be performed but a few times more, therefore those who have not seen this popular sensation drama should do so at once. Miss Osborne as the high-spirited Bertha; James M. Hardie as Rough Jack Ryerson, Harry Colton as Philip Hamilton, John Woodard as Dick Rivers, Miss Fanny Young as Lozette Graham, Mrs. Frank Rea as Mrs. Sacomb, and all the other members of the company in their respective roles, act with spirit and animation. There will be a matinee on Saturday and a grand Christmas matinee on Monday.

Alhambra Theatre.

Roars of laughter greet the wonderful Leon in his immense impersonation of "Fashionable Kate" and "Madame Lichmanie;" the Reynolds Brothers are encored again and again in their song and dance; the fine voices of Edwin Kelly, S. Heidelworth, and Geo. H. Foster are heard to advantage in the first part, and the opera bouffe of "La Belle Helene," the music of which is finely performed by the splendid orchestra under the direction of Geo. T. Evans, and the chief gems are sung delightfully by the only Leon, is one of the most pleasing productions of the present season.

California Theatre.

To-night John McCullough will appear in the character of Richelieu, in which he is so admired by the public of San Francisco. He has bestowed upon it careful study, has a thorough conception of the part, and his realization of it is one of which it may be said that where you will find one better there are a hundred worse. The play is cast to the full strength of the California Theatre company. To-morrow night Bulwer's comedy of "Money," which some people consider as "deserving of encomium" as "Solid Silver," will be performed for the benefit of the Odd Fellows' Library.

Bella Union.

Miss Clara Starr, the last addition to the company at this house, is a general favorite; Maggie Knight's character songs are very popular; Ed. Montague in gymnastic feats; Lon McCarthy, Mat Kelly and Tommy Bree in amusing acts; Chris. Mathews in his artistic clog dance; and many others make up a lively entertainment. The extravaganza entitled "The Virgins" terminates the evening's entertainment.

The Oxford.

Amelia Dean and her brilliant troupe of singers, dancers and comedians attract crowds to this place of amusement nightly. A very varied entertainment is given. Some idea of it may be gathered from the programme on our first page. Dick O'Neil's extravaganza, "From Marysville to San Francisco," introduces Shiner the Bootblack, the song of "Chuck me in the Gutter," and winds up with a new Can-Can by the company.

Pavilion Skating Rink.

Assemblies at the Pavilion skating rink are on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, in the morning, and Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays in the evening. Professor Lovett, the famous skater gives an exhibition every evening.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillieu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention are on exhibition

Mozart Hall.

A grand calico ball will take place at Mozart Hall on Christmas night, December 25th, for the benefit of Prof. Henry Johnson; doors open at 11 o'clock.

Home from Europe.

Julien Pervault, M. D., member of the Medical Faculty of Paris, so widely and favorably known in San Francisco, has returned from an extended tour on the continent of Europe, where he visited the most famous hospitals in the world, and may be consulted at his office, 413 Kearny street, bet. California and Pine, West side, over the Drug store. A

Gents' Furnishing Goods.

All persons in want of Furnishing Good should make a note that at SEGUIN & CHARLEBOIS's, 706 and 708 Montgomery street, can be found the largest and cheapest assortment of goods in that line in the city. Star shirts of the best quality for $1 50; woolen overshirts, drawers, undershirts, half-hose, handkerchiefs, at prices below the lowest in the city. 706 and 708 Montgomery street, one door from Washington, east side. T

Make Yourself at Home.

You can make yourself perfectly at home, in "The Parlor" kept by Harry Corbyn, whom everyone in the Theatrical Profession likes, and D. B. Manning, at 720 Market street, nearly opposite Third. A cosy place for Winter nights, Pool and billiards. Clam chowder all night. E

The Theatre.

There is something in the word "Playhouse," which seems so closely connected, in the minds of some people, with sin and Satan, that it stands in their vocabulary for every species of abomination. And yet why? Where is every feeling more roused in favor of virtue than at a good play? Where is goodness so feelingly, so enthusiastically learned? What so solemn as to see the excellent passions of the human heart called forth by a great actor, animated by a great poet? to hear Siddons repeat what Shakspeare wrote? to behold the child and his mother—the noble and the poor artisan—the monarch and his subjects—all ages and all ranks convulsed with one common passion - wrung with one common anguish, and with loud sobs and cries, doing involuntary homage to the God who made their hearts. What wretched infatuation to interdict such amusements as these! What a blessing that mankind can be allured from sensual gratification and find relaxation and pleasure in such pursuits!

Liberal Child.

An appeal for Chicago sufferers was made not in vain to an infant school in Pawtucket. A recess was given to the little girls so that they might go home and bring whatever wearing apparel they could spare. One little creature went home for her share, and, finding her mother out, concluded to help herself, and accordingly packed up all the dresses, etc., of which she was possessed,—save what she had on, and with all the gravity possible presented them to the committee, who of course packed them with the rest and sent them off. When the little girl's mother came to look for a change of clothes for the child, after school, the discovery of what had been done took place, and the consternation in that family can be better imagined than described.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carrisge or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence stor shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, with Frank Bouton, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terripan stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omlettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Hacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oysters Saloon, No. 337 Bush street next the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures. I

First Premium Millinery.

The last Mechanics' Fair awarded the first premium for superior taste and elegance of workmanship in the millinery line, to Mrs. Cowles of the "New House," 114 Third street. Mrs Cowles' stock is unsurpassed by any in the city, and her prices are very reasonable. BH

YOUNG MAN, the holidays are near at hand; don't make presents of jewgaw and jewelry; make your mother a present, or your sister; if you are not blessed with a sister, make somebody else's sister a present—a fine set of lace curtains, an elegant body of Brussels carpet, a fine rug, a splendid parlor or chamber set. That is the way a certain young man married a fortune not long since. The old folks watched him, tested him, and then gave their consent. If you want an elegant outfit for about one-half that you can get it elsewhere, go to JOHN O. BELL'S Carpet and furniture Emporium, nearly opposite the Grand Hotel, on Market, and opposite the Occidental on Sutter street. Everybody knows that he makes all newly married parties an elegant present regardless of expense. Try it and then you will "KNOW HOW IT IS YOURSELF." F

Selfish Christians.

Mark Twain in his "Innocents Abroad," says the captain of the vessel in which the Pilgrims went across the Atlantic was loud in his complaints of their want of charity and thus expressed himself:

There they are, down there every night at 8 bells, praying for fair winds—when they know as well as I do that this is the only ship going East this time of year, but there's a thousand West—what's a fair wind to us is a headwind to them—the Almighty's blowing for a thousand vessels, and this tribe wants him to turn it clear around so as to accommodate one, and she's a steamship at that! It ain't good sense, it ain't common human charity. Avast with such nonsense.

During the rain which brought such joy to the farmers' hearts, we have no doubt some of our Christian store-keepers prayed for fine weather so that people might be able to come out and do their holiday shopping.

Will Take the Risk.

A gentleman who sees everything he looks at says that he has seen women who were afraid to ride lest the horse should run away, to sail lest the boat might upset, and afraid to walk lest they should be dampened by the dew—but he never knew one who was afraid to get married, in which there is more risk than in all others.

Well, Tell Him.

The Alta says in its issue of Tuesday:

Somebody wishes to know if a pig pen is used to write hog Latin.

Why doesn't the Alta answer? What sort of a pan did it write refugium peccatorium with in the same issue?

A Lesson.

Among the arrests made this week, was that of Otto Letterman, for putting his hand in to the pockets of another man's pants. He will be taught to let a man's property alone in future.

A Bungler.

A butcher tried to kill himself the other day by cutting his throat, and failed. We should not have expected such a bungling job to be made by a butcher.

Cheek.

The amusement "critic" (Heaven save the mark!) of the Bulletin, who gives daily evidence that before he came to this city he never attended any entertainment above the rank of a circus performance or a temperance lecture, speaking of "La Belle Helene" at the Alhambra Theatre, says:

Of course it affords ample opportunity for travesty of the high old classic personages as well as of the fourth-rate imported singers who figured in sorry fashion as prima donna in the opera bouffe in this country, and Leon and Kelly, in their respective parts, it is scarcely necessary to say, improved that opportunity.

If this critic knew anything, he would be aware that opera bouffe has been produced most creditably in this country; and, when he sneers at M'lle Aimee, M'lle Silly, and the members of the Smeechia Opera Troupe, who delighted the educated portion of the community in this city, he simply writes himself down an ass.

Terrapin Lunch.

To get a good thing it is worth while to go a short distance. Bon vivants know this and go for supper to J. C. Combes' lunch and supper house at the corner of Second and Tehama streets. He has spacious tanks where terrapins live in luxury, until they are served up prepared in the most artistic style for Jack Combes' customers. His stock of rare and costly wines is large and he understands how to treat them.

Cheerful.

The first items in the Chronicle's Pacific Coast brevities on Wednesday were:

Small-pox at Red Bluff.
Mumps prevail at Santa Cruz.
Scarlet fever rages at Marysville.

These brevities ought to be in rhyme thus:

Small-pox is rife at Red Bluff,
The mumps at Santa Cruz,
Scarlet fever at Marysville,
And Oakland has the blues.

Hard on the Bulletin.

The Call, speaking of advertising, says:

It declines to disfigure its columns, at any price, with immense cuts and great staring advertisements that make a paper look like a hand-bill.

The Bulletin is full of cuts, but this from the Call is "the most unkindest cut of all."

After the Bella Union

Comique and Globe Theatres, patrons who smoke a cigar on their way home should go to the Verandah Cigar Store, corner Washington and Kearny, kept for the last eleven years by Henry Schmidt. Not a Chinese-made cigar in the store, but every other brand, from a few cents' cost up to the finest imported Havanas. A fine stock of handsome meerschaum pipes, cigar-holders and other articles suitable for presents during the coming holidays. Everything at prices to suit the times. W

New York Dry Goods Store.

813 Stockton street, between Clay and Sacramento, receives new goods daily from New York auctions very cheap. Remember the number.

A Useful Melon.

The Morning Call has been shown a melon of a Turkish variety, called the Bucirl. Mr. R. Marchella, of Oroville, has raised this year five hundred of them, and is selling them for seed. They are of a very rare quality, but the principle advantage is, that they will, if kept in a dry cool place, remain perfectly dry and eatable for fully a year.

The Wind Fiend.

The wind fiend behaved most disgracefully. Not content with smashing the windows of Grace Church and damaging the Chapel of St. Mary's Cathedral, he took a shoemakers' sign and stuck it up on the side of a church—a most irreverent practical joke that none but a "fiend" would be guilty of:

Excelsior.

Beriah Brown is moving higher up. He has left Oregon and is now editor of a paper in Washington Territory. He will probably go from there to Alaska and continue to go North until he publishes a paper at the North Pole.

Shame!

"On account of the inclemency of the weather there was no meeting of the Academy of Sciences," says the Alta. A lot these scientists must care for science if they won't get wet for the sake of it.

Strange Alliance.

Supervisor Shrader and the Bulletin and Call are trying to get a bridge built across the bay. Shrader, Bulletin and Call don't form a strong enough ring.

A Mexican Paradox.

The Alta says the Juarists are in favor of peace. It does not sound like it. A "warist" is apt to be in favor of fighting.

Sullivan, Fratinger & Co.,

14 Montgomery street, keep the best assortment of Brocbe Shawls in the city. U

Latest New York Styles.

The Stylish Hat Store

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "The" Hat Store is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Go to "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street (the second hat store below Kearny), and examine the large stock of the latest styles of hats. K

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Take only Horton's. See that the name of Hug & Schmidt, 535 Commercial st., is on the wrapper. Hug & Schmidt, Successors to P. J. Reilly, Agents. N

Beecher and Mrs. Woodhull.

Mrs. Woodhull has asked the Rockland Herald to print the following:

At the social speech delivered at Steinway Hall, Mrs. Woodhull spent three hours with Henry Ward Beecher, who went through the speech line by line, and he said that its high moral tone would do honor to any pulpit.

Henry will say, now that the speech has caused such an outcry, that he thought Mrs. Woodhull meant a sort of spiritual free love and deny that he "knows how it is himself." H. W. B. is terribly free and easy in his ideas. Our sister shan't go to his church anymore.

Bachelors are a much abused class of persons; but Quilp says it is much better to be laughed at for not being married than to be unable to laugh because you are.

Who Is It?

A prominent citizen of Xenia, Ohio, approached his sleeping apartment a few nights since, at a rather late hour, and gently tapped at the door. "Who is it?" inquired his better half; to which very proper interrogatory the heartless man replied by asking: "Whom do you expect at this hour?"

The Liberty Cap.

A pretty, rich, young widow regarding herself lately in a mirror, in her chamber, while for the first time trying on her widow's cap, "Behold!" she exclaimed, "the real cap of liberty."

A Virginia editor has come to the conclusion that a man might as well undertake to hold himself at arm's length and then turn a double somersault over a meeting-house steeple, as to attempt to publish a paper that will suit everybody.

A Suicidal Iowan called on the druggist for arsenic, went home, and was soon in the agonies of dissolution before the family. Conceive his disappointment when the apothecary dropped in and told him that the deadly potion was chalk.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Carville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

Healthy Sunday Reading.

Under the above heading Max Adeler in the New York Dispatch has the following:

Out in St. Louis they have begun a Sunday school paper, the first number of which has reached us. The editor has an appeal asking "churches, Sunday schools and religious organizations generally to support this enterprise, which is undertaken on behalf of the best interests of Christianity." The first item that appears under this call for help is as follows:

A maiden lady of a certain age accounts for the increasing redness of her nose by asserting that it is caused by the reflection from the red brick house opposite, which glares savagely in at the window where she embroiders. The old girl has a nephew who thinks it may be traced to something in her tea.

We think that such reading as that would exercise a healthful influence in a Sunday school, and conduce greatly to the growth of piety among the babes. The next thing the we know the editor will probably offer tickets to the circus, and brass-barrelled pistols to innocent little boys who get up clubs.

A Chapter of Errors.

The New York Tribune owns up editorially to the following little typographical errors: "No one dared give him a bride"—(For bride read—bribe.) "Bridget may wear brick-red or colic in the kitchen,"—(For colic, read—calico.) "A father, at the burning of Peshtego, put the knif to the throats of his two children, while they were still smoking.—(For "while they were" read while the fire was, etc.) To finish, the election returns were so placed as to give a large majority for both sides in the same county.

A Bride for Emperor Norton.

Hannah M. Parker, of Massachusetts, has assumed the title of "Empress of America." She has written a letter to the County Court in session at St. Louis, claiming that she is "heiress to the continent of America, as the great-great-great-granddaughter of Emperor George Vaughn, grandson of Alexander III of Russia, who owned every foot of land in America, inheriting it from his mother, Lady Elizabeth Suwarrow, Hannah should come at once to California, and marry Norton I, Emperor of the United States and Protector of Mexico.

Company for the Chronicle.

The New York Dispatch of Dec. 10th says:

Writing a man's obituary before he is dead is a labor of love with some newspapers. The World of yesterday had an elaborate article on the dead Prince of Wales. As it is possible that he may recover, the World will feel that the "grim slayer" has played it a scurvy trick. Some newspapers are just a shade too enterprising.

Domestic young lady (making a pie): "Frank, the kitchen's no place for boys. Has dough such an attraction for you?" Clever youth—"It isn't the 'dough,' cousin—it's the "dear!"

A bachelor editor, who had a pretty anna rried sister, lately wrote to another, similarly circumstanced, "Please exchange!"

Rain Fall.

In a lecture at Norwich, England, recently, Mr. James Glaisher, F. R. S., said: The whole of the rain had its origin and fall 800 feet from the earth. Desiring to know the influence of the moon on the elements, he took observations, and discovered after a long series of observations, that, on the ninth day of the moon, there was the most rain, and that on the first and last week of the moon there was the least amount. He had taken account from 1815 to 1869 of every day on which there had been an inch of rainfall, and he had found that on July, 26, 1867, the rainfall amounted to 3 7-10th ins.—the largest amount that had fallen in one day at the Royal Observatory. [We can beat that easily, The quantity of rain which fell for the 24 hours ending at 8 A. M. Tuesday, was 4:17 inches.] From careful observations he had made, he had no doubt that the moon did exercise an influence on rain. Another investigation he made was as to the time of day the rain fell most, and, he had found that the largest quantity of rain fell at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Creation as a Play.

An English traveler describes a "Mystery" called the "Creation," which he saw performed at Bamberg, in Germany, in 1783. According to his account, it was a grotesque affair. Young priests had the wings of geese tied on their shoulders to personate angels. Adam appeared on the scene in a big curled wig and a brocade gown A cow's rib-bone had been provided for the formation of Eve, but a mastiff spied it and carried it off. The angels tried to whistle him back, but not succeeding, they chased him, give him a kicking, and recovered the bone, which they placed under a trap-door by the side of the sleeping Adam, whence there soon emerged a lanky priest in a loose robe to personate Eve.

Latest New York Styles.

Go It.

The Alta, speaking of Col. W. H. L. Barnes' neatly written but by no means strikingly original play of "Solid Silver," says:

No modern play has been so successfully produced as this first effort of an author—no modern play has been so deserving of encomium.

This isn't strong enough. Of course it is something to say that Bulwer's "Money," Tom Taylor's "Court and Stage," Boucicault's "Colleen Bawn," Robertson's "Ours," and a few other "Modern Plays" which we could mention, are not "so deserving of encomium" as "Solid Silver," but the Alta should have said it was incomparably superior to "Much Ado About Nothing" and surpassed all ancient as well as modern plays.

The oldest waffle-maker in Paris was buried recently, and all the waffle-makers and sellers in Paris attended the funeral. She was eighty-nine years old. La Mere Marchal was a vivandiere of the first empire, and was wounded at Lobau and twice at Moscow. She invented the g -round, now placed on all waffle-boxes and which decides who shall pay the treat; the person who turns it when its index stops over the lowest number marked on the rim above which it revolves pays for the waffles ordered.

The very interesting Drama of "Bertha" will be played but a few nights longer. It will be performed at the matinee to-morrow afternoon, on Monday Mr. E. T. Stetson will commence an engagement opening in the blood curdling drama of "Neck and Neck."

California Theatre.

To-night the performance will be for the benefit of the Odd Fellows' Library. It will consist of Bulwers play of "Money," and the recital by Henry Edwards of a poem by Caxton entitled "Wilder's Dream." "Money" will be played at the matinee to-morrow.

Alhambra Theatre.

"La Belle Helene" has proved one of the most taking operas in the repertoire of the Kelly and Leon Minstrels, and is performed nightly to large and fashionable audiences. Edwin Kelly has firmly established himself as a favorite with the San Francisco public; Leon is unapproachable in his specialties; the Reynolds Brothers are as popular as ever; S. Holdsworth, the accomplished tenor, is much applauded, and Harry Sinclair is a pleasing addition to the public. A grand matinee performance will be given to-morrow.

Bella Union.

The entertainment offered at this most popular of variety theatres is a very good one. Maggie Knight is a great favorite and sings songs in character in a style worthy of Lotta. Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin get two and three encores nightly for their Dutch songs and dances; Clara Starr's comic songs, and Fanny Garreteon's ballads are very popular, and the afterpiece of "The Virgins" causes much amusement.

Theatre Comique.

This popular house has been thoroughly renovated and redecorated, and opens to-morrow night with the company from Honolulu and many additions, under the management of the irrepressible Johnny Tuers.

The Oxford.

Amelia Dean and her troupe of popular comedians and pretty girls appear nightly in a varied programme concluding with Dick O'Neil's new extravaganza entitled "A Trip from Marysville to San Francisco."

Pavilion Skating Rink.

Assemblies at the Pavilion skating rink are on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, in the morning, and Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays in the evening. Professor Lovett, the famous skater, gives an exhibition every evening.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillieu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention are on exhibition

Mozart Hall.

Seizing a Menagerie.

A circus company in Iowa owed an editor a bill of ten dollars for advertising, and refused to pay. Thereupon the editor called upon the sheriff, who attached the Bengal tiger and brought him around to the newspaper office in his cage. He was placed in the composing room, and during the first two days he not only consumed fifteen dollars' worth of beef but he scratched six dollars' worth of trowsers from the legs of the local reporter, who endeavored to stir him up with a broom handle to make him roar. On the third day the tiger broke loose, and the entire force of compositors descended the staircase with judicious suddenness. The editor was alarmed to find that his exit through the composing room was cut off, and that the latch upon the door of the sanctum was broken. So he climbed out of the window and sought safety on the roof. The paper was not issued for a week; and even after the tiger was shot, the editor had to slide down the waterspout because he was afraid to descend the route by which he came. Circus advertisements in that paper will have to be prepaid hereafter.

Fashionable Life.

If there is any environment which can degrade a human being or harden a young heart, it is the atmosphere of merely fashionable life. You may take the tenderest and most beautiful and lovely girl, the one that is kindest at home, and loves her father and mother most, and put her in the highest circle of fashionable life, with plenty of money, and full scope to do as she pleases; let her dress herself as she will; cover herself with diamonds and pearls; let the love of admiration become the ruling passion and soon all the tenderness of that young nature passes away; her thoughts concentrated upon herself, what figures she is cutting, who her admirers are, what conquests she can make; and by-and-by the youthful, beautiful modesty is gone, and the way is open for vice, that, in the beginning, would not have been dreamed of, or if thought of, put away as utterly impossible.

Important Error.

The editor of the Marysville Appeal in writing from Sacramento says: "Yesterday was spent buzzing the members;" but a blundering compositor made it read, "buying the members."

Holiday Fare.

Those Who have no family circle where they can keep Christmas and New Year's holidays, can fare sumptuously at Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre. There they can find every luxury of the season; the choicest wines, and the most experienced of cooks and attendants. The private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are the admiration of all who have seen them. V

A Timely Present.

At this festive season, a dozen of Squarza's exquisitely flavored punches form a most appropriate present. The egg nog punch saves a great deal of trouble, and is compounded with great skill. His famous symposium is at 20 Liedesdorff, and is presided over by A. Bona, his worthy successor. U

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, with Frank Bouton, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

GOOD NIGHT.

The hour is getting late, my love—
The moon is out of sight—
And so, I think I'd better go;
Good night, my love, good night.

How fair your face is now, my love,
Kissed by the pale starlight;
I'm jealous of such kisses, and—
I'll kiss you, so—good night.

There—let me twine this rose among
Your curls; ah, that is right!
Bend closer, love. Now, sweet, my rose,
One kiss more, and—good night!

How still the night is; not a bird
Is singing, or in sight;
And I am glad, for they'll not see
How lovers say good night.

Ah, I must go! 'Twill never do!
Sleep upon your eyes so bright;
And so, for just the twentieth time,
Let's kiss, and say good night!

Lotta's Opinions.

Lotta, the actress, chatted in this style to a reporter of the Boston Post: "Yes, everybody is very kind to me, women especially. I think I have more friends among them than in any other class. I like it, too; only sometimes I wonder a little why half my love letters are from ladies! They send me bouquets, and I think if I could be spoiled, they certainly would spoil me; but you see I can't be. There's only one spoiled child in the family, and that's mamma. You see we've reversed things, and, I'm not the baby, she is!" She laughed, and went on: "Critics are the fun of my life. They are pretty good to me as a rule, but they do say such queer things. One of them, the other day, gravely compared me to Maggie Mitchell. The idea! He evidently thought he was saying something wise. But there can be no comparison between us. Why, Maggie's an artist, and I—well I am myself, that's all. Maggie does beautiful things beautifully, and I—well, if I'm in pretty good spirits, I do funny things."

Ah! Ah!

Attention, ladies! A drygoods firm in Philadelphia recently sued a man for the amount of a bill run up by his wife. Judge Thayer in his charge to the jury, said: "It is a false and foolish notion for tradespeople to entertain that a husband is bound to pay all bills contracted by his wife. No such monstrous doctrine is allowed in the law Tradesmen must ascertain the facts and the true relations of man and wife before allowing the latter to run up bills which he is to be looked to to pay." Verdict for the stingy old husband.

Very Pretty.

A poet indicted a sonnet to his mistress entitled "I kiss her sub rosa." The compositor knew better than that, and set it up in Printer's Latin, "I kiss her snub nosa."

YOUNG MAN, the holidays are near at hand; don't make presents of jewgags and jewelry; make your mother a present, or your sister; if you are not blessed with a sister, make somebody else's sister a present—a fine set of lace curtains, an elegant body of Brussels carpet, a fine rug, a splendid parlor or chamber set. That is the way a certain young man married a fortune not long since. The old folks watched him, tested him, and then gave their consent. If you want an elegant outfit for about one-half that you can get it elsewhere, go to JOHN C. BELL'S Carpet and furniture Emporium, nearly opposite the Grand Hotel, on Market, and opposite the Occidental on Sutter street. Everybody knows that he makes all newly married parties an elegant present regardless of expense. Try it and then you will "KNOW HOW IT IS YOURSELF." P

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terripan stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omlettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Hacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oysters Saloon, No. 337 Bush street ADJOY the Alhambra. AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—The very popular drama of "Bertha, the Machine Girl" will be played at the matinee to-day, this evening, and to-morrow evening. Miss Henrietta Osborne is an universal favorite, and she receives excellent support from James M. Hardie and the talented company of the Metropolitan Theatre. Now we have fine weather the theatre should be crowded.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—Though a good audience has been present every evening in spite of the storm, many ladies have not yet seen the wonderfully comic opera of "La Belle Helene," with the inimitable Leon as the heroine, Kelly as the fascinating Paris, Harry Sinclair as the boozy old Calchas, and the other eccentric characters of the play. For these a great treat is in store, as they are sure to thoroughly enjoy the happy melange of fun and music. It will be performed at the matinee to-day, again this evening, and to-morrow evening, in conjunction with a capital first part and brilliant interlude, in which the Reynolds Brothers' song and dance is a great feature and never fails to gain a double encore.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—The capital comedy of "Money" was admirably presented last night. John McCullough was very good in the character of Alfred Evelyn; Miss May Howard played Clara Douglass in fine style; J. C. Williamson's lamentations over his Sainted Maria threw the audience into convulsions of laughter, and the parts were generally well filled. This play will form the matinee entertainment to-day and this evening the drama of "Damon and Pythias" will be presented. The evening's entertainment will conclude with "Nan the Good for Nothing," in which Miss Minnie Walton is delightfully piquante.

BELLA UNION THEATRE.—Great attractions are offered for Saturday and Sunday evenings and the Bella Union Theatre will be crowded with holiday folks. In the first part Mat Kelly will sing "The Style in which it's Done" with original local verses, and Fanny Garretson, Tommy Bree, Chris Mathews and others in comic and sentimental songs. In the interlude Carrie Chapman, Miss Josephine, Maggie Knight and others will appear. Among the new features will be the great acrobatic act of "Les Freres Comiques" by Leon Samwells, the famous acrobat, who will make his first appearance, and the talented Edwin Montague; a terrific spherical ascension by the graceful and daring Eugenie Gerretta, and the ever-popular "Little Fraud" by the favorite. Dutch character artists, Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin. "The Virgins" will conclude the entertainment. A Christmas extravaganza will be produced on Monday night.

THEATRE COMIQUE—This Theatre has undergone a thorough course of renovating and repairing, and will be reopened to-night, with a company comprising Frank Jones the Lively Moke, Jake Wallace, Johnny Tuers, Tommy Ross, Harry Howard, and a troupe of lady performers. A great programme will be performed, and, the wandering minstrels from Honolulu will introduce many novelties which they have learned during their stay among the Islanders. The reopening of this favorite resort is sure to attract a large crowd.

THE OXFORD.—The grand display of names of artistes, male and female on our first page gives promise of an entertainment of extraordinary attractiveness to-night. The new musical extravaganza is a great success and the first part and interlude are lively and entertaining. There will be a rush to the Oxford to-night.

E. T. STETSON.—The management of the Metropolitan Theatre have received a telegram from E. T. Stetson, the popular tragedian, informing them that he he will be in San Francisco on Sunday night. He will make his first appearance on Monday or Tuesday in the exciting drama of "Neck and Neck," which has been played to crowded houses in all the chief cities in the United States.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

THE CLIFF HOUSE. — Nothing is more health-giving than a spin along the Cliff House Road and a sniff of the briny air in the neighborhood of that famous hostelry. Nothing is more enjoyable than one of Captain Foster's dinners with a bottle of his choice wine.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC.—E. Zimmer, leader of the Bella Union Orchestra, is hard at work rehearsing a beautiful chorus for the Christmas holidays. Zimmer is talented and industrious and fills the position he occupies well.

CHRISTMAS MATINEES.—There will be a matinee on Christmas Day at the Metropolitan Theatre, and the play of "Bertha" will be performed. There will also be a matinee at the California Theatre, when the play of "Solid Silver" will be presented for the last time.

EILEEN OGE.—This thrilling play which has proved such a success in New York, where the Florences played the leading roles, will be produced at the California Theatre on Monday evening. Porter has painted new scenery for it, every character will be well filled and the money spent on it will soon role into the treasury as well as something more to reward the management for their enterprise.

IN SEARCH OF TALENT.—Manager Chamberlain of the Sacramento Varieties was in town yesterday in search of talent for his already strong company. He left this morning.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. They are a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarence for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, with Frank Fenton, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

PORTLAND.—Dan Lowrey, who arrived with the Cogill and Cooper Troupe about two months ago is sick and was to have a benefit at the Oro Fino Theatre on the 16th. A dramatic entertainment was to be given. The Oregonian of the 12th has the following:

Mr. O. W. Knowles received a telegram yesterday, from Mr Mc. Cabe San Francisco, stating that he had secured a full dramatic company, and, that they would start for this city by the steamer to sail from San Francisco next Saturday. It is the present expectation that the theatrical season will be opened Saturday evening December 23d.

SALT LAKE.—James Ward commenced an engagement in "Through by Daylight" on the 4th, on the 12th he took his farewell benefit, and made his last appearance in "Inshavogue."

STOCKTON—The pupils of the public schools were to have performed an opera at the theatre on Friday evening and, last night; but the storms caused its postponement. Opera by school children must be the nicest music in the world—except cats.

VALLEJO "Zamloch the Fakir of Arabia" assisted by Sampson, who is not a strong man, but a jokist is announced to give an entertainment on Tuesday at Eureka Hall.

SMARTSVILLE—Several young men at Smartsville lately organized a brass and string band, under the leadership of Mr. Butler, a very excellent musician, and are progressing in the art of music at a rapid rate.

MARYSVILLE—The German dramatic Association is about to be revived.

SACRAMENTO—Proctor and his dramatic company returned and reopened the Metropolitan Theatre on Monday. The "Lovely man of the Ocean," was played on Monday and Tuesday evenings, and, on Wednesday, the play entitled "Lady Clare" produced some time ago at the California Theatre in this city, was performed and, the authoress, Mrs. Watson, made her first appearance on any stage, in the character of Lady Maud. The Sacramento Varieties, under the energetic management of Chamberlin and Ballinger is doing a splendid business. The Lancashire Bell ringers are very popular. Aline Le Favre has created a furore Ethel, and Edgar Stanley are much liked; and Johnny Manning and the rest of the company all do well. During the coming week Miss Della Smythe, late of the Bella Union Theatre, and Miss Clara Draper, from the Globe, will make their appearance.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS

"The Broadway Milliners" and "The West Point Hazers" were on the bill of the San Francisco Minstrels.....The Thorpe Brothers were giving spiritual seances at the St. James's Theatre, and were said to eclipse the Davenports.....W. W. Newcomb had a benefit at Bryant's Opera House on the 14th, when the following artists assisted: Unsworth (his first appearance for two years); Tony Pastor, Hughey Dougherty, Johnny Allen, Wm. Ashcroft, Fred Foster, Frank Kerns, George H. Coes, Frank Girard and Bryant's Minstrels.....G. W. Middleton's dramitization of Charles Reade's "Terrible Temptation" was played at the Bowery and withdrawn "after a tame run of three nights." It was a failure.....At the Union Square Theatre, Wm. Ashcroft, Hughey Dougherty, Lew Rattler, Gus Williams, Johnny De Angelis, George H. Coes and others give a good entertainment..... James Nixon was about to turn the Globe Theatre into an equestrian arena for the holidays.....Barnum's show was drawing crowds.....Miss Hindle and Lizzette Barnard were the stars at the Thirty-fourth street Theatre.

Our latest Boston date is the 10th. The announcements for the week were as follows:—"Elfie" in its fifth week at the Museum....Miss Cushman was to take her farewell benefit at the Globe on the 16th....The seats for Sothern's first appearance were put on sale on the 14th at the Boston Theatre .... Annie Clarke, took her benefit at the Museum, on the 15th....Manager Field, of the Museum, has received the new play by H. T. Craven, author of the "Chimney Corner," entitled "Coals of Fire," which is said to be superior to anything the author has yet written. It was announced for its first representation in London on the 20th ult. H. J. Byron's new play, 'Partners for "Life," which has been for some time announced as in preparation at the Museum and is now running on the London stage, has been secured by Lester Wallack for New York.

The Wyndham comedy company have just concluded a highly successful engagement at the Michigan-avenue Theatre, Chicago. The critics of that city speak in very high terms of Mr. John Parselle, one of the best actors that has yet come to this country from England.

M'lle Morlacchi has returned to Boston, after having concluded a very successful engagement at the Holiday-street Theatre, Baltimore.

The Chapman Sisters, Blanche and Ella Chapman and E. A. Locke, commenced an engagement at the Tremont Opera House, Galveston, Texas Nov. 13th.

Sothern went to the Walnut-street Theatre, Philadelphia, at the conclusion of his New York engagement.

The Louisville Critic says: "When Capoul wants to raise his voice he elevates one of his legs," We should think he would use the pedal for the bass notes also.

Watchtel charged two dollars and a half for a reserved seat in Providence, and sang to a small audience. He will not put his trust in Providence again,

Katie Putnam and Edwin Browne are going to England next June to star in "Fanchon."

Mrs. E. T. Stetson supplies the place of Kate Denin in the Janauschech Company.

Mr. J. W. Wallack is three score years and five.

Josh Hart has copyrighted a drama and panorama called "Chicago before the Fire during the Fire, and After the Fire," which he will soon give to New York.

Charlotte Cushman's engagement at the Globe, proved one of the most brilliant dramatic successes ever achieved in Boston.

It is said that Mr. Sothern's "Dundreary," in the course of the first week of his engagement at Niblo's, drew into the treasury $15,900.

A new burlesque entitled Luna, in which the favorite Jenny Worrell was to appear, assisted by Adah Richmond and others, was to be the piece de resistance at the Howard Athenæum..... The last week of the engagement of M'lle Morlacchi at the Boston Theatre, introduced that talented pantomimist and brilliant danseuse in the nautical drama of "The Wizard Skiff."

The St. James' Theatre has closed.

The Season says of Frank Mayo's performance of D'Artagnan in "The Three Guardsmen," lately produced at the Grand Opera House, New York:

Mr. Mayo's D'Artagnan is an easy-going personation. The actor falls into the part naturally enough, as he might with a ready-made suit, and, feeling that the part is a good one, he is at no great pains to fill it out in detail, but relies upon a succession of boldly marked, dashing effects. His reward is copious applause from a discriminating gallery.

Madame Arabella Goddard, the most accomplished lady pianist in the world, is engaged for a concert tour in this country in the autumn of 1872.

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

Signor Tamberlik the great Russian tenor, after a brilliantly successful and lengthened tour in South America, has reached Havana, where he is now the regnant stars of the Italian opera. We remember the furore he created at the Royal Italian Opera, London, some years since and the fierce rivalry that existed between him and Mario, when both were in the full zenith of their powers and popularity.

It is stated that Sardou's "Le Roi Carotte" is to be brought out in magnificent manner, in Paris. $30,000 having been laid out in scenery and dresses' M'lle Hisson is to fill the principal role in the spectacle. M'lle Therese and forty clowns have been engaged.

Carlotta Patti is in Madrid.

A new play entitled "Coals of Fire" by H. T. Craven, author of "Meg's Diversion," has been produced at the Court Theatre, London.

The Hanlon Brothers are on their way from Cadiz to Havana and South America.

Byron has written a new play for Sothern, to be produced in this country.

Elise Holt (Mrs Harry Wall), has presented her husband with a little wall.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Williams are going to Nice, in France.

Charles Read's play of "Griffith Gaunt," has been performed at Leicester England, under the author's personal supervision.

"Paquitta," a new comic opera by Mr. Mallendaine, is in rehersal at the Royalty Theatry London.

Mrs John Wood is to play an engagement at the Adelphi Theatre London, commencing at Christmas.

In Chicago, up to the 12th "Bertha the Sewing Machine Girl" was running at the Globe..... "Milky White at the Michigan Avenue Theatre ....At the West Side opera house, Sam Meyers is running a minstrel company, comprising Messrs Kemble, Colton, Kent, and Bowles, of the old Dearborn Minstrels and many others.

Edwin Booth's Hamlet.

The Season says of Edwin Booth's reappearance in "Hamlet" in New York on the 4th:

We have seen this same man as Hamlet in times past, and must confess that in his peculiar way he has made progress. No man has been so slandered. No man has been so punished with praise, and no man ought to die cursing more heartily critics and criticism than Edwin Booth. He has been accused of a conception of Shakspeare and the working out of that conception that he never dreamed of. People have pelted him with the name of student, when books are his abhorrence. Winter has heard the low zephyrs of the spring time of art in the lower tones of his voice, and his louder tones have fallen upon his poetical ear like peals of ancient church music. Says Wheeler, "No other voice wakes such grand feelings." Why he has but two tones, and these become a monotone before the end of the first act. Booth is a moderately good actor. He can never be a great one. Stuart made him the former, and conceit and newspaper puffery dubbed him the latter There is one merit in Booth's Hamlet, and to a lazy man that is grand. He is the laziest Hamlet the world has ever seen.

A lazy Hamlet must be delightful to any one who understands the character of Hamlet. Hamlet was fat and lazy; every word of the text goes to show it. The Season has always been unfriendly to Edwin Booth, because he has a theatre. That clever walking gentleman, Mr. Wallack, also has a theatre, and he is the especial pet of the Season.

Poverty.

A broken-down spendthrift in Meadville gave the following toast at a dinner: "Here's to Poverty—it sticks to us when all friends forsake us." There is truth in this; but how few care to number poverty among their friends, and how few, too, labor as diligently as they should to keep from her unwelcome embraces. The most casual observer cannot fail to observe that of the masses around him, there is scarce one in a score who does not appear to be courting the intimacy of this companion of which it may be truly said, it sticketh closer than a brother.

The young man who begins life with no other capital than a good name, a strong arm, and his own energies, has the world before him and a competence if he will; for in this wonderful country of ours we do not believe it possible for a young man to fail in earning a livelihood, and laying aside something for a rainy day, unless he deliberately resolves upon the opposite.

Occasionally one of such laudable intentions and practices is met with, one who has early learned to save the pennies, knowing the dollars will take care of themselves; but for every instance of this kind we have a dozen who appear to have no thought of the future; who, as soon as or before they earn a dollar have plans laid for the spending of it; who spend all they toil for in extravagant dress, cigars, tobacco, and in fact everything but that which will prove of permanent or indeed of any value to them.

These are the ones who from early youth court the embraces of poverty—nor do they woo in vain: It comes as certainly as that disease, disgrace and degradation follow indulgence in strong drink, and, like the young spendthrift already quoted, they can with all sincerity drink the toast, "Here's to Poverty! it sticks to us when all friends forsake us."

A Kansas paper chronicles a pleasant, and not uncommon ceremony in that State as follows: Mr. —— of Missouri, got to owning horses that did not belong to him! and, the next thing he knew he couldn,t get his feet down to the ground. He strangled.

A writer on school discipline says: "Without a liberal use of the rod, it is impossible to make a boy smart."

Mems. about Alexis.

It is stated that Alexis danced some of the far-famed Russian Steppes at the ball. We have been informed that Alexis' father has a very Czar-donic smile—The ladies say the Grand Duke is a perfect duck—Muscovy, of course, and even the men admit that he is the cream of Tartar; although many affirm that he has brought Volga manners with him.—The Russian Prince must feel quite at home, on account of the Crimehere.—People say that, in common with his countrymen, Alexis is a Knout and Knouter.—The extremely low-necked dresses worn by some of the ladies at the ball have been interpreted into a compliment to the Grand Duke, inasmuch as it was a desire on their parts to Rush-in-bare.—Ball tickets are in the ascendant whenever the Grand Duke appears in this country. When he returns home he will have to Baltic it again.—The Grand Duke being told of the surfs at Cape May and Long Branch, remarked that there was not a single serf in Russia.

Stanton on Woodhull.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton has an article in the Golden Age on Mrs. Woodhull, in which she says: "When I think of the merciless and continued persecution of that little woman by the entire Press of the nation I blush for humanity. In the name of woman let me thank you for so generously defending her. In reading the reports of her Steinway speech, I could see nothing so monstrously immoral on which to base the severe editorial comments of our journals.

"The fears of women of one another lest they should be compromised by those they imagine less reputable than themselves is as amusing as pitiful. I am told that the English women are quite nervous at the report that Anna Dickinson, Kate Field, and Olive Logan talked of visiting that country, they were so afraid lest they, by some indiscretion might injure the suffrage movement. While each of these are equally afraid of each other and the movement, the weak-minded and the ministers are afraid of us, one and all, and we in turn are afraid of each other The women of Kansas were greatly troubled by Lucy Stone, when she traveled through that State, because she did not bear her husband's name, and had publicly protested against the civil code in the legal marriage, while she is equally disturbed with Victoria Woodhull for following her example. Women with two or three husbands living at the same time, who advocate monogamic relation, are afraid of me. I never had but one husband, and advocate divorce for the miserable."

A Modest Demand.

The Emperor William of Prussia wants Schneider to sing in Berlin, but La Grande Duchesse has refused the most brilliant offers. "We will give you anything you ask" said the agent employed to negotiate, "No, you will not," was the stout reply, "for what I ask for is Alsace and Lorraine."

A Paris letter declares that by actual count about seventeen in twenty of the ladies seen in the streets are dressed in mourning; but whether this is owing altogether to a loss of relatives, or a freak of fashion is uncertain.

In order that the daughters of British postmasters may be thoroughly conversant with the use of telegraphic instruments, apartments have been fitted up in the general office, London, where they will be instructed.

An Old Debt.

A few evenings ago, during his engagement at the St. Charles, Mr. Forrest was in his room at the St. Charles Hotel, when a waiter presented him with a card from Mr. P., who requested a moment's interview. A few moments later the stranger, a gentleman doing business in this city, was introduced into the presence of Forrest. After an exchange of civilities the stranger, handing Mr. Forrest the sum of one hundred dollars, told him that his father, who was an actor like Forrest, had been dead some time; that when he died, among his papers, was found a memorandum recording the fact that he had borrowed this sum from Forrest, and the object of his son's visit, after so many years was to honor the sacred debt. —N. O. Commercial Bulletin.

He Repented Him.

Not long since a Brooklyn bridegroom, on the spur of the moment, when he felt real good not having had any experience before, in that line, gave a minister $500 for marrying him. A short time afterward he went to the elder's house with a bandage around his head, his left arm in a sling, a black eye, a cupola on the summit of his head, one sleeve of his coat torn off, and the North side of his pants out at the elbow, and told the elder if he didn't give him back $495, he would sue him for obtaining money under false btetences. He didn't feel quite so cunning as he thought he should.

SYNOPSIS OF ARGUMENT.

Paris tells the celebrated "Apple story," in which he awards the prize to Venus and Helen cannot agree on a grand Tournament to settle the matter. Kisses Achilles Menelaus Agamemnon and the rest. Is consoled for the pointed slight over opinion Parodies Helen's responsibilities to name and escape. Helen is laughed. Incommensurate Matters together Chorus of boys Helen by Paris appears very Pale Menelaus departs for Crete. Helen and Agamemnon urge him to speed and he makes his exit in a novel manner (striking music). Scene second represents the navy in Crete, ostensibly sympathizing friends The third scene shows Helen struggling against the passions of Venus & her several suits. Paris has another interview Chorus sees each in all. Paris, and the latter appears beside the slumbering Queen. Unexpected arrival of the husband

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night the thrilling domestic drama of "Fertta the Sewing Machine Girl" will be presented for the last time and those who have not yet seen it should take this opportunity. This afternoon at 2 o' clock there will be a grand Christmas performance for ladies and children. To-morrow night the popular tragedian E. T. Stetson, will commence an engagement and the terrifically sensational drama "Neck and Neck" will be produced.

California Theatre.

To-night the great play of the day "Eileen Oge," on which any amount of money has been spent, will be produced for the first time in California. John McCullough will appear in the character of Patrick O'Donnell, a gentleman farmer: J. C. Williamson as Bryan O'Farrell, one of the boys; W. A Mestayer as John Thomas, a cockney Englishman; Henry Edwards as the Rev. M. Mahoney, a true Pastor; James Carden as Henry Loftus; Miss May Howard as Eileen Moriarty, (Eileen Oge); Miss Minnie Walton as Miss Norah O'Donnel, and the rest of the company in the other characters of the drama. A feature of the piece will be a country dance entitled "The Haymaker's Run" by Mr. and Miss McCarty and a full ballet. a Christmas matinee will be given to-day, when "Solid Silver" will be produced for the last time.

Alhambra Theatre.

The burnt cork opera bouffe of "La Belle Helene" is the most amusing that all that Kelly and Leon's Minstrels have produced, and the entertainment given at the Alhambra is as jolly as possible—just the kind to be enjoyed during the Holidays—first part, interlude, and opera are all bright, and sparkling. The music is beautiful, the fun genuine, and the Only Leon, and the combined Emerson and Kelly and Leon's Minstrels give an immense entertainment. It will be seen that Leon appears in new character sketches and Edwin Kelly in a new act.

Bella Union.

A great holiday entertainment is presented at this popular theatre. Leon Samwells is great in the gymnastic act of "Les Freres Comique;" Maggie Knight is encored again and again; M'lle Gerretta has made a great hit in her Spherical Ascension: Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin are immense in "The Little Fraud;" and to-night the Christmas extravaganza of "Santa Claus and Satan's Claws" will be produced. In the first part the novelties will be a beautiful Christmas fairy chorus arranged by F. Zimmer, and Mat Kelly's local version of the "Style in Which it's Done."

The Oxford.

This cosy little hall is a favorite resort during the holiday times, and fun reigns there supreme. Miss Amelia Daan has shown herself a most able manageress, and with her troupe of pretty girls and versatile comedians, gives a capital entertainment. Dick O'Neil's new extravaganza, "From Marysville to San Francisco," creates great fun.

Theatre Comique.

This popular place of amusement was reopened on Saturday night and was densely crowded. A capital entertainment was given. Frank Jones received a hearty welcome back and gained much applause in his act of the Lively Moke; Johnny Tuers convulsed the audience with laughter in the Goat Island Ghost, and Mike Quinn in Irish song and jig; Eva Silva, Ida Fisk and many other popular favorites appeared. A great bill will be presented to-night.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillieu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention are on exhibition

Pavilion Skating Rink.

Assemblies at the Pavilion skating rink are on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, in the morning, and Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays in the evening. Professor Lovett, the famous skater ives an exhibition every evening.

"The wall-flowers" of society are pleased at the advent of cold weather, wherein there is a chance to get a little chap on their hands.

In France it is estimated that a large majority of the educated men are free-thinkers, while the women are under the domination of the church.

Mozart Hall.

A grand calico ball will take place at Mozart Hall on Christmas night, December 25th, for the benefit of Prof. Henry Johnson: doors open at 11 o'clock.

After the Bella Union

Comique and Globe Theatres, patrons who smoke a cigar on their way home should go to the Verandah Cigar Store, corner Washington and Kearny, kept for the last eleven years by Henry Schmidt. Not a Chinese-made cigar in the store, but every other brand, from a few cents' cost up to the finest imported Havanas. A fine stock of handsome meerschaum pipes, cigar-holders and other articles suitable for presents during the coming holidays. Everything at prices to suit the times. W

Elegant Presents for the Holidays.

Economy is wealth. Ham & Pollard have $40,000 too much stock on hand, which must be sold during the Holiday season, and to insure the desired result will offer their complete and elegant assortment of Watches, Chains, Jewelry and Silverware at manufacturers' prices. Their old customers will please recollect that their new store is at No. 7 Kearny street. F

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carrisge or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarences for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, with Frank Bonton, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

Matildy, jest you mind them hens,
And shoo 'em out away from here;
They're scratchin' all the garden up—
Why, Tildy's gone—wa'al, wa'al, that's queer.
She ain't contrary, as a rule,
And kindly obeys my will;
But though she heerd me, off she put—
Why, there's Lorenzo Pettengill!

He's met her and she's stopped to talk—
Them hens will eat up everything—
He's wanting her to take a walk—
Wa'al, it's nice to walk in spring.
He's took her hand—course, that won't do—
She seems to stand uncommon still;
I'd better let them know I'm round—
Good evening, Mr. Pettengill!

II.

He don't mind me—it ain't no use;
Ah, wa'al, my time has been and gone;
But, then, I'd really no idee
How Tildy was a-gittin' on.
These gals grow up, and pretty soon
They lay us old ones on the shelf;
Lorenzo is a smart young man—
I guess I'll tend them hens myself.

II.

O Dolores! Wicked one! So thus it is you do your duty,
Walking far along the trail from your home,
the rancheria.
Ah, she does not see I watch her, little tiger—
she is pretty,
But she sees not her kind father—oh, so kind—behind her here.

What does she? Ah, Dolores, it is then for French, the packer,
To talk with him you wander, and your doves
must coo unfed;
Silly child, he has a hundred mules, has this Americano—
I shall tell your brother Manuel, and to-morrow he is dead.

I am growing fat and old, and I cannot watch your movements;
But my boy, my Manuel, there is one. He shall upon him spring—
Madre de Dios! What is that which he now seems to force upon her?
The saints be praised—it is, indeed, a ring,
and such a ring!

And he has a hundred mules, and he takes away my daughter,
She costs no more—oh, sweet young love, it makes my old heart stir—
They come here—ah! he shall have his drink
American—the whisky—
And the little one, Dolores! I shall feed her doves for her.

Christmas Candies.

The best selected and greatest variety of Sugar Toys and Fancy Boxes at the most reasonable prices, at J. Vogeley & Bros., Candy Manufactory,

YOUNG MAN, the holidays are near at hand; don't make presents of jewgaws and jewelry; make your mother a present, or your sister; if you are not blessed with a sister, make somebody else's sister a present—a fine set of lace curtains, an elegant body of Brussels carpet, a fine rug, a splendid parlor or chamber set. That is the way a certain young man married a fortune not long since. The old folks watched him, tested him, and then gave their consent. If you want an elegant outfit for about one-half that you can get it elsewhere, go to JOHN C. BELL'S Carpet and furniture Emporium, nearly opposite the Grand Hotel, on Market, and opposite the Occidental on Sutter street. Everybody knows that he makes all newly married parties an elegant present regardless of expense. Try it and then you will "KNOW HOW IT IS YOURSELF." P

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapan stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omlettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Hacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oysters Saloon, No. 37 Bush street adjoining the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures

Holiday Fare.

Those who have no family circle where they can keep Christmas and New Year's holidays, can fare sumptuously at Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre. There they can find every luxury of the season: the choicest wines, and the most experienced of cooks and attendants. The private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are the admiration of all who have seen them, V

California Theatre.

The house was densely packed last night with a holiday crowd. Edmund Falconer's latest drama entitled "Eileen Oge," was presented for the first time in California. "Eileen Oge" has a very thin plot, but it is worked out in such an artistic manner, that the interest is well sustained throughout. The drop scene at the end of each act falls on a strong situation, which is the secrets of the success of many a play. John McCullough plays Patrick O'Donnell, a good, honest young man in love with Aileen Ogee (May Howard); James Carden is Harry Loftus, a rich bad young man, also in love with Eileen. Loftus has in McLean, a Scotch middleman, a willing tool for his bad work, and through their machinations Patrick O'Donnell is transported across the seas just as he is about to be united to Eileen. While Patrick is away Mr. Moriarty, Eileen's father, becomes hard up and a distraint is put on his farm by Mr. McLean. Eileen is pressed to marry Loftus, and just at the close of the play is about to do so, when of course the long absent lover returns with a free pardon, the villains are taken into custody, and the curtain fall on the usual loving tableaux. The scenery painted for this play by Porter, is very fine, a view in Limerick gaining much applause, and the hay field scene being very good. This is made the scene of one of the most spirited and vividly real fights ever seen on any stage; the air is completely thick with brick bats and hay forks are used against muskets with good effect. John McCullough and Miss May Howard get through their business very easily; the former has to appear "manly," the latter "interesting;" Henry Edwards has a good part in Mr. Mahony, the priest, and plays it well; James Carden is good enough as the villain, and Fred Franks as McLean succeeds in gaining the execrations of the gallery, who rejoice exceedingly when he appears with a broken arm; Norah O'Donnell is very well played by Miss Ellie Wilton, who is bound to become a favorite. The underplot is in the hands of J. C. Williamson as Bryan O'Farrell, Miss Minnie Walton as Bridget Maguire, and W. A. Mestayer as John Thomas. J. C. Williamson was the life of the piece, keeping the audience in roars of laughter in the funny scenes and making the most of the strong situations; Miss Minnie Walton acted charmingly and sang very sweetly; W. A. Mestayer was very amusing as the corpulent John Thomas who had lost "his 'art" to Miss Maguire; E. J. Buckley did a capital bit of character acting as Tim, the pen man; Mr. Sedley Smith was all that could be desired as Mr. Moriarty, and the play worked smoothly throughout. The Haymaker's Run under the direction of Mr and Miss McCarty, is an immense feature in the piece and is one of the most lively stage dances ever seen. "Eileen Oge" will be repeated to-night and until further notice.

Alhambra Theatre.

This Theatre was thronged to suffocation last night, and all present enjoyed the performance most heartily. Leon cast the audience into fits of laughing at his "All Among the Hay," the "German Student," and the very comical "Duck song." Edwin Kelly's "Lesson in Prestidigitation" caused more amusement than Herr Hartz's or Heller's did. Every FIGARO had been numbered for the purpose of allotting, by drawing, a prize to some one of the audience by the last trick. Upon the attention of the immense audience present being called to the fact that every copy of FIGARO had been numbered at the head of the paper, and that the holder of the lucky number drawn from a hat would be presented with an "elegant piece of plate," from a collection standing on the stage in view of the audience, there was an involuntary reference to a thousand FIGARO's, the dress circle and parquet were white with them; the rustling of the leaves of famed Vallambrosa in the Fall winds were not to be compared to it. An immense suspense awaited the drawing of the lucky number by Prof. Evans. We are sorry to say that the trick did not work perfectly smooth last night. There was some disarrangement of the numbers, which might very naturally happen in copying out a thousand numbers and in the confusion of the first drawing. The plate was awarded, however. We shall send our FIGAROS to the theatre earlier to-day, and hope there will be no more confusion about numbers. The Reynolds Brothers' "Drum Major" drew shouts of applause, and the laughable burlesque opera of "La Belle Helene" terminated one of the best bills of the season.

Bella Union.

Every available inch of room was occupied last night. The performance was a succession of triumphs. The new Christmas chorus arranged by E. Zimmer, was finely sung and much applauded. Mat Kelly made a decided hit in new local songs; Maggie Knight was encored again and again; Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin performed the act of "Little Fraud" in capital style; Eugenie Garretta's new act of the Spherical Ascension drew much applause; Miss Josephine and Chris Mathews and Mrs. McGowan's Reel in splendid style, and the new Christmas extravaganza of "Santa Claus and Satan's Claws" was quite a success.

The Oxford.

A continual stream of persons poured into this place of amusement last night from 8 o'clock until midnight, and the fun was kept alive during that time by Miss Amelia Dean, Lizzie Harmon, Sally Thayer, Fanny Webster, Gus Sprague, Hugby Morton, and the many other artists composing the Oxford Troupe. The new musical extravaganza entitled "From Marysville to San Francisco" closed the evening's entertainment.

Theatre Comique.

"No standing room" was the order of the night soon after the curtain rose at this cosy little Hall. The evening's entertainment was of a character to please everyone. Johnny Thoes, Frank Jones, Mike Quin, and a host of others doing their best to please the crowd of amusement seeking people who thronged the house.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillieu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention are on exhibition

Pavilion Skating Rink.

Assemblies at the Pavilion skating rink are on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, in the morning, and Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays in the evening. Professor Lovett, the famous skater, gives an exhibition every evening.

Christmas Decorations.

The California, Metropolitan, and Alhambra Theatres are all beautifully decorated with evergreens, and present a very gay and festive appearance.

Metropolitan Theatre.

Hundreds flocked yesterday afternoon and evening to see the thrilling drama of "Bertha, the Sewing Machine Girl." This play will be performed to-night for the last time; and to-morrow night E. T. Stetson, the tragedian, who was snow bound on the mountains, while en route for California and is consequently a day or two late, will make his first appearance in Charles Foster's sensation play of "Neck and Neck," which has proved such an immense success wherever produced in the Eastern States.

A Christmas Present.

Sam Wetherill, treasurer of the Alhambra Theatre, was the recipient of a pleasing testimonial yesterday, in the shape of an emerhyst set of studs and sleeve buttons from the ladies of the chorus of the opera bouffe.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say to her other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarences for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Hockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, with Frank Bouton, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

YOUNG MAN, the holidays are near at hand; don't make presents of jewgaw and jewelry; make your mother a present, or your sister; if you are not blessed with a sister, make somebody else's sister a present—a fine set of lace curtains, an elegant body of brussels carpet, a fine rug, a splendid parlor or chamber set. That is the way a certain young man married a fortune not long since. The old folks watched him, tested him, and then gave their consent. If you want an elegant outfit for about one-half that you can get it elsewhere, go to JOHN C. BELL'S Carpet and furniture Emporium, near 3 opposite the Grand Hotel, on Market, and opposite the Occidental on Sutter street. Everybody knows that he makes all newly married parties an elegant present regardless of expense. Try it and then you will "KNOW HOW IT IS YOURSELF." F

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omlettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Hacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oysters Saloon, No. 337 Bush street adjoining the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures

Holiday Fare.

Those who have no family circle where they can keep Christmas and New Year's holidays, can fare sumptuously at Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre. There they can find every luxury of the season; the choicest wines, and the most experienced of cooks and attendants. The private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are the admiration of all who have seen them. V

The Only Rational Method of Cure for CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, DYSPEPSIA, NEURALGIA, RHEUMATISM, AND ALL NERVOUS DISORDERS AND IMPURITIES OF THE BLOOD,

Because it effects its curative process by its physiological action, enables each organ of the body to do its own work as in robust health, increases the respiratory efficiency, straightens and enlarges the chest, purifies the blood, changes venous into arterial blood, strengthens the nervous system, relieves the heart of undue pressure, equalizes the circulation of the blood, promotes natural warmth, increases appetite and promotes digestion, disposes of effete materials in the body without disturbing function, stimulates without subsequent depression. It does away with all medication because it is more EFFICIENT, SAFE, SPEEDY AND SATISFACTORY.

"Figaro's" Edition Yesterday.

Neither Alta, Call nor Chronicle made its appearance yesterday; but FIGARO was here, there and everywhere as usual, and even more so than usual, for an extra edition of some thousands was distributed in the saloons, hotels and restaurants, as well as at the theatres in the evening. FIGARO has no holidays, but is before the public every day in the year. Advertisers can make a note of this.

Hercules was a model husband; rather than stay out late at night, he invariably carried his club home with him.

"It's a poor rule that won't work both ways," exclaimed the boy as he threw the ferrule at the teacher's head!

A bachelor is politely described as a man who has neglected his opportunity of making some poor woman miserable.

France re-christened—What used to be called la belle France is now called a Vale of Thiers.

Men laugh and pretend to be pleased when women descend to vulgar jokes, but in seeking wives they look elsewhere.

Hotel Accommodations in Texas.

One of the exhibitors at the recent Texas State Fair, at Houston, gave an amusing account of his experience at the hotel, which illustrates the crowded condition of the taverns at that time. "When I got there I just said, 'Captain, I wrote you about six weeks ago to save me a room; I hope you have done so.' 'Certainly, I have; waiter, shew the gentleman to No. 91.' I'm blessed if there wasn't forty others besides myself in that same apartment; and when they went to undress at night the room looked like an arsenal, for every man had a knife and a six shooter or two. My partner had an immense pistol, which he coolly took off and placed in bed between us. 'Say, Stranger,' says I, 'if I had to carry a thing like that, blamed if I wouldn't put it on wheels.' 'Guess if I choose to wear it, it's nobody's business,' he replied. 'Well,' says I, 'is all of this artillery company in this room?' About half the occupants were changed every day, and I could tell every new arrival the number of his room as soon as I set eyes on him. 'Hullo, Colonel, just got in?' I would say. 'Yes—just in, and lucky enough to get a room.' 'What's your number? I would ask. 'Ninety-one,' was sure to be the reply."

Whis-ky of Course.

On the road between Meriden and Hartford, Connecticut, there is a saloon where decoctions of benzine are passed over a rickety bar, at the small price of five cents. Directly opposite is a country graveyard, where the people for a few miles around bury their dead. The hostess of the saloon has an unfeeling signal on the side of her door as follows: "Key to the cemetery gate within."

An English writer advises young women to look favorably upon those engaged in agricultural pursuits, assigning as one reason, that their Mother, Eve, married a gardener, He forgot to add that in consequence of the match the gardener lost his situation.

Girls are advised not to smile much in the face of the man they desire to secure. A little pretense of sadness will do the business more expeditionely.

The Last of the Mohicans.

A Fennimore-Cooper man invites attention to the fortitude displayed by an Indian who was destroyed in the Chicago fire. He happened to be standing in front of a store, and, though the flames were advancing upon him with fatal speed he did not move. The devouring element sized voraciously on the store the Indian was guarding, but he moved not from his post. All about him was cracking ruin, but his tattooed face gave no indication of fear. He seemed to contemplate the certainty of destruction with the stolid indifference characteristic of his race. Through the smoke and flame a near-sighted individual called loudly on the red man to run for his life. The noble Indian vouchsafed no answer. The flames wrapped him round about, but he uttered no complaint. Evidently he had a heart of oak, and he perished. Lo was the poor Indian. So completely had he disappeared, that among his ashes not a bone was found. The noble Indian was unanimously mourned by a large and select circle of cigar sellers, who will never look upon his like again for the same money.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

To-night E. T. Stetson, of whose abilities we have heard great things, will make his first appearance before a California audience and will present Charles Foster's tremendously sensational drama of "Neck and Neck," which has been played to crowded houses in all the chief cities in the United States and made the blood of thousands run cold by its vivid realism. The scene of the execution, where the villain of the piece meets with his deserts, is said to be the most extraordinary ever put on any stage. Mr. Stetson will be supported by James M. Hardie and the full strength of the Metropolitan Theatre company.

California Theatre.

Falconer's stirring play of "Eileen oge" drew another large house last night, and was played in excellent style. John McCullough quite succeeded in enlisting the sympathies of the audience for Patrick O'Donnell. The vision scene where he is discovered on a desolate island, was loudly applauded. The dance entitled the "Hay-Makers Run," and the ruction which followed, caused immense applause. "Eileen Oge," will be played until further notice.

Alhambra Theatre.

The entertainment presented here is an excessively lively and amusing one. Edwin Kelly has made a most decided hit in the "Lesson in Prestidigitation" in which he imitates a Professor of egerdemain to the life. Leon's new characterizations are wonderfully good, the Reynolds Brothers are great in song and dance, and the burlesque of "La Belle Helene," which winds up the evening's amusement, is full of fun and good music.

Bella Union.

The bill for holiday week at this temple of music and Momus, is a particularly fine one. The Christmas chorus in the first part is very pretty; Mat Kelly's original version of the "Style in which it's Done" is much applauded; Miss Carrie Chapman's Medley dance is an artistic performance; Maggie Knight sparkles in character songs and dances; Carrie Armstrong and J. H. Larkin are very amusing in their Dutch songs and dances; Samwells and Montague's acrobatic acts are graceful and daring, and the extravaganza of "Santa Claus and Satan's Claws" is full of fun.

Theatre Comique.

Frank Jones has returned from the Sandwich Islands more fresh and original than ever; Johnny Tuers makes the audience yell with laughter in the wonderfully comical act of "The Goat Island Ghost;" Mike Quinn is a popular favorite, and Eva Silva, Blanche, Josie Mayfield, Eva Willis and many others are announced to appear in a varied programme of songs and dances.

The Oxford.

There are any number of old favorites in the Oxford company, and Miss Amelia Dean, Lizzie Harmon, Fanny Webster and Sally Thayer present every night some of their most attractive specialties. Songs, dances, acts, jokes and conundrums make up a feast of mirth and music, concluding with "From Marysville to San Francisco."

New Year's Prize Ball.

The friends of Mr. M. Cathcart will give him a complimentary entertainment at Fitzgibbon's Dancing Hall, 769 Market street. A gold medal and a ladies gold mounted fan will be awarded to the best dancers during the evening.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillieu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention are on exhibition

Pavilion Skating Rink.

Assemblies at the Pavilion skating rink are on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, in the morning, and Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays in the evening. Professor Lovett, the famous skater, gives an exhibition every evening.

The Air Line.

The other day a contemporary said the trains on the Vallejo road would soon be able to run as "the sky was clear." The road was pretty badly blocked up at the time.

New Departure.

We are used to hearing of old stock being offered at auction, but the offering of entire new stocks of fine French china Bohemian glass and silver-plated ware at auction is an event that seldom occurs. Douglas & Co., will sell this and tomorrow evening their large stock at auction, one of the finest and best selected in the city. If any of our readers are in want of a dinner set, tea-set, castor, cake-basket, or anything else in that line, we should say now or never.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarences for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, with Frank Bouton, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers.

After the Bella Union

Comique and Globe Theatres, patrons who smoke a cigar on their way home should go to the Verandah Cigar Store, corner Washington and Kearny, kept for the last eleven years by Henry Schmidt. Not a Chinese-made cigar in the store, but every other brand, from a few cents cost up to the finest imported Havanas. A fine stock of handsome meerschanm pipes, cigar-holders and other articles suitable for presents during the coming holidays. Everything at prices to suit the times. W

Elegant Presents for the Holidays.

Economy is wealth. Hain & Pollard have $30,000 too much stock on hand, which must be sold during the Holiday season, and to insure the desired result will offer their complete and elegant assortment of Watches, Chains, Jewelry and Silverware at manufacturers' prices. Their old customers will please recollect that their new store is at No. 7 Kearny street. F

GOOD-BYE, BUT COME AGAIN.

Oh, must we part? How sad the words
Are falling on my heart!
Your beaming eyes would bid me stay;
But, dear one, we must part.

And yet the words of hope you breathe
Have borne away my pain:
I bless the lips that sweetly say,
"Good-bye, but come again."

What bliss to hold your hands in mine,
And gaze into your eyes!
What bliss to know one one heart is true
'Neath fair or cloudy skies!

Your cheering words like summer flowers
Shall in my heart remain:
I'll ever bless those lips that say,
"Good-bye, but come again."

What You Drink.

Here is an item for moderate drinkers and others. The distillers in this country are now agitating the question of the distillation of spirits from the garbage of cities. In this new process the garbage is gathered from the houses of citizens, dumped into vats, boiled, the grease skimmed off, and, the pulpy mess fermented and distilled. A barrel of garbage yields four gallons of proof spirits. Any one who in his peregrinations has encountered one of our city swill carts, and enjoyed its invigorating odor, must enter upon the consumption of spirits so manufactured with peculiar zest.

Dear, Dear!

Dr. Mary Walker says she would like, above other things, to experience the emotions of a man for an hour or two. She desires to know just how they think and feel, to the end that she may be better prepared to fight them.

Low Neckedness.

Many fashionable ladies who are partial to low-neck dresses and have not a pretty neck, wear a false neck of wax or alabaster, which when a heavy necklace is worn with it, can hardly be detected from the real article.

YOUNG MAN, the holidays are near at hand; don't make presents of jewgags and jewelry; make your mother a present, or your sister; if you are not blessed with a sister, make somebody else's sister a present—a fine set of lace curtains, an elegant body of Brussels carpet, a fine rug, a splendid parlor or chamber set. That is the way a certain young man married a fortune not long since. The old folks watched him, tested him, and then gave their consent. If you want an elegant outfit for about one-half that you can get it elsewhere, go to JOHN C. BELL'S Carpet and furniture Emporium, nearly opposite the Grand Hotel, on Market, and opposite the Occidental on Sutter street. Everybody knows that he makes all newly married parties an elegant present regardless of expense. Try it and then you will "KNOW HOW IT IS YOURSELF." P

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terripan stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omlettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Hacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oysters Saloon, No. 337 Bush street above the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures

Holiday Fare.

Those Who have no family circle where they can keep Christmas and New Year's holidays, can fare sumptuously at Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre. There they can find every luxury of the season; the choicest wines, and the most experienced of cooks and attendants. The private rooms for dinner and supper parties, are the admiration of all who have seen them. V

Causes for Divorce.

The causes for which a Mahometan woman may demand a divorce are clearly and broadly laid down in the Koran, and her evidence is sufficient, because the Mahometan law supposes that a woman must be violently aggrieved before the modesty of her sex will allow her to appear in public with such application. So careful is this law to spare her feelings, that she is not even required to recount her injuries, unless of her own free will; all she is to do is to place her slipper reversed, that is, with the sole upward, before the Cadi, and the case is finished; the divorce is granted without further inquiry.

Send it Home.

A Wisconsin man was taken dangerously sick. He sent at once for his wife to come and care for him. Now, the wife's mother was sick, too, and she sent this dispatch to her languishing husband. "Dear Tim: Mother is sick; I can't leave her. Do the best you can. If you die, send your body home.

A Lucid Paragraph.

A correspondent of the Commercial speaking of Parson Brownlow, says:

He cannot speak above a whisper, and some days he cannot do even that.

Cannot do "that," cannot do what?

A young lady was recently sent by express from California to Maryland. The messenger who had her in charge was so pleased with his freight that he offered to carry it back and forth all the time at his own expense.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

Club House Sausages.

A well-made richly seasoned sausage, is an almost unknown dainty in California. Epicures who are posted, get none but Bunker's Club House sausages at 74 and 75 California Market. P

English Republicanism.

The Oregonian of Portland, which never has a silly editorial, has the following sensible remarks on the subject of Republicanism in England:

Sir Charles Dilke is a republican, and seems to be some grades above the brawling blackguards who talk so much rubbish to interviewers, and threaten to proclaim the republic within five years. They injure the cause of republicanism, and bring republican principles into disrepute, by identifying them with blasphemous ribaldry. Discussing the cost of royalty in the fashion Sir Charles Dilke has done, is something different. An Englishman always wants to have the worth of his money, and feels himself wronged if he does not get it. Counting the cost of royalty is not a pleasant thing for royal persons, but we live in an age when political economy is a favorite study. And yet it is open to question whether the people of England would gain much in the cost of their government by abolishing royalty. A republic must recommend itself by something better than economy before a people is fit to adopt it; and when royalty is banished, it will be for other reasons than the sum it costs to support the sovereign.

Vick's Floral Guide.

We acknowledge the receipt of Vicks Floral Guide for 1872, and most willingly endorse it as a work that should be in every house with even a few feet in front or rear; where a little garden can be made. It consists of 115 pages and is illustrated with over three hundred engravings and two colored plates, It is sent by mail for ten cents to any address on application to James Vick Rorchester N. Y. Mr. Vick does an immense business in flower and seeds and deserves to do so.

Doesn't Work.

As we said would be the case, the abolition of purchase in the English army has done nothing but mischief. It has rendered the army distasteful to rich young men, while poor young men cannot afford it now any better than they could before. As a contemporary expresses it:

Rich young men won't take the trouble. Poor young men can't afford it. Stupid young men can't pass the examinations.

"Adam's Ale."

Among the institutions of Portland, Oregon, is "Adam's Beer Hall." It is pretty safe to bet that something stronger than the original "Adam's Ale" is sold there.

A Mew Book.

The book critic of the Bulletin thus speaks of a work which has evidently come under its notice for the first time:

THE HISTORY OF SANDFORD AND MERTON is the title of a story for young people by Thomas Day. It is one of the most charming books of the season, told with much art, pointed with the best of morals, handsomely printed, and illustrated by a number of apt cuts. Published by T. Nelson & Sons, London.

Just fancy nice, tame, twaddly Sanford and Merton being in the year of grace 1871 called "one of the most charming books of the season." We looked further on, expecting to see Robinson Crusoe similarly characterized. Sanford and Merton was published some few years after Robinson Crusoe—not quite a hundred years ago.

Game in England.

Col. W. H. L. Barnes in his play of "Solid Silver," which is in the Alta's opinion superior to any play of modern times, makes Paul Weir tell his mother that he "thrashed the hedge-rows as he came along to flush a pheasant or two." Pheasants are not generally found in hedge-rows in England; Paul should have said he was trying to flush a kangaroo or a crocodile.

Not So Low.

A negro woman was relating her experience to a congregation of color, and among other things, said she had been in Heaven. One of the ladies asked her: "Sister, did you see any blacks in Heaven?"

"Oh, git out! You s'pose I go in de kitchin when I was dar!"

Language.

Voltaire says language was given us to conceal thought. He who conceals thought most effectually is the most accomplished conversationalist. Ergo, our society men are masters of the art of talking.

Just So.

When a girl marries why do people talk of her choice? In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, has she any choice? Does not the man (probably the last she would have chosen) select her?

The Stylish Hat Store.

The reason why the establishment at No. 647 Washington street is called "THE" HAT STORE is because, for the style of its hats and the moderation of its charges, it stands without a rival. Go to "THE" HAT STORE, 647 Washington street (the second hat store below Kearny), and examine the large stock of the latest styles of hats. K

Horton's Tobacco Antidote

Will destroy the appetite for tobacco. Its great success has originated many spurious imitations under the name of Orton's, Burton's, and other similar sounding titles. Be not deceived. Keep It Up!

A man having brutally tortured an ox, the Sacramento Bee says, the man who could be guilty of such a deed deserves to be hung up by the thumbs, until they are torn from his hands." Whereupon the Alta says "the man who could make such a barbarous suggestion should be flayed alive and soundly cowhided with the skin." Of course after this barbarous suggestion, the Alta man would if slowly roasted before a fire, acknowledge the justice of his punishment.

Cooks and Poets.

The New York Tribune says:

There is refreshing contrast between the accounts of the entertainment of the Grand Duke Alexis in Boston, and that of New York's efforts on a similar occasion. The Grand Duke had all that New York cooks, wine merchants and upholsterers could do to make his visit agreeable, and a charming trip round the harbor was thrown in. But Boston bids him welcome with such voices as those of Winthrop, Eliot, Holmes and Lowell. It is something to have plenty of money to hire Paris cooks, but, after all, there is more real American flavor to the verses of Oliver Wendell Holmes and the wit of James Russell Lowell.

This is very true. It was a good thing to have money to hire Paris cooks. America's poets are delightful; her cooks are diabolical.

Poor Chicago!

The small-pox is spreading alarmingly in Chicago. The fire of London followed and stopped the plague; in Chicago the plague follows the fire. Here is another chance for the unco' righteous to say ill-natured things about the "judgments" coming on the wicked city.

Improving.

The Examiner has an item about a Chinaman who was wrongfully imprisoned and heads it "A much abused Chinaman." We are glad our Democratic contemporay thinks a Chinaman can be abused.

Hog Latin.

The Bulletin seems to have borrowed the Alta's pig pen to write its Laitin with. It says that Quam Dilecter and Adesto Fidele were sung on Christmas Day at the French church.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

A Pleasant Location.

Persons desiring comfortable lodgings in a Central location, should visit the Alhambra, and inspect the fine suites of rooms to let there The building is a very fine one and is well lighted and ventilated.

Club House Sausages.

A well-made richly seasoned sausage, is an almost unknown dainty in California. Epicures who are posted, get none but Bunker's Club House sausages at 74 and 75 California Market. P

Bridging the Bay.

We did not help the Bulletin to build its bridge across the bay because the Bulletin did not go the right way about it. We are perfectly willing—nay anxious to have a bridge built across the bay, but we wish to have it built our way. The bridge should span the Golden Gate. Then the Eastern trains should run into the city across the numerous homestead lots located on the sand flats round the Ocean House and close to the public park. Both sides of the bay would receive incalculable benefit from this bridge. We call for a survey of the shores in the vicinity of Fort Point and Lime Point The distance across is just one mile, which might be lessened by piers. A suspension bridge a mile in length is no such great work in these days. Now let the Bulletin begin to agitate this scheme and it may rely on the support of FIGARO.

Christian California.

Out of about two hundred city and country exchanges containing Christmas editorials, we do not find half-a-dozen, which acknowledge Christ as the Saviour of mankind They are all carefully non-committal. The Grass Valley Union will serve as an example of what we mean: "We do not promise to say why that day is named, as the anniversary of the birth or incarnation of the Saviour. Such disgussion would involve the question of the fact as to whether a Saviour has ever yet been born.

Town and Country.

The London Spectator says of London health and morals, that the great city is twice as healthy twice as innocent, and, about four hundred times as charitable as that home of ideal purity and piety, the agricultural villiage.

Greeley's Last Freak.

Horace Greeley registered his name at the Indian House, Nashua, N. H., on the 20th of last month, and then absent-mindedly turned up at the Merrimack House and took dinner. The landlord of the Indian House is very mad about it.

Shamed Him.

A burglar was once frightened out of his scheme of robbery by the sweet simplicity of a solitary spinster, who, putting her night capped-head out of the window, exclaimed: "Go away! ain't you ashamed?"

Sensible.

The Mormons are just now making love to their first wives. The design is to keep them so contented that they will refrain from lawsuits.

A Chinese Custom.

The Heathen Chinee has one custom which might be introduced into other lands with good effect. It is usual to pay all debts end of their year. If a householder is free from all demands he places over his door an emblem signifying that he has arrived at that enviable position: there is a commendable pride to put up this cabalistic at a very early day. This custom prevails throughout the Chinese Empire among all classes of people, and he who posts the emblem at the commencement of the year, enjoys the confidence of the public, and establishes a good financial standing. We intend to procure one of these emblems of one of our Chinese advertisers, and place it up over FIGARO'S door early on Monday morning.

Bad Language.

The Washington Critic says:

John Calvin has been fined and imprisoned for profane swearing in Ohio, where, if it hadn't been for his name, nobody would have thought anything of it.

The Critic had better read some of Calvin's sermons and see if they don't sound a good deal like profane swearing.

A Bad Spellist.

The complainant in a New York breach of promise case alleged that the defendant "was the moat mene and desitfillist rech that hever walked the harth."

SYNOPSIS OF ARGUMENT.

Paris tells the celebrated "apple story" in which he wins an apple. Pan and Helen meet again at a grand Tournament, to which come the two Ajaxes, Achilles, Menelaus, Agamemnon and the Greeks. In a contest for the prize of maid over Venus, Paris is victorious; he proclaims his love and carries Helen off to Troy. To accommodate matters Calchas, who has been bribed by Paris, proclaims to Menelaus departure to invite Helen and Agamemnon urge him to speed, and he makes up his mind to go. Menelaus on his way to Crete, where by sympathetic friends. The third scene shows Helen struggling against the decrees of Venus, but her efforts avail little. Paris finds another interview. Calchas now abdicates, Paris, and the latter appears beside the slumbering Queen. Unexpected arrival of the husband, Menelaus. Rage of Menelaus and the Kings. Outrageous treason of Menelaus. Grand fashion and Chorus.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

The first appearance of E. T. Stetson and production of Charles Foster's play of "Neck and Neck" attracted a large and fashionable audience last night. Mr. Stetson at once made a favorable impression by his sharp, decisive style of acting and his general appearance. In the scenes where Walter Wilmarth has lost his senses, his acting was particularly good. "Neck and Neck" was announced as a "sensation play," and it fulfills the promise. If a murder in a bank, an execution by hanging, a madman, a railway locomotive, a baronet's deserted wife playing the part of a witch on a blasted heath, virtue rewarded and vice punished, and another scene of a scaffold, don't furnish enough sensation, the public must be hard to please. The sensation of the prologue is the execution, where Walter Wilmarth is really hanged on a most real-looking scaffold, and is cut down by Jenny before life is extinct. The first act ends with a most exciting tableau, when Carrol Denman, the villain of the piece, meets Walter Wilmarth, whom he supposes to be dead. The second act is intensely exciting, and in this the scene of the locomotive saved from rushing into a quarry is introduced. In the third act everything is made right; Walter Wilmarth places the rope with which he was hanged round the neck of Carrol Denman, and he is led out by the officers. The flats are shortly after withdrawn and he is seen on the scaffold, about to expiate his crimes, while Walter receives the reward of his virtue in the hand of his loved Carrie. James M Hardie, who is a capital actor and makes the most of every part he undertakes, was very good as Jim Johnson, a drunken scape-grace, who is the means of bringing the villain to justice. Harry Colton, who has of late played virtuous and manly characters who defend injured innocence, on this occasion played that of the villain. Carroll Denman, and played it very well indeed; Miss Maggie Moore played the part of Jennie with much spirit; Miss Fanny Young delivered the high-flown language put in the mouth of Carrie, with good emphasis; W. Simms was amusing as Simon Pumpkin; J. H. Vinson as Curtis Pumpkin, (Solon Shingle settled in England), caused much laughter; J. H. McCabe played the part of an impossible baronet, Sir Richard Freeman, up to the author's idea; Miss Susie Soule acted with much spirit as Fanny, and Mrs. Frank Rea amused the audience as eccentric Mrs. Bolivar, (probably mother of Pa'sy;) Fanny Hanks got a round of applause in the second act, where she threw off her disguise and denounced her husband, John Woodard got killed in the prologue and died handsomely. With the exception of a little too much talk, by the characters who do the funny business, which might advantageously be shortened, the play moves very briskly, and the interest of the audience is well sustained. "Neck and Neck" will of course draw a crowded house to-night. It is worth getting wet to see a man hanged so naturally.

California Theatre.

"Eileen Oge," with all its fine scenes of Irish life, hair-breadth escapes, startling surprises and thrilling situations, will be played again to-night and bids fair to run to crowded houses for many nights.

Alhambra Theatre.

Leon's new selections from his inexhaustible repertoire are received nightly with immense applause, "All Among The Hay" "The German Street Singer fun Deutshland," and the "Duck Song" are all capital in their way. Kelly's "Lesson in Prestidigitation" causes great laughter, and the Reynolds Brothers in the "Drum Major" are very good. "La Belle Helene" which concludes the evening's entertainment, is the most lively of operas, and Leon, Kelly, Harry Sinclair, G. H. Foster, W. Bark, and others play their respective parts to perfection.

Bella Union.

The programme for to-night is a very attractive one. It comprises a capital first part, in which Mat Kelly, Chris Mathews, Lon McCarthy, Carrie Armstrong, Tommy Bree, Eugenie Gerretta, and many others appear; a brilliant interlude in which Leon Samwells and Edwin Montague appear in a graceful acrobatic feats; Fanny Garretson sings a popular ballad; Marie Zoel gives a very pretty song and dance, and J. H. Larkin and Carrie Armstrong appear in "The Little Fraud." The performance concludes with the Christmas extravaganza in which Minnie Fillmore as a romantic spinster, and Mat Kelly as a contraband, cause much fun.

The Oxford.

Miss Amelia Dean, Miss Lizzie Harmon, Miss Fanny Webster, and Miss Sally Thayer, are a pretty strong team in themselves; they all appear nightly in songs and dances. Gus Sprague, Hagby Morton, and Geo. Lowden, appear in amusing acts, comic songs, and in the screaming afterpiece entitled "From Marysville to San Francisco." To-night an extraordinarily attractive entertainment will be given for the benefit of Dick O'Neil. The programme appears on our first page.

Theatre Comique.

The Theatre Comique has reopened most prosperously, and Frank Jones, Johnny Tuers, Mike Quin, Jake Wallace, Eva Silva, Ida Fisk, Nellie Leodard, M'lle Blanche, and a host of others appear nightly in a varied entertainment of songs, dances and amusing acts.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillieu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention are on exhibition

Pavilion Skating Rink.

Assemblies at the Pavilion skating rink are on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, in the morning, and Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays in the evening. Professor Lovett, the famous skater, gives an exhibition every evening.

"Solid Silver."

John McCullough has written a letter to Col. W. H. L. Barnes congratulating him on his success as a dramatist; and, enclosing a check for $500, for his play of "Solid Silver." The letter has been published in the papers,

Good Clock.

Boston boasts of a clock that has to be wound up only once a year. It has been wound on Christmas day for fifteen years.

Cincinnati has paid $9,500,000 for its beer this year.

New Departure.

We are used to hearing of old stock being offered at auction, but the offering of entire new stocks of fine French china Bohemian glass and silver-plated ware at auction is an event that seldom occurs. Douglas & Co., will sell this and tomorrow evening their large stock at auction, one of the finest and best selected in the city. If any of our readers are in want of a dinner set, tea-set, castor, cake-basket, or anything else in that line we should say now or never. Store, 138 Kearny st.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarences for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, with Frank Bonton, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

YOUNG MAN, the holidays are near at hand; don't make presents of jewgags and jewelry; make your mother a present, or your sister; if you are not blessed with a sister, make somebody else's sister a present—a fine set of lace curtains, an elegant body of Brussels carpet, a fine rug, a splendid parlor or chamber set. That is the way a certain young man married a fortune not long since. The old folks watched him, tested him, and then gave their consent. If you want an elegant outfit for about one-half that you can get it elsewhere, go to JOHN C. BELL'S Carpet and furniture Emporium, nearly opposite the Grand Hotel, on Market, and opposite the Occidental on Sutter street. Everybody knows that he makes all newly married parties an elegant present regardless of expense. Try it and then you will "KNOW HOW IT IS YOURSELF." P

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terripan stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omlettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Hacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oysters Saloon, No. 37 Bush street adjoining the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures

A Miss-sent Epistle.

Our Parisian namesake publishes the following touching history of a mistake made by a post-office clerk. During the war, some one put in the box a letter addressed as follows: "Army of the Loire—M. Andre' Rousselon Corporal in the 2nd Zouaves 6th Company 2nd battalion vers Orleans.' The post office sent the letter to New Orleans, taking 'vers' for "new." There the letter fell into the hands of an intelligent clerk who sent the letter back, with the following endorsement on the outside:

"Army of the Loire" written at the head, is sufficiently plain to have prevented any mistake, and thank God the "Army of the Loire" is not yet forced to find refuge in America. Courage, my friends, Courage! All except our enemies send their mite. At two thousand leagues from the Mother Country, we rest satisfied your valour will save our honor. May this letter arrive safely.—L. Bacoue, Foreign post office clerk New Orleans.

Chicago.

Chicago has been overtaken by Winter in the midst of her struggles for comfort. Still, however, the work of rebuilding goes on with a will that only the greatest disaster could arouse. The relief of families unprovided for since the fire still continues. Of these families, there are about 1, 300 and, there is little prospect that the number will decrease as the season advances.

Very Severe.

Women have never forgiven Lady Mary Wortley Montague for saying: "The only satisfaction I have in being a woman is that I shall not be compelled to marry one of my own sex." Her sin is unpardonable.

Oyster Trade.

The oyster trade in California is assuming gigantic proportions. Emerson Corville, of the Saddle Rock, 410 Pine street, furnishes from his own oyster beds at San Bruno millions of oysters to all parts of the Pacific Coast. His Eastern transplanted oysters have a fame which has extended all over the continent, and the "Saddle Rock" is known everywhere. Q

The Bulletin's Dramatic "Critic" Once More.

The young man who does the dramatic criticisms for the Bulletin, went to see "Eileen Oge" on Monday but had to take his time in preparing an elaborate criticism of that production. He could not give one on the following day. This great work appeared according to promise on Wednesday. We find in asserting that this "critic" never attended any entertainment of a more artistic character than a circus or a temperance lecture, before his engagement on the Bulletin, we wrong him. He must have seen a melodrama somewhere, and thus formed an idea of what a villain should be. He says: "Mr. Carden as Henry Loftis, was a remarkably easy, good-naturod sort of a diabolical villain, and from the rendition given, might have been confounded with any love-sick swain. MacLean the confederate and tool of Loftis, played by Mr. Franks, was also rendered with such softly modulated vigor as did not at all, comport with the part." Mr. Franks should, in the opinion of the Bulletin's "critic" stalked about the stage and cried, "Ah! Ah!" as the other villains he saw did; but Mr. Franks, having to play the part of a cool, calculating Scotchman, thought it better to refrain from exhibiting melodramatic "vigor." Mr. Franks was right, and the Bulletin's "critic" is a muff.

Pleading Without Fees.

A singularity in the celebrated Tichborne case is that it is now being conducted by the lawyers on both sides without fees. Mr, Sergeant Ballantyne made the startling declaration that the funds on the side of the plaintiff were exhausted, whereupon the Attorney General arose and claimed credit for equal disinterestedness on the part of the prosecution. This took place on the fifty-fourth day of the trial. Such a professional contest for honor alone would be a touching spectacle were it not that the eminent counsel stripped the tree of its rich fruit very early in the fight.

Short of Locomotives.

The Call says the Union Pacific Road is short of locomotives; and, that is the reason why the freight trains lag behind so. All the railroads in the country are getting short of them, The sensation dramas are using up all the locomotives made nowadays, and the railroads stand no chance of getting any new ones.

Spoils of Love.

The New York Commercial says: It is the style nowadays when an engagement is broken off, for the lady not to return the presents given her by her fiance, or even the engagement ring, which she keeps as an Indian keeps a scalp, as a trophy of former victories.

Jealous.

The Owyhee Avalanche says:]

Joe Corwin, formerly of Silver City, is now permanently located at Wachita, Kansas, where he is making money "hand over fist."

Whereupon the editor of the White Pine Daily News snuffles:

The insane asylums are crowded with the wrecks of once promising young men who made too much money that way.

It is very sad, isn't it, to hear of a man making money fast? Riches are such a sad temptation! Let us pray.

Rather Harsh.

A Scottish minister refused baptism to the child of a man who sells milk on Sunday.—Exchange.

This is visiting the sins of the father on the child with a vengeance. That unregenerate milkman will avenge his unregenerate child by "baptizing" his milk more than ever.

An Anthropophagiste.

M'lle Leonide X——, of one of the Paris theatres, has been named "The Cannibal," for the following reason: When they were talking behind the scenes of a young viscount who died perfectly ruined, some one said, "He was a very nice young man." "Very nice," replied M'lle Leonide; "I ate some of him."

Flattery.

It is said that to flatter people effectively you must know what they are, and what they want other people to think they are.

LA BELLE HELENE

SYNOPSIS OF ARGUMENT:

Paris tells the celebrated "apple story" in which he was an actor. Paris and Helen meet again at a grand Tournament to which come the two Ajaxes, Achilles, Menelaus, Agamemnon and the Count. In a contest for the prize of an old muscle Paris is victorious, he proclaims his name and lineage. Helen is delighted. To accommodate matters Calchas, who has been bribed by Paris, oracularly bids Menelaus depart for Crete. Helen and Agamemnon urge him to yield, and he makes his exit in a novel manner to striking music. Scene second sees Menelaus on his way to Crete cheered by sympathetic friends. The third scene shows Helen struggling against the decrees of Venus, all her efforts avail little. Paris has another interview. Calchas now aids his ally, Paris, and the latter appears beside the slumbering Queen. Unexpected arrival of the husband.

AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

Metropolitan Theatre.

"Neck and Neck" has created a decided sensation. Another large audience witnessed it last night and testified their satisfaction by liberal applause. It will be played to-night and at the matinee to-morrow.

California Theatre.

"Eileen Oge," with its sensation scene in the old mill, and its joyous Ha maker's Run, will be played to-night and will be performed at the matinee to-morrow.

Alhambra Theatre.

The only Leon in his wonderful female impersonations; a fine band of minstrels; Kelly in an amusing act; the Reynolds Brothers in songs, and dances, and the lively burlesque of "La Belle Helene" will delight a large audience to-night and at the matinee to-morrow.

Bella Union.

For the programme of the very entertaining and varied performance presented at this well managed theatre, we refer our readers to our first page, where it appears in full. An entirely new bill has been prepared for Saturday night.

Theatre Comique.

Frank Jones, Johnny Tuers, Harry Howard, Mike Quin, and a merry band of male and female minstrels, keep the fun alive at this popular place of amusement.

The Oxford.

Amelia Dean has met with good success at this little theatre, and is ably supported by Lizzie Harmon, Fanny Webster, Sally Thayer, Ella Murphy, and a large company.

Anatomical Museum.

The Florentine Venus is the admiration of all visitors, and is one of the finest works of art in San Francisco. The Dying Zouave is an exquisite piece of mechanism; the De Chaillieu Gorilla astonishes the beholder, and thousands of curiosities too numerous to mention are on exhibition

Pavilion Skating Rink.

Assemblies at the Pavilion skating rink are on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, in the morning, and Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays in the evening. Professor Lovett, the famous skater, gives an exhibition every evening.

The New Year's Prize Ball.

The entry list for the competitors for the gold medal, which Mr. Cathcart will award to the best dancer at the complimentary ball tendered him on New Year's night, will be open on Saturday evening at Fitzgibbon's Hall, 769 Market street. John Murphy, who has not been debarred, and other "light-footers," have already entered the field.

Globe Theatre.

A New Year's ball will be given at this theatre on Monday evening, under the management of Professor English. The whole body of the theatre has been floored over for the occasion.

Model Composition.

The Essex Statesman says a boy in South Danvers wrote the following composition upon his native town, which he thinks is very good for a schoolboy:

South Danvers is in the United States. Is is bounded by Salem and reaches to Middlet town. Its principal river is Goldthwaite'-brook, which empties into Salem Harbor. Its principal lake is mill-pond, which is dry in summer. Its principal productions are leather, onions, South Church and George Peabody. South Danvers has many religious sects, among which are the Orthodox, who worship the minister, the Spiritualists, who worship everything, and the Unitarians; who worship nothing.

Shopkeeping Congratulations.

UMBRELLAS—(Rubbing his hands.) Good morning Mr. Toys-and-fancy-goods; I see the storm is lightning up—all hail, ah!

TOYS—(Very wet and desponding.) Don't mention it, Mr. Umbrellas—by thunder, I'm disgusted!

Death of Hackett.

The telegraph this morning announces the death of James H. Hackett, the veteran comedian, at Jamaica, Long Island, at the ripe age of 72. Mr. Hackett was the best Falstaff on the stage.

Retentive.

A story is told of a person asking another whether he would advise him to lend a certain friend money. "What, lend him money? You might give him an emetic and he would'nt return it.

An Oyster Trap.

Mr. Snare of Pennsylvania, caught 160 oysters in his "trap" at a single meal.

The first person singular—Adam.

New Departure.

We are used to hearing of old stock being offered at auction, but the offering of entire new stocks of fine French china Bohemian glass and silver-plated ware at auction is an event that seldom occurs. Douglas & Co., will sell to-day and Saturday, both day and evening, their large stock at auction, one of the finest and best selected in the city. If any of our readers fare in want of a dinner set, tea-set; castor, cake-basket, or anything else in that line, we should say now or never. Store, 138 Kearny st.

Ease and Luxury.

We overheard a lady say the other day "When I am rich, my dear, I am going to buy me a splendid team of horses and a Clarence—just like what they send you from the Occidental Carriage Stand when you want to take a drive." She evidently understood how to combine ease and luxury. The Occidental stand now has the very finest carriages in the State. There is a private carriage or coupee for wedding calls; the Clarences for shopping and ordinary calls and for the theatre and opera; the Landaus and splendid six-seat Rockaways for drives on the road and ordinary business. Leave your orders for either of these at the Occidental Hotel, with Frank Bouton, or at the stables, 1016 Stockton street. Careful and experienced drivers. G

Elegant Presents for the Holidays.

Economy is wealth. Hain & Pollard have $50,000 too much stock on hand, which must be sold during the Holiday season, and to insure the desired result will offer their complete and elegant assortment of Watches, Chains, Jewelry and Silverware at manufacturers' prices. Their old customers will please recollect that their new store is at No. 7 Kearny street. F

Fashionable Chatter.

A New York reporter says:

One of our "swell" N. Y. fellows, with hat deferently in hand, thus saluted an ancient swell maiden lady at the ball last night:

Good evening, Miss W—— ; charming evening.

Young Lady—Yes, awful charming; dance to-night?

Young Gentleman—O yes,—that is, the round dances. Ain't they jolly nice?

Young Lady—O, Mr. G——, we kon't you kneau, kon't—they're beastly—perfectly beastly—haw-a-ble.

Young Gentleman—But the devine Roston! It's dreadful sweet—but those fearful square dances, they are horid—they are awfully poky. Everything is poky but the deux temps, galop and dip.

Young Lady—Poky! Ha! Ha! such a lovely pun—everything poky but the galop—awful good—perfectly atrocious.

Young Gentleman—Don't see any pun—but never mind, I'm not clever, you kneau; you kneau I never seea pun.

Young Lady—But, Mr. G——, they say you are an awful flirt—perfectly howid.

Young Gentleman—O! no, I never flirt; kon't, you kneau. Do you like flirts?

Young Lady—O! I think they are jolly nice. Who wouldn't flirt? It's too lovely! but it's awful—perfectly dreadful—to get spooney—ain't it?

Young Gentleman—Never got so. Love is poky—dreadful stupid. Couldn't spoon on a girl with less than $30,000 revenue and a rich Governor too—couldn't think of it, you kneau.

Young Lady—No, I shouldn't think any one could. Pa's got four brown stone fronts and I've got four camel's hair shawls, and a set of diamonds—and—

Young Gentleman—(With eye on brown stone fronts)—and such lovely hands to put them on—and such an arm!—O! let's go out on the balcony and have a nice—

But I lost the sentence as they waddled out, she with her deformed shoulders and dangling hands, and he with empty head and metropolitan morals. Wendell Phillips says: "Marriage makes a man and his wife one," but it this trash ever mate, the world will have to understand decimals to compute them.

YOUNG MAN, the holidays are near at hand; don't make presents of jewgaws and jewelry; make your mother a present, or your sister; if you are not blessed with a sister, make somebody else's sister a present—a fine set of lace curtains, an elegant body of Brussels carpet, a fine rug, a splendid parlor or chamber set. That is the way a certain young man married a fortune not long since. The old folks watched him, tested him, and then gave their consent. If you want an elegant outfit for about one-half that you can get it elsewhere, go to JOHN C. BELL'S Carpet and furniture Emporium, nearly opposite the Grand Hotel, on Market, and opposite the Occidental on Sutter street. Everybody knows that he makes all newly married parties an elegant present regardless of expense. Try it and then you will "KNOW HOW IT IS YOURSELF." P

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Hacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oysters Saloon, No. 337 Bush street adjoining the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures

Holiday Fare.

Those Who have no family circle where they can keep Christmas and New Year's holidays, can fare sumptuously at Jones' Oyster Palace, next door to the California Theatre. THE GREAT ERADICATOR OF SECRET COMPLAINTS, formerly of Lock Hospital, London, nine years in Sacramento, and ten years in San Francisco. HAS RETIRED TO PRACTICE. After devoting 40 years of his life to professional practice, and the special treatment of those CHRONIC DISEASES which it is here needless to name, he determined to retire from his profession, and with the remainder of his days to quiet-life enjoyment; but the constant applications from suffering everywhere, to come to their aid, finally determined him to visit once more the scenes of his early triumphs, Lock Hospital, spend a year within its wards, and inform himself of all the new methods of treatment in this celebrated institution, and then give a few years of his life to the alleviation of suffering humanity. He is again located at his old office, corner Jackson and Kearny streets, where for previous his practice as a SPECIALIST in the cure of all cases brought under his care. AMUSEMENTS, Etc.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE.—It is safe to predict that this theatre will be crowded to-night. The town is talking about "that hanging scene at the Metropolitan Theatre," and consequently everyone is going to see it. E. T. Stetson has made a hit. There will be a matinee performance to-day.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—The bright Irish drama of "Eileen Oge" will be performed at the matinee to-day and again to-night. It is superior to many Irish dramas and is put on the stage in excellent style.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—The performance which has delighted thousands during the present week, will be given at the matinee to-day and again this evening. Leon's "Duck Song" causes much fun; Edwin Kelly's "Lesson in Prestidigitation" is a laughable burlesque of "Professors of Magic;" the Reynolds Brothers' double song and dance, "The Drum Major," is capital, and the burlesque of "La Belle Helene" very amusing.

BELLA UNION THEATRE.—A new bill has been prepared for to-night and it is very attractive and varied. Its many popular features are fully enumerated on our first page. It concludes with the grand ballet pantomime entitled "L'Homme Sauvage," in which Samwells, Montague, and the whole company appear.

THE OXFORD.—There is a little of every thing in the entertainment given here—music, singing, acting, dancing, and gymnastic performances. Amelia Dean and her company of female minstrels make things very lively, and an amusing afterpiece closes the evening's diversion.

THE CLIFF HOUSE. — Nothing is more health-giving than a spin along the Cliff House Road and a sniff of the brisk air in the neighborhood of that famous hostelry. Nothing is more enjoyable than one of Captain Foster's dinners with a bottle of his choice wine.

CHARLEY SMITH'S MUSICAL EVENING.—It has been the custom for some years of Charles Smith who keeps the symposium at 539 Washington street and is also the manufacturer of that cheering but non-intoxicating beverage, "Smith's Ginger Pop" to have a musical and social gathering there every year. This very pleasant little festival took place last night and Charley's musical friends mustered in full force. Professor George T. Evans presided at the piano, in the back room and the evenings proceedings opened by the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner," this was followed by "God Save the Queen"—all present joining in the chorus. Among the musical men were Charles Vivian, Joe Maguire, Walter C. Campbell, S. Holdsworth, Messrs Wunderlich, Swift, Bark, Tibbits, Scott, Loomis, and others who took part in delighting with songs and choruses the guests who had assembled to the number of about two hundred. The Reynolds Brothers sang their double song "Seven Out," Vivian "Castles in the Air" and "Wait for the Turn of the Tide." Mr. Dunbar a clever amateur who appeared a week or two ago at the Bella Union "Broken Down," and "If Ever I Cease to Love," James Carden, of the California Theatre, recited "Shamus O'Brien in excellent style, S. Holdsworth sang several songs splendidly, and all present enjoyed a perfect feast of good music. Belt w there was a grand feast of Turkey, Plumb Pudding, and other holiday fare, which was fully appreciated. Altogether it was one of the most pleasant gatherings of the year. May the genial host "live long and prosper."

BENEFIT TO MRS. ERNST.—Mrs. Ernst, whose husband was paralyzed by an injury received while taking down the Pavilion and is now lying in the hospital, is shortly to receive a benefit. T. Blair will give Pacific Hall for a nominal rent, and Chas. Vivian, John McCullough, Henry Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Marlowe and other well-known artists have volunteered for the occasion. Joseph Raynor, an actor who came from Australia, will make his first appearance. The benefit will take place some evening next week.

THEATRICAL PORTRAITS.—A fine collection of photographs of California Actors and actresses handsomely framed, and adorned with a beautiful bordering of leaves, and rustic work executed by Walter Wallace, usher at the California Theatre, will be raffled to-night at the Green Room Saloon opposite the theatre. Tickets are fifty cents each.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM.—One of the most complete collections of the kind in the United States, comprising hundreds of costly and beautiful wax models, is daily on view (to gentlemen only) at the Museum on Montgomery street. An hour may be profitably spent here.

TO ENQUIRER.—Walter Rodgers, the old Olympic manager, is in Hongkong, where he is running a theatre and hotel, and is doing well Another instance of a rolling stone gathering moss, notwithstanding the proverb to the contrary

CHRISTMAS PRESENTATION.—Professor G. T. Evans, the talented and popular musical director at the Alhambra Theatre, was presented on Christmas Day with a gold headed cane by the members of the orchestra.

CHARLES VIVIAN.—This very popular performer will leave on Friday next for Cincinnati where he goes to fill an engagement. He has engagements also in Pittsburg and other Eastern cities.

NEW YEAR'S MATINEE.—A matinee performance will be given on Monday at the Metropolitan Theatre, and "Neck and Neck" will be played.

INVITATION SOCIAL.—The fourth invitation social of the Emmet Guard will take place at Irish American Hall on January 11th. We acknowledge the receipt of invitations.

New Departure.

We are used to hearing of old stock being offered at auction, but the offering of entire new stocks of fine French china Bohemian glass and silver-plated ware at auction is an event that seldom occurs. Douglas & Co., will sell to-day and Saturday, both day and evening, their large stock at auction, one of the finest and best selected in the city. If any of our readers are in want of dinner set, tea-set, castor, cake-basket, or anything else in that line, we should say now or never. Store, 138 Kearny st.

First Premium Millinery.

The last Mechanics' Fair awarded the first premium for superior taste and elegance of workmanship in the millinery line, to Mrs. Cowles of the "New House," 114 Third street. Mrs. Cowle's stock is unsurpassed by any in the city, and her prices are very reasonable. BH

PACIFIC COAST DRAMATIC NEWS.

PORTLAND—Vincent and Purdy's minstrels opened at the Oro Fino Theatre on the 18th. The Oregonian says: "The singing of M. Ainsley Scott, and Mr. Stanwood was excellently rendered, while the comicalities of Vincent and Purdy kept the audience in a roar of laughter. In the second part, Estelle, the female impersonator, created a favorable impression in his burlesque singing. His imitations of prominent dancenses was also exceedingly well done. Messrs Purdy, Scott, and Vincent, filled the olio to the satisfaction of all present. The company is really a good one."

HAMILTON, NEV.—The Atheræum is open here with Miss Maud Collnotte in "Mazeppa," and Pierce Clayton in negro acts songs and dances.

MARYSVILLE.—Barker's panorama of California Oregon scenery, was on exhibition at the Theatre on Monday and Tuesday evenings. On Wednesday the Marysville amateur minstrels gave a performance at the orphans fair at Turner's Hall.

SACRAMENTO—"The Bronze Horse" was produced at the Metropolitan Theatre on Wednesday and is still running. The Varieties is flourishing with Aline Le Favre, the Stanleys and a good company.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS

Shiel Barry, an Irish comedian of repute in England and Australia, will make his first appearance in this country, at Wood's Museum, in January.

Miss Annie Hindle, after her performance at the Thirty-fourth Street Theatre, on the sixth, became a little "Oh be joyful" from partaking freely of lager. She was arrested, and was locked up at the Yorkville police station. Miss Hindle charges Miss Fannie Henry with stealing her diamond pin valued at $450. In default of bail Fannie is in jail.

The New York Atlas says of Siegrist's dogs, some of whom were born and educated in California, and in whom, therefore, we take an interest as in all California artists:

Mons. Siegrist's trained dogs have been among the new attractions of the current week. The Siegrist quadrupeds are very intelligent creatures. They walk about on their binder feet, turn somersaults, jump ropes, sing a set of doggerel set to music, and otherwise ape the manners and customs of men and women. Their tricks are very entertaining.

They appear at the Olympic in "Humpty Dumpty," ....At Wallack's "John Garth," Mr. Brougham's new play, is holding the stage with every evidence of genuine success. The plot of the piece is based upon Robinson's novel called "True to Herself." Much of the play, however, is entirely independent of the novel, being original matter that Mr. Brougham has furnished. "John Garth" is interesting from beginning to end. It is somewhat melodramatic; its pathos occasionally moves the authors to the melting mood, and its quaint humor frequently evokes merry bursts of laughter. Each act closes with a telling climax, and the denouement—when John Garth proposes marriage to Hester Deering—is of the happiest description The character of the hero, John Garth, which is marked by strong, and often startling, points, is interpreted by Mr. Lester Wallack in a manner that presents its various lights and shadows with picturesqueness and fine effect.....The chief novelty at the Theatre Comique has been the local sketch, called "Who Stole the Monkey." Mr. W. H. Munroe continues his "Mystic Changes," which are very popular. Professor Sylvester and Angelina Scott's entertainment—of which the floating in mid-air without visible means of support, is the chief feature; the gymnastic feats of the Forepaugh Brothers; Kitty O'Neil's dancing; Ada Wray's serio-comic singing, and Master Martin's song and dance peculiarities, are among the attractions.

Monday, Dec. 18th, the first performance of the military and scenic drama of "Charles O'Malley," took place at the Grand Opera House. This piece Falconer's dramatization, was presented with all the attractiveness of scenery, costumes, etc, which marked its first representation at the G. O. H. The late ventures of the Grand Opera House have been unremunerative. "Paris," although produced at an expense of over $7,000, proved one of the sorriest failures ever known to the New York stage. Frank Mayo's engagement in "The Three Guardsmen" was unprofitable.... At Niblo's "The Black Crook" reigned in splendor. It was produced on the 18th. The ballet corps for the "B. C." comprises the best dancers that unprecedentedly large salaries can procure. M'lle Sassi, famed for her personal charms, is the premiere danseuse. Kate Santley, the renowned English beauty, displays her shapeliness in the role of Stalacta, the fairy queen. Jenny Lee, Bessie Sudlow, Harry Pearson, C. H. Morton, Arthur Mathison, and other favorites represent the characters of the drama....At Fifth-avenue Theatre, "Divorce"....Bryant's Opera House, "Les Miserables," "Daniel in the Bryant's Den," and other Ethiopic oddities....At Booth's "Hamlet" was displaced by "Julius Cæsar" on Christmas Day ...Susan Denin is at Wood's Museum....At the Bowery Lucy Rushton in "Red Hands"....John L. Hall will shortly appear in a series of sensation dramas, consisting of "Old Fidelity; or, the Vision of Death," "Baffled; or, East and West," "Gold; or, Never Too Late to Mend."

Johnny Allen in "Schneider," Park, Brooklyn, 18th, one week.

John C. Campbell has been confined to his bed since his Philadelphia engagement, with a severe cold. John means to reform. He has got tired of the "Pomp" and vanity of this world.

At De Bar's, St. Louis, Charles Mathews, 11th for one week.

At the Olympic, St. Louis, Joe Jefferson, 11th in Rip, with Jean Clara Walters as Gretchen,

James H. Budworth, having secured the sole right of playing McCloskey's "Pomp, or Way Down South," will soon go to California with it, and also to England.

The Sporting Times and Theatrical News says:

America's sweetest singer, Clara Louis Kellogg, will not visit California, sufficient "dust" not having been subscribed to warrant the transportation of Grand Opera across the Rocky Mountains. What do the El Dorados want of Opera when they are being supplied with McCloskey's dramas?

The New York Clipper has the following:

George M. Ciprico, who has won much repute as a dramatic reader in California and in some of the western cities, arrived in the city during the past week. He will give a public reading at Steinway Hall on Dec. 19th.

One hundred thousand dollars has been raised towards building a new German Theatre in New York, but it is estimated that $150,000 are required.

The New Theatre, Chicago, Ill., will be opened on Jan. 8th, and occupied by a combination for two weeks, after which it will be run by a stock company until May 1st.

The Varieties Theatre at New Orleans, a new building, was recently opened to the public, and is very much praised by the newspapers of that city. The play was Alberry's "Coquettes." Mr. Lawrence Barret, one of the managers, read a poetical inaugural address, written by Mr. E. C. Hancock, Associate Editor of the New Orleans Times.

Little Nell and troupe, Allentown, Pa., 16th and 18th; Scranton, 19th and 20th; Williamsport, 21st and 22d.

E. A. Sothern, Boston Theatre, 18th; Philadelphia, Jan. 15th.

Lotta, Baltimore, 18th; Cincinnati, 25th; Kansas City, Jan. 1st. Has been engaged by T. Allston Brown for San Francisco shortly.

Sheridan and Mack opened on the 11th at Fox's American Theatre, Philadelphia, and received a tremendous reception in their new sets of "Mose, Old Couple," "Playing Hookey," Dutch songs and dances, and their original act of "Little Fraude."

At the Chestnut, Philadelphia, "The Coming Woman, or the Spirit of 1876" was produced on the 11th to a crowded house, and has successfully held the boards since.

A clerical jackass at Indianapolis named Andrus has been recently attacking actors and plays in his church. He anathematized theatres, and poured out his wrath upon actors and actresses, stigmatizing them as the worst people on earth, in whom no good could exist. He also said that no good people ever went inside a theatre, and that persons moving in high-toned society would not be seen there.

C. W. Couldock opened at Columbus, Ohio, on the 11th.

The Grand Opera House management threatened to revive "The Twelve Temptations," in opposition to the "Crook." If they would only introduce Josie Mansfield as the principal temptation, it could not fail to draw.

Miss Angelique Schott and Professor Sylvester have been exhibiting the Aerial Suspension at the Theatre Comique New York, and the Mercury thus explains the mystery:

The show is puzzling, but easily explained. Within the dress of the girl, is an iron frame duly hinged, and under the pads and tights upon her legs are hinged strips of steel. Under the ample sleeve is an iron socket, which is attached to the frame work and fits upon the pole. She is thus sustained without effort; as the Professor moves her the hinges obey his pressure and firmly preserve their altered position.

We knew all this when the feat was exhibited at Maguire's Opera House in this city, but preferred to let the public enjoy the mystery to spoiling it by explanation. The Mercury it seems has no such scruples.

Mrs. Conway's Brooklyn Theatre has run John Brougham through a second week, with "Playing with Fire," "Gentleman From Ireland," "Shylock," "Dombey and Son," "David Copperfield," "Pocahontas," and "His Last Legs,"—all, excepting the last, being productions or adaptations of his own.

Rosa Rand is playing the heroine in "Bertha, the Sewing Machine girl," at the Holiday street Theatre, Baltimore.

Maggie Mitchell, Cincinnati, 18th.

A complimentary benefit is being arranged through Colonel T. Allston Brown for Matilda Heron, to take place at a popular New York theatre, as quickly as possible.

Dick Sands, clog dancer, Trimble's Varieties, Pittsburgh, to 25th.

At the Howard Athenæum, Boston, there opened on the 4th Jennie Worrell, in the burlesque of, "Luna, or the Little Boy who Cried for The Moon." Delehanty and Hengler, song and dance. Gus Williams Dutch, Sadi Dsims, the Man Serpent, and the Levantine Brothers, acrobats.

FOREIGN DRAMATIC NEWS.

The four once famous Ravel Brothers, Gabriel, Antoine, Francois and Jerome, are now living quietly near Paris. They are said to have lost a good deal of their property during the Franco German war; but they still have abundance to live on, and to insure comfort to their heirs.

Our latest London date is December 2d. The Italian Opera Company at Covent Garden had given "Les Huguenots" for the first time, with Titiens as the heroine.....At Drury Lane the last nights of "Rebecca" are announced. A special morning performance in aid of the Chicago sufferers was to be given on the 6th.....The Haymarket gave on Nov. 30th the last representation for the present of "The Palace of Truth." Gilbert's new mythological comedy, entitled "Pygmalion and Galatea," was to be produced on the 9th.....The Adelphi had a thoroughly sensational drama in "The Hidden Treasure." The cast was excellent, and the great sensation of the fall from the housetops was so well managed as to startle even those most habituated to the illusions of the stage..... The Lyceum, with the new drama of "The Bells," in conjunction with "Pickwick," offered a very attractive entertainment.....The Queen continues to furnish the lovers of Shakspeare with "The Tempest." The ballot-boxes which were to decide the name of the Shakspearian play to be revived next year were not disregarded by the visitors to the theatre. The official return up to November 25 was "Macbeth," 230; "Hamlet," 257; "King Lear," 165.....The Gaiety had a varied bill through the week. On the 4th and 5th the operetta of "Marriage aux Lanternes," the "Good for Nothing" and "La Belle Helene." On the 6th Mr. Dion Boucicault made his first appearance at this theatre, and returned to the London stage after an absence of four years. His assumption of the old Irish servant, Kerry, in a version by himself of Mme. Girardin's "Le Joie fait Peur," gave great delight to a numerous audience. Mrs. Boucicault was announced to appear on the 4th in "Elfie," to be performed in London for the first time. Mr. and Mrs. Boucicault, previous to their return to America, were to perform a farewell engagement of one hundred nights at this theatre—sixteen nights before Christmas, and eighty-four nights commencing May 4th, 1872.....The Strand had a powerful attraction in J. S. Clarke, whose Doctor Pangloss, in "The Heir at Law," had been repeated one hundred and sixty-two times, and who was also delighting crowded houses in Toodles, which he acted for more than two hundred nights during his first engagement at that theatre. Nov. 27, as a recognition of the Drury Lane spectacle of "Rebecca," H. J. Byron's burlesque of "Ivanhoe" was produced at the Strand after an interval of nearly eight years.....The Prince of Wales, the Globe and the Vaudeville had made no change in their bills.....The Court Theatre, on Nov. 29th, supplemented H. T. Craven's new drama of "Coals of Fire" with a new burlesque, "Isaac of York".....The Alhambra had linked Offenbach's opera bouffe of "Spoiling the Broth" with its ballet of "Chinese Revels".....Sadler's Wells had repeated the "Marble Heart".....The Surrey had presented through the week Mr. Henry Neville in "Ticket-of-Leave Man," "Henry Dunbar" and "Edwin Drood."".....The Royal Alfred had varied its bill with "Ingomar" and "Dred."".....The Standard had given legitimate, with "Macbeth" as the chief feature.....The Christmas pantomime at Astley's was to be "Lady Godiva," "St. George and the Dragon," and "The Seven Champions." Miss Amy Sheridan had been engaged to represent the Lady of Coventry.....The wife of Lionel Brough, comedian, had a boy baby Nov. 26th.....Isaac Collins, professor and teacher of the violin, died Nov. 24, in his seventy-first year. Forty years ago, when Paganini was popular, Isaac Collins made his appearance in London, and created an immense success by his extraordinary performance on the violin. Being the first and only Englishman who played in the Italian School, he was styled "The English Paganini."

SATURDAY.....DECEMBER 30, 1871

YOUNG MAN, the holidays are near at hand; don't make presents of jewsgas and jewelry; make your mother a present, or your sister; if you are not blessed with a sister, make somebody else's sister a present—a fine set of lace curtains, an elegant body of Brussels carpet, a fine rug, a splendid parlor or chamber set. That is the way a certain young man married a fortune not long since. The old folks watched him, tested him, and then gave their consent. If you want an elegant outfit for about one-half that you can get it elsewhere, go to JOHN C. BELL'S Carpet and furniture Emporium, nearly opposite the Grand Hotel, on Market, and opposite the Occidental on Sutter street. Everybody knows that he makes all newly married parties an elegant present regardless of expense. Try it and then you will "KNOW HOW IT IS YOURSELF." P

The Luxuries of Life.

The man who does not care what he eats, is not worth much as a man. The greatest poets in the world have glorified good living. The best intellects in San Francisco are nourished by the terrapin stews, artistically prepared Eastern and California oysters, oyster omelettes and other delicacies served under the able supervision of the genial Winant, and Charley Hacke, formerly of the Antelope and Bay Oyster Saloon, at the famous Pacific Oysters Saloon, No. 37 Bush street near the Alhambra. It is a favorite resort of epicures

LETTER FROM OGDEN, U. T.

OGDEN, December 25th, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO:—My reason for not writing you before this was to give you all the particulars when I got through with the Salt Lake engagement. Since writing you from Boise City we had a terrible journey across to Kelton: it took four days and nights, and should have been done in two days and a half. It snowed hard all the way: we had no sleep, and the fare on the road was very bad. I'll give you an idea: we paid a dollar for a meal consisting of salt pork and dried apples. I can assure you the children had a good deal to endure. At one time we were five hours going half a mile: all had to get out and clear the mud (which was four feet thick) off the wheels. I sincerely trust we may never have to undergo such a journey again.

We played six nights in Salt Lake City, sharing after $150 nightly. First two nights had very good houses, but the returns were small in comparison with the number in the house, the dead-heads averaging from 100 to 150 nightly—supposed to be Brigham Young's wives and family, and others connected with the Church. The theatre is a fine building, but the business arrangements are very bad for Gentile stars who may share. Since our arrival it has been snowing and raining constantly; the streets are in a filthy state for wayfarers—up to one's ankles in mud. What with the excitement of the murder case, the Mormon question and the weather, there is no business to be done in Salt Lake at the present time. The Gentiles will not patronize the theatre while in the hands of the Mormons. I was present the last two nights of Ward; he had very bad houses. Byron opened in "Across the Continent" the night after we finished, to a very poor house, and I hear has been doing bad business since, the weather still being most unpleasant.

I am sorry to say we have been here since Thursday, snowed in, the cars can't get out more than twenty-five miles on the road East. We have played here two nights to fair houses, and still bad weather to contend against. The capacity of the theatre is about 600; scenery fair. The Carters are here, playing two nights a week with a lot of amateurs. Mrs. C. looks very bad.

Dudley left me yesterday, I believe to join the Mormons. He said he had received a dispatch from home, and must return to San Francisco immediately, but I have learned he returned to Salt Lake last evening. He has completely overthrown my arrangements ahead, leaving me without a few days' notice to enable me to make other arrangements, and after having paid his passage 800 miles farther on; I did not expect this of him. Melville still remains. Dudley tried hard to get him to leave also and join the Mormons. We were to have opened at Cheyenne on Saturday, but my advance is snowed in since last Thursday, some 300 miles from here. No trains have arrived from the East in the last four days, and judging from the present appearance of the weather, I am afraid it will be some time before we shall be able to leave I purpose, if I possibly can, when I leave here to go East, playing in all the towns. From Cheyenne we go to Denver; they tell me it is a very good show country. I am very much thrown out in consequence of not having a good agent in advance not knowing anything of the country myself, and now having to send for one, I have to return and fill the place of Dudley. LETTER FROM DENVER.

[FROM AN OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENT.

DENVER CITY, Dec. 16, 1871.

DEAR FIGARO:—McKean Buchanan was announced to appear last week but did not come. Dick Carroll and family played one week and did very well, considering the very stormy weather. I did the banjo business for him, and went to Kansas City, but he could not get the Opera House owing to McWade being there and having it engaged. Dick and family then went on to New York where there was an engagement waiting them. Billy Carroll is running the Walnut-street Theatre, in Kansas City, to a good business, and has a good company, among whom are Johnny Reddin, Johnny Pierce, Charley Armstrong, with Add Weaver and son, and a number of ladies and gentlemen.

Harry Spriggs, Ella Martell and Ella La Rue are in St. Joseph. Miss Jennie Green, Miss Nellie Belwont and I are engaged here in the Occidental Hall; it is a variety entertainment. The Theatre and the Cricket (varieties) are closed for the present. More anon. FARO.

A Presumptuous God Punished.

The London Era narrates the following incident: On Friday night, 3d inst., the large audience which assembled at the Theatre Royal, South Shields, to witness the the performance of "Hamlet," were spectators of an amusing, and at the same time ridiculous interpolation in the middle of the play. The title role was sustained by Mr. Goddard Whyatt, lessee of the theatre, and just as that gentleman had delivered, amidst dead silence, the famous soliloquy, commencing "To be or not to be," and as he was about to address Ophelia, a drunken fellow in the gallery suddenly allowed a loud volley of oaths to escape from him. Mr. Whyatt suddenly left the stage and Ophelia and in a moment was soon in the gallery, sword in hand. With the assistance of some others, he summarily ejected the noisy "god." On descending to the stage, amidst the deafening applause of the audience, he preliminarily exclaimed: "Hamlet's himself again!" and proceeded with his part.

Schneider as She Is.

A Paris letter says:—"Hortense Schneider is what would be called a handsome woman, not tall, but stout, with an exceedingly pleasant face, and the most mischievous pair of eyes that ever twinkled over the footlights. There is nothing extraordinary in her voice; but there is in her gestures. And she hasn't the slightest fear of injuring her features by the grimaces she makes. She opens her mouth and shows her tongue in a manner quite alarming to nervous people. The old fellows in the pit, however, never seem to be afraid. There is an abandon, a recklessness in her movements that would be disgusting in anybody else; but it all appears so naturally the expression of a happy temperament, you can't find it in you to blame her. If you did you would reverse your judgment the instant you heard her laugh. There is no withstanding the contagion of that ringing, musical, jolly sound. Schneider's diamonds are wonderful. I have never seen so many and such fine ones in the possession of one individual. They remind you of the Royal Treasury at Dresden.
